PALISADE
THE MODEL SUBURB

HOME TALK NO. 1.

The robin seeks his mate and builds with confidence and safety close by the nest of the bluebird and the hammock of the oriole. He avoids the rendezvous of hawk and owl—for even a robin holds his home sacred.

We are producing at PALISADE, a suburb more attractive in more ways than any other suburb of this city. We would like you to know that we have eliminated the "hawk" and the "owl" for your protection.

HOUSE NO. 3.

Of pure Colonial type and containing 16 rooms exclusive of halls and bathrooms; centre hall with dome ceiling, arches supported by columns in quartered oak; parlor in quartered oak with fireplace; library in cherry; dining room in white, with fireplace; kitchen and porcelain sink and French range; butler's pantry; front and back stairs.

Second floor contains five bedrooms and one dressing-room—all in white enamel—and bathroom with tiled floor and walls; porcelain tub, nickeled plumbing.

Third floor has five bedrooms, one dressing room and bath—all in white enamel. Hardwood floors. Grounds 100x185.

Terms to Suit.

Houses range in price from $10,000 to $30,000—Some a Trifle Less.

FOR WATER SUPPLY BILL.

Although they say they see weak points in the bill which would provide this city with an adequate water supply, and which is still awaiting the signature of the Governor, the New York Board of Underwriters regard this bill as a decided step in the right direction and a promise that the long-needed improvement may be obtained at last.

Word to this effect was yesterday sent to Gov. Higgins by President Henry Evans of the Continental Insurance Company, who by the board had been appointed a special delegate to investigate the question. In a long letter Mr. Evans replies to the criticisms most commonly made of the bill, and gives his reason why it ought to become law.

"By the new act," Mr. Evans says, in reply to the argument that the charter already provides for the work, "the duty to conduct the proposed public work is given to a new board whose sole function will be the accomplishment of this desired purpose. The responsibility is thus centred upon a body to be appointed with an especial view to fitness for the particular duties to be performed, and their action is freed from the necessity of elaborate references for approval required by the charter."

Mr. Evans also says that the new act does not grant improper powers to the new commission by allowing the letting of contracts to other than the lowest bidder and by failing to provide expressly for a revival of the commission's act by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. Mr. Evans says that experience has already shown the necessity of granting power to the authorities of going beyond the lowest bidder if efficiency is to be insured, and that the new act safeguards that right by provisions much stricter than those attached to similar rights now granted by the charter.

COHEN CLEARED OF FRAUD.

Pays $1,500 Fine as Warning in Silk Cases.

Indictments against Martin L. Cohen, formerly junior partner of the firm of A. S. Rosenthal & Co., were dismissed yesterday in the United States Circuit Court.

Cohen pleaded guilty to a technical charge of signing customs declarations in blank, a practice which the Government's attorney admitted was common among importers. Judge Thomas, as a warning to others that the practice must cease, imposed a fine of $1,500 upon Cohen, and discontinued all proceedings in the Federal Courts connecting him with the so-called silk fraud cases. The fine was paid.

"So far as I was able to determine in the trial of this case," commented Judge Thomas in dismissing the indictments and imposing the fine, "Mr. Cohen has never, in anything, defrauded the Government."

Igorrotes Reach Luna Park.

Fifty-one Igorrotes, who were brought from the Bontac province, Island of Luzon, by Dr. T. K. Hunt, ex-Governor of the province, reached Jersey City at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. Although they arrived at Luna Park before day, light, they refused to go to sleep, but immediately began building their native houses. At home they are engaged in this work almost constantly. If the flimsy buildings are not washed rapidly enough by the elements they are torn down or burned to provide room for new houses.

Flowers for G. Washington.

A large bunch of lilies decorated the statue of George Washington on the Sub-Treasury steps in Wall Street yesterday, the gift of an unknown admirer of the Father of His County. There was only a florist's card, and in the usual addressing space the legend, "Mr. G. Washington."

CALL PRESSURE LIMIT FOR GAS IMPOSSIBLE

SAY LIGHTS WOULDN'T BURN

Declare Two and a Half Inch Pressure at Plant Would Mean No Pressure at the Other End.

Representatives of both the Consolidated Gas Company of Manhattan and the Brooklyn Union Company of Brooklyn declared at a public hearing before Mayor McClellan yesterday that it would be a physical impossibility for the gas companies to maintain a one-inch pressure on the mains at the consumers' end of the pipes without having greater than a two-and-one-half-inch pressure at the plant, as is required by the Stevens Committee bills passed by the last Legislature. Any attempt to limit the initial pressure to 2½ inches, counsel said, would result in keeping whole sections of the city in darkness nightly and would place consumers in grave danger of asphyxiation.

The hearing was on the bill fixing at 75 cents per 1,000 feet the price which the gas companies may charge the city for public lighting, the bill likewise requiring a pressure of not more than 2½ inches at the initial mains and not less than one inch at any part of the distributing mains or service pipes. William N. Dykman appeared as counsel for the Brooklyn Union Gas Company and Charles F. Mathewson for the Consolidated. Eugene D. Hawkins appeared for the Queens Borough Gas and Electric Company, J. J. Humphreys for the Brooklyn Borough Gas Company, and E. H. Rosenquest for the Bronx Gas and Electric Company. No one appeared in behalf of the bill.

Mr. Dykman started by declaring that the bill did a grievous injustice to the 1,200 stockholders of the company he represented, in that it would compel the company to do business at a loss. He said that during the last four years the cost of manufacturing illuminating gas in Brooklyn had been 75.14 cents per 1,000 feet, without depreciation charges, and that a seventy-five-cent rate would mean confiscation. Mayor McClellan demanded to know if Mr. Dykman meant that the profits from private consumers at $1 would be wiped out by selling to the city at 75 cents. Mr. Dykman replied that he had meant that a seventy-five-cent rate to all would work the injury he had described to his company.

"The demand of the legislation is impossible of compliance," Mr. Dykman said; "all the companies can do is to regulate the initial pressure. If there is no consumption of gas the pressure will be the same at the other end of the pipe, but if there is any consumption that consumption must regulate the pressure at the far end. If the law compels us to maintain a pressure of only 2½ inches at the initial main, it will mean that when consumption is heavy along the main at the end of the service pipes there will be no gas, no light, and probably asphyxiation. If we reduce our initial pressure to the limit fixed by the bill there will not be a gas light burning in Brooklyn outside of the comparatively small area of the storage tanks where the initial pressure is maintained."

Mr. Mathewson declared that the haste with which the Stevens Committee and the Legislature had acted deprived them of any right to serious consideration. He took up the question of pressure. Unless the Legislature, he said, would repeal the laws of gravitation the gas companies will be unable to comply with the condition demanded.

EXPERT'S VIEW ON PRESSURE.

Companies Can't Comply with Stevens Bill, President Humphreys Says.

President Alexander C. Humphreys of the Stevens Institute of Technology, has sent to Charles F. Mathewson, counsel for the Consolidated Gas Company, the following letter:

"You ask me to confirm what you heard me say the other day at the Lawyers' Club in regard to the bill recently enacted at Albany by which it is proposed to restrict the New York City gas companies within certain narrow limits in the matter of gas pressure. If I understand correctly what is proposed, the gas companies will be heavily penalized if they permit at any time in any part of their distributing or service mains a pressure less than one inch of water (pressure given by a column of water one inch high) or more than two and one-half inches. This means that the extreme range of pressure must not exceed one and one-half inches of water, equal to only 54-1,000 of a pound per square inch.

"As nearly as I can recollect, what you heard me say on this subject was that the gas engineer or the man does not live who is capable of operating any or all of the New York gas companies in compliance with the provisions of this proposed law; and if the offer should be made to pay a salary of $100,000 a year to secure such a man, any one rash enough through ignorance and greed to accept the appointment would fail under the commercial test. This statement I now unhesitatingly and emphatically confirm. I believe that a careful count would show that I have had to do with the practical problems of distribution of gas in not less than fifty different cities, large and small. This experience, an unusually wide and varied one, convinces me that I am incapable of directing the distribution problem of New York City so as to comply with these restrictions.

"But fortunately for the consumers of gas, such a restriction is in no way for their advantage, even if the impossible could be accomplished.

"What the consumers require above all things for satisfactory service is an uninterrupted flow of gas to the points of ignition, the gas to be under sufficient pressure to give a maximum illumination or heating effect under greatly varying conditions. For instance, an Argand burner requires less pressure than an open flat-flame burner; the latter requires much less pressure than the incandescent burners, such as the Welsbach. Some gas stoves, especially for cooking, require a higher pressure even than the incandescent burners.

"The most fruitful cause of complaints from gas consumers is insufficiency of pressure, though, as a rule, the consumers are unaware of the fundamental cause of the impaired service rendered to them. A large majority of the complaints of 'poor gas' are really due to the lack of pressure frequently caused by partial local stoppages.

"The consumer simply knows that the light is poor, and he jumps to the conclusion that the trouble is with the quality of the gas; whereas in the majority of cases the trouble comes from local interruptions over which the gas company may have no control, causing reduced pressure at the burner tip.

"The natural tendency of the economical gas engineer is to keep the pressure on his mains down to the lowest practical point, so as to keep the gas leakage down to a minimum on this account. As a supervising manager of many works, my great difficulty with the local engineers or managers has been to induce them always to maintain sufficient pressure in the mains to insure good service.

"For good service the gas engineer must, then, be sure that there is a sufficient initial pressure at his several points of distribution to enable the mains to carry to the consumers furthest from these points a pressure sufficient to give a maximum efficiency with each and all of the many kinds of burners employed by the consuming public.

"Does this work any injustice to the consumer?

"No, for he can control the pressure at the meter and also at each burner tip. The meter cock can be set to control the wider fluctuations which may be felt by the consumers nearest to the points of distribution, where the pressure is necessarily higher than required for points miles beyond, and then the finer regulations can be made at the burner tips. We know that in practice thousands and thousands of people, old and young, experienced in inexperienced, are exercising this control as a matter of course, and without conscious thought. This is so all the world over where gas is being distributed through complicated networks of mains. Does this increased pressure work to the disadvantage of the consumer in connection with the measurement in the consumer's meter of the gas consumed. The gas is measured by volume. Then the quantity measure as unit volume will vary directly with the density, namely, with the absolute pressure. It is true that in practice this difference is slight, but such difference as there is is in favor of the consumer.

"But the principle can be best understood by taking an extreme case. Suppose that the meter was standardized for atmospheric pressure, and suppose that the gas was actually measured under an increased pressure of 14.7 pounds per square inch, or two atmospheres in all. Then the consumer for every cubic foot registered on the meter would really have delivered to him two cubic feet of gas at atmospheric pressure. While, in connection with such a tremendous subject, I cannot hope to demonstrate completely my proposition within the limits of a letter, I believe I have said enough to indicate that the proposed bill has not taken account of the varying conditions beyond the control of the gas companies which they have to meet and which require them greatly to vary the quantity of gas to be sent through a given length of main in a given time, necessitating therefore wide variations in the initial pressures at the points of distribution.

"In conclusion, let me say that this question of pressure can be safely left to the gas companies, for their interests necessarily lead them to carry only such a pressure as is required for completely efficient service."

MURPHY SILENT ON GAS.

When Charles F. Murphy arrived at Tammany Hall yesterday none of the five Tammany Senators who voted against the eighty-cent gas bill was on hand to greet him, nor did any of them call on him during the day to ask for an explanation of what he meant by his telephone message from Mount Clemens that "the people will take care of their cases."

Leader Murphy was not disposed to discuss the gas situation. When asked what action would be taken against the five Senators who, as he asserts, disobeyed his orders in voting against the cheap gas bill, Mr. Murphy said:

"I had my say on that subject last Monday. I have nothing to add to what I said then."

"Will there be any positive action taken by the Tammany organization to show that the five Senators who voted against the gas bill did not represent the sentiment of the organization?"

"I have nothing to say about that."

Mr. Murphy was asked what he thought of the movement in the Citizens' Union in favor of the indorsement of Mayor McClellan.

"I have said all along that I thought everybody ought to indorse him," he said. "He will be renominated and re-elected."

"Have any overtures been made to you from the Citizens' Union?"

"Not yet."

"Will Tammany welcome the support of the Citizens' Union?"

"We will welcome the support of all good citizens."

"Will you give the Citizens' Union representation on the ticket in the event that they show a willingness to fuse with Tammany?"

"We will name a ticket that all good citizens and friends of decent government, Democrats and Republicans alike, can support."

In view of the indorsements which Mayor McClellan is receiving from independents, Mr. Murphy and his advisers believe that the best play for Tammany to make on the gas question is to "stand pat." If any attempt were made at this time to discipline the Senators who voted against the cheap gas bill, it is said, the result would be to start a lot of friction in the Tammany organization. Mr. Murphy is said to feel confident from the assurances given him yesterday by the district leaders that there will be no more outbreaks among the district organizations on gas.

TRIED TO SWALLOW GEM.

Youth Yielded Missing Diamond When Policeman Choked Him.

Richard Sandiford, eighty years of age, who lives at 148 Second Street, Union Course, was a passenger on a trolley car bound for Jamaica yesterday afternoon. When the car, which was crowded with racegoers, reached Washington Street Mr. Sandiford missed a large diamond from his shirtfront. He suspected a young man who stood beside him.

"Give me my stud, Sir," said Sandiford indignantly.

"Forget it," said the young man airily, and stepped from the car.

"Hi, officer, I've been robbed," called the old man to Policeman Post, and pointed to the fleeing figure. Post caught the fugitive after a chase of a mile.

"That's the man," said Sandiford. When Post returned with his prisoner. "He took my stud; I am sure of it." A search at the police station, however, failed to produce the diamond.

"Maybe it's in his mouth," was suggested.

The man endeavored to swallow, and Post seized him by the throat. After a struggle the prisoner surrendered the gem.

"Now that you can talk, give your name and address," said the Sergeant. The man answered that he was William Wolff, twenty-four years old, of 48 Myrtle Avenue, Brooklyn.

ROOSEVELT'S POLICY ALARMS STAND PATTERS

STEEL POOLS DISCOMFITED

Threat to Buy Their Rails Abroad at Big Reduction—Fear Anti-Trust Investigation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Consternation has been carried into the camp of the tariff stand-patters by the President's orders to the Canal Commission to buy materials abroad if it can be done more cheaply than at home. They are frightened because of the object lesson in tariff results which they fear it will give.

It has been denied all along by the tariff advocates that American products are sold abroad more cheaply than at home, and they think their line of defense will be broken into shreds if the President demonstrates that to be the fact by actually buying things abroad cheaper than he could get them here.

In the great tariff debate in the closing hours of the first session of the Fifty-eighth Congress, just on the eve of the Presidential campaign, Representative Littlefield of Maine, who was put forward as the Republican spokesman, alarmed the stand-patters by admitting that American goods could be bought abroad more cheaply than here and by saying that where that is done the tariff ought to be reduced. Aside from this there was practically no break in the solidity of the stand-patters' defense until the action taken by the President yesterday.

Most of the Republican leaders would not comment on the President's action for publication, but privately they made no secret of their consternation. One prominent Senator said he regarded the action as highly unfortunate and certain to bring the Republican Party face to face with the tariff issue in its most dangerous form. He said it would give the Democratic Party just the weapon it needed.

Representative Grosvenor expressed the view that the country would rather pay a little more for something that was made at home, furnished employment for home folk, and gave them better pay than their more unfortunate neighbors abroad enjoyed.

"If," he said, "the Government is to be the complainant against the prices that are the result of this employment of American labor at American wages, it will certainly furnish a theme for some very interesting deliberations over the tariff."

The few tariff revisionists in town think that the stand-patters have brought the situation on themselves. They say that the Canal Commission has been confronted with prices on steel rails for the double tracking of the Panama Railway several dollars a ton in excess of the price of the very same rails sold by the same American makers in foreign markets. The same is said to be true of other supplies.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., May 16.—President Ramsey of the Wabash told President Roosevelt and his Panama Canal advisers that the steel rail makers intended to charge the Canal Commission the domestic price for rails, namely, $28 per ton, whereas the same rails were sold in Canada at $20. Canada protects its steel manufacturers with a tariff and pays a bounty, and yet the United States Steel Corporation can underbid the Canadian steel rail makers.

The Steel Corporation, assisted by the four great American steel pools, dictates the prices for steel throughout the world. Charles M. Schwab once, when challenged, admitted that steel rails could be made in Pittsburg at $12 a ton.

Last Fall, when business was dull in the United States, the Steel Corporation scoured the European markets for orders. The home price of rails was $28 per ton, yet thousands of tons of rails were shipped to Europe in competition with British steel makers, and the British market declined to $22.16 per ton for Bessemer rails.

The Carnegie Steel Company shipped rails from its Edgar Thompson plant, paying for the freight to the seaboard, as well as the ocean tariff, and delivered the rails in British ports at a price lower than the steelmakers of Great Britain cared to quote. The total freight was about $8 per ton, while the rails sold around $21 per ton.

Since the demand in the United States has increased the foreign market has been neglected by the American railmakers, and as a result British rails have advanced to $25.40 per ton, but just as soon as there is a falling off in orders here so soon will British prices take a tumble. This applies to nearly all products manufactured by the Steel Corporation.

The Allentown Rod and Wire Mill is employed exclusively on the export wire trade. These goods can be made somewhat cheaper in Pittsburg, yet the buyer abroad can buy nails and wire made in Allentown cheaper than the American jobber can buy nails and wire in Pittsburg. This product is not protected by any pooling arrangement.

This is an old story here, but the steelmakers fear a Governmental inquisition under the anti-trust laws through the fact that the Panama Canal was to have been "held up" by the rail pool.

YACHTSMEN LEAP INTO RIVER.

J. S. Huyler and Party Plunge from Deck of Burning Launch.

The burning of the steam tender Nylked at the float of the Columbia Yacht Club, Eighty-sixth Street and the North River, yesterday afternoon, endangered the lives of the President and Vice President of the Huyler Candy Company and several guests, who had to jump overboard to save themselves from the flames, which burst from an alcohol engine and enveloped the launch.

Benjamin F. De Klyn, Vice President of the Huyler Company, was the owner of the tender, which was carrying off a number of guests to his yacht bound for Sandy Hook to view the start of the transatlantic yacht race. Just as the party, which included J. S. Huyler, President of the Huyler Company; Fred W. De Klyn and W. T. De Klyn, brothers of the owners of the tender, and Thomas J. Gaines, got aboard the craft, the engine exploded, and immediately the tender was enveloped in flames. The flames spread so rapidly that the whole party was compelled to leap into the river.

The explosion of the engine was heard by the stewards of the Columbia Club, who immediately rushed to the rescue. To Charles Testera, chief steward of the Columbia Club, belongs the credit of saving the men. With Charles Hansen, boatman of the club, assisted by Olaf Olsen and Charles Staalsen of the tender's crew, he took the members of the party clinging to the sides of the burning launch out of the water.

The engineer of the steam tender was slightly burned on the arm. After the accident the party proceeded down the bay.

DURANT ADMINISTRATOR OUT.

Mrs. Heloise Durant Rose Charges $1,000,000 Loss from Estate.

ALBANY, May 16.—Surrogate Jenkins of Warren County to-day granted an order revoking letters of administration to William West Durant of New York City on the estate of his father, Thomas C. Durant, who died at North Creek, on Oct. 5, 1885.

The order was granted on application of Heloise Durant Rose of New York, sister of the administrator, who charges misappropriation of funds. Thomas C. Durant owned one of the largest Adirondack estates in his day.

Mrs. Rose in her application alleged that her brother manipulated all funds and properties, and by misrepresentation to her and her mother obtained possession of at least $1,000,000, which he used between 1886 and 1890 in New York and Saratoga.

During these years, Mrs. Rose says, she received but $1,000 from the estate. This induced her to bring suit in New York to recover her share. Her brother went to Europe, she declares, to escape service of the papers. A judgment for $50,000 was secured. William Durant's whereabouts is unknown to the plaintiff.

DRAW LIKELY IN BOWEN CASE.

Minister May Get Another Post, While Loomis Stays Where He Is.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The only significant occurrence in the Bowen-Loomis case to-day was the appearance as witnesses of Dr. Jose Paul, the accredited representative of President Castro, who has been in Washington for two months on a special mission to get Mr. Bowen recalled, and M. Pastor y Mora, who is said to have information supporting the statements made by Mr. Bowen as to the current reports in Venezuela of Mr. Loomis's connection with the asphalt company. Both these Venezuelans saw the President to-day.

It is understood that Mr. Bowen takes the position that he made no attack on Loomis, but was simply doing his duty in reporting to his Government the rumors he was constantly hearing in Venezuela.

There is less reason to expect that either Bowen or Loomis will be dropped by the Administration as the outcome of the affair. Taft stands by his old college classmate Bowen, the President can see only good in Loomis, whom he inherited from McKinley, and neither the War Secretary nor the President wants a scandal in the Diplomatic Service. So the finish will be a draw. Loomis to stay where he is while Bowen will get another diplomatic billet in due time.

LAY AN HOUR IN STREET.

Car Conductor Badly Crushed as Result of Collision.

Daniel Ahearn, a motorman of the Third Avenue line, was locked up in the West One Hundred and Fifty-second Street Station last evening, charged with assault. Louis Paine, a conductor, living at 305 East Fortieth Street, lies seemingly dying at the J. Hood Wright Hospital. Both his legs are crushed, and will be amputated this morning if he lives long enough.

Paine was on the rear of a car, which was standing on the east track, at One Hundred and Ninety-fifth Street and Amsterdam Avenue. On the west track, north of the cross-over switch was another car, of which Ahearn was motorman. The motorman of Paine's car took the switch slowly, and as the car swung on to the south-bound track, it is alleged that Ahearn started his car swiftly, colliding with the other.

At the time of the collision Paine was on the bumper of the car, changing the destination signal. He was pinned between the cars and crushed. He fell to the street and lay on the ground an hour before an ambulance arrived.

FIGHTS TRAIN WRECKERS.

Wabash Detective Has a Desperate Struggle—Gets One Man.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, May 16.—Detective Kratt of the Wabash Railroad had a desperate fight with three train wreckers late this afternoon.

Four unsuccessful attempts had been made to wreck passenger trains at Honing, twelve miles from this city. Kratt secreted himself near the spot to-day and saw three men tampering with the switch locks. He approached them, and they opened fire on him with their revolvers.

The detective also began firing and ran after the men, who sought to elude him. He grappled with one and fell down a ten-foot embankment, but succeeded in handcuffing the man, whom he brought to the Allegheny County Jail to-night.

The Wabash officials believe that the attempts to wreck trains were for the purpose of securing pulpwood.

RESPONSIBLE POST FOR W. K. VANDERBILT, JR.

Will Hereafter Supervise the Central's Trolley Interests.

MADE UP HIS MIND TO WORK

Began Fitting Himself by Study Two Years Ago for an Active Career in Railroad Management.

William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., is to be representative of the New York Central Railroad in the management of the trolley concerns of which the big system has acquired proprietorship. He will be elected a Director and Vice President of the Utica and Mohawk Valley Railway Company and of the Syracuse Rapid Transit Company, and he has taken up the matter of electrifying the West Shore between Utica and Syracuse.

A Director of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad explained last night that about two years ago the young man, who was acquiring some celebrity through his dangerous feats with speedy automobiles, decided it was time to take life more seriously, and uphold the name the Vanderbilts have won for industry and efficiency. Once the decision was made, Mr. Vanderbilt went right to work to learn the railroad business.

Taking an office in the Grand Central Station, he went through uninteresting reports, read books on the science of railroading, and saw just how one of the biggest railroads in the world was run, even to the smallest and most humble details.

"He didn't say much about his intentions," said the Director, "but he went at the problem tooth and nail. His headquarters were at the Grand Central Station, but he was continually making excursions on the road and studying the problems which face railroad men.

"The acquisition by the New York Central of these trolley lines in the Mohawk Valley gave young Mr. Vanderbilt an excellent chance. He really did not have such a big opportunity in the New York Central as all the good places were already full. But the trolley lines are growing, and he can grow with them. Some day he will be, with the other members of his family, at the top of the railroad business. His automobile experience has given him a complete knowledge of electricity, and of course this is a great advantage to him in the work which he is going to do in the future."

Soon after he decided to go to work Mr. Vanderbilt went to Chicago and inspected the Chicago Traction Company. He did not attempt any technical report, leaving that to experts, but much depended upon his recommendations to the interests he represented.

TEACHER LIVING IN A HUT.

Chicago Instructor Quits City, Choosing Fishermen for Neighbors.

CHICAGO, May 16.—With the desire of getting away from neighbors who annoy him with piano playing and singing and of living a life which he can fashion as he chooses, Oskar Eckstein, an Instructor in Chemical Research at the University of Chicago, has deserted the neighborhood of Midway Plaisance and is living in a fisherman's hut on the shore of Lake Michigan, where he prepares his own food and has fishermen for companions.

There is a bookcase in the hut, although the instructor does most of his work at the university. He rises early, takes a plunge before breakfast, and wears a bathing suit most of the time while he is at the cottage. Oskar Eckstein was born in Munich thirty-five years ago. He lived one Winter with the Crow Indians in Montana, and passed the Winter of 1903-1904 with the Pueblo Indians in New Mexico.

FIVE UPSET; TWO DROWN.

Two of Group of Boys Swim Ashore—Another Rescued.

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., May 16.—A man and a boy were drowned in Jones Pond, near Wrightstown, this afternoon. Two others saved their lives by swimming ashore, while a fifth was pulled out unconscious, and had a narrow escape from the fate of two of his companions.

George Gaskill, twenty-one years old, with his brothers Thomas, sixteen years old, and William, fifteen, in company with William Bennett and Harry Applegate of Juliustown, were fishing in the pond. The five entered a boat, which is tied up usually, and is capable of carrying not more than three with safety.

None of the five knew how to row, but George tried to. The boat was upset and the five were thrown into the water. The Bennett and Applegate boys managed to swim ashore, while William Gaskill was saved from drowning by men who were summoned by the boys' cries. George and Thomas were pulled out drowned. They were clasped in each other's arms.

TAX HERE MAY AID BOSTON.

Attempt Being Made to Get More Stock Exchange Business.

BOSTON, May 16.—A committee appointed in connection with a move to increase the business of the Boston Stock Exchange has arranged with a number of the prominent houses which do a large business in New York that orders in certain stocks shall be executed on the Boston Exchange whenever possible before they are placed in New York for execution.

On June 1 the New York Stock Tranfer Tax law goes into effect, and in the execution of orders for every hundred shares in the New York market a customer in Boston will have to pay $14.50, or $2 more than if the order were executed in Boston.

STANDARD OIL SAVES FEES.

Incorporation Under Small Capitalization Angers Iowans.

Special to The New York Times.

DES MOINES, Iowa, May 16.—Many Iowans are asking upon what theory the Standard Oil Company can be permitted to renew its articles of incorporation in the State, giving the amount of its capital stock at $100,000, while it is incorporated under the laws of New Jersey with a capital stock specified at $100,000,000.

By giving capitalization at the smaller amount the company is able to save the difference between $1,018 and $100,018 in filing fees.

For accepting the smaller fee, Secretary of State Martin is being denounced by many people for what they deem an absurd interpretation of the law, and threats of mandamus proceedings are said to be made.

WON'T YIELD FOR FUSION.

Attitude of Citizens' Union More Independent Than Before.

That the Citizens' Union will take a very independent stand in negotiating with other political organizations for fusion in the coming municipal campaign was made known yesterday by R. Fulton Cutting, the President of the Union and the Chairman of its Nominating Committee. Mr. Cutting said that the Nominating Committee probably would not be called together for a week. Asked how negotiations for fusion would be opened, Mr. Cutting said:

"The committee will send to the other political and to all of the civic organizations the declaration of principles which was adopted by the City Committee."

"Is it not possible that there may be no response from either the Democratic or Republican organization in view of the fact that both organizations are criticised in the Union's declaration of principles because of their attitude on the gas question?"

"Yes, it is entirely conceivable, but ought not both those organizations be willing to join us in protecting the public against extortion by the lighting companies?"

"You impose certain conditions to which the other political organizations must subscribe in order to gain your support?"

"Exactly."

"Is not your organization's attitude much more independent toward other organizations than it has been in former years?"

"Undoubtedly. That is what our declaration was intended to show."

Wherever the Citizens' Union's declaration of principles was discussed yesterday by politicians, the opinion prevailed that either the Citizens' Union "would have to come down off its high horse" or there would be no fusion.

The Democrats were fairly well pleased with the action of the Union. They would like to see the Citizens' Union nominate a ticket of its own.

HOLD UP A TROLLEY CAR.

TAMAQUA, Penn., May 16.—Two masked men held up a trolley car on the Tamaqua and Lansford Street Railway at a turnout west of Mauch Chunk to-night, shot one of the passengers, stole all of their valuables, and escaped.

Shortly after 10 o'clock two men were captured at Hazards by a posse and taken to Mauch Chunk. They had watches and money on their persons and are believed to be the bandits.

The east-bound car from here at 9:30 o'clock ran into a switch that had been set by the bandits. The motorman, Aaron Moser, threw on the emergency brake, and as he did so the two masked men jumped out from the woods, and with wild yells boarded the car, one at the front end and the other at the rear.

As the man in the rear entered the door he drew a revolver and fired. Herman Phillips, a real estate agent of Wilkesbarre, was sitting with his legs crossed, and the bullet passed through the fleshy part of his left foot.

"Hands up, everybody!" yelled the man who had fired the revolver. His confederate at the other end of the car kept a revolver leveled at two traveling men.

The robbery of the passengers was then effected, and, after warning passengers and crew not to make any attempt to pursue them, the bandits dashed into the woods.

The motorman backed his car out of the turnout and ran to Mauch Chunk at high speed, and the police and Sheriff were notified.

Phillips, the man who was shot, is weak from loss of blood. He says the two men appeared to be tramps.

MRS. FLAGLER'S AUNT HURT.

Her Mother and Sister Also in Runaway Accident, but Uninjured.

WILMINGTON, N. C., May 16.—In a runaway accident near here late last night Mrs. W. R. Kenan and Miss Sarah Kenan of Wilmington and Miss Annie Kenan of Kenansville, N. C., respectively mother, sister, and aunt of Mrs. Henry M. Flagler, were thrown from a trap and Miss Annie Kenan sustained serious injuries. The others escaped uninjured.

Miss Kenan suffered a compound fracture just above the knee, and amputation may be necessary. Dr. Martin of the University of Maryland Hospital arrived to-night to consult with local physicians regarding the case. Miss Kenan has been removed to a local hospital.

FIRE IN HOBOKEN CITY HALL.

Man Made Prisoner by Door That He Smashes—Damage Slight.

Fire threatened the Hoboken City Hall last night, but was extinguished with about $500 damage to the contents of the building, and none except smoking up of walls to the structure. Clerk Joseph Tucker of the Department of Health left his office about 6 o'clock. A few minutes later a boy ran into the City Hall and informed Assistant City Clerk Daniel Kessler that there was a fire on the floor above.

Kessler ran up and found smoke pouring from the transom of the Department of Health offices. He started to kick in a panel of the door and his foot went through and caught in the wood and stuck there. Kessler shouted for help. Others ran up and released him. Then the firemen were called, but the police from headquarters down stairs had the fire out with extinguishers.

WOULD RUN CHICAGO LINE.

Syndicate to Make Offer to City for Adams Street Road.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 16.—A syndicate to equip and run the so-called Adams Street line of the old Chicago Passenger Railway, recently placed in the possession of the city by Judge Grosscup's decision, has been formed, with John J. Cummins, President of the McGuire-Cummins Company, at its head.

The sum of $500,000 has been subscribed, and certified checks totaling that amount have been placed in escrow, subject to return should the city not accept the syndicate's proposition.

The proposition is to take over and operate the line on a license, as provided by the Mueller law, for a certain compensation to the city, until such time as the validity of the Mueller bill is assured by a decision of the courts.

BIG CUNARDER CARONIA AGROUND OFF THE HOOK

Struck in the Afternoon—Kaiser Flashed News Back.

STEAMER WAS NEAR CRASH

Just Missed In-Bound Scandinavian as She Went Out—Lots of Trouble in Thick Fog.

The big Cunard Line steamship Caronia ran aground off Sandy Hook yesterday afternoon as she was leaving this port for Liverpool. She was still fast, but apparently in no danger, late last night.

Early this morning Vernon H. Brown, local agent of the line, tried to reach her by the wireless telegraph instrument on the Lucania, which was at her pier here. There was no response.

Mr. Brown said this might mean that she had floated off and gone on or that the wireless operator aboard had gone to sleep.

The observers at Sandy Hook heard the Caronia blowing her whistle loudly at 4:30 P. M. They knew a big boat was ashore, but the fog was so thick that they could not identify the craft.

The definite news that the stranded craft was the Caronia came from the Kaiser Wilhelm II., which preceded the Caronia down the bay.

The Kaiser sent a wireless message ashore to Babylon, saying that the Caronia was aground and resting easily. This message was telephoned to Mr. Brown.

Mr. Brown figured that the Caronia had stuck on the east ledge of the southwest spit, on the edge of the main ship channel.

Mr. Brown drove away from the pier in his carriage at 1 o'clock this morning, saying as he left that there was no prospect of establishing communication with the Caronia through the Lucania, and that there would be no news until high water at 6 o'clock this morning. It was his belief, he said, that the big ship had pulled herself out of the sand, and was at that hour well out to sea.

The Caronia, which left her pier, bound for Liverpool, at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, had a narrow escape from being run into by the Scandinavian-American Line steamship United States, bound in from Copenhagen. While picking her way carefully up the lower bay, and at a point just inside Sandy Hook, the fog signals of the Scandinavian-American liner were answered by the hoarse toots which came out of the impenetrable pall of gray fog that hung over the bay and the ocean.

There was no way of definitely placing the ship from which the signals came. Capt. Wulff of the United States, who was proceeding at the time with the utmost caution, signaled the engine room to slacken the pace still further. For some minutes the two ships crawled toward each other, while watchful eyes on the bridge of the incoming steamship kept peering into the thick fog.

At last the wall of fog was rent only a couple of ship's lengths ahead, and the ponderous bow of the Caronia went by. There were moments of anxious suspense on board both vessels, for they passed only about ten feet apart.

The United States, according to the report made by Capt. Wulff, after she had reached her pier in Hoboken last night, had had a similar narrow escape a few minutes before her meeting with the Cunarder. She was just swinging into the main ship channel when the big North German Lloyd steamship Kaiser Wilhelm II. loomed up in the fog almost dead ahead, and only a couple of thousand feet away. Both steamships sheered off sharply from their courses, but nevertheless it almost seemed as though they would scrape as they passed.

The Caronia carries an unusually large numbers of passengers. One of her passengers is Lady Brassey, wife of Lord Brassey, owner of the British yacht Sunbeam, which is to start on her ocean race for the Kaiser's Cup to-day. Other passengers in her first cabin are Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and their two children, Sir James Hane and Lady Hane, Miss Ethel Barrymore, the actress; the Right Rev. Thomas L. Bowman, Mrs. Bowman, and Miss Bowman; Mrs. L. Barnato of London, and Major W. H. Edwards of St. John, N. B.

The Caronia completed her maiden voyage to this port on March 5 in seven days and nine hours. She was designed to be the fastest of the leviathan type of liners afloat, and although she made but 16.33 knots on her maiden trip she is expected to average at least 18 knots. On her trial trip she made 19 knots an hour.

The new Cunarder is the largest liner ever built on the Clyde. If she were set down on the east side of the Capitol at Washington she would completely hide the structure from view, with the exception of thirty-eight feet at either end. If she were set down in Fifth Avenue with her keel in the centre of the street and her bow on the north side of Forty-second Street, she would completely fill the avenue from that point nearly to the south side of Forty-fifth Street, and would completely hide from view Delmonico's, Sherry's, and other big buildings in the neighborhood. In actual figures the liner is 675 feet long, 72.6 feet wide, and 52 feet deep. Her gross tonnage is 21,000 and her displacement 30,000 tons.

The decks of the Caronia are lettered for the sake of convenience. There are eight of them. All the quarters are finely fitted.

The quarters for steerage passengers on the Caronia are pronounced among the most sanitary and best regulated to be found on any transatlantic liner at present in commission.

As for safety arrangements, every known device looking to this end has been placed on the Caronia.

TOMBS ANGEL WEDS.

Miss Ada Eliot Becomes the Bride of Alfred Sheffield at St. Louis.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, May 16.—The romance which began when Miss Ada Eliot, Tombs Angel of New York, was a student at Radcliffe, and Alfred Sheffield, master of Harvard Preparatory School at Springfield, Mass., was a sophomore at Harvard, culminated here to-day in their wedding at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ware Eliot.

The only guests were relatives and intimate friends. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Christopher Eliot, an uncle of the bride, who is a Unitarian minister in Boston, assisted by the Rev. John Day, pastor of the Unitarian Church of the Messiah, this city. Almost immediately after the ceremony the couple departed for Springfield, Mass., where they will establish their home

TALK OF REVIVING WAR TAXES.

Tariff Stand Patters Favor This Plan for Meeting Deficit.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The talk about re-establishing the war taxes so as to meet the deficit danger is growing. The talk in the early part of the year was about meeting the danger by revising the tariff, and the stand-patters are now opposing to this the idea of restoring the war taxes.

"I think," said Senator Warren of Wyoming to-day, "that the war revenue taxes were cut more than should have been the case. We can restore some of these or impose new ones without having to bother with the tariff. We are paying cash out of the Treasury on the Panama Canal. We are building our navy and bringing it up to a point where it will be valuable to us. Consequently our excess of expenditures has not been without good reason."

MISHAP DELAYS THE BALTIC.

White Star Liner Tells Trouble in Wireless Message—84 Hours Late.

QUEENSTOWN, Ireland, May 16.—Passengers who landed here to-day from the White Star Line steamer Oceanic state that the vessel was in wireless telegraphic communication with the Baltic of the same line on Sunday. The Baltic reported that she had experienced terrific weather which, with some mishap, had retarded her passage eighty-four hours and was likely to further prolong her voyage.

The White Star liner Baltic sailed from Liverpool May 10 and Queenstown May 11 for New York, and in the ordinary course of events would be due here to-day. If the report from Queenstown is correct the Baltic probably will not reach New York before Sunday. Among her passengers are the Brazilian Ambassador to the United States, Joaquin A. Nabuco de Araujo, the Duke of Sutherland, and Charles M. Schwab.

BULLET AMONG DINERS.

Crashes Through Restaurant Window —Flying Glass Cuts Two.

The crash of a bullet through the rear window of the restaurant of Jacob Roeser at 616 East One Hundred and Thirty-eighth Street created a small panic among the fifty or more persons who were eating dinner there at about 6:30 o'clock last evening.

John McCarthy of 511 East One Hundred and Thirty-eighth Street and M. F. Wyckner of 804 East One Hundred and Thirty-fifth Street, who were sitting at the table nearest the window, were cut by flying glass and Wyckner was gashed about the face. At the next table were seated Policeman John McInnery of the Alexander Avenue Station and his wife. He at the sound of the shot threw up the window and leaped out, followed by the proprietor and some of the other diners.

At the rear is a row of flat houses. It was evident that the bullet had been fired from there. The shooter, however, was not found.

MORGAN IN LONDON SCHEME.

LONDON, May 16.—A committee of the House of Commons has commenced the consideration of a bill providing for the installation in London of electric light and pneumatic tube systems similar to those in use in America.

J. Pierpont Morgan is among the promoters of the company, which has a capital of $20,000,000.

Ninety-five miles of double tubing and 172 stations are proposed.

MITCHELL FOR MIND READING.

Physician Declares He Has Been Converted to Belief in It.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The twentieth annual meeting of the Association of American Physicians began here to-day and was attended by a large number of well-known members of the profession from all over the country.

One of the papers read was that of Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, who declared that, through what he considered indisputable evidence, he had been converted to belief in mind reading.

OUT OF THE ERIE YARDS.

Jersey Central Reported to Have Got New Harlem Yard.

It was reported last night that the Erie Railroad had ordered the Central Railroad of New Jersey to vacate the freight terminal which the Central has been using in conjunction with the Erie for the last two years between the ends of the Third and Park Avenue Bridges of the Harlem River. The terminal was made as an experiment by the Erie Railroad, which owns the property.

It was also reported that in vacating the terminal, the Jersey Central had bought a block of land between Third and Lincoln Avenues, with a water frontage on the Harlem River of 200 feet on the Bronx side.

BALFOUR-CHAMBERLAIN SPLIT

Conference Said to Have Resulted in Serious Disagreement.

LONDON, May 16.—The fiscal negotiations between Premier Balfour and Joseph Chamberlain were resumed to-day. The two statesmen had a long interview, but apparently they failed to reach an agreement, as another conference was arranged for to-morrow.

The incident created great excitement in the lobbies of the Houses of Parliament. There was a crop of rumors to the effect that there had been a serious disagreement, but nothing authentic has transpired. The opinion of members of both parties, however, inclines to the belief that Mr. Balfour is now in a strong enough position to dictate terms.

SLAPPED HIS FACE IN CHURCH

Passing the Lie Arouses Woman—General Melee Follows.

Special to The New York Times.

WAYNE, Penn., May 16.—The passing of a lie here to-night was followed by a woman slapping a man in the face before the altar of the Presbyterian Church. A fight with umbrellas between some of the men of the congregation outside of the building ensued.

The trouble resulted from discussions as to the advisability of Dr. William R. Patton remaining as pastor. Dr. Patton had been forced into writing a letter resigning. There was a general melee, until the conservatives came to the rescue.

FOG HOLDS UP YACHTS IN KAISER'S CUP RACE

Racers Moored in the Horseshoe at Sandy Hook All Day.

BIG FLEET DOWN THE BAY

The Fleur de Lys Damaged in Collision, but Repaired and Ready to Start To-day.

Fresh east winds, shifting to southerly, are to be expected off Sandy Hook to-day, with a continuance of the showery weather, which will probably last through the day, with a rising temperature. The yachts starting from Sandy Hook will encounter freshening east winds to the Grand Banks.—United States Weather Bureau.

Wind and sea bow not even to an Emperor, and to-day the Kaiser's Cup race awaits the pleasure of the weather gods. The eleven yachts which were to have started yesterday afternoon in a test of speed, seamanship, and seaworthiness in a royal race across the broad Atlantic, were held up, not because of the wind, of which there was a-plenty, nor of the seas, of which there were none, but because of a dense, all-conquering fog, which blinded and overwhelmed them. The start, therefore, in deference to the vagaries of the mist, was postponed until noon to-day.

Not one of the thoroughbreds which have elected to battle for the golden cup ventured without the sheltering arm of Sandy Hook, and some of them did not get that far. Lord Brassey's Sunbeam, Edmund Randolph's Apache, and Dr. Stimson's Fleur de Lys all failing to answer the roll call at the Hook.

Sturdy Fleur de Lys had a valid excuse, because, while she was lying at anchor off Romer Shoal early yesterday morning, an inbound string of scows played snap-the-whip with her and tore away about thirty feet of her railing. She was towed hurriedly to South Brooklyn, where her confident skipper, the bold Gloucesterman Bohlin, remarked:

"Of course, we'll start. If the others get away to-day without us we'll start just as soon as we can get ready and chase them across the Atlantic."

So expeditiously, however, were the repairs completed that the Fleur de Lys, the baby of the fleet, left South Brooklyn shortly after 5 o'clock and went to Sandy Hook.

The rest of the fleet, with the exception of those noted, were at their moorings at the Hook, but so ceaseless was the inflow of enormous waves of mist that a boat to boat canvass had to be made to determine which of the racers were on hand for the start. Only at a few long separated intervals did the sun assert itself sufficiently to afford a view of the entire fleet, and even then it only showed the hopeless thickness of the weather outside. For the remainder of the time each yacht was in a solitude, although a rival racer might be fretting at its moorings less than a hundred feet away.

As the day wore on and the fog waves rolled in, piling one upon the other, the danger of starting so many big yachts became more and more apparent, all of the owners requested the Race Committee to postpone the event.

When finally, after a damp, dismal, dispiriting wait of an hour, the start was declared off shortly after 3 o'clock, arguments as to risking unnecessary perils were borne out by the several severe and successive scares which the homeward speeding tugs, excursion boats, and spectator yachts received by the sudden looming up of the North German Lloyd flier Kaiser Wilhelm II., the giant Cunarder Caronia, a big white Star Line freighter, a Savannah liner, and an Old Dominion liner.

If the starting signal had been given, however, it is doubtful if any one would have refused to come to the line. All were ready and shipshape, and, prepared as they were for a pounding, thrashing race across an ocean, it is not probable that they would balk at the lesser peril of a balky start.

Of all the boats at anchor in the Horseshoe, the favorite, Wilson Marshall's Atlantic, looked more the winner than ever, although it is difficult to calculate chances on an inspection of boats riding idly at anchor. The Atlantic, even yesterday, was a racer through and through, and it was evident that she was going to make it her business to take advantage of everything that sail spread, easy lines, power—and Barr could benefit by to get ahead and keep ahead. Capt. Barr explained that the Atlantic was not racing just for the fun of sailing, when he said yesterday:

"I'm going to sail the Atlantic as if there were no other boats in the race. I won't pay the slightest attention, even to my most dangerous rivals. I don't care what the weather is, but you can depend upon it, be it fair or foul, the Atlantic will be driven for all she is worth."

The German boat, Hamburg, in looks, at least, bore out her reputation of being the dark horse in the contest. Sleek, well groomed, easy, and graceful, she attracted much attention from the excursion fleet whenever the fog permitted her to be seen. The Valhalla, towering and impressive in her ship's rig, looked formidable enough, but she did not give the impression of speed as did some of her slender rivals. Thistle, Hildegarde, and Utowana, all stanch cruising craft, were there with the record-holding Endymion, and so was Ailsa, who bores her way so marvelously into the wind.

But the great race will not go to the swift alone, or the powerful, or the nimble, or the stanch and sturdy, but the yacht which, with her own good qualities, gets the largest leaven of luck will carry off the Kaiser's Cup.

DELAY CABLED TO KAISER.

Commander Hebbinghaus Notifies Emperor of Postponement of Race.

Commander Hebbinghaus, Emperor William's personal representative on the Ocean Yacht Race Committee, last night notified the Kaiser of the postponement of the start of the race until to-day at noon by the following cable:

Naval Cabinet, Berlin:

Easterly wind and heavy fog prevented the committee sending off the boats to-day. Start postponed to Wednesday noon.

H. C. HEBBINGHAUS, Commander.

"I notified his Majesty of the postponement of the ocean race immediately upon my arrival in New York from Sandy Hook by cable. The message was addressed to the Naval Cabinet in Berlin, with instructions to forward to the Emperor at once. As yet I have received no reply, but presume I shall hear in the morning.

"We regret the necessity of a postponement greatly, but under the conditions there was nothing else to do. We visited every boat at the Horseshoe, and each requested delaying until to-day. Then, too, the absence of five boats at the appointed hour made such an action imperative.

"We met the Fleur de Lys on the way up from the Hook as she went down to her old anchorage. I said nothing to the Kaiser about the unfortunate circumstance, since Mr. Stimson assured me that his boat was not seriously injured and he would be able to start to-day.

"The Sunbeam and the Apache, I understand, are anchored off Tompkinsville and will go down to the Horseshoe early in the morning. We did not see either of them on our way up. The other nine are off the Hook ready for the word."

YACHTS INACTIVE ALL DAY.

Excursion Fleet Welcomes Even Sign of Activity Aboard the Contestants.

The departure of the Fleur de Lys after her accident left six yachts anchored in the Horse shoe in the morning. The Atlantic occupied the berth nearest shore to the south of the rest of the fleet. Astern of her to the west lay the Endymion and to the east, off her starboard bow, the Valhalla. Close in toward the east shore of the Hook, beside the Valhalla, was the Hildegarde. North of her and to the west well off her starboard quarter lay the Thistle. The Utowana was further south, slightly astern of Commodore Tod's boat.

In the early morning the Atlantic's crew hauled on main and foresail halyards and the headsails were put up in stocks. The Endymion sent up jib and staysail, while main and foresail were soon goosewinged as sturdy men hauled away at peak and throat halyards. The Hildegarde set her mainsail, but the others remained with bare poles. Later Capts. Barr and Loesch took in their canvas and the Hildegarde was the only boat with a sail set when the earliest of the excursion fleet arrived.

Aboard the Atlantic numerous white figures lounged on deck. Only one or two white-clad sailors were to be seen aboard the Utowana. The Thistle had Commodore Tod on the quarterdeck with her blue uniformed crew scattered about, resting at ease. There was no activity on the Valhalla or the Hildegarde.

Each had her tender beside her. On the Unique was J. Kennedy Tod, Mrs. Robert E. Tod, and the rest of the Commodore's party. The John A. Bouker lay by the Valhalla and the M. Moran beside the Hildegarde. A large party of the friends of Edward R. Coleman were aboard the tug, and later in the day many of the ladies visited the Philadelphia boat. The Endymion had the H. B. Chamberlain and the Utowana the John K. Gilkinson.

The boats were most of the time enshrouded in banks of fog, through which it was impossible to see one hundred feet away. When occasionally the mist lifted they had a brief glimpse of each other. All appeared to rest as comfortably as though no race were expected.

The excursion fleet, which gradually gathered, moved in and about among the racers seeking any sign of a start, but found little to interest it. Shortly after 1 o'clock the committee boat, Vigilant, came down and drew alongside the Atlantic. From it was megaphoned the information that unless the fog lifted within a half hour the race would be postponed until to-day at noon. Slowly time passed with no sign of improving conditions, and it became apparent that a start would be impossible.

As soon as this was assured orders were given to lower the Hildegarde's mainsail. At once the deck became alive with blue uniformed figures surmounted by red tarpaulins. In an incredibly short time the sail was down and neatly furled, and her crew once more inactive. Simultaneously the rigging of the Valhalla swarmed with white figures as the sails were covered for the night.

At this instant word was passed that the Ailsa was approaching in tow. Through the fog, which lifted slightly, the Fred B. Dalzell appeared with the Ailsa at the end of a long cable. In her bow were grouped most of her crew, while on the quarterdeck stood Henry S. Redmond, her owner; Grenville Kane, her manager, and Capt. Lem Miller. She ran between the Valhalla and Endymion, and dropped anchor off the port bow of the English ship.

Almost immediately after the Hamburg hove in sight in tow of the W. A. Sherman. She was drawn up slowly beside the Ailsa and anchored off the yawl's stern. Her white-uniformed crew was on the deck wearing red tam o' shanters, and presented a striking appearance. On her quarterdeck was Herr Tietjens, Lieut. Tietjens, and Herr Piconelli. As the Sherman cast off her hawser the tug Catherine Moran, having a lot of New York Yacht Club and New York Athletic Club men on board, and carrying a band, drew up alongside. A moment later the strains of "Die Wacht am Rhein" were heard in honor of the German and her owner, followed in lighter vein by "Ach, due lieber Augustin."

The excursion fleet had already begun to draw away by this time, and ten minutes later all the boats, save a few of the private yachts, were on their homeward journey.

PARTIES ON PRIVATE YACHTS.

Flotilla in Attendance Is Large in Spite of the Inclement Weather.

Early in the day at the New York Yacht Club station off Twenty-third Street there was activity among the private yachts anchored there, parties going aboard preparatory to the trip down the bay. One of the first boats to leave was Alexander Van Rensselaer's handsome yacht May, carrying a party from the Corinthian Yacht Club of Philadelphia planning to give their clubmate, Edward R. Coleman, on the Hildegarde, a suitable send-off in the race. She was followed by Edward R. Dick's Elsa II., having on board a party including McGee Ellsworth, Harry S. Day, George E. Wood, Arthur T. Sturges, F. P. Bishop, John Irving, Philip T. Brown, H. K. Vingut, E. La Montague, E. A. Thompson, Louis La Roque, and E. R. Livingston. Augustus Mott took down next a party, including C. W. Banum, Arthur Duane, James G. Goin, F. K. Unger, Fritz Williams, Clay Greene, William Mohr, J. Saville, Nat Seeley, Roosevelt Schuyler, and F. K. Daniel.

Howard Gould's Niagara IV. had on board Mr. and Mrs. McKeever, Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Hanan, Col. and Mrs. Barnett, and Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Everett. Frank J. Gould's Helenita, Frederic Gallatin's Rovera, H. H. Rogers's Kanawha, D. G. Reid's Rehecla'r, Arthur Curtis Jones's Alacha, E. C. Benedict's Oneida, Alfred Marshall's Levanter, K. McKesson's Monimia, C. J. K. Billings's Surf, and a party of Indian Harbor yachtsmen on board the Mermaid were other private boats in the fleet.

On board the Earl King were a number of members of the New York Athletic Club. The club boat, the Cygnus, carried a distinguished party, including Stephen H. Brown, Count de Limburg-Stirum, Baron Schilling, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander B. Shaw, August Noel, S. Gray Griswold, Gibson Fahnestock, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Vernon, Mr. and Mrs. H. Van Rensselaer Kennedy, J. Mayhew Wainwright, Henry G. Sloan, Charles Pryor, W. A. Scott, Charles W. Lee, Robert Sedgwick, Mrs. W. B. Parsons, Bradley L. Eaton, Henry S. Wedmore, Cortlandt Nicoll, George D. Cross, F. A. Guiold, J. R. Gibbs, Charles H. White, F. B. Alexander, O A. Day, G. R. Agassiz, F. C. Fletcher, and Henry G. Sloane.

Commander Dougherty of the United States Navy was also on board the Cygnus, with Mr. and Mrs. R. Burnside Potter, Dr. Norris, Dr. and Mrs. Montgomery, George G. Williams, George Evans, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Baranard, Miss Wiggins, Miss Haight, C. C. Haight, Mrs. Winthrop McKim, William G. Pidcomb, George E. Watson, George W. Scott, Miss Weeks, Robert L. Maitland, Mr. and Mrs. Harwood, C. D. Randolph, Miss Laura B. Webb, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Webb, R. K. Longfellow, J. K. Dewar, William A. Parker, Henry S. Rockenburgh, J. W. Koons, Arthur W. Weeks, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Bergmann, R. H. McCormick, Jr., Charles G. Danforth, C. L. Peters, Henry Schuitz, S. L. Husted, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward McVickar, Fletcher Peck, Mr. and Mrs. E. Egerton Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Trimble, Robert W. Goelet, Dr. and Mrs. Francis L. Kinnicutt, Mrs. Jordan L. Mott, Mr. and Mrs. J. Langdon Erving, Mrs. Henry Loomis, Thomas R. Banks, Miss Delford De Peyster Livingston, Edward Kent, T. M. Hilliard, Mr. and Mrs. J. Tilden Swan, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Gilbert, Richard Peters, John O'Connor, George B. De Forest, Louis De Forest, L. F. Heublein, Dr. J. C. Ayer, J. I. Gibbs, R. C. Watson, A. S. Parmelee, Miss Parsons, Stephen Peabody, Jr., P. A. Alger, and P. S. Newberry of Detroit.

On the Atlantic Yacht Club boat Sirius was a large party of friends of Commodore Tod anxious to God speed the Thistle. They included:

Vice Commodore E. B. Havens, Commodore Harrison B. Moore, C. Washington, W. H. Childs, Charles Mower, George Flannery, H. A. Appelius, M. C. H. Macdonald, T. D. Wells, W. D. Deuel, J. C. McIntosh, E. H. Allen, R. C. Veit, H. H. Price, W. W. Marshall, Robert H. McCurdy, A. W. Booth, C. W. Wood, E. T. Birdsell, George Gartland, Charles T. Pierce, George H. Church, J. C. Casey, E. A. Ericsson, David C. Cox, Charles Baber, James Lynch, C. H. Ellingwood, T. I. Armour, Sidney C. Lovell, and Robert P. Doremus.

On the lighter America were a big delegation of the Harlem Democratic Club. The Seawanhaka-Corinthian Club had the tug Mutual. Other tugs bearing parties of club men were the Admiral Dewey, the R. B. Little, Robert Palmer, Unity, E. J. Berwind, Fireproof, Manhattan, and many others.

On the Iron Steamboat Company's Cepheus, from the West Twenty-second Street and Battery piers, were 700 of the general public who pay their way. The craft had a start on equal terms with the New York Yacht Club's boat, the Cygnus, and the Atlantic Yacht Club's Sirius, and shared their failure to get to the Sandy Hook Lightship, because of the vagaries of the dense fog bank. The Cepheus made no further east than a mile south of Norton's Point, and the excursionists, while the boat circled around the "sand sucker" Manhattan and, later on, the Kaiser Wilhelm II. and the Caronia, outward bound but at anchor, killed time by contributing to the prosperity of the caterer in edibles and drinkables. The the pilot, Capt. Moses Osborne, Jr., would not risk the well-being of the patrons of the charterers of the boat by a dash into the mist. On one of her short spurts while fog bound the starboard paddle wheel picked up a drifting log, which almost crashed through the rear of the paddle box, doing slight damage and startling a number of passengers. The homeward trip was uneventful.

SUNBEAM AND APACHE OFF.

The Two Yachts Missing at the Start Anchor Off Tompkinsville.

When on arising aboard the Sunbeam yesterday morning Lord Brassey discovered the dense fog which enveloped the harbor, he determined that he would not start his boat. Accordingly she remained at her anchorage off Twenty-fourth Street in the East River. Up to 11 o'clock Lord Brassey awaited word from the committee boat announcing a postponement. Failing then to hear definitely, he left the boat and went ashore, saying that if the fleet sailed it must go without the Sunbeam, but that he would follow as speedily as the weather conditions warranted.

Later in the day, when he returned aboard his boat, he was informed of the committee's action in calling off the race, and expressed satisfaction that all the boats would start at noon to-day on an equal basis, provided the fog lifted and the conditions were favorable.

The Apache also remained at the New York Yacht Club anchorage, but with tug at hand awaiting evidence of the fog lifting. When it became apparent that no change was possible in time to admit of start, the tender was ordered to take her to Tompkinsville to anchor. The Sunbeam went to the same place.

WAS HE THE KAISER'S SON?

Yacht Hamburg's Mysterious Passenger Sails on Wilhelm II.

The young man who was seen on board the yacht Hamburg, which is entered for the Kaiser's Cup, and who was said to be Prince Adalbert, Emperor William's third son, sailed yesterday on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. for Europe. The mystery of his identity remained unsolved. It was said that when the young man went aboard he went at once to the cabin of Capt. Hoegemann and remained there until the vessel sailed.

When the yacht Hamburg came to New York Capt. Peters said that the young man who was on board, and who is said to resemble the Prince, was M. Piconelli of Hamburg. The young man who sailed on the Kaiser Wilhelm yesterday was entered on the passenger list as Oberlieutenant R. Gilsaer of the German Army. It was persistently rumored aboard that he was the Emperor's son.

FIREBOATS ON YACHT JAUNT.

Battery Unguarded When Croker and Party Went to Race.

For several hours yesterday the fireboat Zophar Mills was detached from the service of the Fire Department to take down to the start of the international yacht race Chief Croker, Fire Commissioner Hayes, and his secretary, Alfred M. Downes, and Deputy Commissioner Churchill, with their wives. The fireboat Abram S. Hewitt was likewise detached for about an hour, to put aboard the Zophar Mills two women members of Chief Croker's party who were late in arriving at the Battery fireboat station.

Chief Croker and his party left the Battery on the Zophar Mills about noon. Chief Croker wore a natty gray suit and a yachting cap instead of his uniform. About five minutes after the Mills had left two women ran up to the fire pier and were in great distress because they had been left behind. When the Captain of the Hewitt heard their story, he took them aboard and steamed out to overtake the Mills. But the Mills, being the faster boat of the two, got away, and the women were transferred to a tugboat and sent on their way to join the Fire Chief's party. The Hewitt then returned to the Battery, but the fire station had been left unguarded about an hour.

CAN'T GET AMERICAN BOATS.

Panama Road Directors Unable to Find Suitable Vessels.

The full Board of Directors of the Panama Railroad Company, now owned by the Government, held a long meeting—practically all day—at 21 State Street yesterday. The work done was preparatory to the departure to the Isthmus today on the Seguranca of Gov. Magoon and Chief Engineer Wallace. This statement was given out after the meeting:

"The board investigated the question of securing additional ships of American registry, but has been unable to find up to the present time any such vessels of satisfactory size and character.

"Plans were approved for the enlargement of the terminal and the dock facilities at Colon and Panama, and final steps were taken in connection with the double tracking and new equipment of the railroad, covering an expenditure of approximately $2,000,000.

"Powers of attorney for the act of administration of affairs on the Isthmus were authorized, those relating to matters of commerce and traffic being conferred upon Mr. Wallace, Vice President and General Manager, and those relating to concessionary powers on Judge Magoon."

President Shonts said that the question of rates was discussed, but that no action was taken.

FLEUR DE LYS IS HIT WHILE GUESTS SLEEP

Scow Strikes Cup Yacht at Dawn in the Fog.

INJURY PROVES SLIGHT ONE

Repairs Made at Erie Basin and the Little Craft Is Towed Back to Sandy Hook.

Fleur de Lys, the smallest contestant in the race for the Kaiser's Cup, was temporarily out of racing trim yesterday while the other racers swayed at their respective moorings in the thick fog which hung persistently over land and sea all day.

The accident occurred at 5 o'clock in the morning when she lay off Romer Shoal. Dr. Stimson, J. B. Connolly, Elliott Tuckerman, and Miss Candace Stimson were fast asleep. The anchor watch was on duty, but the quartermaster was the only man on deck.

The fog was so dense that it was impossible in the dark to see a hand before one's face. A tow of empty mud scows was inbound, and passing by gave no intimation of its presence until the last scow in the tow swung wide on the cable and crashed into the boat as she rode at anchor. The force of the collision awoke every one aboard and all hands hurriedly rushed on deck.

Capt. Bohlin quickly investigated the damage done and hastily reassured the guests that there was no danger of the boat immediately sinking. The extent of the injury, however, could not be discerned until the dawn afforded opportunity for a more detailed inspection. The tug that had the tow of scows was hailed in the hope that she would take the boat up the bay to some basin where repairs could be quickly made, but she paid no heed to the call, and it was not until some time after that the Jacob M. Heset came by and Dr. Stimson was able to secure a tender to seek aid.

The Fleur de Lys in tow was under way before any one aboard the rest of the fleet anchored in the Horseshoe was astir, and it was not until she was well on her way up the bay that the other boats learned of her mishap.

It was after 7 when the boat reached Erie Basin. A telephone message was quickly dispatched to Mr. Ballard, Superintendent of Manning's Yacht Basin, calling him to the dock. He had refitted her some time before and knew her thoroughly. He hastened to the scene and made a thorough examination of the injury. He found that forty-five feet of her starboard rail had been carried away, the stanchions damaged, and the bulwark stove in for about fifteen feet. Her steel plates were also bent inward, but no evidence showed that the injury would render her unseaworthy if she were temporarily repaired. She was towed to Gokey's dock and work on her at once begun.

At that time it was not known that a postponement of the race would be necessary. Dr. Stimson hastily called up the Race Committee and informed it of the accident to his boat, telling it that it should proceed with the start without him and that he would follow after as quickly as the work on his boat could be completed. He estimated that he would be able to set sail at night at a late hour, and would only be handicapped some ten hours in the race. As events shaped themselves, the plucky little craft will not have to suffer even such a disadvantage.

The workmen rushed repairs as quickly as possible aboard her, and completed their task earlier than anticipated. At 4:30 o'clock she was in shape to be towed back to her anchorage at Sandy Hook. A message to the tug brought the Heset back, and by 5 o'clock the boat was once more under way on her trip down the bay. Slow progress was made, for fear of encountering some of the belated excursion fleet on their way back from the Hook. It was not until 8 o'clock that she arrived at the rendezvous and resumed her old position off Romer Shoal. The other boats in the fleet, learning of her return, sent boats to visit Dr. Stimson and express to him their regret at the accident. He received the various owners and thanked them for their courtesy, assuring them that he regarded himself as most fortunate in escaping with so little damage from what might have been a most serious accident.

The Fleur de Lys will therefore be ready to assume her place at the line when the preparatory gun sounds to-day fifteen minutes before the start is signaled, promptly at noon.

The Fleur de Lys was built for George Lord Day of the New York Yacht Club, and was later owned by Charles Smithers of the New York Yacht Club. In 1901 she was chartered to Carl Smith, a banker of this city. Her two principal races were sailed in June, 1903, and in September of the same year. In the first she was beaten by the Endymion and Thistle, and in the second by the Ingomar, the Endymion, and Iroquois. Both were ocean races of the Atlantic Yacht Club.

The Fleur de Lys, although the smallest yacht in the Kaiser Cup race, has always been a rover. She ploughed through the waters of the North Sea in one of the most notable cruises ever made by a sailing yacht, and cruised among the icebergs far above Norway. She is best in a turbulent sea and strong wind, demonstrating this during several ocean races. Once during a storm off the African coast when scores of craft were lost, she survived the turmoil without even parting a rope yarn.

In April, of 1898, the Fleur de Lys was compelled to remain in the harbor of Lisbon, Portugal, for some time as a Spanish gunboat was watching her with the hope of capture. This was during the Spanish-American war. The Fleur de Lys remained quietly at anchor, but during a gale which suddenly sprang up, she slipped out and escaped to Southampton.

The Fleur de Lys is so small that the tonnage limit for the race had to be reduced from 100 tons to 80 to admit her. This little craft one morning met the Endymion in Larchmont Harbor and demonstrated that she could sail with the holder of the transatlantic record. About 1 o'clock that morning the Fleur de Lys slipped her anchor and started east. Capt. Loesch, formerly of the Fleur de Lys, had just taken charge of the Endymion, then a new boat, and wanted to try his new charge's speed. He got under way hurriedly and set after the Fleur de Lys. The Fleur de Lys anchored in New Haven Harbor and her sails had

CAPT. BOHLIN A CHARACTER.

The Fisherman-Skipper Made Famous as J. B. Connolly's Hero.

Capt. Tom Bohlin, who sails Dr. Lewis Stimson's boat, is as notable a character in his way as the Fleur de Lys. He was made famous as the hero of one of J. B. Connolly's Gloucester fishermen stories as Tom Ohlsen." In talking over the chances of the Fleur de Lys while she was refitting in Manning's basin for the ocean race, he gave some indication of his tireless, energetic spirit and fearless nature when he said:

"I'll do everything possible to give a good account of the smallest boat in the fleet. I have tried her out pretty thoroughly in the brief time in which she has been under my command, and I may say that I am thoroughly satisfied with the prospect of her making a creditable showing. She has proved in the past that she is a seaworthy craft, capable of taking care of herself in any gale that blows. Some have criticised us for attempting to take her over with the rigs that we have in view of her diminutive size. I may say that in all her trips she has carried the same rig safely, and in this race will only differ in that we shall force her more, perhaps, than she has ever been forced in past experience. I do not mean by that that we will take heedless risks, but we shall not fear to take a chance, night or day, if it will drive her across the sea fast enough to carry off the Kaiser's trophy.

"I have no fear that she will not make a good passage. As to winning, there is no chance in such a race as this to pick a winner before the start. The whim of wind and sea must determine between the eleven boats that will make the trip. If we get the weather that suits us best, we will be well up at the finish. Don't think by this that we wish for anything but strong breezes. The harder it blows the better satisfied we will all be. When Dr. Stimson came to me to engage me for the race he told me that he was most anxious to carry off the cup if it were possible. If I had not thought he had a chance I would not have engaged to satisfy him. I believe, if the elements are favorable, we will sight the Lizard Light pretty nearly as soon as any other boat in the fleet. If untiring effort and a knowledge of ocean navigation will win the race, I believe we are as well equipped as any other boat."

MISS STIMSON A SKIPPER.

Plucky Girl on the Fleur de Lys Has Handled Boat in Several Races.

Miss Candace C. Stimson, daughter of the Fleur de Lys's owner, is the only woman who will make the trip across on board a contestant in the ocean race. It is safe to say that even on a driver of the little craft's calibre she will not be out of place. She has handled the boat in many a speed trial and is as capable a skipper as any woman who has ever held a wheel.

Miss Stimson was on board when the Fleur de Lys was struck at Sandy Hook. She showed no evidence of fear or agitation in the critical minutes before the extent of the injury and the danger it entailed were determined.

She has crossed the ocean in the yacht before and on two occasions steered her in ocean races. The last time she held a wheel in a race was when the Fleur de Lys contested with the Atlantic Yacht Club fleet two years ago. She made the trip to Cape May and back and handled the yacht as an expert might. She knows every whim of the boat and says it is as responsive to its skipper's wish as any craft that has ever sailed.

STRIKER SHOT A BOY.

Victim of Chicago Negro Died Going to the Hospital.

CHICAGO, May 16.—Enoch Carlson, eight years of age, was shot and killed to-night by a colored man, a striker formerly employed by the Peabody Coal Company, which has sustained an active part in the teamsters' strike.

Two colored men were walking along Twenty-seventh Street when some boys hooted at them. One of the colored men drew a revolver and fired at the boy. Just as he did so, the Carlson boy came around the corner and the bullet struck him in the left groin. He died while being taken to the hospital. The colored men escaped.

Judge Foster Succeeds Hemenway.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., May 16.—Judge John H. Foster of Evansville, nephew of ex-Secretary of State John W. Foster, was elected to Congress from the First District of Indiana to-day, to succeed James A. Hemenway, who was elected United States Senator.

ARMOUR HEAD ADMITS CAR LINE MONOPOLY

Refuses to Tell Senate Committee About Earnings.

EXCLUSIVE CONTRACTS MADE

Bar Roads from Handling Certain Products in Other Cars—Cost of Icing Is Disputed.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Before the Senate Committee on Inter-State Commerce to-day George R. Robbins, President of the Armour Car Lines Company, admitted that the company had twenty or thirty exclusive contracts with railroads for fruit transportation, and acknowledged a monopoly of that traffic in parts of the West and South.

Whether these exclusive contracts applied, he admitted, producers and shippers of fruit had to accept the rates laid down by the Armours. He asserted that his company was private, and therefore not subject to the Inter-State Commerce laws.

The exclusive contracts generally were secret, but, exhibited on request. The Armours, he said, had no advantages over other shippers in these cars.

"It seems," interjected Senator Elkins, "that you have all the advantages and none of the responsibilities of common carriers."

According to the witness, the Armours have 200 articles known as packing house products, which are transported in Armour cars.

Mr. Robbins admitted that on roads where they had exclusive contracts, like the Père Marquette, the roads could not engage in shipment of the products covered in the contract in other cars.

Senator Foraker obtained the opinion that the cost of icing a car from Michigan to Boston was $50.

"Isn't it a matter of fact," asked the Senator, "that ice costs only about $25 a car?"

Mr. Robbins would not admit that. Senator Dolliver asked regarding the business and earnings of the Armour car lines. Mr. Robbins insisted that the company was private and ought not to be compelled to expose its books.

Mr. Robbins denied that the Armours were interested in any of the fruit companies in California, or had a monopoly of the transportation of the California fruits. They had, he admitted, exclusive contracts with all South Atlantic coast State railways, exclusive contracts in East Tennessee, and on certain roads in Missouri and Arkansas, and on the Southern Pacific Road. The Santa Fé was a competing line in the fruit business in California.

C. W. Robinson, representing the New Orleans Board of Trade and the Central Yellow Pine Lumber Association, charged that there were indirect rebates or discriminations by manipulation of rates on yellow pine lumber in the South. He referred to practices of billing lumber to small towns and then rebilling to destination by which a cheaper rate for a long haul is gained.

F. B. Thurber, President of the New York Export Association, and Murray Carleton of St. Louis, representing the Business Men's League, the Merchants' Transportation Association, and the Inter-State Merchants' Association of that city, opposed existing legislation. William P. Kennett of St. Louis, representing the Merchants' Exchange and the St. Louis Manufacturers' Association, and George F. Mead of Boston advocated the recommendations of the President.

HOW PACKERS GET CONTROL.

Witnesses Tell of the Dealings Through Live Stock Exchanges.

Special to The New York Times

OMAHA, May 16.—The examination of live-stock commission men before the Federal Grand Jury, which was concluded this morning, brought out statements, according to some of those who were witnesses, that the packers force acceptance of their prices for stock by their control of the live-stock exchanges. Examples were given of how some who refused to be tempted to do business at the stock yards and who had to take memberships in the Traders' Exchange before they could either buy or sell.

On another occasion, it was said, the packers refused to buy from Alma Jackson until he paid a fine of $250 for violation of the rules of the Livestock Exchange.

Clay, Robinson & Co., one of the heaviest dealers in the world, it was testified, sold stock to an outsider and were boycotted. If a shipper came to the yards to sell his own stock he could not deliver or sell until he paid the freight, yardage, and feed bills, which seldom are ready until the following day.

At attempt was made to-day to show that cattle buyers for the packing concerns and certain commission firms met each morning and agreed on prices for live stock.

C. B. Van Norman, head of the Van Norman Commission Company, and S. P. Ingerson of Rosenbaum Brothers, a commission concern, were on the stand to-day.

AUTO BORE NO NUMBER.

Driver Was Without License and Policeman Arrested Him.

Bicycle Policeman Ennis was patrolling Upper Seventh Avenue last night when, at One Hundred and Tenth Street, he saw an automobile in which were one man and two women pass at a rapid rate. Ennis, who started in pursuit, found that the number which the law provides should be placed conspicuously on every automobile was missing on this particular machine and ordered the chauffeur to stop.

"Where is your number?" he asked the chauffeur.

"Oh, I dropped that on the Boulevard Lafayette and could not find it again in the dark."

"Well, where is your license?"

"I guess you'd better come along to the station," said the policeman.

At the West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Station Sergt. Liebers entertained a charge of driving an auto without a license against the man, who then turned out to be Charles D. Weed of 245 West Fortieth Street, a demonstrator for an automobile concern. The women in the meanwhile remained in the auto. One of these was said to be the widow of R. G. Dun, who was the head of the Dun Commercial Agency. The other woman after a while went into the station house to protest.

"I am the wife of Dr. Buchanan, and my husband is a friend of Commissioner McAdoo. This arrest is an outrage. It is detaining us from getting home," said she.

Capt. McGlynn was in the station house. The woman who said she was Mrs. Buchanan used the telephone for a while in an effort to get a bondsman. While she was thus occupied John Mustard, a liquor dealer who keeps a saloon opposite the police station, walked up to the Sergeant's desk and announced that he had come for the purpose of giving bail. His bond was accepted without question and Weed was released.

LOSSES BY FIRE.

CHICAGO.—An explosion and fire in the two-story brick annex of the D. R. Armstrong Varnish Company's plant at 24 to 30 Ohio Street destroyed the main structure, a six-story building, and the annex. Loss about $150,000.

ANNUAL SPRING SALE OF

Pianolas and Pianos

PIANOLAS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR METROSTYLE PIANOLAS

IT SHOULD BE borne in mind that every Pianola in this sale may be bought subject to the condition that its full purchase price will be allowed in an exchange for a new Metrostyle Pianola or the Pianola Piano, at any time within three months, should the buyer prefer to own the very latest model. Every Pianola will be sold subject to the same guarantee that the Aeolian Company gives with absolutely new instruments.

PIANOLA GROUP I.—$150. $15 down and $7 a month

The Pianolas in this lot are what are known as "rebuilt instruments." That is, they have all been returned to the factory and every part that showed the slightest evidence of use has been replaced: new actions, new pedals, new fingers, whatever was necessary to bring them up to the Aeolian Company's standard.

PIANOLA GROUP II.—$175 $20 down and $8 a month

The bulk of the Pianolas included in the sale will be found in this classification. They consist of instruments that have seen only moderate use, and were in very good condition when received by us. Some have been on rental for short periods, while others were exchanged for Metrostyle Pianolas under our three months' limit offer. All have had a thorough factory test; actions regulated and put in the very best of condition.

PIANOLA GROUP III.—$200 $20 down and $10 a month

Only fifteen Pianolas constitute this lot. They are the picked instruments of the sale and include some which have never left our warerooms, being used only for demonstration purposes. For persons who are willing to forego the advantages of the Metrostyle, they represent an exceptional opportunity. Our own salesmen could not distinguish them from absolutely new Pianolas. Yet the same down payment as in Group II. will give immediate possession.

MISCELLANEOUS PIANO PLAYERS—$75 to $125 Monthly payments to suit purchaser

For the first time in its business experience the Aeolian Company offers a miscellaneous collection of piano players including practically all makes. Naturally, no guarantee can be given with these instruments beyond that they are in perfect playing order when sold. Yet we agree to take them back at their full purchase price in exchange for Metrostyle Pianolas at any time within three months.

EXCHANGED PIANOS

THIS week the entire Recital Hall is given over to the sale of pianos taken in part payment for the Pianola Piano. Uprights and Grands in exceptionally fine condition are offered, such representative makers as the following being included:

Weber, Knabe, Gabler, Steinway, Wheelock, Everett, Chickering, Hardman, Bradbury, Steck, Sohmer, Stuyvesant, etc., etc.

All to be Sold at Remarkably Low Prices

And on moderate monthly payments, if desired.

RUSSIAN ADMIRAL SAYS TOGO IS THE STRONGER

He Hopes Rojestvensky Will Save Part of His Fleet.

ANOTHER DIVISION TO SAIL

Includes Two New Battleships, and It Is Thought May Turn the Scale After Coming Battle.

LONDON TIMES—NEW YORK TIMES.
Special Cables. Copyright, 1905.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 16.—Neither the Admiralty nor the Foreign Office is able to unravel the conflicting telegrams from Tokio, Saigon, and Hongkong, or to say whether Admiral Rojestvensky has gone north or temporarily left the coast of Annam.

One of the chiefs of the Naval Staff said to-day that the most that could be hoped was that Rojestvensky would reach Vladivostok with only the partial loss of his fleet.

This Admiral frankly confessed that the disproportion between the two forces was still great and would be more noticeable when the heterogeneous Russian armada started on its final trip north.

TOKIO, May 16.—Leading Japanese journals fully credit France's good intentions, but marvel that she allows Admiral Rojestvensky openly to flout her official declarations, thereby losing credit in the eyes of the world for forfeiting her title as a sovereign power.

One influential newspaper says the object of the Anglo-Japanese alliance is not to draw other nations into the arena of war, but to exclude them. To multiply the number of belligerents at the eleventh hour, it says, would correspondingly multiply the number directly concerned in the final settlement. This would be contrary to the best interests of Japan, which has borne the heat and burden of the day.

Moreover, it is suggested, the neutral problem was necessarily foreseen by the naval authorities and included in their plan, the results of which may be awaited calmly.

By The Associated Press.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 16.—Admiral Rojestvensky is keeping his movements and plans secret, not communicating even with the home authorities.

The many wild reports emanating from Tokio are attributed to the agitated state of mind of the Japanese. The story that sailors from the crews of the interned Russian ships at Shanghai are being sent to complete the complement of Rojestvensky's fleet is nonsense, as is the previous story that a large number of mercenaries were shipped at Madagascar.

The Admiralty considers there is no harm now in divulging the fact that Rojestvensky's ships are overmanned instead of undermanned, as when they left Libau there was still hope that Chilean and Argentine warships could be purchased and portions of the crews designed for them were carried on board the Russian fleet.

Another division of reinforcements for Rojestvensky is almost ready at Kronstadt and will be sent out under the command of Rear Admiral Parenago. It will consist of two fine new battleships, the Slava and the Emperor Alexander II., two cruisers, a torpedo cruiser, a gunboat, a transport, and several minor units.

Should the hostile fleets suffer equally in the coming battle, the appearance of this division is counted upon to give Russia the necessary decisive preponderance upon the sea. The possession of this reserve division, naval men believe, may ultimately prove Russia's salvation.

LONDON, Wednesday, May 17.—The Daily Telegraph's Tokio correspondent says that on May 6 Japan sent a third strongly worded protest to France on the neutrality question.

FATAL RIOTING IN WARSAW.

Troops Fire on Mobs — Workmen's Committee Denounces Agitators.

WARSAW, May 16.—There were disturbances in the Jewish quarter this evening. Police were attacked by a mob and forced to take refuge in the Market Hall, from which they shot and killed one and wounded another of the rioters.

A gathering of Russian and Jewish Socialists on Nalewki Street last midnight was dispersed by a volley from an infantry patrol. The police previously had fruitlessly tried to disperse the demonstrators, and finally summoned the military. The latter fired at the crowd, wounding a few persons slightly.

The Workmen's Committee issued a manifesto to-day denouncing agitators, saying they deceived the workmen, who were led to believe a general revolution afoot throughout Russia, and as a result a number were killed without gain. The committee implores the workmen to return to work and secure their aims by peaceful means.

A message by telephone from Lodz reports that slight disorders continue, but that many men are returning to work.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 16.—The Court of Appeal has decided that the sentencing of four persons to death at Warsaw by a military court-martial for attempts on the life of Chief of Police von Nolken and other officials of that city was illegal, as martial law did not exist there at the time.

The prisoners will be tried again before a civil court.

GERMANY DENIES AGGRESSION.

BERLIN, May 16.—The Foreign Office, replying to an inquiry regarding excitement at Tokio over the report that German troops had occupied Hai-Chow, in the southern part of the Shan-Tung Peninsula, says the report is wholly incorrect and one of several reports designed to make it appear that Germany is attempting in Shan-Tung what Russia did in Manchuria.

It is declared that the German Government is doing nothing in Shan-Tung other than fulfilling its treaty agreement with China, which fact has been communicated to both the Washington and Tokio Governments.

The Foreign Office thinks such reports are spread to mislead the opinion of the world concerning Germany's aims and acts.

LONDON, Wednesday, May 17.—The correspondent at Tsing-Tau of The Daily Telegraph, denying the report of the German occupation of Hai-Chow, says the truth is that the firm of Diedrichen & Jebsen is now running regular steamers from Tsing-Tau to Hai-Chow and as these are strange waters German gunboats are taking soundings.

BOMB KILLS RIGA POLICEMAN.

Another Officer, Pursuing the Assassins, Is Shot Dead.

RIGA, May 16.—Two policemen were killed by unknown persons last midnight near Guisenberg Park.

A bomb was thrown at a police patrol, a Police Commissioner being wounded and a policeman killed.

A policeman who was among those who pursued the bomb throwers was shot and killed by the assassins, who were armed with revolvers.

Japan Confiscates Dutch Steamer.

NAGASAKI, May 16.—The Dutch steamer Wilhelmina, captured on Jan. 16 in Tsushima Straits while on her way to Vladivostok with Cardiff coal, has been confiscated by the Prize Court at Sasebo.

STEAMER SUNK BY MINE.

Fourth Disaster of the Kind in a Week —Ship Owners Alarmed.

TOKIO, May 16.—The steamer Kilo, of 1,178 tons, struck a mine and sank off Port Arthur on the night of May 11.

The crew was rescued and brought into Osaka.

The Kilo is the fourth vessel lost by striking floating mines within a week, two Japanese transports and a British steamship having previously been sunk. Mines have recently been seen far south off the Chinese coast, and a vessel which arrived at San Francisco reported that she had sighted one in midpacific.

DURAND'S HOLIDAY BRIEF.

Ambassador Sails for America Saturday—Does Not Expect Peace Yet.

LONDON, May 16.—Sir Henry Mortimer Durand, the British Ambassador to the United States, will sail for New York on the Campania on Saturday. He will be received in audience by King Edward on Thursday.

The Ambassador has been a frequent visitor at the Foreign Office, but he said to-day that his interviews there were solely regarding small details connected with official work. He added:

"As to the peace rumors, so far as I know there is no indication that either Russia or Japan intends to ask for good offices. Personally I do not think it in the least likely that they will do so at the present juncture. Of course, it is known that President Roosevelt, while not having the least desire to assume the rôle of mediator, will not refuse to help in bringing about peace if asked to do so by both belligerents.

"The President's absence on his bear shooting trip seemed a good opportunity for me to come over here on a hurried trip to meet my son, who was coming from India."

New Railway in Formosa Opened.

TOKIO, May 16.—The Grand Formosan trunk railway line, from Kelung to Takan, was opened yesterday.

LOUIS LEVIN ON TRIAL.

Former Merchant Charged with Obtaining Goods by Fraud.

Louis Levin, formerly an embroidery merchant at 119 Bleecker Street, was on trial before Judge Foster, in the Court of General Sessions, yesterday, charged with obtaining large quantities of merchandise by fraudulent means.

Levin failed in 1903, and later, it is said, went into business in Indianapolis. It is contended that he misrepresented his financial standing and that he shipped goods from New York to his Indianapolis house after his failure here.

The specific charge against Levin is that he secured $300 worth of goods from William Meyer & Co. by false pretenses. Transactions amounting to $65,000 are, however, involved in the charges against him.

Levin was arrested in Baltimore, whither he had gone to attend a convention of the Order of B'rith Abraham, a benevolent association, of which he was Treasurer. Levin has forfeited his bail twice since his first arrest. On the occasion of his second arrest the bail was raised to $5,000, and again to $10,000. Since his last arrest he has been in the Tombs.

INCREASE IN INSURANCE.

Assets and Policies of Life Companies in This State.

ALBANY, May 16.—A general increase of the companies' business and resources is shown by the annual report of the Superintendent of Insurance on the life and casualty insurance companies operating in this State.

Although the number of life companies supervised by the department on Dec. 31, 1904, was 42, the same as a year earlier, their assets had increased in that period from $2,226,423,202 to $2,454,669,487, their income from $534,161,859 to $580,743,959, and the number of policies in force from 4,428,627 to 4,949,722, while the total insurance in force at the latter date was $10,028,090,081, an increase of over $800,000,000.

The New York State companies alone issued during the year 687,678 policies, insuring $11,147,448,348, and terminated about half that number and amount. Altogether the life companies issued 124,922 policies more than last year.

The total dividends to policy holders were $33,334,133, as compared with $30,617,388 in 1903, and to stockholders $792,307 in 1904 and $766,057 in 1903.

Thirty-eight fidelity and casualty companies were doing business at the time of the report, an increase of two over the previous year. Their assets were $70,476,877 as compared with $67,354,937 in 1903.

PAPER TRUST INQUIRY BEGUN.

L. M. Alexander, Secretary, Tells About Forming Company.

MILWAUKEE, May 13.—Special Examiner Robert Taylor, appointed by the United States Circuit Court, began taking testimony to-day in the case instituted by the Government against the General Paper Company on the ground that the company is a trust, acting in restraint of trade. The Government also is represented by Special Assistant Attorney Generals James M. Beck of New York and Frank B. Kellogg of St. Paul, assisted by Robert E. Olds.

L. M. Alexander, Secretary and Treasurer of the General Paper Company, the first witness, was asked for the minutes of the meeting on May 26, 1900, when the company was formed. There are twenty-five paper companies involved in the suit with the General Paper Company. He admitted that stock in the General Paper Company was paid for in checks issued by the various paper companies belonging to the concern.

GAS AT SPECIAL SESSION.

Gov. Higgins Likely to Include Subject in His Message.

Assemblyman Jean L. Burnett, Chairman of the Cities Committee, said yesterday that he thought Gov. Higgins would include gas among the subjects to be considered at the special session of the Legislature.

"I am confident the Assembly will pass the cheap gas bill," said Mr. Burnett. "Of course, I cannot speak for the Senate on the subject."

John Calvin McKnight and several other Republican politicians went to Albany last night to confer with Gov. Higgins about the forthcoming session.

GOVERNOR OF UFA SHOT AND IS LIKELY TO DIE

HIS ASSAILANT DISAPPEARS

Gen. Sokolovsky Sentenced to Death by Revolutionaries Owing to His Repressive Measures.

UFA, Southeast Russia, May 16.—Major Gen. Sokolovsky, Governor General of the Province of Ufa, was fired at several times, and, it is feared, mortally wounded this morning in the public garden, where an entertainment was in progress. His assailant disappeared.

Gen. Sokolovsky's life is despaired of, though he retains complete consciousness.

Vice Governor Bogdanovitch has taken over the administration of the province.

ST. PETERSBURG, Wednesday, May 17.—The shooting of Gen. Sokolovsky is the second crime of this nature at Ufa within two years, his predecessor, Gen. Bogdanovitch, having been assassinated in the streets of Ufa on May 19, 1903.

Gen. Sokolovsky, who as Vice Governor of Orenburg and later as Military Governor of the same province acquired a reputation as a stern and vigorous officer, was appointed to restore order in the turbulent Government of Ufa, and adopted a repressive policy which long ago caused him to be marked for the same fate as Bogdanovitch.

Numerous revolutionary societies were broken up by Sokolovsky, and manifestations were not permitted under his administration. The latest acts of the Governor General were the dispersal of an anti-governmental club and the suppression of the May Day demonstrations, with the arrest of many armed demonstrators.

SWEEPING REFORMS FOR JEWS.

Witte's Proposals Said to be of an Ultra-Liberal Character.

LONDON TIMES—NEW YORK TIMES.
Special Cable. Copyright, 1905.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 16.—M. Witte's scheme for Jewish reforms, I understand, covers the questions of military conscription, participation in local government, and removal of residential disabilities. The Committee of Ministers will probably indorse the proposals, which are said to be ultra-liberal.

Nothing less could be expected after the ukase on religious tolerance.

By The Associated Press.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 16.—An imperial rescript issued to-day modifies the restrictive decrees in nine of the western Governments of Russia, giving Poles and Catholics greater freedom for acquiring farming lands and purchasing landed properties and industrial premises, permitting schools to give instruction in the Polish and Lithuanian languages, &c.

HUGE SMELTER FOR MEXICO.

To Cost $10,000,000 and Have a Daily Capacity of 2,000 Tons.

Special to The New York Times.

AUSTIN, Texas, May 16.—Gov. Enrique Creel of the State of Chihauhua, Mexico, says that he has just granted a concession on behalf of the State Government to the American Smelting and Refining Company for the construction of a mammoth smelter at Chihauhua.

The plant will cost $10,000,000, and will have a daily capacity of 2,000 tons of ore.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The Secretary of the Interior has set aside $1,000,000 to be used in connection with the Kiamath irrigation project in California and Oregon. It is estimated that 236,000 acres will be reclaimed.

MEN'S STRAW HATS
Shown Today

The buds are all ready to burst. Another hot day, and thousands of Derbies will go to the attic or the ash-can. Then the city will be abloom with cool Straw Hats.

How about yours?

The Wanamaker showing will be comprehensive, of course. We are not confined to the productions of any one maker. We have fullest pick of all best sorts.

Brims are narrower this season. Popularity will be divided between splits and sennits, with soft Mackinaws and Panamas coming to the fore again. Shapes and proportions to fit every man's head and figure; and prices to fit every man's idea of expenditure. Good hats, all:

Sennit Braid Straw Hats—
2½-inch Crowns—Brims 1¾, 1⅞, 2 and 2⅛ inches wide.
At $1, $1.50, $2, $2.50 and $3.
The London "Boater," $3.

Split Straw Hats—
2⅝-inch Crowns—Brims 1⅞ to 2⅛ inches wide.
China Split, $4. Belgian Split, $5.

Milan Straw Hats—
Another soft, white straw hat, $2 and $3. Panama Hats, $5 to $12.

Mackinaw Straw Hats—

A Visitor's Opinion Of WANAMAKER SHOES

A member of a firm making the highest grade men's shoes sold in this city, was in this store the other day, and he picked up a pair of our "Wanamaker Special" Tan Oxfords selling at $3.90 a pair, and said, "If the public knew how much value there was in that shoe you would do all the business in New York City."

We were glad to have this expert opinion on the fact which has already been established in a great many minds besides our own. Our entire line of Men's $3.90 Shoes is full of $5 quality in every respect, as to style, variety, materials and workmanship; and the shoes are made for us by a concern making shoes of the identical quality, that sell in other good shoe stores all over the country, at $5.

A very large number of the New York public realize the extraordinary value of WANAMAKER Shoes, and that is why we do the splendid business that this has grown to be in a few short years. Each year more men learn the difference, and our shoe business grows; but, of course, we cannot hope to have the general public believe that such a condition of things is possible, except as they come one by one, try the shoes, wear them, and realize the fact.

Men's brown kid Oxfords, with tips; made on a conservative last, with flat square heels. $3.90 a pair.

Men's tan calfskin Low Button Shoes; made on a swagger last, with new toe-shape. Also made from patent calfskin, with matt tops. $3.90 a pair. Fourth avenue.

Brisk and Decided Reductions On Women's Tailored Suits and Skirts

The Tailored Suits and Skirts involved in these sweeping reductions condescend a good deal. They have everything to be proud of—handsome, fine materials, good cut, the very latest styles and the very best tailoring.

There is no reason, but a purely arbitrary decision, for these price-changes to occur:

Tailored Suits in all the latest materials—
$18 Each, worth $22.50 to $35
$27.50 Each, worth $37.50 to $45

Homespun Suits, new and stylish; exceptional values at $12 and $15. Three styles.

Walking Skirts, of Panama Cloth and mohair, at $6 each, worth $8 to $10. Second floor, Broadway.

Every Covert Cloth Jacket
Vehemently Reduced

The trig Covert Cloth Jackets that are our boast. Shapely, well-fitting—every jacket was fitted on a figure before we accepted it. Fine covert cloth, finely tailored, in every up-to-date jacket style.

$8 Each, for $12 to $15 Jackets

Other fashionable sorts, at $13.50, worth $18 and $20; at $25, worth $30 and $40. Second floor, Broadway.

More Attractive SHIRT-WAISTS

If anything, daintier than before.

Very simple in effect—even those elaborately trimmed have an air of simplicity.

Fine and sheer, and made with perfect care. New styles—long and short sleeves, open in front and back—trimmed becomingly.

At $2.75—Of handkerchief linen, Swiss muslin or lawn.
At $3.75—Of mull; two styles.
At $5—Of lawn or mull; two styles.
At $6.50—Of silk mull, white, light blue or pink.
At $7.50—Of allover embroidered lawn.
At $10—Of silk mull or fine sheer lawn. Others up to $12.
Rotunda Balcony, Second floor.

TAILOR-MADE SUITS For Girls

They are in the newest and most fashionable styles, including blouse and coat effects. The materials are much favored for present wear—in black, navy blue and fancy mixtures.

These Suits have an air of distinction that is quite foreign to the general run of suits at this figure, and were good value even before they were reduced in price.

For girls of 14 to 18 years.
$22.50 a suit, were $25 to $31.
Second floor, Ninth street.

Fine UNDERWEAR Medium-priced

TALK OF W. N. CROMWELL AS EQUITABLE MEDIATOR

He Refuses to Discuss Story—No Confirmation Elsewhere.

INQUIRIES SUIT CRIMMINS

Says His Committee Won't Disband—Declines to Answer Platt—Frick Committee Starts Investigation.

Reports that William Nelson Cromwell would soon become a factor in the Equitable situation were current in Wall Street yesterday, but found no confirmation by any one connected with the society's affairs. Mr. Cromwell himself had nothing to say about the matter. The talk connecting him with the controversy was that interests in the Board of Directors who were anxious to bring peace in some form had asked Mr. Cromwell to be a general negotiator between factions.

The Frick committee began yesterday to take oral testimony from the officers of the society, but the Hendricks inquiry was not resumed at the same time, as Congressman M. E. Driscoll of Syracuse, Mr. Hendricks's personal counsel, was detained up State. He expects to come down here to-day. Robert Hunter, the Deputy Commissioner, who is in charge of the examination of the books of the society here, was asked yesterday whether he had found anything yet to warrant calling the attention of the District Attorney to Equitable affairs. He said:

"I don't see how the District Attorney can come into this case. No one has yet charged any one else with the commission of a crime. Each faction has accused the other of certain violations of the insurance law, but if all the accusations were true the Superintendent of Insurance could only ask the Attorney General to remove the offenders and disqualify them from ever holding office again in an insurance company in this State. That would not necessarily imply anything criminal, however, nor would it justify him taking the cases of any one before the Grand Jury."

John D. Crimmins, who was Chairman of the policy holders' committee that opposed the plan of mutualization first adopted by the Directors of the Equitable, yesterday denied that the committee would go out of business. He said:

"The committee cannot disband. It has not held a meeting for some days because it has not had anything to do. Even if some member should call a meeting this week, the committee would have to continue in existence.

"The Policy Holders' Committee has accomplished everything that it set out to do, that could be accomplished up to now. It agitated for mutualization, and a plan of mutualization has been adopted by the Board of Directors of the Equitable. But everything has now been put in a state of abeyance by the various court proceedings.

"As soon as the various court proceedings are disposed of, then our committee will get together and name the two Directors to fill the vacancies on the board, which by an agreement we were to be permitted to do. There is absolutely nothing for us to do now but wait.

"The Frick committee is going ahead with its work, and we want to see what it will report. The Frick committee, I really think, is going about its investigation honestly. I am receiving letters every day that show me that there is a general feeling throughout the country that the Frick investigation is being thoroughly and honestly made. Superintendent Hendricks is also making a thorough investigation. The results in the way of reports of these two independent investigations should show the exact condition of the Equitable. If the two reports should be inconsistent, then, and not till then, should anybody doubt the sincerity of the work.

"I will not discuss the differences of opinion between the members of our committee, or the members and the counsel to the committee. It would be only adding fuel to the flames."

CHAPLAIN ON ROLL AS CLERK.

Health Department Officials Evade Civil Service Classification.

Officials of the Health Department have devised an interesting method of evading the civil service laws. A clergyman who wanted to be a Chaplain in the hospital service has managed to get on the city's pay roll as a result.

In The City Record yesterday appeared, for the first time, the minutes of the Health Board meeting of the third week in March. Sandwiched in the minutes appeared the following paragraph:

"A communication stating that the name of the Rev. Frank R. Jones, who was appointed a Chaplain in this department and assigned to duty at the Riverside Hospital by the Board of Health at its meeting held March 22, 1905, had been rejected from the pay rolls of the department for the month of March, for the reason that the Civil Service classification provides for but one Chaplain in the exempt class for the Department of Health, which position is now filled by the Rev. John Boyle, was received from the Municipal Civil Service Commission, and, on motion, it was

"Resolved, That the Rev. Frank R. Jones be and is hereby appointed a hospital clerk in this department, and assigned to duty at the Riverside Hospital, in the Borough of the Bronx, with salary at the rate of $600 per annum, to date from and after April 1, 1905."

FURNITURE FACTORY FIRE.

Explosion Said to Have Started Big Blaze at Canal and Mulberry Streets.

Fire nearly destroyed the six-story furniture factory of P. Derby & Co., at the southeast corner of Canal and Mulberry streets, yesterday afternoon. The damage was about $15,000.

The fire originated in the basement, and is believed to have been started by an explosion. All of the employes of the place were able to leave the factory by the fire escapes and the stairways before the fire gained headway. On account of the proximity of other factories and tenements, acting Chief Binns caused four alarms to be turned in.

A squad of mounted police was called out to keep back the crowds of Italians who swarmed in to get possession of the furniture pitched out of the windows by the firemen. While District Attorney Jerome was watching the fire a hose burst and almost drenched him.

CROKER'S BODY DUE TO-DAY.

Father Ducey Probably Will Conduct the Funeral Services.

The body of Herbert Croker, who met death suddenly on a train near Newton, Kan., will reach New York this morning at 7 o'clock. Richard Croker, Jr., is with the casket, which will be taken to the undertaking establishment of Rooney & Brennan. Later it will be removed to the family home, 5 East Seventy-fourth Street.

Mrs. Croker, in an extremely nervous condition, was still in bed yesterday.

It is thought that Father Ducey will conduct the funeral services.

SQUEEZE IN MAY CORN.

Scramble of Shorts Lifts Price 3 Cents —Supply Limited.

CHICAGO, May 16.—Interest of traders in the corn pit to-day centred in the May option, which manifested every symptom of an attempt to "corner" that commodity. In an endeavor to cover sales, shorts forced up the price of May delivery more than 3 cents from yesterday's closing quotation. Very little May corn was offered.

A decrease of 3,269,000 bushels in the world's visible supply, compared with a decrease last year of 1,442,000 bushels, was one of the main bullish influences. Late in the day a decline of fully 1 cent occurred in the price of May as a result of considerable profit-taking.

Special to The New York Times.

DALLAS, Texas, May 16.—There was fair weather over practically all Texas today. In the grain and cotton belts there was warm sunshine. Crops in the bottom lands have suffered seriously, and much replanting will have to be done.

Corn acreage will be 25 per cent. short. On the uplands it is in good condition, barring weeds which must be cut out. Oats have suffered more than any other crop. The yield will not exceed one-half an average crop. Wheat is problematical. Most authorities say the rust has done little harm, as the violent rains washed it off, and immediate sunshine will save the crop. Others report serious damage.

CRONIN DIES UNDER ETHER.

Was Commissioner of Public Buildings for Queens Borough.

Philip Thomas Cronin, Commissioner of Public Buildings for the Borough of Queens, Secretary of the Queens County Democratic Committee, and leader of the Fifth Assembly District, died at 9 o'clock yesterday morning under ether at St. Mary's Hospital, Jamaica, as the doctors were preparing to operate upon him. He had been in the institution since Monday, having been taken ill with appendicitis after returning from the Belmont track on Saturday.

Mr. Cronin was born in Brooklyn in 1857, but had lived in Far Rockaway since his infancy. He served several years as Coroner of Hempstead and was in the Assembly for two terms, and was appointed to his Commissionership at the time of the consolidation. Mr. Cronin was a member of the Knights of Columbus, the Royal Arcanum, the Elks, and the Eagles.

Funeral services will be held at the Church of St. Mary's Star of the Sea at 10 o'clock Friday morning, and the interment will be at Lawrence. Flags on public buildings in Queens Borough will be half-masted until after the funeral.

EPISCOPAL HERESY CASE.

Diocesan Council to Elect Court to Try Dr. A. S. Crapsey.

CORNING, N. Y., May 16.—The annual council of the Episcopal Diocese of Western New York was convened here this afternoon with Bishop Walker of Buffalo presiding.

The most important action of the council will be the election of an ecclesiastical court which will hear the charges of heresy to be preferred against the Rev. Dr. Algernon S. Crapsey, pastor of St. Andrew's Church at Rochester. The charges grow out of several sermons which Dr. Crapsey preached in which he denied the miraculous conception of Christ. He has refused to withdraw his statements, and says he will not leave the church unless he is compelled to do so.

Dr. Crapsey is not attending the council.

PATIENT LEAPED TO DEATH.

While Nurses Were Absent Schwartz Jumped from a Window.

Albert F. Schwartz, a workman of 60 Eighth Avenue, sprang from a second-story window of the New York Hospital to the court yard at 11 o'clock last night and killed himself. The police say his body was not found for half an hour after he had leaped from the window.

The police say the man was suffering from pneumonia, and that in a fit of delirium in the absence of the nurses and orderlies, he jumped out of bed, ran to the window, which he opened, and leaped to the ground.

PATIENT DEAD AT DOOR.

Doctor Found Him There on Answering Night Bell Ring.

Special to The New York Times.

YORK, Penn., May 16.—Dr. Alford Myers, a physician of this city, heard his office bell ring to-night, and was a little slow about answering it. When he opened the door, instead of a patient he found a body at the door.

Frederick Hueter had called to see the doctor concerning himself, and before the bell could be answered succumbed to heart disease.

$16,635,964 IN EXCISE FEES.

Increase of 279 Certificates Over Last Year to May 10.

ALBANY, May 16.—Up to and including May 10, 1905, the State Department of Excise issued 25,562 liquor tax certificates for the year commencing May 1, 1905, and collected therefor $16,635,064.40.

This is an increase of 279 certificates and $213,335.50 over the same period last year, and a gain in two years of $303,-536.82. The department estimates that the receipts for the year will be at least $225,000 in excess of those of last year, indicating a total revenue of $18,100,000.

To Blow Up Sunken Joy Liner.

NEWPORT, May 16.—The War Department has sent four divers from the United States Engineers' Office here to Pollock Rip, Vineyard Sound, where the Joy Line steamer Aransas was sunk on May 7, to destroy the wreck by dynamite. They have five tons of dynamite, which will be deposited in all parts of the hull and discharged by electricity. Afterward at Point Judith they will destroy in a similar manner the sunken barge Moonbeam.

O'Keefe Arrested for Begging Nickels in Streets.

"I was a London barrister, your Honor, and drink has brought me down to begging nickels in the streets."

So asserted John O'Keefe, a middle-aged man, who said he had no home, when arraigned before Magistrate Cornell yesterday in Jefferson Market Court by Patrolman George Misig of the Charities Organization Society police squad.

"I had a good practice in Temple Bar," said the prisoner, "but got to drinking. Two years ago I had influential friends."

100 Original Water Colors.

By St. Clair Mulholland.

At $12.00 Each, Instead of $20.00.

No painter in water colors of the present day enjoys a better reputation for skill and versatility than Mr. St. Clair Mulholland. In addition to being versatile Mr. Mulholland is extraordinarily prolific, and specimens of his delightful craft are to be seen in some of the leading galleries of the country.

In Gallery "C" on the Third Floor there is an exhibition of 100 of Mr. Mulholland's original sketches, and these are, of course, on sale. These sketches are 16x22 inches and have always been priced at $20.00. We make the price $12.00 so as to bring them within purchasing reach of a greater number of art lovers.

A catalog of the subjects will be given for the asking.

The collection embraces landscapes, marines and sketches of various places visited by Mr. Mulholland in his tours around the world. Mr. Mulholland is particularly felicitous in his reproductions of character and scenes, and any of his sketches is a distinct addition to the home. 12.00

LEGISLATIVE GAS BILL APPROVED BY M'CLELLAN

Measure Now Needs Only the Governor's Signature.

FAIR AND JUST, MAYOR SAYS

Existence of Monopoly Gives City Right to Fix Rates, He Declares.

Accepting the findings of the Stevens legislative gas investigation committee as just and proper, Mayor McClellan has sent back to Albany the committee's bill, which fixes the price of gas furnished to the city at 75 cents per thousand feet, and regulating the pressure of supply. The Mayor has approved the bill, together with its companion measures, fixing the price of electricity, and they now need only the approval of Gov. Higgins to become laws.

In his message accepting the bill on behalf of the city, the Mayor said:

"It has been urged that this bill confiscates vested rights of gas companies. If I believed this to be true I would not hesitate to reject it, because no matter how great the temptation, the City of New York could not afford to countenance such an injustice or to weaken the cause of civilization by failing to sustain the inviolability of private property.

"I make this observation at the ouset because the agitation of the general subject of gas supply has produced some confusion as to the principles which should guide us in the treatment of this question. The gas companies affected by this bill have a distinctive character. They are public service corporations, and in addition to the rights which they so vigorously assert they have duties which are inseparable from their rights.

"One of the duties of these public service corporations is to furnish to the public illuminating gas of good quality and at a just price. Franchises sought by the companies for their private advantage are granted conditional on the observance of this duty to the public. If competition entered into this business it might be easier to determine what is a fair price for gas. The companies with which we are now dealing are consolidated, or under one control, so that competition has been eliminated and monopoly exists. Therefore legislative action fixing a rate is a necessary protection against overcharge. The justness of the rate established in this bill, therefore, the main consideration, and the report of the legislative committee furnishes valuable testimony on which to base a conclusion. The committee gave a long and quite exhaustive hearing at which the gas companies were represented by counsel, and at which most of the witnesses examined were the companies' own officials and employes. I think every one was impressed with the fairness of the proceedings. The findings, therefore, should command respect.

"The committee found that a fair and reasonable price for gas was at the rate of 75 cents per thousand cubic feet, as set forth in this bill. On this evidence it is my plain duty to assert the right of the city as against the contention of the gas companies.

"The arguments advanced against the bill because of the provision prescribing the pressure of gas in the service mains bear on a technical matter, which admits of different opinions. Any rights which may be involved by reason of this provision may safely be left to the adjudication of the courts.

"There are other reasons which might be offered to sustain my position, but further discussion seems unnecessary."

MOSAIC MARRIAGES ILLEGAL?

Magistrate Barlow Passes on a Weighty Point of Scriptural Law.

That the law of Moses as to the marriage ceremony is illegal was decided yesterday in the Essex Market Court when Mrs. Peppi Schlosser of 357 Madison Street had her husband, Samuel Schlosser, of 106 Ridge Street, arraigned before Magistrate Barlow on a charge of abandonment. A point regarding this question was raised Sunday by Lawyer Hyman Rosenschein in a similar case of alleged abandonment, but Magistrate Barlow caused the defendant to be held.

Leon Koripsky, representing the Austrian Consul, appeared in the Schlosser case yesterday, and by several books explained the Hebrew law regarding marriages in Austria and some other countries. The marriage of a couple by a rabbi, he said, did not hold unless a civil ceremony was afterwerd performed. The law of Moses, he declared, had been outlawed centuries ago.

Mrs. Schlosser said that she was married six years ago in Limberg, Austria, by her uncle, who was a rabbi. Her husband, she said, deserted her in England, and when she found him in New York she caused his arrest. Magistrate Barlow, after hearing the law of Moses argued, dismissed the case.

MILLIONS IN MINING SUIT.

J. H. Thompson of New York Claims Interest in Walsh Properties.

Judge Platt, in the United States Circuit Court, yesterday listened to arguments in a suit involving Colorado mines said to be worth several millions dollars. The contestants are John H. Thompson of 345 East Eighty-fifth Street, a mining broker, as plaintiff, and Thomas F. Walsh, a Colorado miner, as the defendant. The mines involved are the Oro Cache and the Chicago, in the San Juan district of Colorado.

Thompson contends that for many years he and Walsh were jointly interested in mining ventures in Colorado, and that while on a prospecting trip they examined the Oro Cache and the Chicago, but after having experts sample and assay the ore from these mines it was decided not to buy them.

Later, Thompson says, Walsh bought both properties as a result of the report of the experts, which he declares Walsh did not disclose to him. The mines are now very valuable, and Thompson sues for a half interest in them.

GAVE SOLDIER A PILLOW.

Colorado Judge Searches for Long Island Girl Who Befriended Him.

Judge Henry C. Lydick of Basalt, Col., is in search of a young woman, who placed a pillow under his head about seven years ago while he was being taken from Montauk Point to a hospital in Long Island City. He was then a private in Company A, Seventh Volunteer Infintry, and was returning on sick leave from the Spanish-American war. In a letter to Postmaster Fletcher of Babylon, L. I., Judge Lydick says that when the train stopped at that place a young woman entered the car, and, noticing how he was suffering, placed a pillow under his head. On the pillow was the young woman's card giving her name and address.

Arriving at Long Island City, he was hurried to a hospital, and the pillow was lost. Judge Lydick has considerable wealth, and is anxious to obtain the name and address of the young woman.

COUNTRY ROAD MENACES MURPHY'S FRONT YARD

That's the Alternative to One Through the Back Yard.

GOOD GROUNDERS SCHEMING

Thought Everything Was All Right for Convenient Thoroughfare Until Tammany Leader Bought Place.

Special to The New York Times.

GOOD GROUND, L. I., May 16.—Will Charles F. Murphy, the Tammany leader, permit a road to remain in his back yard or will it be necessary to put it in his front yard? That is the question that is agitating the residents on the west shore of Tiana Bay just at present, and it looks as if Mr. Murphy would have the worst of it if he concluded to have a real dispute with his neighbors.

Before Mr. Murphy bought the country seat of John Leighton, which reaches from the shore of the bay back to the railroad track, about two miles, the neighbors on both sides had been dissatisfied because they had to make a long détour to communicate with one another. Mr. Leighton did not want to have a road through his clearing, but a concession for one was got from him as the price for a right of way over the land of his neighbors, who shut him off from Good Ground.

The Highway Commissioners looked over the route of this road and accepted it, and papers were drawn up and turned over to them for filing. When Mr. Murphy bought the Leighton place, however, he did not know of this transaction. His first information about it came while he was rusticating at his estate pending the defeat of the cheap gas bill at Albany. Then a gang of the Riverhead and Roanoke Telephone Company's men appeared and started to put poles along the line of this road in order to keep contracts with the Tunnells, Squireses, and others on the shore.

Mr. Murphy forbade the work, and was told he could not do so, as it was to go along a public highway. He demanded evidence, and then the neighbors learned that the deeds from Mr. Leighton had never been recorded in the Town Clerk's office. Search was made for them, but nobody has been able to get a trace of them. Every paper in the Town Clerk's office has been gone over in a vain hunt, and the affair is one of the mysteries of the town.

New negotiations are proceeding to get a concession from Mr. Murphy. He objects, however, to traffic through the middle of the grounds on which he has ordered the expenditure of goodly sums of money. His neighbors, however, believe they have a trump card to play that will bring him to terms. They have found that the Leighton tract extends only to the high-water mark of Tiana Bay. Between that mark and the ordinary water mark is a stretch of beach wide enough to make a good road. Should the Tammany leader keep on opposing the road he is likely to find the traffic of his neighbors passing along in front of his broad lawn and sadly interfering with his enjoyment of the view of the bay.

TENNESSEE COAL REPORT.

Earnings and Profits Fall Off, but Better Times Are in Sight.

The Directors of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company met here yesterday. Don H. Bacon was re-elected President and Chairman of the board. Frank S. Witherbee was elected First Vice President and L. T. Beecher, formerly Secretary and Treasurer, was elected a Director and Second Vice President.

The annual report shows gross earnings of $9,535,404, as against $13,468,535 in 1904; total profits of $1,562,797, as against $2,904,977, and net profits of $801,264, as against $2,165,448. After payment of dividends and sinking fund charges there remained a surplus of $388,177, a decrease of nearly $1,400,000.

The report says, however, that this year promises to be of extraordinary activity in the iron and steel trade and that with good prices, full recovery from the effects of the coal strike, and increased production because of extensive improvements the prospect is very encouraging.

WARNER FILLS VACANCIES.

Thirteen Places in Pension Bureau Filled by Transfer.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Commissioner of Pensions Warner to-day took final action in connection with the Board of Review of that office, from which ten members were asked to resign for alleged incompetency, by filling the vacancies thus created, as well as three other vacancies on the board caused by death or resignation.

The new members of the board are Charles R. Cleaves, Maine; Allen D. Albert, J. F. Engle, A. D. Wilkinson, N. A. Straight, and Charles Hanback, Pennsylvania; Morris E. Sabin, Wisconsin; Charles Reed, Maryland; Israel Stockton, Illinois; Dr. W. L. Chamberlain, Indiana; Walter B. Pettus, Kentucky; T. F. Dennis, Kansas, and William Mehn, Louisiana. The vacancies were all filled by transfers from other divisions of the office.

WILL JOIN MONK EASTMAN.

Brown, Successor to Cherry Hill Gang Leader, Convicted.

Joseph Brown, generally credited with having succeeded "Monk" Eastman as leader of the Cherry Hill gang since Eastman went to Sing Sing, was convicted before Recorder Goff in the Court of General Sessions yesterday for an attempted holdup. The Recorder may impose a sentence of from ten to twenty years, as this is Brown's second offense. It took the jury only fifteen minutes to find the prisoner guilty.

Brown tried to rob the bartender of a Third Avenue saloon at the point of a revolver, and when Patrolman Butler and Detective Riordon happened along Brown opened fire on the officers.

M'VICKAR DRAWS LINE ON GIFTS AND GIVERS

Do Not Honor Questionable Men or Methods, Bishop Says.

MINISTERS ATTACK PROTEST

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 16.—In an address before the annual convention of the Rhode Island Diocese of the Episcopal Church here to-day, Bishop McVickar criticised the materialistic tendency of modern times.

He longed for the time, he said, when institutions which are supposed to hold up high ideals for mankind, especially the growing youth, and above all, the churches, shall decline, not offensively, but quietly and firmly, to accept money which carries with it the honoring of men or methods which are below standard.

He stated that he was judging no individual in what he said, and that he recognized the difficulty of drawing a line, but that, surely, a line must be drawn somewhere. Money itself has no moral character, but its owner or distributor must be accountable on the unconfused line of character itself.

NEW HAVEN, May 16.—In a letter published to-day acknowledging receipt from the committee of protesting ministers of documents bearing upon the recent acceptance of the Rockefeller gift to the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, the pastors of Congregational churches in New Haven, with the exception of the Rev. Artemus J. Haynes of the United Church, jointly express their views. The letter says in part:

"We notice with regret the following words: 'The courts can be bought, the Legislatures can be bought, the churches can be bought, but the American people cannot be bought.' Such unqualified words under other circumstances might be passed by without serious notice, but when addressed by a number of Congregational ministers to their brethren, they cannot be left unchallenged. This statement, so sweeping in its condemnation of Legislatures, so calumnious of judiciary, so unjust to our churches, we would repudiate as untrue in fact and socially destructive in its effect.

"We desire, also, expressly to disavow the assumption that by the acceptance of such donations, or by the use of any man's gift of that which is lawfully his own, the Trustees of a charity enter into 'an alliance' with him in his business or become 'yoke-fellows' with him in wrong practices."

BOSTON, May 16.—A reply to the New Haven letter from such members as were available was given out by Secretary Gleason:

"With one brief phrase only this letter from New Haven deals—that which calls attention to the fact that the defenders of the reception of the Rockefeller gift have themselves inclined, as the original protest sugested would be inevitable, to excuse and screen and belittle the wrongs now under condemnation by the people.

"The writers of the New Haven letter seem somewhat nettled, as though a reflection was cast on their general courage and readiness to attack public evils. This is to be regretted, as no such offense was intended. If these brethren have either fairly met or brought forward evidence to refute the charges made, or acknowledged their validity, or expressed themselves on the legality of the charges but on the moral and social iniquity involved, the citation of such facts in their letter would have been their best method of reply."

LOWER BROADWAY TOO NOISY.

Petitioners Ask for Block Pavement South of Fulton Street.

Borough President Ahearn has received two voluminous petitions signed by nearly all the owners of buildings and tenants of offices on Broadway, below Fulton Street, requesting that when the downtown end of the Subway is finished a "noiseless" pavement be laid on Broadway, from Fulton Street to the Battery.

Between four and five thousand names are on the petitions and all of the signers object "to the deafening noises" which come from the present Broadway pavement, especially during the Summer months, when the windows are open. Wooden block pavement is recommended, like the pavements now laid in Cortlandt and Warren Streets.

MONEY FOR PLAYGROUNDS.

The $300,000 Appropriation Referred to Committee of Aldermen.

At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen yesterday the resolution of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, appropriating $300,000 for athletic playgrounds for the high schools, was received and referred to the Finance Committee for a hearing, which Alderman McCall, the Chairman, said would be called soon. Alderman McCall objects to the plan, because he thinks the playgrounds should be for children of the intermediate grades instead of for the pupils of high schools only.

The board adopted a resolution appropriating $75,000 for the extension of the One Hundred and Seventy-seventh Street Bridge over the Bronx River, and also adopted a resolution appropriating $10,000 for a celebration at the installation of the municipal ferry service to Staten Island. Chairman Sullivan appointed Aldermen Doull, Gillies, Collins, Shea, Richter, Harnischfeger, Kenny, Wents, Redmond, and Dowling as a committee to handle the celebration.

The board adopted a resolution giving the name of McLaughlin Park to the new Brooklyn Park at Jay, Bridge, and Tillary Streets.

OPPOSE MR. GROSS'S PLEA.

Board of Education Not Likely to Grant Application.

Interviews with Commissioners and educational officials indicate that the Board of Education will not favor the application of Magnus Gross, Acting Principal of Public School No. 6, to be placed on the Principals' eligible list.

The general belief in educational circles is that no teacher can be eligible for a Principalship without first passing an examination prescribed by the City Superintendent.

Commissioner Abraham Stern said that to eliminate examinations for Principalships would be to inaugrate a system of appointment based on "pull" rather than merit.

Commissioner Alrickman is the only board member who has expressed himself in favor of doing away with Principals' examinations.

STRIKE NEAR ITS END; GOMPERS MAY FINISH IT

Mayor Dunne Threatens to Summon Troops If It Extends.

WARRANTS OUT FOR PUPILS

Police Arrest Eleven Men at Labor Headquarters—Man Afraid of Being Hurt Kills Himself.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 16.—The great strike of teamsters in Chicago, which has lasted for over a month, cost at least eight lives and millions in loss of trade, and upset labor and capital, appears to be about to collapse. There have been strong signs of this in the last two days, and now President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor has arrived here, and from a close labor friend of his it is learned to-night that within twenty-four hours he will call the strike off.

He arrived in Chicago at 5:30 o'clock and immediately went into conference with President Shea and other labor leaders. No one who was present would talk for publication, but there is good reason to believe the assertion that Gompers is here to stop the strike and tell Shea to send the men back to work—if they can get it.

Backed into a corner and rendered completely desperate, President Shea has been trying for two days to discover a leader willing to take the responsibility of calling off a hopeless strike. He has wired all over the country asking labor leaders to act as a buffer for him. President Gompers, who has kept a close watch on everything which has taken place in Chicago for the past thirty days, is willing to assume the responsibility for calling off the strike. Moreover, Mayor Dunne, in conference with Shea and officers of the local teamsters' union, took a firm stand this afternoon and told them that any further extension of the strike would make it necessary for him to call for troops.

The employers' time limit for the old drivers to return has expired, but undoubtedly some of them will be glad to take experienced men back, for few of the strike breakers were efficient drivers. Many members of the Employers' Association, however, will refuse to do even this, and all without exception will insist on the "open shop."

The Employers' Association and the express companies increased their scope of delivery still further to-day. Something over 2,000 wagons were in use, and business for the most part was transacted without hindrance of any kind.

At a meeting of the Board of Education held this evening warrants were sworn out for eight boys who had been leaders in the recent strikes at the schools, in sympathy with the strike of the teamsters. The threat of arrest of parents whose children did not attend school had the effect of settling three of the strikes to-day, and a normal attendance of pupils is expected to-morrow.

Bricklayers' Hall, chief labor headquarters in Chicago and meeting place for the Federation of Labor, was invaded to-day by the police, who arrested eleven union men who had taken refuge in the building afetr a non-union driver had been "slugged."

Fear that he would meet the same fate as C. J. Carlstrom, the woodworker who was killed, it is alleged, by "sluggers," led John Mitterman to kill himself. Mitterman cut his throat with a razor while standing in the street opposite his dwelling. He died two hours later at a hospital, raving against the unions. Mitterman was in the employ of Fred L. Meckel, in whose shops Carlstrom worked. It is said that he was on the list of those marked to be slugged.

TALK OF CAPITAL AND LABOR.

National Association of Many Factors Holds Meeting in Atlanta.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 16.—More than 300 of the 3,000 members of the National Manufacturers' Association assembled to-day at the opening of the tenth annual meeting of the association.

The annual address of President D. M. Parry of Indianapolis was taken up largely with the consideration of the labor question, inter-State commerce legislation, reciprocity, and what he declared to be a strong tendency toward Socialism. In the first portion of his remarks he made an appeal for the maintenance of individual and property rights, as laid down by the Constitution of the country.

"That form of Socialistic endeavor which seeks Government control of capital by purchase," he said, "is at present limited to the acquirement of public utilities. Attempts in the line of municipal ownership have for the most part resulted unfavorably to the claims made by its advocates. Government cannot manage capitalistic enterprises as economically or as efficiently as private owners. A large increase in the number of its employes is certain to threaten the domination of our democratic government by an office-holding class, and the corruption of politics under private ownership of corporations would be as nothing compared to the corruption that would most likely exist under Government ownership."

Mr. Parry said that industrial peace was utterly impossible so long as it was attempted to make the rights of employer and employe the subject of dickering and trials of strength.

Ludwig Nissen of New York dwelt upon the un-Americanism of Government ownership of public utilities. He said in part:

"The represented trend of public opinion in the effort to check the evils of control by monopoly is toward the other extreme, municipal or State ownership. The realisation of that principle would mean State Socialism. Nothing could be more foreign to the spirit in which the establishment of our Government was conceived."

D. M. Tompkins of Charlotte, N. C., advocated the issuance of warehouse certificates, which shall indicate not only the actual storage of the cotton, but also show the quality and grade of the staple so stored.

MILLIKEN BUYS UP MILLS.

Commission Firm Seeks to Oust Head of Laurens Concern.

Special to The New York Times.

CHARLESTON, S. C., May 16.—It was reported here to-day that Deering, Milliken & Co., a textile commission house of New York, had acquired at a high figure the controlling interest in the Laurens, S. C., Cotton Mills. The purpose of the purchase, it was said, was to depose A. C. Lucas as President of the company, because he had withdrawn the business for the mills from the firm of Deering, Milliken & Co., which charged 4 per cent. commission, and transferred it to another New York commission house, which agreed to handle it for 2 per cent.

Seth M. Milliken, head of the firm of Deering, Milliken & Co., when his attention was called to the foregoing dispatch last night, said that his firm had acquired large blocks of the Laurens Cotton Mills stock, but that he was not able to state whether it was a controlling interest.

"Will Mr. Lucas be deposed?" was asked.

"I do not know yet that we have succeeded in obtaining control. If we have, he certainly will," was his reply.

We were informed that another firm had offered to [illegible] business for 2 per cent. commission, [illegible] as silk and [illegible]

WORK BY DUERER FOUND.

Picture of Christ Discovered—Thoma Says It Is Genuine.

HEIDELBERG, May 16.—A life-size bust picture by Albrecht Dürer of the Saviour crowned with thorns has been found in the house of an obscure resident of Offenburg. The canvas bears Dürer's monogram and the date 1524.

Supposing the picture discovered at Offenburg to be a genuine Dürer—and few opinions on this subject would carry more weight than that of Hans Thoma—it belongs to the third and greatest period of the artist's work.

Before Dürer's visit to Venice in 1505 his pictures were of the same character as those of the early masters of the German school, angular and stiff, with an immense amount of detail. Later, his paintings lost their angularity and stiffness, but retained their wealth of detail. Toward the close of the painter's life, however, after his tour in the Netherlands in 1520, he produced work which is comparable to the masterpieces of the Italian schools in breadth of treatment, richness of color, and suavity of line.

The best known extant pictures of the third Dürer period are the "Four Apostles," sometimes called the "Four Temperaments," bequeathed by the artist to Nuremberg, his native city, and now in the Munich Gallery. Some splendid portraits, including the much reproduced "Hieronymus Holtzschuer," also belong to this period. Dürer died in 1528.

MINNESOTA BANK CLOSED.

Affairs of Northern Pacific at Brainerd to be Investigated.

BRAINERD, Minn., May 16.—Public Examiner P. M. Kerst has closed the Northern Pacific Bank, a State institution, for the purpose, as stated in a notice posted on the door, "of making a thorough examination of its affairs." The immediate cause for closing the institution, Mr. Kerst stated, was a lack of sufficient cash on hand.

The bank is capitalized at $25,000 and has a surplus of $13,000. Its deposits amounted to $160,000 and its total liabilities to $200,000.

OPERATION ON GOMEZ.

Cuban General's Condition Reported to be Favorable.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, May 16.—The family of Gen. Maximo Gomez, who is critically ill, arrived here with the Havana doctors last night.

After a consultation this morning it was agreed that an operation was necessary to arrest the threatened gangrene. The General endured the severe operation bravely.

He is suffering to-night, but the doctors' bulletin reports that his condition is favorable.

BANK BILLS SIGNED FIRST OF 30-DAY BATCH

Gov. Higgins Disposes of Seventeen of 600 Measures.

WILL HAVE EXTRA SESSION

Date Not Fixed, but It Will Be Brief, He Predicts—Hearing for Aldermen.

ALBANY, May 16.—Gov. Higgins tonight signed the Stevens-J. T. Smith bill establishing a standard of securities in which savings banks may invest. This is the bill which came near defeat as a result of the effort of Senator Gardner and others to incorporate a validation of the mortgage bonds of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad.

The new standard admits the bonds of any incorporated city in a State which was admitted to the Union prior to Jan. 1, 1896, and which since 1861 has never defaulted in payment of its obligations. Such city must be of not less than 45,000 population by the Federal census preceding the investment, and must have been incorporated at least twenty-five years.

The effect of the standard is to add to the present list bonds of the following cities: Manchester, N. H.; Lawrence, Lynn, New Bedford, and Somerville, Mass.; Bridgeport and Waterbury, Conn.; Hoboken, N. J.; Erie, Harrisburg, and Wilkesbarre, Penn.; Wilmington, Del.; Dayton, Ohio; Indianapolis and Fort Wayne, Ind.; Kansas City, Mo.; Omaha, Neb., and Oakland and San Francisco, Cal.

The only new railroad that will be added to the list at once, it is said, is the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha.

Other banking bills signed to-day follow:

Senator Davis's, requiring officers of banks and trust companies who receive official communications from the State Banking Department to submit them to Directors or Trustees at the next meeting.

Senator Stevens's, providing for State examination of banks and trust companies at least twice a year.

Senator Stevens's, requiring Directors of banks and trust companies to examine the affairs of the institution through a committee of at least three members in April and October of each year, and file within ten days after the examination is completed copies of the report with the Banking Department.

Assemblyman Schoeneck's, extending to trust companies the privileges of discount banks in relation to Trusteeships for minors whose annual income is under $100 a year.

Gov. Higgins set at rest to-night the rumor that he might decide not to call an extra session of the Legislature. He said:

"While a variety of matters may come before an extra session, I think the coming session will be devoted largely, if not entirely, to the Hooker case. I do not wish to be understood, however, as declaring that I shall not ask the Legislature to act upon any other topic. I do not see why such a session should be long. A week, in my opinion, should be sufficient to dispose of the Hooker matter."

The Governor reiterated that he had not made up his mind when to call the session. "But there are certain times of the year," he added, "when, on account of vacations, it would be difficult to get the members together. I refer particularly to July and August. For this reason the session would come in June or not until Fall. Many persons think that there is no haste, and that an extra session might as well be postponed until later in the year."

No appointments have been made for hearings on bills, but this evening Gov. Higgins said he would grant the request of certain members of the New York Board of Aldermen who wished to present arguments against the Elsberg-Stanley bills, transferring to the Board of Estimate power over franchises.

Gov. Higgins expects to remain all this week and probably will not leave the city for any considerable time until the thirty-day bills are out of the way. He reached here from Olean early to-day and by 9 o'clock was in the Executive chamber at work on the bills left with him by the Legislature on adjournment. Seventeen of the 600 were disposed of during the day.

HID BEHIND A SHIRT.

Disappearance of Hurley of the Gap Puzzled Police.

Laden clotheslines hanging heavy in the fog were all that met the gaze of Policeman Ferguson and Detective Miller of the Oak Street Station when they had chased to the roofs Hurley of the Gap, an old acquaintance whom they wanted on a charge of beating and robbing a confiding Chilean sailor early yesterday morning. They stood upon the roof of 53 Oak Street, peering down upon the roof of No. 51, a story below, when suddenly they saw an apparently empty shirt sway gently in the windless night. As they concentrated their vision upon it, they saw it twitch in nervous fashion.

"Come out of that," they yelled, with leveled pistols, and Hurley of the Gap came from behind the shirt.

Tenement dwellers who had been roused by the pursuit upstairs and fled from their beds thinking the house afire brought a rope and helped the policeman draw their prisoner up to their own level. He is just out of Elmira Reformatory, they said.

The sailor, John Phinoxo, lodged a complaint upon which Hurley was held in $1,000 bail by Magistrate Finn in the Tombs Court. Then Phinoxo went to the Hudson Street Hospital.

The prisoner described himself as Joseph Herlihy, twenty-three years old, a bookbinder, of 72 East Thirteenth Street.

Window Commemorates Battle.

In commemoration of the Battle of Harlem Heights the Daughters of the Revolution have presented a window to St. Luke's Home, in Upper Broadway, which was unveiled yesterday afternoon. It represents Peace, standing with sheathed sword, and is placed on the main staircase facing the entrance to the home.

Paderewski Still Ill but Better.

TWO CIRCUSES IN TROUBLE.

Showmen in Greenwich and New Rochelle Placed Under Arrest.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., May 16.—A traveling circus had troubles of its own in Greenwich to-day, and George Peck, the manager, is in the lock-up. With him are the foreman of his tent gang and the foreman of his horse gang.

A Wild West show was promised, and the tents spread on a lot on the Main Street next to E. C. Benedict's property. Ten dollars was paid for the lot rental and $10 to the Acting Warden of the borough for the license, which included the services of two officers.

A hundred schoolboys played truant to go to the matinée performance. The officers lined them up and took them to school. The foreman over the tents and horses employed boys under fourteen to water the horses and carry tent poles, and they were arrested for violation of the labor law.

Then Manager Peck to a crowd about the ticket office vented his opinion of Greenwich people and officials in such a manner that Sheriff Ritch locked him up for creating a disturbance.

After school was dismissed the performance went on, many society people attending it, as well as the evening show.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., May 16.—The noonday parade of a circus was held up on the main street here to-day by Officers William A. McKinley of New Rochelle and Frederick Gerrjost of Yonkers, agents of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, who arrested four circus men who were driving horses suffering with sore necks. The parade was delayed until the managers of the show appeared and furnished bail. Judge Phelps this afternoon fined the prisoners $10 apiece.

MUST IMITATE CHICAGO.

Mr. Hinrichs Declares Traction Companies Now Govern New York.

At a dinner held last evening at the Hotel St. Denis by Good Government Club C, a branch of that organization which polled some 1,200 votes for its city ticket in 1895, the keynote of the speeches made was contained in these words, uttered by ex-Controller Frederick W. Hinrichs of Brooklyn:

"The Government of the City of New York to-day consists of three or four large traction companies, backed up by a large lighting concern, and using for their purposes two pseudo-political organisations, the so-called Republican and Democratic Parties.

"There is only one remedy," Mr. Hinrichs went on. "We have to have competition by the city to those great private interests. What happened in Chicago a few weeks ago must happen here." Mr. Hinrichs spoke of the bill extending the term of the Mayor from two to four years.

"We have recently heard prominent Republicans make touching allusions to the excellence of Mayor McClellan's administration," he said. "There is every reason to believe that he will be re-elected, and that the extension of the term will benefit him. What does all this mean?

"It means simply that the politicians of both parties and the men they represent have seen the handwriting on the wall in the election of Mayor Dunne at Chicago. They know that they must secure now or never—that is, within the next four years—all the wealth that is still hidden in public franchises in this city. To defeat this purpose is the task of the Citizens' Union."

Among those at the dinner were Isaac H. Klein, Vice President of the club and toastmaster; Secretary John J. Murphy of the Citizens' Union, Lawson Purdy, S. V. Abbott, Dr. M. St. C. Wright, Cyrus L. Sulzberger, the Rev. Dr. J. P. Peters, Paul Fuller, John G. Agar, Arthur Von Briesen, ex-Senator John Ford, Dr. John L. Elliott, Prof. Charles Sprague Smith, Judge A. P. W. Seaman, Julius Henry Cohen, and Julius J. Frank.

NO ROUMANIAN ULTIMATUM.

But a Demand Has Been Made on Turkey for Satisfaction.

BUCHAREST, May 16.—It is semi-officially announced that Roumania has asked Turkey for satisfaction on account of the act of the Valiy of Yanina in arresting a number of Roumanian School Inspectors in spite of the privileges conferred upon them by the Porte.

Police Raid Four Hotels.

With warrants which were secured yesterday afternoon from Magistrate Cornell in Jefferson Market Court, Capt. Cottrell of the Tenderloin Station, with a dozen detectives, last night raided four hotel resorts in the neighborhood of Sixth Avenue and Twenty-eighth Street, arresting the alleged proprietors. Some twenty women were also locked up. The places visited were the Held, the Parker, the Aulice, and the Regent.

KAISER TO MOORISH RULER.

Special Envoy Delivers Message and Decoration to the Sultan.

BERLIN, Wednesday, May 17.—A dispatch from Tangier to the Lokal Anzeiger says:

"In the course of his audience with the Sultan of Morocco at Fez Count von Tattenbach-Ashold (the head of the German mission to Fez) read an address expressing Emperor William's thanks for the warm reception given to him at Tangier by the Sultan's representatives. Count von Tattenbach-Ashold further referred to the Emperor's visit as proof of the strong permanent friendship of the Emperor for the Sultan.

"'The Emperor,' continued the Count, 'wishes to maintain the relations with Morocco guaranteed by solemn treaties and to develop them in the interests of both countries.'

"Count von Tattenbach-Ashold then handed to the Sultan on behalf of the Emperor the Grand Cross of the Red Eagle Order with chain and diamonds, expressing the hope for long and independent rule by the Sultan over his State.

"The Sultan was visibly delighted, and warmly expressed his thanks for the extraordinary mission, to which he gave a hearty welcome to Fez."

The Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Philadelphia

On the 7th day of December, 1904, by its Board of Trustees, unanimously adopted the following resolution:

"BE IT RESOLVED by the Trustees of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia, Pa., in order that its policy-holders may have full and exact knowledge of its business management and of the security and character of its investments, that the President of the Company request the Insurance Commissioner of Pennsylvania, together with the Insurance Commissioners of Massachusetts and Wisconsin, either in person or by deputies, to make a full and complete examination of the affairs and investments of the Company, as provided for by law, said examination to be made as early as can be arranged after the closing of the accounts of the Company for the current year."

The request of the Trustees was granted, and on the 1st day of February, 1905, the examination was begun, and concluded on the 24th day of April. The official representatives of the three departments, with their assistants and appraisers, in all some fifty persons, covered every detail of the business management and the character and security of the Company's assets. The complete and detailed report of the examiners is too voluminous for publication in the press, but has been printed in pamphlet form and will be furnished on application to the Home Office of the Company in Philadelphia, or to any of its authorized agents in the United States.

Comments of the Commissioners

"THERE WERE PREPARED and submitted to the officers of The Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company such questions as were deemed necessary for them to answer. Attached hereto the same may be found as a part of this report."

"AS CALLED FOR in the resolution adopted by the Board of Trustees of the Company, a FULL AND COMPLETE examination of the Company was made, and its affairs subjected to the CLOSEST POSSIBLE SCRUTINY."

"THE FINDINGS SUBMITTED by the examiners show that the net surplus of the Company, as of December 31st, 1904, should be $4,490,498.66 instead of $4,231,261.22, MAKING A SURPLUS LARGER by $259,237.44 THAN CLAIMED in the annual statement of the Company. All of the Company's assets have been appraised by competent experts employed in this examination, and the increased surplus shown arises from the CONSERVATIVE VALUATION of assets by the management."

"THE CHARTER OF THE COMPANY, granted February 24th, 1847, provides fully for its operation on a purely mutual basis, and it HAS NO CAPITAL STOCK. The trustees are elected directly by the body of policy holders, NO PROXY VOTING being permitted; and the officers are, in turn, elected by the Trustees, no one of whom is eligible to official position."

"THE REAL ESTATE HOLDINGS were examined by competent appraisers selected in the various localities with the result that the valuations obtained are $387,699.76 IN EXCESS of those claimed by the company."

"THE MORTGAGE and LOAN DEPARTMENTS are well organized and administer their respective duties with commendable caution and skill."

"THE LOANS ON COLLATERAL are amply margined. The stocks and bonds owned were carefully counted, and the market values ascertained through bond experts, with the result shown that the values claimed by the company are conservative."

"IN ADDITION TO THE LEGAL REQUIREMENTS the company has voluntarily set aside $1,062,679 in order to meet any possible contingencies in the way of lower interest rates on excessive mortality."

"THE EXPENSE OF OBTAINING NEW BUSINESS has been kept at a normal figure, and no disposition has been found to unduly develop the writing of insurance upon Deferred Dividend Plans. On these the dividends are apportioned annually, and the interests of the policy-holders are fully guarded by the terms of the contracts and the practice of the company."

"THE AGENCY BRANCH, looking at the annual product of new business has been conducted with due economy, and with fidelity to the interests of policy-holders."

"THE SELECTION OF RISKS is in competent hands, as the very excellent mortality experience of the company indicated. The company is operating in practically all the states and territories of the United States, and on December 31, 1904, has upon the "paid for" basis 140,798 policies outstanding, insuring $332,016,287."

"Although an examination of this kind naturally interferes with the routine work of the office, the officers and employes of the company rendered every assistance within their power to the examiners, and cheerfully complied with all requests."

Signed { ISRAEL W. DURHAM, Insurance Commissioner, Pennsylvania. FRED'K L. CUTTING, Insurance Commissioner, Massachusetts. ZENO M. HOST, Insurance Commissioner, Wisconsin.

It is with pleasure and satisfaction that the Trustees and Officers have received and now publish the report of the Commissioners. In the future, as in the past, they will strive to fulfil the mission of A PURELY MUTUAL COMPANY, confining their efforts to transacting its business within the lines laid down in its Charter and By-Laws and in strict compliance therewith.

HARRY F. WEST, President.

THE DOOM OF DINGLEYISM.

Has President ROOSEVELT resolved, late but firmly, to become the Richard Cobden of the Dingley Act? Certainly COBDEN, matchless popular orator that he was, and strong in the perfect sincerity of his purpose, never dealt the British Corn laws a more terrible blow than Mr. ROOSEVELT has dealt the Dingley law by directing his Isthmian Canal Commissioners to buy ships, material, and supplies wherever they can find them cheapest in the markets of the world. It is time for the beneficiaries of the high tariff to take heed about their protected interests, for this is a very leviathan of tariff reform that the President has unloosed. It is more than reform—it is rebellion, the most astonishing ever recorded in the chronicles of the world, the rebellion of a Government against its own laws. It is repudiation. It is virtual nullification. It is a destructive assault by the most powerful force upon the citadel of protection. Does anybody suppose that a tariff policy which is too extortionate and outrageous for the Government business will long be put up with by those who carry on private business?

The position taken by the President and his Canal Commissioners is impregnable. The material and supplies of which the builders of the Canal will have need can be obtained in foreign markets at much lower prices than are demanded by American manufacturers. Two steamships which the Commission wishes to run between New York and Colon would cost in this country $1,400,000 and could not be completed in less than eighteen months. Abroad these steamships can be bought for $700,000. Implements and machinery of iron and steel of which millions of dollars' worth will be required are quoted much lower abroad; indeed, it is notorious that our own manufactures of iron and steel are quoted for export at figures ranging from 25 per cent. to 40 per cent. below the prices the American consumer must pay. It is the duty of the President to construct the Canal at the lowest possible cost. Although Congress was warned by Secretary TAFT that if the Commissioners were bound by no restriction of law as to the purchase of machinery, material, and supplies it would be considered their duty "to buy what they need where they could get it cheapest," Congress took no action. The President rightly concludes that his duty to insist on economy in the Government expenditure is paramount. He refuses to permit the Government to be made the victim of the protected Trusts and combinations its laws have created and fostered, and has instructed the Commissioners to buy in the most favorable markets.

When Secretary TAFT invited Congress to consider this subject he pointed out that the award of contracts to foreign manufacturers or dealers would be followed by "an outcry on the part of the American unsuccessful competitors." In a Washington dispatch to our neighbor The Tribune it is declared that the President's decision "will result in emphatic protests from American manufacturers and shipowners." As The World bluntly puts it, there will be "a howl from American shipbuilders and other manufacturers." That does not begin to tell the story. It is not a mere question of selling supplies to the Government for the Panama Canal—the whole structure of Dingleyism is imperiled. The Assyrians who came down like the wolf on the fold were an affable and pleasant lot compared with the great robber barons of the tariff and all the big and little chiefs of industries who have grown rich and are growing richer by Dingleyism when they begin to converge upon the National capital with loud demands that the ancient compact between the protected manufacturers and the Republican Party be kept.

Of tariff reformers like GROVER CLEVELAND and WILLIAM L. WILSON the protected interests have sometimes stood in fear, but none of these was ever so dangerous and appalling an antagonist as THEODORE ROOSEVELT, who is not only President of the United States and leader of the party in power but is so extraordinarily popular that party lines dissolve before his inspiring personality and who is by temperament so strenuous, prevailing, and unstoppable that if he once commits himself to the work of tariff smashing he will keep at it until the big and beetling Chinese wall lies in ruins at his feet. Why should he stop? How can he stop? Logically, in truth, in sincerity, and in honesty there is no stopping place. Can the President demand for the Government business exemptions which are denied to private business? And could there be a more destructive exposure of the cowardly falsehood that the industries of the United States still stand in need of protection than this refusal of the Government to extend to them a helping hand tendering the prices they have been privileged to extort? In half a century of agitation the American people have never had so impressive and convincing a lesson in tariff reform.

THE INDISCRETIONS OF A JUDGE.

The Justice of the Supreme Court who treated his fellow-members of the Phi Delta Phi Society on Monday evening to a disquisition on the trial of "NAN" PATTERSON for the killing of her former paramour, with a view of defending the Assistant District Attorney who prosecuted the case, performed a conspicuous disservice to that officer and went beyond what are usually considered the proper limits of loquaciousness for a Judge.

The case was both disgusting and difficult. It was thrice tried, and on each trial the prosecution sought to prove that the weapon with which the dead man was killed was in the hands of the accused. As an important—it is not too much to say, as an essential—element in this proof the prosecution tried to establish its contention that the weapon had been purchased by the brother-in-law of the prisoner, with the intention that it should be used in carrying out a conspiracy to extort money from the man who was killed by it. The jury was not convinced. The pawnbroker who sold the weapon failed to identify the brother-in-law as the purchaser. The District Attorney's office secured an indictment of the brother-in-law and of his wife for conspiracy, and this indictment was dropped. Now comes the Judge who presided at the first two trials, and, according to the report of his words, says:

> But to-day, in the light of the last disagreement, I feel sure that most people are convinced, that a majority of the people believe, that the pistol that killed "Caesar" YOUNG was held by NAN PATTERSON, was discharged by her, was bought by J. MORGAN SMITH, in an attempt to get money from "Caesar" YOUNG for the support of the combined family.

He also offers the statement that in one of these trials, when the accused was put on the stand, > it was quite obvious that she was telling falsehoods from beginning to the end. The very air seemed charged with the fact that she was lying. Yet she was a woman. She was young. It was natural that the public should sympathize with her. People seemed to know that she was not telling the truth, and the great public of New York said: "Why shouldn't she lie? Let her lie. Let her get the benefit of her lies."

It will be noted that the Judge does not in so many words say that he himself believes that the pistol was in the hands of the accused and that it had been bought by her brother-in-law in pursuance of a conspiracy to extort money for the combined family. Neither does he dissent from the belief he attributes—on what ground it is impossible to say—to the "majority of the people." If the belief be accurate, if there is even reasonable ground for it, it leaves the office of the District Attorney in a disagreeable situation, for that office has failed in what is presented as an exceptionally plain case. Nor this alone. The office has been practically defeated by perjury on the part of the accused woman, and has proved unequal to the task of exposing a fact with which "the very air seemed charged." The Judge, so far as the District Attorney's office is concerned, would have done better to maintain silence.

So far as concerns his own dignity, we think the general impression will be that that also would have been served better by silence. One of the trials over which he had presided and the one which took place afterward closed with a disagreement of the jury, and the accused has been released on the motion of the Prosecutor on her own recognizance because of the obvious hopelessness of convicting her on any testimony now available. But she is, as the court warned her, not fully and unconditionally released. Certainly she is not acquitted. She is liable, should new evidence become known, to another trial. In law her case is still sub judice. It is not a proper thing for a Judge before whom she has twice been tried for her life publicly, or even semi-publicly, to discuss her guilt or innocence. Especially it is not proper for such a Judge to support strongly the belief that she killed the man she was accused of murdering, that she perjured herself in court, and that her relatives were engaged in a vile criminal conspiracy for their own and her advantage. A good deal has been said of the license with which the press treats such cases as these. It is not likely to be restrained by the example of this Judge.

"PERSONAL GOVERNMENT."

GEORGE the Third of England furnishes the classical instance of one danger of personal government from which a government of law is free. In that instance it was found very difficult to unseat from the throne a person who had an undoubted hereditary right to it, but who could no longer be trusted to occupy it. After his incapacity became unmistakable, the question necessarily arose, how much mischief might he not have done before it became unmistakable, but when it already existed? the conduct of the British Government in the American war, for example.

It is really becoming a question whether the intense cerebral activity of the great-great-grandson of GEORGE the Third, the present German Emperor, does not constitute a menace of the peace of his own country and of the world. Sir ROWLAND BLENNERHASSETT, in the current number of The Fortnightly Review, reviews the foreign policy of Germany since the retirement of BISMARCK in a manner calculated to point this question. And the almost daily report of some utterance of the Kaiser which would be highly indiscreet for a responsible Minister of Foreign Affairs is calculated to bring it to a still sharper point.

Very curiously, none of these utterances are such as would be at all reprehensible in a private person without power and without responsibility. They do not, in a way, make us think less well of their author. A quick-witted man with a fondness for paradox might enhance the gayety of a dinner table or a club by making just such remarks, and even by them endear himself to his associates. But, considering them as the remarks of a sovereign who insists upon personal government beyond any sovereign of a highly civilized nation now living, they give ground for apprehension and alarm. Sir ROWLAND begins his review with the celebrated telegram of the Kaiser to KRUGER, a telegram which was taken in England for a flat insult to the British Nation. Even if it was not quite that, it was at least a message which a considerate monarch would not have sent except after consultation with other Powers, and with the sense of great responsibility. It is now generally understood that the Kaiser sent it with no ulterior motive and with no further notion than that the subject matter of it had happened to come into his head. But consider the effect upon the world's peace of a ruler who without question has the power of ordering the largest army in Europe, now that Russia's has been reduced by the chances of war, and the third or fourth fleet in the world, to do anything that it may occur to him as desirable for them to do. The amusing paradoxes of the diner-out or the clubman become tragical possibilities.

Beginning with that speech dedicating a new bridge, in which the Kaiser pointed out that it would furnish a secure road for a fresh invasion of France; take that at Tangier, which, to be sure, has never been authentically reported, but which, on the report of those who heard it, amounted to a declaration that the Anglo-French agreement was waste paper so far as Germany was concerned; the speech in which he was reported to have described the Japanese as the successors of the Huns and Visigoths as "the scourge of GOD," and the speech in which he was reported to have said that the Russians lost the battle of Mukden because they were sunk in drunkenness and debauchery. It does not matter that some of these reports have been officially denied. The point is that the world has come to believe the Kaiser capable of any extravagance, and to be doubtful at what moment his verbal extravagance may be translated into action.

Of course it may be said of the Kaiser, as was said by the legendary parrot of himself, that he "talks too much." There are other rulers who talk too much, and who yet do not make hearers and readers of their remarks shudder at the exuberance of their verbosity. The difference is that those other rulers are subject to a government of laws, while the Kaiser, as to so many things of vital importance to his nation, is a law unto himself. He presents an impressive object lesson against personal government.

THE REGULATION OF GAS PRESSURES.

The discussion of the propriety of the provisions of the Stevens Gas bill requiring that the pressure of gas in mains be maintained between a minimum of one inch of water pressure and a maximum of two and a half inches has led to some extreme statements on both sides. As a matter of fact, it would probably be found impossible to enforce through the courts the penalties for such violations of this requirement as might be discovered. To maintain throughout a distribution system a gas pressure equivalent to a water head of one inch might frequently require considerably more than that due to a two and a half inch head at the holder. It is also true that there are points at which the pressure on a main may be somewhat more than that due to the weighting of the bell at the gas holder. At some high levels in a distribution system this might be expected.

The pressure in a main remote from the holder at which the initial pressure is regulated depends upon a good many things, chiefly upon the relations between consumption and main capacity, partly upon leakage, partly upon ground temperature. These conditions could be equalized to some extent, if it was desirable to do so, by multiplying holders and restricting the areas of distribution which each holder should supply, but this would not be practical. Still less would it be desirable.

The evil which it is sought to correct by the provision cited is partly real and partly imaginary. The imaginary part is that the gas companies ever increase the pressure of gas on their mains to swell the consumption and make the meters run faster. This is nonsense, as much so as that air is mixed with gas as a bulk-making diluent. They increase the pressure when the mains could not otherwise be kept full, and when the demand for lighting, heating, and cooking calls for more gas than would be available if the pressure were not increased. The real danger is that owing to the impossibility of establishing constant conditions as to pressure there are times when, with gas holders nearly empty and the producers not at work, the pressure may fall so low that gas flames burning with a blue spark will be extinguished and make dangerous leaks into sleeping rooms when the pressure is increased, or sometimes when it is not. Low flames of this kind are frequently blown out by wind currents. Normally, the variation of pressure would not be great enough to wholly extinguish them in a still atmosphere. The safeguard against this, and the only one, is not to turn the gas low and use it as a night lamp. It is dangerous in any circumstances.

In houses in which the pressure is so great, owing to proximity to the gas holder or to the influx of relays of gas brought through feeders to the mains they draw from, as to give inconvenience, the gas whistles when the cock is full open, and if not regulated there the light is unsatisfactory and the consumption wasteful. For such positions there are regulators which may be placed between the service and the meter which will give a constant pressure at whatever they may be adjusted to. These are relatively inexpensive devices and are extremely useful when needed at all. The usual complaint is that the pressure is at all times insufficient, which is frequently due to the fact that a service tap originally intended for, say, ten lights is expected to pass gas enough for a dozen or more lights, a gas range in the kitchen, a water heater in the bathroom, and perhaps one or more chamber-heating devices.

Legislation requiring specific performance of things impossible is necessarily futile, and no attempt is made to enforce it. This will probably be found to be true of the pressure regulation provisions of the Stevens bill.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Protection from Tornadoes. According to the dispatches from Oklahoma the people there are at least talking about united and systematic action to protect their lives, if not their property, from such tornadoes as that which destroyed the little town of Snyder. They are to dig a lot of the retreats which the Westerners will insist on miscalling cyclone cellars, while watchmen on tall towers are to observe the clouds at night, and, when they see signs of danger, are to warn the sleeping population by firing guns. That is something, and if it is not much, one must remember in judging the Oklahomans that inhabitants of the tornado regions have hitherto done practically nothing in this direction, but, between the storms, have gone on living and building exactly as if the tornado were a thing so rare as not to be worth taking into account. That attitude is injudicious. Now that the Middle West is so closely settled that hardly one of the ferocious little hurricanes can form and sweep its short and narrow path without encountering groups of human habitations, there is obvious need, not only of providing places of refuge, but also of building with some reference to the terrific wind that is sure to come along sooner or later. Whether, without incurring an expenditure not to be thought of by a population of farmers in a new country, houses and stores can be made strong enough to resist such winds is a question which suggests a negative answer, but we do not remember that it has ever received any real investigation, and there is some probability that even with wood, and even with wood in moderate quantities, structures could be made that would not be doomed to instant destruction whenever a tornado hit them. If that should turn out to be impossible, then there is to be considered the other alternative of building in such a way that the destruction will cause small money loss and no loss of life. The Japanese, confronted with the earthquake problem, long since invented houses perfectly adapted for minimizing the effects to themselves of seismic disturbances. These houses rarely fall, and when they do fall they do no great harm. There is no reason for supposing that tornadoes are now any more frequent in the Mississippi Valley than they were in the years when they were not heard of once a Summer. We hear of them all now. There is also no reason for supposing that they will ever be less frequent, and it behooves the Westerners, if they would not wear out intelligent sympathy with their tragical disasters, to take their problem in hand. It is not to be solved by putting a watchman on a tower with a shotgun.

A Difficult Problem in New Jersey. It will be interesting to see if a jury of New Jersey farmers can be persuaded to take seriously the modern theories of multiple personality in a single body or brain, and, by their verdict, admit that a man in one phase of his mental life is not responsible for crimes committed by him when in another phase. This is the defense, according to report, that is to be raised by the counsel of the man WOOD, now on trial at Somerville for a particularly brutal murder that has, unfortunately for the prisoner and his learned defenders, no obvious need of an explanation so laborious. Of course, there will be no difficulty in finding expert alienists eager to testify that the facts of multiple personality are as well authenticated as any within the domain of practical or applied psychology. They have written a number of books about their pet cases of this phenomenon, and there is no doubt that these stories of real life are as remarkable as anything written by the many romancers who have exploited the idea time and again with varying degrees of knowledge and ingenuity. STEVENSON'S treatment of a double personality is, of course, the best known of these efforts, but he felt obliged to use a mysterious drug for the transformation of Dr. Jekyll into Mr. Hyde, and he took for granted that the former would be held legally responsible for the deeds of the latter if the identity of the two were ever established in court. With the data now at hand he would not have felt the need of imagining an impossible drug, while he probably would have deprived us of the privilege of regarding his tale as a mere allegory and given us a poor substitute for that of looking at it merely as the study of a morbid brain. We cannot ourselves "see" those Jersey farmers accepting the claim that WOOD was somebody else when he shot and robbed his victim, and that now he is an amiable and unoffending person who should be set free to become the wicked WOOD again whenever he is in want of money for which he is not willing to do honest work. The alienists are right, according to their terminology, but the same terminology, carried to its logical extreme, makes every criminal irresponsible, and for that society is not yet quite ready. There is good, perhaps the best, of expert authority for maintaining that the assassins of both GARFIELD and MCKINLEY were certainly, and the assassin of LINCOLN probably, insane, but the public conscience is not at all pained by the law's suppression of their powers for future evil. The chances are that the Jersey farmers will take what is rather rashly called the common sense view of the case before them, and yet it may well be that from the alienist's point of view, there really are two Woods, as distinct as if they inhabited two bodies.

THE AMBULANCE CHASER.

Might the Courts Not Stand Between Him and His Prey?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The remarks of Justice O'Gorman in the case of Harrington against the city were most timely. A broken leg that gave me much trouble afforded the opportunity for me to judge of the ways of the ambulance chasers and at the same time to experience the results of the able and efficient management of Bellevue Hospital. Of that management I can speak only in words of gratitude. Patients there, as everywhere else, should be protected. But it occurs to me that they may be protected by the court as well as by the management of the hospital.

Under the modern notion that a lawyer has a lien upon what is recovered by way of settlement or final judgment in a damage suit for fees, the ambulance chaser has come into prominence. That any decent lawyer would have anything to do with him is beyond belief. That a lot of fellows who are lawyers and officers of the court have considerable to do with him is perfectly obvious, and that our courts protect the lawyer so allied and the ambulance chaser as well is perfectly clear from the decision of Judge O'Gorman, who had to sting the management of Bellevue in order that counsel in the Harrington case might be substituted. That the court permits fellows who get cases through the haste and persistence of an ambulance chaser, and then transfer their interest in the suit to another fellow for $100, to practice in any way before it is amazing, and that so honorable a body as the Bar Association should stand by and see every rule of its ethics so flagrantly violated as was disclosed in the Harrington case without at least suggesting some action is beyond the comprehension of the ordinary citizen.

The Subway Ruffian.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Will you be so kind as to give notice to the evil of mashers traveling via the Subway? Only last evening my wife, traveling from Fourteenth Street to One Hundred and Sixteenth Street, by Lenox Avenue express, was embarrassed by a loafer's staring at her behind his newspaper the entire journey. Perhaps this scoundrel will see this communication, and, if he has a spark of manhood probably will desist from this practice. It is not safe for our wives and daughters to travel nowadays, especially in the Subway.

Another Chance for Mr. Carnegie.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The article on Page 3 of yesterday's paper under the caption "No Women Need Apply" was excellent. It is almost impossible for a respectable woman of moderate means to find a furnished room with enough to make one barely comfortable and clean. Why could not Mr. Carnegie put some of his spare dollars into a hotel for self-supporting women? The Margaret Louise is much too high priced. Can one not have cleanliness, order, and a few home comforts for less money?

Biggest Bronze Statue.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The inclosed clipping from to-day's TIMES is not correct. The statue of Charles IV. of Spain in the City of Mexico is the largest single piece of bronze in the world and is of heroic dimensions. The height of horse and rider is 15 feet 9 inches and weighs 60,000 pounds. The cast was made Aug. 4, 1802, under the direction of Don Salvador de la Vega from the model of Don Manuel Foiss, and was completed in 1803. THOMAS D. JAMES.

Baldness of Stenographers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Has anybody noticed that most male stenographers are partly bald? It is a fact that a good number of young men who before they took up stenography had a fine, thick growth of hair, now have trouble with the scalp. What is the cause of this? Can anybody explain? STENOGRAPHER.

The Unprincipled Slot Machine.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Recently there appeared in this column a letter regarding the stealings of the Subway slot machines. The peculations of these machines are by no means confined to any particular station or stations. I have dropped penny after penny—good, decent, and well-behaved coins—into these accessories of profanity, and all I received for my penny was the satisfaction of having jolted the machine a bit and bruised my hand. I am, though, in a measure avenged, for only this morning I received for my penny not only a piece of gum, but also a chocolate caramel. BENJAMIN REICH.

Japan's Remarkably Small Sick List.

Sir Frederick Treves made a speech at the recent dinner of the Japan Society in London in which he said, according to the report in The London News:

> "If you want to see the last thing, the most ingenious thing, and yet the simplest thing in the equipment for war, you must go and see it in Japan. Many of the problems which concern European armies, and have been, to a large extent, a terror of war in European countries, the Japanese are solving or have solved. British troops enter a war with many determinations. One is 10 per cent. of sick. It is what they are accustomed to expect to get, and they get it. Now, the Japanese are quite content with 1 per cent. of sick, and they get it. It is a question of ambition, perhaps, which might well be imitated; but the problem of reducing 10 per cent. to 1 the Japanese had done a great deal to solve."

A Mercurial Fire Alarm.

From The London Globe.

A Danish inventor has brought out a fire alarm sensitive to a "wave of heat." A "U" tube contains mercury, and above it ether, which the wave vaporizes, thereby forcing down the column of mercury, and closing an electric bell circuit.

Imitation.

From The Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Nell—It's an opal ring Mr. Cheapside gave me.

Belle (examining it)—Er—do you like it?

Nell—Yes, but there's that old superstition, you know. I'm afraid it will bring me bad luck.

Belle—Don't worry. The worst this could bring you would be an imitation of bad luck.

ABOUT THE HAPPY FARMER.

Literature's View of the Mortgage Burdened Wreck Objected To.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The picture of the life of the Ohio farmer as described by himself in R. A. D.'s letter in your issue of May 6, is in keeping with the farmer as he is depicted in current literature. Ten years ago the farmer of literature was fat and hearty, stood in his doorway, and viewed with pride and satisfaction his blooming acres of fertile land; his barns were filled with fat cattle, his farmyard overflowed with prize turkeys, geese, and chickens; in short, the Goddess of Plenty was his partner. Nowadays the farmer of the short story is thin and round-shouldered, with lines of care deeply furrowing his countenance, all joy and hope gone out of his life, lost in his endeavor to "wrest a meagre living out of the thin and flinty soil of the mortgage-burdened farm."

There are probably farmers of both these varieties, but the average farmer and the most numerous would not fit either description. On the ordinary farm there are but two really strenuous periods, those of seedtime and harvest. In the long Winter interval there is no digging and delving, the ordinary chores cover the sum of the work that has to be done, and the farmer has days and days of bad weather which he spends indoors and could devote to reading or other mental occupation.

From my observation, farmers are an easy-going, happy set of people. Their time is their own. They always have time to stop and talk as long as the subject holds out, and, with the exception of a few days during the planting or reaping, they invariably hitch up on Saturdays and drive to town to buy their necessaries and chat the day through. Soap show, Indian medicine show, or circus is largely attended, and time is always found to take part in church and society picnics.

Pure food, pure air, and pure water for the body; no cars to dodge, no trains to catch, no appointments to fret his mind, why shouldn't the farmer be the happiest man on earth? EDWARD WALDEN.

GRAMMAR OF TEACHERS.

Its Theory and Practice Are Often Very Different.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In THE TIMES of May 6 a correspondent signing himself "A Parent" asks, "How is it that the teachers in our public schools who pass an examination before they are admitted to teach, and who are supposed to have had the advantages of a good education, are themselves such poor users of the English language?" If, as suggested, the Board of Education were to make a rigid investigation, it would find that the teachers referred to were simply speaking their mother tongue—"English as she is spoke" in their homes. Their knowledge of English grammar may be theoretically perfect, but is practically useless, as they lack the wit to apply it.

I well remember a schoolmate of mine—how that girl shone in the grammar class! Her theoretical knowledge of English grammar was something marvelous, but when she spoke—oh, my!—she spoke her mother's tongue. Verily, "thy speech bewrayeth thee." A. M. R.

CITY'S POOR CHILDREN.

Their Needs and Sufferings in the Summer Season.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Once again Summer is close upon us, and once again we see in the crowded and congested sections of our metropolis myriads of little children playing, at the risk of their lives, on its hot and shadeless streets. The indifference shown by the local authorities to the safety and sanitary well-being of the rising generation is simply disgraceful. Wealthy philanthropists are lavishly scattering millions of dollars for the advancement of science and education, but the humanitarian is yet to be found willing or able to give a cent for the physical necessities of the little ones.

The recent appropriation by the Board of Estimate for playgrounds would have gone a long way toward supplying this pressing need, but nothing has or can be done by virtue of the same for the reason that another department of our municipal government has failed to confirm the action of its co-ordinate sister board.

HARRISBURG'S WRECK.

Attack on Coroner's Statement That There Was No Negligence.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Of what value to the public will be the coming inquest into the cause of the recent dynamite horror at Harrisburg if there is truth in the published report of Coroner Kraus's premature decision on the subject? Before a jury is chosen or a word of evidence heard he states positively that "this accident was in no wise due to negligence." And how logically he reaches this just conclusion from his own version of the facts.

"These long trains, partly of air brake cars, are not properly manned with crews." But there is no negligence! "The crews spend most of their time in the caboose, and let the cars shift for themselves." Still no negligence—not a bit—certainly not! It is all the fault of the wicked law, which requires freight trains to be partly equipped with air brakes—no blame to be attached to the railroad management which fails properly to equip the trains with crews. No one is negligent when crews loaf in the caboose instead of attending to their work.

And Coroner Kraus will conduct the inquest! F. C. GORDON.

Appendicitis Due to Bad Teeth.

From The London Mail.

Appendicitis is often due to bad teeth, said Dr. E. S. Thompson, lecturing at Gresham College, London. The same organisms, he said, were present both in defective teeth and in the diseased appendix, which proved that dental decay was capable of causing appendicitis.

"I see no evidence to show that our teeth are deteriorating to an alarming extent with the growth of civilization," he declared, and he pointed out that an even larger proportion of diseased teeth had been found among Egyptian and Roman remains than existed at present.

"Tobacco has an injurious effect on the digestion," he went on, "but I do not think that nicotine has any more effect on the teeth than alcohol. But tobacco certainly blackens the teeth, and so causes many persons who are careful of their personal appearance to brush their teeth more often than they would otherwise do."

He had found cod liver oil amazingly successful in promoting the growth of teeth in children, and he recommended the toothbrush drill as part of the curriculum of schools. Dr. Thompson also urged the practice of washing the teeth after meals, and rubbing them twice a day, and particularly the last thing at night.

THE PATTERSON CASE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It seems to me that Mr. Jerome's speech in defense of Mr. Rand and the District Attorney's office is excellent. I have read with care your editorial which attacked Mr. Rand so vigorously, and in my opinion it was unjust and unwise. Mr. Rand did his duty and what he thought was right. The case of the State was formed on mighty good grounds. Too much sentiment is set on foot, in my opinion, by such an editorial as yours.

ONE INTERESTED.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your article in THE SUNDAY TIMES with reference to Mr. Jerome and his assistant Mr. Rand expressed the views of so many thousands of fair-minded men that you certainly merit praise for its publication.

A. HOOSIER.

New York, May 15, 1905.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Our Legislature should pass a law entirely prohibiting, under severe penalties, all editorial discussion of capital cases until the accused person has been either finally convicted or acquitted. If that law had been in force Nan Patterson would now be on her way to the electric chair.

A JUROR.

Brooklyn, May 15, 1905.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

So much is being said by newspapers and jurymen about the unjust "persecution" of the Patterson case that if you will print the opinion of a mere woman in private life you will greatly oblige.

I do not wish to judge Miss Patterson personally, though her story at best is not appealing, but surely, if the law is only passively to look into such crimes, making no special effort to secure evidence of guilt, and handling the accused with gloves, what is the use of having laws, courts, or prosecuting attorneys? Jerome and Rand are all right. Every lawless man and woman would be administering justice—or, more rightly, revenge—as they saw it, were it not for such as they. E. L.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I rejoice to know that the slow people of these "fast times" are just accompanying Spring in awakening to the fact that Mr. Rand, our eloquent Assistant District Attorney, has been ignorant of the fact that the girl whose name has occurred so much in print, Nan Patterson, is as innocent, and is entitled to the treatment of such, as the best person living, until she is properly convicted of that appalling crime of which she has been accused.

By such treatment as she has received since she has been tried for this crime, Assistant District Attorney Rand has ignored the forces which tend to improve civilization in our country. It is a broad statement to make, but I feel that I have a better and a more intelligent idea of the betterment of our laws than he, for I blushed to acknowledge to an alien who conversed with me on this topic that such language as has been used in this trial would not be tolerated in the European courts. E. P.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A mob of 700 cheering her before her trial and shouting for her release, a crowd of little tots, ages from five to seven, yelling "Good for her!"; a mob of 2,000 to greet her with cheers on her release from the Tombs, another crowd to greet her when she steps off the train at her home in Washington, correspondents writing to the papers abusing the man who is trying his level best to stem this awful crime wave! Oh, I tell you we are the most enlightened and advanced people on earth. E.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE TIMES and a few other papers gave to the Patterson case the limited amount of space it really merited. It was not an important case. Lawyers are pretty good judges of a case of vital importance. The Patterson case was very little talked of among them. Nearly all the hurrah was carefully treated, nursed, and cashed in by sensational newspapers.

Your criticism concerning the hazarding of the third trial of the Patterson woman inferred strongly that the result was a foregone conclusion. No attention was paid to the fact that the jury was out over thirteen hours. Mr. Jerome was convinced that he had the right person, rightly charged, and in this he was not by any means alone.

The District Attorney is not in office to prosecute only those cases in which he has a "dead sure thing."

It must be remembered that the prosecuting attorney in a case almost invariably knows a great deal more than he can prove by legal evidence.

I do not wish to become an apologist for the District Attorney, but my personal experience with the office under his administration compared with treatment I have received there from prior administrations has made me believe in Jerome.

HUNTING SONG.

Up to the sparkling morning sky,
My hawk, my minion! Down the wind
Sweep with fleet rush! I let thee fly
And wheel and stoop and flash. Thy blind
Fortune am I, albeit more kind.
Up, fearless, to the sky!

Up, bird, my tiercel! Cloud or rain
May dim the blue. Thine, splendors high;
Mine, grassy ripples of the plain
Where silver lights and shadows fly,
Where sheets of violet blossom lie,
And sunlights gleam and wane.

Lift up thy crested head and dart,
Bold with the moment's freedom. So
Thy master struggles, with wild heart,
'Gainst stormy winds that beat and blow
Swoops to his quarry—joy or woe!
Up, tameless, brother heart!

PANAMA'S LITTLE NAVY FORMALLY DEDICATED

ADMIRAL IS AN AMERICAN

Orienta Was Bought at Half Price After Strikers Had Plugged Her Tubes.

The smallest American republic, Panama, dedicated her navy to service yesterday, and for the first time in these waters the flag of the republic floated from the peak of a vessel. Appropriately enough, the smallest republic has also the smallest navy, consisting of one trim little yacht, which, on her arrival at Colon several weeks hence, will be transformed into a gunboat by the mounting of her armament.

It had been the original intention of Capt. T. T. Lovelace, formerly of Kansas City, and now known in Colon and Panama as "El Almirante," to make the dedication of the navy over which he holds absolute command a double event. The party which was to celebrate the event of the navy's inaugural was to have been taken down the bay to view the starting of the race for the Kaiser's Cup, but when Capt. Lovelace got word that the start would be postponed, the ceremony was performed at the dock of the Morse Iron Works, in Bay Ridge, where the vessel has berthed since her trial run several days ago.

The Orienta was in gala dress for the occasion. Capt. Lovelace wore the uniform of his rank and his officers were also resplendent in gold lace. A merry party that filled the tiny cabin of the vessel had come on board, consisting of Carlos Arosemena, Secretary of the Panamanian Legation; Miss Victoria Guardia, niece of the Secretary of State of the republic; the Misses Arias, nieces of the Minister of Foreign Affairs; Francisco Arias, son of Ricardo Arias, Financial Envoy of the Republic; Miss Stimson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hart, and Mr. and Mrs. J. X. Arosemena.

Luncheon was served on board, Mrs. Lovelace acting as hostess, after which the flag of the republic was brought from a locker where it had been carefully stowed away by Capt. Lovelace and fastened to the halyards, and the Union Jack and the revenue flag, especially designed by the Captain, were respectively fastened to the forepeak and the maintop halyards. To Mrs. Arosemena and Miss Guardia fell the honor of raising these two flags at the same time that the Secretary of Legation raised the standard of the country.

The Panamanian flag consists of four squares, two of white, one in the upper left and the other in the lower right hand corner, and two squares, one each of red and blue. In one of the white squares there is a single star of blue and in the other a red star.

When the crew had been called to quarters and all the preliminaries had been arranged Secretary Arosemena said:

"In the absence of the Minister the honor devolves upon me to raise the standard of our country on this beautiful little vessel and to dedicate her to the country's service. May she carry our flag into many ports on peaceful missions and ever uphold the honor of our republic!"

The flags were hoisted to the peaks, while the big United States transports lying near blew shrill blasts on their whistles. The Orienta will leave for Colon on Thursday or Friday, her route being to Norfolk, Savannah, Jacksonville, Key West, and through the Caribbean Sea. On her arrival there she will be fitted with two three-pounder Hotchkiss guns and two automatic Maxim rapid-firing guns.

Capt. Lovelace is the typical soldier of fortune. He was a General in the service of Colombia in the last revolution.

The Orienta was built originally for E. R. Ladew. Lewis R. Nixon designed her, and she was built at the Elizabethport yards in 1901, at the time of the machinists' strike. Capt. Lovelace bought the little vessel for his Government for something like $30,000.

The vessel on her trial trips had not come up to the standard, and on an inspection Capt. Lovelace found her condenser tubes had been stopped with wooden plugs driven into them with a mallet. In the water-tube boiler sixteen of the tubes were plugged up with boiler punchings.

"The schemes of the disgruntled machinists to throw back the vessel on the hands of the builders by practically disabling her worked to my benefit," said Capt. Lovelace, "for I bought her for about half price."

WOES OF THE BOOKSELLERS.

They Dine and Tell Their Troubles at the Aldine Club.

The fifth annual dinner of the American Booksellers' Association was held last night at the Aldine Club, 111 Fifth Avenue. The booksellers proved to be a merry lot. They sang many songs and cheered many times, the representatives of each State trying to outdo those from other States in proof that their neighbors could and did read books. Thomas Millard Palmer, President of the association, presided. There were so many present that the menus did not go around.

F. D. Lacy, President of the Booksellers' League, declared that through the reluctance of publishers to accept manuscripts, he feared that the printers would go out of business, and that booksellers would have to live by the sale of obsolete literature.

Simon Brentano said that the greatest perplexity of the publisher and book seller was the sudden illnesses that came over manuscript readers, and the frequent need of change among them. He said the notion that the Brooklyn Bridge had been weakened by trolley traffic was really due to the overproduction of books, the modern publishers being like those in the time of Horace, who said that they made more books than could be sold.

Frank H. Dodd asked that the booksellers be more lenient with the publishers. William P. Christopher of the Boost Club told the booksellers to remember that "knocking" was the most vicious thing on earth. He thought the fellow who would say that the other fellow was the best fellow on earth, and then qualify the statement with "but," was the worst knocker of the lot.

Million Cabbages Condemned.

NEWARK, May 16.—Nearly 1,000,000 head of cabbage, contained in fifty box cars, and two carloads of strawberries were condemned to-day by Health Officer Chandler, who arranged with the Pennsylvania Railroad to remove the immense quantity of decayed stuff from the city. The cabbages and strawberries formed a shipment from the South, the destination being Boston. The berries and vegetables were packed in ordinary box cars, owing, it is understood, to the famine in refrigerator cars that now exists on the railroads in the South.

Czar's Gift to Boston Church.

BOSTON, May 16.—The Emperor of Russia has given the Greek orthodox Christians of Boston $1,000 as a nucleus of a fund to erect a proper place of worship. The gift, announced to-day, was made through Bishop Raphael Hawaweeny. Two thousand dollars has been added to the Emperor's gift.

COL. PADDEN LOST HIS ROLL

Also His Bowery Equanimity, but Both Only Temporarily.

Col. Michael Clarence Padden, whose military title came from the Bowery Rangers, among whom he is known as plain "Mike," although it is said that his cards now announce him as "Col. M. Clarence Padden," went to the Aldermanic Chamber yesterday. Col. Padden is of the Clan Sullivan, and the object of his visit was to see if "Little Tim" Sullivan was presiding over the Aldermen in approved manner.

When he entered the Aldermanic Chamber Col. Padden left his overcoat on the desk of Alderman Gaffney. One of the Aldermen laid his coat in nearly the same place. The coats looked alike. Later the Alderman put on an overcoat and walked out to get a drink. At the bar he carelessly dropped his hand into one of the pockets, and was overcome to find a huge roll of bills held together by a rubber band. His surprise was hardly equal to the surprise which Col. Padden was feeling at the same time over the discovery that his overcoat and money were missing.

Col. Padden stormed and ran around the Chamber in a frenzy. Meanwhile the Alderman, alarmed because he feared he might get arrested for running off with another's property, hurried back to the Aldermanic Chamber.

"Boys," said Col. Padden, after weighing his roll of bills carefully, "this joke seems to be on me. I wonder if we can find a saloon around here."

The crowd found no difficulty in proving that there was one handy.

POLICE CHASE BOY WIZARD.

Eggs Vanished in Flight, and Lo! He Had a Chicken.

Patrolmen Kuhne and Kenny of the East Twenty-second Street Station saw a boy in Eighteenth Street yesterday carrying a crate of eggs and acting suspiciously. When they moved toward him the boy went into a house at 621 East Eighteenth Street and ran through to the rear. When the policemen saw him making for the Seventeenth Street side they ran around to get him.

Soon the lad emerged from the house facing the rear on Seventeenth Street, and the policemen were amazed to see that instead of carrying the crate of eggs he had a chicken in his hands. Kuhne and Kenny were so astonished that the boy got away, and they had to chase him half a block before they caught him.

Then appeared Mendel Pollock of 610 East Seventeenth Street, who claimed the chicken as his. He said the boy picked up the chicken on his way through his store. The policemen went back over the boy's line of fleight and found the crate of eggs, half of them being broken from their fall. Their freshness substantiated Pollock's claim to the chicken, and the the boy, whose name is William Johnson, was arraigned in Yorkville Court for larceny and held in $300 bail for examination.

WHAT IS DOING IN SOCIETY.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

An extra performance of "Buster Brown" will be given at the Metropolis Theatre on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock for the benefit of school children.

On account of the death of Kirke La Shelle, manager of the "Heir to the Hoorah" company, the Hudson Theatre will be closed on Thursday evening, the day of Mr. La Shelle's funeral. Tickets which have been purchased for this performance may be exchanged for any other performance or will be redeemed.

The Progressive Stage Society plans to give this Summer a series of open-air performance of Sanskrit and Greek dramas in order to create a fund for the next year's week-day performances. The first presentation will be a poetic drama to be given on Saturday, June 17, on the grounds of Barrett Manor and Despard House, Arrochar, Staten Island. On that occasion the Sanskrit drama, "Sakuntala," by Kalidasa, will be produced.

HOUSE PARTIES IGNORE SUNDAY, SAYS BISHOP

Tells of Sabbath Breaking Week-End Gatherings on Long Island.

MEMBERS RACE AND GAMBLE

The Right Rev. Frederick Burgess Not Sure, However, That He Would Close Golf Courses.

The feature of the thirty-ninth annual convention of the Episcopal Diocese of Long Island, which opened yesterday in the Cathedral of the Incarnation, in Garden City, was a sharp attack by Bishop Frederick Burgess upon certain forms of amusement practiced on Sunday. Part of Bishop Burgess's address relating to Sunday observance provoked expressions of approval from various parts of the cathedral, which was crowded.

"Long Island is fast becoming the playground of the greatest city in the Union," said Bishop Burgess. "Race courses, golf links, ball fields, shooting clubs, fishing clubs, abound in our limits. In all this hunting for pleasure, Sunday has been seized upon as the one day in the week most convenient for sport. All the morning the crowds flock out into the country, and late into the night the trains are filled with the weary people returning to their homes.

"The handsome palaces of the rich, the spacious, comfortable villas of the well-to-do, are filled every Saturday night with their house parties, made up generally of young men and women who in the city pay some slight observance to Sunday, but who here seldom or never go to the church services and spend the day in yachting, golfing, tennis, and even racing and gambling.

"If their guests wanted to go to church they would have every drag and auto in the stables put at their service, but if they prefer the golf course or the ball field they are equally at their disposal.

"And, on the other hand, I can sympathize with the humbler amusements. Confined all the week in dismal city offices or shops, bound more deeply with those who have to stitch through the long hours of the day, or condemned to do the same tiresome, brainless work from early morning to late night, Heaven forbid that they should be deprived of any wholesome excitement or healthful exercise which could come into their life! Yea, even to the young, half-tipsy fellows who, returning from their Sunday ball game and their suppers, make the car noisy with their songs and laughter, I have tried to be charitable.

"This Sunday question confronts us all the time, but especially at this season. I ask no change in the laws; indeed, I deprecate the constant appeal to the State for laws which, after they are enacted, the public conscience will not maintain. The present Sunday laws are strong enough for any community. If enforced they would stop every theatre and public show, would close every saloon, and give to the American city the repose it sadly needs.

"Soon, I fear, the same kind of sentiment will demand that our race tracks shall be open on Sundays, for it is hard to see what logical argument can defend the one and condemn the other.

"No one wants to stop even the wealthy capitalist, who has been straining his nerves all the week on the Stock Exchange in trying to lower the value of some one else's property so that he might make more himself, from playing his game of golf on Sunday afternoons. It is harmless for the youth to play baseball in our parks or vacant lots, but to attract a crowd by advertised games and club rivalries is, to my mind, something which the law, as well as the sentiment of the community, should condemn. It is not wrong for the woman to take herself and her family to the seashore if she is fortunate enough to have the money to pay for the trip, but it is wrong for the city to permit all sorts of loose and secular entertainments to go on at the seashore to attract the crowd.

"I do not know that I would, if I were dictator, insist on closing the golf clubs, but I should absolutely insist that the caddies be excluded from the grounds on the Lord's Day."

Following the Bishop's address, the Rev. Dr. Brydges of Islip offered a resolution for the appointment of a committee to memorialize the New York City Board of Education, advocating the teaching in the public schools of the ten commandments and a system of ethics as applied to conduct. The resolution was carried.

HENRY HAWKES DEAD.

Was Long Prominent in Brooklyn Democratic Politics.

Henry Hawkes, Superintendent of Repairs of the Department of Water Supply in Brooklyn, a close friend of the late Hugh McLaughlin, and for years prominent in Democratic politics in the borough, died yesterday at his home, 201 Prospect Place, from apoplexy.

Mr. Hawkes was born in Ireland sixty-two years ago and came to this country with his parents when a boy. He worked as a plumber in the navy yard and then engaged in business for himself on Flatbush Avenue. He served as a member of the Fifty-fourth Regiment in the civil war.

After the war he became interested in politics and was elected Supervisor of the old Ninth Ward in 1867. In 1886 he was appointed Water Purveyor, which position he held until 1897. He was appointed Superintendent of Repairs in the Water Department in 1898. Mr. Hawkes was a member of the Washington Democratic Club and of the Order of Elks. He leaves two sons and five daughters.

PLANS FOR CRONK FUNERAL.

Grand Marshal, Col. Butt, Issues Order of Arrangements.

Col. Richard F. Butt, Commander of U. S. Grant Post 327, G. A. R., and the Grand Marshal appointed for the parade at the funeral of Hiram Cronk, last survivor of the War of 1812, formally took command of the military arrangements yesterday and issued his orders for taking charge of the body to-day and for the parade to-morrow.

In his general order, issued yesterday, Col. Butt announced:

The escort will consist of United States regulars from Governors Island, the Military Society of the Order of 1812, Veteran Artillery Corps of the State of New York, U. S. Grant Post No. 327, Department of New York, Grand Army of the Republic; the Old Guard of the City of New York, and the Washington Continental Guard; and I hereby cordially invite all civic organizations desirous to participate in the last honors to this old hero to report to me at the Grand Central Station, Forty-second Street and Fourth Avenue, New York, on Wednesday morning, May 17, at 9:30 o'clock, to be assigned position in the line of march.

The route will be as follows: From Grand Central Station to Fifth Avenue, through Washington Arch to Fourth Street, to Broadway, to City Hall, where the remains will lie in state for twenty-four hours, when the line of march will be again taken up to Cypress Hills Cemetery in Brooklyn, under escort of the Fourteenth Regiment of Brooklyn, Col. Ardolf C. Kline commanding, and a troup of cavalry, all of the Second Brigade, N. G. S. N. Y.

Henry A. Cozzens, Adjutant of U. S. Grant Post No. 327, is hereby appointed Adjutant General, and will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen yesterday $3,000 was appropriated for the use of the Aldermanic committee having the Cronk ceremonies in charge.

MISS MABEL McAFEE WED.

Granddaughter of James B. Haggin Married to Mr. Preston.

A large wedding yesterday in St. Thomas's Church was that of Lewis Butler Preston, a son of Mrs. George R. Preston of Tuxedo, and Miss Mabel McAfee, a granddaughter of James B. Haggin. The ceremony took place at noon, and was performed by the Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires, rector of the church. There was a full choral service and a special musical programme. The church itself was decorated with growing trees and apple blossoms massed around the chancel, and sheaves of apple blossoms were fastened to the pews on the nave through which the bridal procession passed.

The bride was given away by her grandfather, James B. Haggin, with whom she walked to the chancel. Her gown was a long-trained Princess robe of white satin, with deep bertha and sleeves of point lace; her bridal veil was also of old point, caught with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of orange blossoms, and wore a superb diamond necklace, a wedding gift. Her attendants were Mrs. Neville Moberly of Lexington, Ky., who was matron of honor, and Miss Lida Burpee of Waterbury, Conn., maid of honor. They were gowned alike in white dotted Swiss frocks, with bretelles, girdles, and sashes of pale pink taffeta. Their white hats were trimmed with pink ribbons and apple blossoms. Their bouquets were also apple blossoms.

Mr. Preston was attended by his brother, George Preston, as best man, and the ushers selected were Phoenix Ingraham, H. Rogers Winthrop, I. Townsend Burden, Jr., William P. Burden, James Ben Ali McAfee, Frederick Kernochan, J. Doddridge Peet, Jr., all of New York; Percy D. Haughton of Boston, Willing Spencer of Philadelphia, and Walter L. Cutting of Pittsfield, Mass.

The church ceremony was followed by a reception and breakfast at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Haggin, 587 Fifth Avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Preston are booked to sail for Europe.

These are to continue each evening, including Sundays, for three weeks. On June 12 the regular Summer season will begin, when the garden will be called the Wistaria Grove, and the attraction will be a musical review, "When We Were Forty-one."

TO SPARE PARK TREES AT A COST OF $15,000

Three Coiled Their Roots About a Water Main and Burst It.

NEW MAIN TO GO AROUND

Park Department Won't Let Water Department Cut the Trees' Roots to Repair the Old Main.

The right of a fine shade tree to live in Central Park has caused quite a controversy between the Park Department and the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity. The dispute has been carried on with letters.

Some time ago the Water Department Inspectors found that a main leading westward from the gateway of the old reservoir in the Park was contributing more than the allotted amount of moisture to some venerable Park trees. The Inspectors concluded that the trees had coiled their roots around the lod main and had squeezed it until it was broken. Then there began to be a noticeable decrease in the supply of water from the main.

To correct this trouble the Water Department men proposed to cut away some of the roots of three splendid shade trees, a maple and two birches. Samuel Parsons, Jr., the landscape architect of the Park Department, said right away that this would mean death to the trees. Chief Engineer Miller of the same department agreed with him.

Then the Water Department men proposed making a new five-foot water main. The path laid for that, however, would have meant the death of one of the largest maples in the Park. Even the Water Department men, accustomed to heartless ripping up of streets, hesitated. The Park Department men put their collective foot down hard.

"Dig any other ditch for a main," said the Water Department men, "and it will cost the city $15,000. Is your tree worth it?"

"Yes," said the Park men. "Most certainly."

Now the Water Department men have staked out another route. This would necessitate the cutting down of a pine, which could not be replaced; three spruces that are very old, and some shrubs. There the matter stands. The Park Department men will think it over.

LONDON LIKES OUR PLAYS.

Another Work by McLellan to be Produced in the Autumn.

LONDON, May 16.—American plays and players are having great success in London.

The Prince and Princess of Wales and other members of the royal family have recently witnessed performances of "Leah Kleschna," and "Her Own Way," and it is announced that another play by C. M. S. McLellan, author of "Leah Kleschna," will be produced at the Haymarket Theatre in the Autumn.

Two new works by Alfred Sutro, now among the most popular of English dramatists, are also promised.

George Bernard Shaw is running a series of his plays successfully as evening bills at the Court Theatre. Hitherto he has only ventured on occasional matinees in London.

MAY INVESTIGATE BANKS.

Special Grand Jury Is Impaneled in Texas.

Special to The New York Times.

DALLAS, Texas, May 16.—Judge Meek of the United States Court for the Northern District of Texas to-day, at the request of United States District Attorney Atwell, empaneled a special Grand Jury.

Judge Meek instructed the body to investigate closely into violations of the National banking laws and also the bankruptcy laws. These instructions lead to the conclusion that the affairs of one or more suspended National banks in Texas are to be investigated.

Promoter Asks for Receivership.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., May 16.—Fremont Hill of New Jersey, a stockholder of the South Dakota Central Railroad Company, which last Fall completed a line from Sioux Falls to Colton, and is building northwestward from Colton, has applied for a receiver for the company, alleging that it is insolvent and operating at a loss, and that fictitious stock has been issued certain stockholders. The Federal Court has assigned the hearing for May 23.

Health Boards Indorse Vaccination.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—After several hours' discussion of a majority and minority report on quarantine for smallpox, the conference of State Boards of Health to-day adopted a substitute in the following language:

"It is the belief of this conference that vaccination is the only thorough and practical preventive of smallpox."

KIRKE LA SHELLE DEAD AS RESULT OF ACCIDENT

Manager Had Diabetes and Shock Hastened His End.

PRODUCED MANY SUCCESSES

Was Sent to Florida Last Year by Physicians When on Verge of Breakdown.

BELLPORT, L. I., May 16.—Kirke La Shelle, the theatrical manager, died at his home here to-day of diabetes, which suddenly became acute as a result of an accident. He first became ill about six months ago.

The funeral will take place at the family residence here next Thursday at noon. It will be private.

Mr. La Shelle was born in 1862 and was only forty-three years old. Until the last year or two he had been able to work very hard with little trace of fatigue, but recently his health broke. Last year he was sent to Florida by his physician because he was on the verge of a complete breakdown. It was found impossible, however, to keep the energetic manager idle for any length of time.

Two weeks ago Mr. La Shelle moved from his apartments in West End Avenue to his beautiful Summer home at Bellport, L. I. His favorite recreation was to toil in the open air like a day laborer. It was while he was thus engaged that his left leg was injured. He had to go to bed at once, but would stay there only a day or two.

Then he went down stairs to mend a hot water pipe. It burst, and Mr. La Shelle was badly scalded about the face and head. The shock of this, following the other accident, was too much for him. Already in a weakened condition, he stood little chance when phlebitis set in. Dr. William Tod Helmuth of New York and Dr. Terry of Patchogue attended him continually, but to no avail. The end came at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. At his bedside, besides his wife and two children, was the artist, Ray Brown, a lifelong friend.

Kirke La Shelle's operations in the world of amusements were marked by a boldness which made more conservative managers shake their heads and predict failure. The production of "Arizona" furnished a good illustration. One manager after another declined the play, telling the author it would never pay. But Kirke La Shelle and Fred R. Hamlin produced it. That was eight years ago, and "Arizona" is still running. The two men, both now dead, made a fortune out of it.

Kirk La Shelle's career as a theatrical man began when he became E. S. Willard's business manager. The season after he went into partnership with George Lederer, and after that was business manager of the Bostonians. He had saved some money, and managed Frank Daniels as a comic opera star in "The Wizard of the Nile."

For eight years Mr. La Shelle managed Daniels, and produced "The Ameer," "Miss Simplicity," and "The Idol's Eye." Jointly, with Fred Ranking, he wrote the libretto of "The Ameer." With Julian Edwards, the composer, he later wrote "Princess Chic." Of all his enterprises none, perhaps, held so much interest for Mr. La Shelle as "The Bonnie Brier Bush," which ran successfully until the health of the veteran J. H. Stoddart broke down. Three years ago came "The Earl of Pawtucket," another big success. The last three ventures were "The Virginian," "The Education of Mr. Pipp," and "The Heir to the Hoorah." The last is now in New York.

INDIANA SOCIETY STRONG.

Senators, Diplomats, Poets, Humorists, and Plain Authors Joining.

The Indiana Society of New York, which was incorporated in this State several days ago, held its first meeting and an informal dinner last night in the rooms of the Building Trades Club. It was arranged to have the first annual dinner in the Waldorf-Astoria in the Fall. Joseph Gray Kitchell, Chairman of the Executive Committee, said:

"Among the prominent persons who have expressed a desire to join the society are Vice President Fairbanks, Secretary of State Hay, Senator Beveridge, James Whitcomb Riley, Congressman Overstreet, George Ade, Booth Tarkington, and many orators, authors, and Captains of Industry."

New York Shuts Out Chicago for the Third Consecutive Time.

Ruelbach, an ex-student of the University of Vermont, was designated by Manager Selee to do the pitching for the Chicagos against the New Yorks yesterday at the Polo Grounds, and incidentally it was the young man's first appearance in a major league game. He acquitted himself very creditably against the Hoboken last Sunday, but his unsteadiness yesterday was the sole cause of his team's defeat by a score of four to nothing. It was the third consecutive shutout for the visitors at the hands of the New Yorks, and as showing their weak efforts at the bat they made but two hits, one of these a tantalizing bounder in front of the plate. Altogether, only five men reached first base during the nine innings, and but one got as far as second. That was in the eighth inning, when Tinker's little infield hit placed him on first, and Kling's out to McGann on a throw by Bresnahan enabled him to get to second.

Ames pitched an excellent game, and received perfect support. But there was nothing unusual about the fielding, the plays as a rule being of a commonplace character. Eliminating Ruelbach's unsteadiness, the champions could not make much headway with his delivery, their contribution with the bat being four single hits, only two of these being to the outfield.

The first four balls pitched by Ruelbach were bad ones, and sent Donlin to first base. After Browne had retired on a fly to Tinker, Donlin reached second on McGann's out from Tinker to Barry. Donlin landed at third on Bresnahan's safe hit to short, and, after the latter had stolen second, Mertes struck out. It was in the third inning that the ex-collegian seemed to lose control of the ball. Donlin got to first base on a fumble by Barry, and reached second on Browne's sacrifice to Barry. McGann was hit by a pitched ball, and both runners were advanced by a good sacrifice of Bresnahan. With all of Kling's coaching, Ruelbach could not get a proper ball across the plate for Mertes, and he went to first, this filling the bases. Dahlen also got to first on four bad balls, Donlin being forced home. Devlin then hit to right field, scoring both McGann and Mertes, but after Devlin had stolen second Gilbert retired the side on a foul fly to catcher. McGann scored the fourth and last run in the fifth inning, reaching first by being hit for the second time by a pitched ball, and going to second on Bresnahan's single to left field. Both runners moved up a base on Mertes's sacrifice, and McGann tallied on Dahlen's long fly to left field.

PITTSBURG, 9; BROOKLYN, 7.

The series between the Brooklyn and Pittsburg Clubs at Washington Park was finished yesterday, as the game originally scheduled for to-day was last Sunday's fixture. The exchampions won yesterday by vigorous batting and perfect fielding and broke even in the series. Manager Clarke and Right Fielder Howard each made a home run, while for the Brooklyns Sheckard carried off the honors. The fielding of the local men was ragged, but Owen's work was an exception. Pitcher "Jack" Powell Defeats His Old Team Fate in St. Louis.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 16.—"Jack" Powell triumphed over his former teammates of the St. Louis Americans to-day in a pitchers' battle by the score of 3 to 2. The game was nip and tuck all the way to the finish, Rockenfield's error in the eighth inning allowing the visitors to score the winning run. The local men tried hard to get on even terms in the ninth, but Powell would not have it, and the best they could do was to score a single run. The New York team, not only fielded well, but ran bases superbly, and it was a question of superior base running that really settled the contest.

New York scored in the fourth inning on successive bunts by Dougherty and Keeler, a neat sacrifice by Williams, and a single by Anderson. The two runs in the eighth came unexpectedly after two were out. Powell was out, Howell to Jones; Dougherty struck out, then Keeler singled to centre field. Williams got a base on balls, and on Anderson's third hit of the day Keeler scored. Rockenfield got the ball in right field and held on to it while Williams ran all the way home from first.

The local men scored in the fifth inning on a base on balls to Rockenfield, Weaver's out at first, and Howell's double to right. They scored again in the ninth on Rockenfield's fielder's choice, and Van Zant's double to left, which Dougherty booted around.

A drizzling rain fell throughout the greater part of the game, which made the handling of the ball difficult. The score:

Jersey City Scores Victory by Pfanmiller's Pitching and Heavy Batting.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Quebec, May 16.—Pfanmiller's puzzling pitching, heavy hitting by Jersey City, and errors on the part of Capt. Bannon and other members of the Montreal team proved the undoing of the local team to-day. In the first inning, hits by Bean, Merritt, and Halligan, assisted by errors, scored two runs for Jersey City. Two more came in in the third under similar circumstances, with but two hits, while three sauntered home in the fifth on three hits and a couple of long drives. Bean's double in the sixth sent in another. Barber was replaced in the seventh by Hammond, who made his initial appearance, and made good. The score:

BUFFALO, 3; NEWARK, 1.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 16.—By bunching hits in the sixth inning Buffalo won from Newark this afternoon by a score of 3 to 1. Milligan pitched good ball for the locals, and had his opponents safe at all stages of the game. The batting of McManus and the work of Jones in left field were the features of the game. The score:

BALTIMORE, 2; ROCHESTER, 0.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 16.—Baltimore defeated Rochester in a nerve-racking game today by 2 to 0. There was no scoring until the eleventh inning. Then Baltimore went to the bat, and, with two out and two strikes on McNeil, Walters, who was in the box for Rochester, tossed an easy one over the plate, which McNiel drove safely past second. Hayden and McAleese then singled, driving in two runs. Score by innings:

CAIRNGORM WINNER IN THE LAST STRIDE

BUTTLING TOOK THE STAKES

Favorites Were Successful in Two of Six Races on a Heavy Track at Belmont Park.

When Cairngorm, hard ridden and under the whip, got up in the last jump and snatched a victory from Right and True for the closing race yesterday, he established just the right average for winning favorites that Belmont Park racegoers have become hardened to. Cairngorm's win putting two races of the six to the credit of post choices. A new variety of weather helped to puzzle the form followers, fog and rain together adding much to the difficulties of backers who tried to figure how horses that have been mixing up all calculations over a dry track might run in the deep and heavy going that prevailed yesterday. The fog was so thick at times that the back was hardly discernible, but it cleared away enough for the crowd to make out dimly how the races on the main course were progressing, though the races on the straight were more a matter of trust than ever before.

The best betting contest of the day was the one which Cairngorm won, a six-furlong handicap down the straight course, with six runners, of whom Cairngorm was always the favorite, though every horse in the race was well backed. Right and True, the last outsider, starting at 10 to 1.

Cairngorm started at 8 to 5, and under Hildebrand's hard riding, barely managed to get to the post first, Right and True, which was in the lead from the moment that the horses came into sight out of the fog, galloping far off in front until close on the post, where Cairngorm closed on him, and in a hard fight beat him a short head, well off before Uncas, third.

In the race for the Baychester Stakes, one mile for three-year-olds, Zeala, sister to Waterboy, always was favorite, but the mud seemed to take away all her speed, and she never was a contender. Buttling, a well-backed 6-to-1 chance, leading from start to finish, and winning handily from Sinister, which from a bad break, closed a lot of ground, and was a good second.

In the only race of the afternoon for two-year-olds, one of the best-planned coups of the meeting failed woefully, with very disastrous effects for a select group of Western horsemen, of whom J. W. May, formerly trainer of Highball, was the head. May started the filly Toots Mook, by Tithonius, in the race, in the name of the Tippah Farm's stable, and Toots Mook was backed by the Kentuckian and his friends as if she could not lose. She went to the post favorite after opening at 8 to 1, and, breaking out of the crowd like a flash, led into the last quarter of a mile by three lengths. Then she suddenly tired, and ran out, swerving so abruptly that the crowd along the field stand fence scattered in terror. Toots Mook seeming determined to run straight through the fence. That swerve was enough to beat her, and Toots Mook galloped in last. Summaries:

ATHLETES DISPLEASED WITH ELIGIBILITY RULE

Yale and Harvard Have Stirred Officials of the A. A. U.

SECRETARY SULLIVAN ANGRY

Says It Smacks of Professionalism and the Colleges Should Be Made to Rescind It.

The new eligibility rules just ratified between Yale and Harvard, which was announced in THE NEW YORK TIMES of yesterday, have caused much adverse comment in athletic circles, and many believe that their effect will be far reaching. Among the latter is James E. Sullivan, Secretary-Treasurer of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, who stated yesterday that this clause of the rules is the worst thing that could befall amateur athletics:

Any athlete who, on arriving at the age of nineteen, had received money in contest, after a lapse of two years, be placed in good standing at the discretion of the college of which he is a member.

"Why, just think of it," said Mr. Sullivan. "Here we have been striving for a quarter of a century to elevate amateur sport. Organizations have been started all over this country with the same idea. And now to have the representatives of two colleges come forward with any such legislation as this is to make amateur sport in this country a laughing stock. What possible excuse can Harvard or Yale make to Oxford and Cambridge, should they compete again, if they take to the other side a band of athletes who have in many instances been whitewashed because they have been good athletes? Harvard and Yale have, in the past, raised the standard in the East; all of the other colleges looked to them. They set the standard. I think for this once they have gone backward and made a serious mistake, a mistake that they will not admit now, but realize in years to come.

"Of course this is a matter over which the Amateur Athletic Union has no jurisdiction, but this I will say that if Yale and Harvard were members of the A. A. U. and they adopted any such laws the A. A. U. would at once proceed against them and expel them from its ranks. This baby talk that a man of nineteen does not know that he is doing wrong in accepting money is simply rot, and it is an insult to the intelligence of those that left prep schools and high schools and entered colleges.

"Personally, I am of the opinion that the creating of this new eligibility rule, whereby an individual college can whitewash a professional, is the worst kind of a rule to make. It looks to me as though this was the beginning of a movement of Yale and Harvard to do away with amateurism and have professional sport, and professional sport only. There can be no other excuse for the adoption of this rule. We have to-day in the United States thousands of young men who have not as yet reached the age of nineteen, but are professional athletes in every sense of the word, and they glory in it. All of these thousands of athletes will now be eligible, providing they show some desire to enter Yale or Harvard, and when they are twenty-one will be trotted out as simon-pure amateurs. Can any one see the wisdom of such legislation? I don't see why the age was made nineteen. Why didn't they make it twenty-five?

"Records prove that some of the best athletes were in the championship class when nineteen or under, and the best athletes that ever entered college, that ever entred prep schools, were nineteen or under, and to-day an athlete that is nineteen is in a fine state of manhood, brain developed, body developed, and if at some time previous he has been a professional athlete there is no good reason why any college should want him reinstated.

"This eligibility rule is a matter which the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America should take cognizance at once. It should call the attention of aHrvard and Yale to the effect that they cannot reinstate or allow a professional athlete to compete, and if the colleges refuse to abide by the laws of the Intercollegiate Association, then that association should expel them quickly."

MISS SUTTON TO GO ABROAD.

American Tennis Champion Seeks English Laurels.

England is to be invaded by another of the American lawn tennis champions. Miss May Sutton of California, the holder of the woman's National title in the singles, is to make a tour of the most famous of the English meetings and try to wrest some of their laurels from their keeping. But chief of all will be her attempt to win the English national title from Miss Douglas, and, paired with the American National champion, Holcombe Ward, win the English mixed doubles honors.

Miss Sutton will sail for London from this city on Saturday. Upon her arrival on the other side of the Atlantic Ocean her first entry into tournament play will be at the Northern English championship, which is to be held at Manchester, beginning the week of June 12. This date is exactly two weeks before the great All-England championships at Wimbledon, which begin June 26, and in which the men's titles are held by Hugh Lawrence Doherty and Reginald F. Doherty.

The young American girl, who is not twenty years of age, will meet the foremost women of the English courts. Miss Sutton made a record last season in her triumphal tour from West to East, in which she won every tournament in which she played, finally gaining the National championship from Miss Elizabeth H. Moore.

Ward will arrive in England about a week before the playing of the championship at Wimbledon. He will be with the American challenging team, but he has arranged to pair with Miss Sutton for the mixed doubles.

BIG INTER-CLUB POOL MEET.

Metropolitan Handicap Tournament to be Held at The Strollers.

Amateur pool experts of the leading clubs in this city are to compete in the second annual Metropolitan Pool Handicap Tournament, which will begin at the Strollers, 67 Madison Avenue, next Tuesday evening, May 23. The arrangements this year for the tournament are much more elaborate than heretofore. Practically the entire "Blue Book" club list of the city will be represented among the competitors. The tournament will be played on the miss and out system, those losing their first actual match being eligible for play in the consolation event. The handicaps will range from 125 balls for the scratch man down to 75 balls for the man having the greatest handicap. There will be four prizes. A valuable silver punch bowl and ladle to the winner, a runner-up prize for the man beaten in the finals, a high-run prize, and a consolation prize.

The committee in charge of the tournament includes Edward Gray, chairman; Howard A. Colby, Fred Noyes Drake, George Ethridge, Robert C. Sands, Benjamin B. Tilt, and Maximillan B. Ziegler. Among the honorary stewards of the tournament are Col. John Jacob Astor, Henry H. Armstead, Jr., Guy Phelps Dodge, Albert Gallatin, Frederick C. Havemeyer, Edward S. Knapp, Lawrence Knickerbocker, Eugene Van Schaick, and Jacob Wendell, Jr.

The champions and ex-champions at pool of the New York Athletic Club, the Racquet and Tennis Club, the Players, Lambs, the University, and the Strollers have been invited to act as referees of the competitions.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Embroidered Button Cloth Dutiable at 60 Per Cent.—Other Decisions.

In a decision written by General Appraiser Howell, the Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday overruled a protest filed by B. Blumenthal & Co., New York, and held that embroidered button material is dutiable at the rate of 60 per cent. ad valorem. The importers contended for duty at the rate of 10 per cent. The merchandise consisted of manufactures of cloth woven in patterns of such size, shape, or form, or cut in such manner as to be fit for buttons exclusively. All of the goods were embroidered by hand or by machinery. The board affirms Collector Stranahan's classification.

Other claims overruled yesterday were by H. Gitterman & Co., Theodore Tiedemann & Son, McGibbon & Co., W. M. French, A. T. Pattison, Hensel Hensel, Bruckman & Lorbacher, Einstein, Wolff & Co., and others; Martin D. Levy & Co., Veit, Son & Co., R. H. Macy & Co., E. S. Beer, A. J. Pulimann & Co., Calhoun, Robbins & Co., Horstmann, Von Hein & Co., Marcel Schmidt, F. Ring & Co.'s successors, B. Altman & Co., Reiss & Brady, and others; Alexander Holander & Co., Lamb, Finlay & Co., and others, New York.

The board sustained protests by R. C. Hahn and others, G. W. Sheldon & Co., Mills & Gibb, L. E. B. Craig, A. S. Davis, Blum & Co., Bawo & Dotter, Errico Brothers, Streheim & Romann, Mengel & Co., A. Steinhardt & Brother, New York.

Claims partially sustained were by Aisel, Putzel & Co. and others, Lamb, Finlay & Co., R. W. Moore, J. L. Freund and others, D. C. Gardiner, Neuss, Hessler & Co., New York.

American Smelters Securities Company

Five Per Cent. Cumulative Preferred Stock, Series B.

DIVIDENDS PAYABLE QUARTERLY ON THE FIRST DAYS OF MARCH, JUNE, SEPTEMBER AND DECEMBER.

Shares of the par value of $100 each.

The issue is subject to redemption or purchase (in whole or in part), at par and accrued dividends, on June 1, 1930, or on any quarterly dividend date thereafter upon two months' notice.

E. W. Nash, Esq., President, and Daniel Guggenheim, Esq., Chairman of the Executive Committee of the American Smelting & Refining Company, write us, under date of May 11, 1905, in part, as follows:

"The American Smelters Securities Company (formerly the American Smelters Exploration Company) is already the owner of important ore producing properties, or the securities thereof, and is about to acquire a number of well-established productive smelting properties, or the securities thereof, and to construct additional smelting plans for the extension of its business, especially on the Pacific Coast.

The American Smelting & Refining Company is the owner of a controlling interest in the Common Stock of the American Smelters Securities Company, in which the voting power is lodged exclusively for the first two years and thereafter unless dividends on the Preferred Stock for one year shall be in default. The amended certificate of incorporation of the American Smelters Securities Company provides that neither class of preferred stock shall be increased without the affirmative vote of the holders of at least two-thirds in amount of every class of stock. The stock of the American Smelters Securities Company consists of:

and Preferred Stock	47,000,000
Divided into:
Six Per Cent. Cumulative Preferred Stock, Series A, unguaranteed	$17,000,000
Five Per Cent. Cumulative Preferred Stock, Series B, guaranteed	30,000,000
Total	$77,000,000

So far as the Securities Company is concerned, the Series A Stock has a preference as to dividends; the Series B Stock ranks equally with the Series A Stock as to assets, both classes of Preferred Stock having equal priority over the Common Stock in this regard.

All or any part of the stock (Series B) outstanding may be redeemed at par and accrued dividends by the American Smelters Securities Company, or may be purchased at par and accrued dividends by the American Smelting & Refining Company, on June 1, 1930, or upon any quarterly dividend date thereafter upon two months' previous notice.

EVERY CERTIFICATE OF STOCK WILL BEAR THE FOLLOWING ENDORSEMENT OF GUARANTY BY THE AMERICAN SMELTING & REFINING COMPANY:

"FOR VALUE RECEIVED, the American Smelting & Refining Company hereby agrees with the present and every future holder of the shares of Preferred Stock, Series B, of the American Smelters Securities Company represented by the within certificate, and his personal representatives and assigns, that quarterly dividends at the rate of five per cent. per annum upon the stock represented by said certificate will be promptly paid irrespective of whether such dividends shall be earned and declared by the American Smelters Securities Company, and that in case of the liquidation, dissolution or winding up of the American Smelters Securities Company, whether voluntary or involuntary, the holder of this certificate will realize upon the shares represented thereby the par value thereof, together with interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum for any period for which dividends at said rate shall not have been paid either by said Securities Company or under this guaranty, (which interest shall be in lieu of omitted dividends.)

"The American Smelting & Refining Company further agrees that it will in all respects perform the agreement, dated May 11, 1905, entered into between it and the American Smelters Securities Company for the benefit of the holders of said Preferred Stock, Series B."

THE AMERICAN SMELTING & REFINING COMPANY HAS ALSO ENTERED INTO AN AGREEMENT WHICH PROVIDES AMONG OTHER THINGS, THAT, SO LONG AS ANY OF THE PREFERRED STOCK, SERIES B, OF THE SECURITIES COMPANY SHALL BE OUTSTANDING, THE AMERICAN SMELTING & REFINING COMPANY SHALL NOT ISSUE ANY BONDS OR MAKE ANY FURTHER GUARANTY IN RESPECT OF ANY CAPITAL STOCK OR OBLIGATIONS, WHICH, INCLUDING THE GUARANTY, OF SAID PREFERRED STOCK, SHALL CREATE A LIABILITY, ACTUAL OR CONTINGENT, FOR INTEREST OR DIVIDENDS OR OTHER LIKE CHARGES, WHICH SHALL IN ANY YEAR EXCEED IN THE AGGREGATE TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT. OF ITS NET EARNINGS FOR THE TWELVE MONTHS NEXT PRECEDING THE CREATION OF SUCH BONDS OR GUARANTY.

Except the interest on $561,000 bonds of an old issue, which will soon be retired, the American Smelting & Refining Company has no charge ahead of its Capital Stock other than that arising on the guaranty of the said $30,000,000 of Preferred Stock, Series B, of the American Smelters Securities Company. Thus this guaranty is practically the only fixed charge of the American Smelting & Refining Company, whose capital stock consists of $50,000,000 Common and $30,000,000 7 per cent. Cumulative Preferred Stock, (together having a present market value of about $117,000,000.)

AGAINST THE ANNUAL $1,500,000 GUARANTEED DIVIDEND UPON THE $30,000,000 PREFERRED B STOCK, THE NET EARNINGS OF THE AMERICAN SMELTING & REFINING COMPANY FOR THE PRESENT FISCAL YEAR ENDING MAY 31, 1905, WILL AMOUNT TO ABOUT $8,500,000. IN ADDITION THE NET EARNINGS OF THE AMERICAN SMELTERS SECURITIES COMPANY WILL, IT IS ESTIMATED, ON THE COMPLETION OF THE VARIOUS WORKS IN PROCESS OF CONSTRUCTION AND IN CONTEMPLATION, AMOUNT TO ABOUT $5,500,000.

For further information as to this issue of stock reference is made to the letter, above mentioned, of the President and the Chairman of the Executive Committee of the American Smelting and Refining Company.

The subscription will be opened at the office of the undersigned at 10 o'clock A. M. on Thursday, May 25, 1905, and will be closed at 3 o'clock P. M., or earlier, on the same day, the right being reserved to reject any applications and to award a smaller amount than applied for. Allotments made upon subscriptions are to be paid for on June 1, 1905, against delivery of temporary certificates or receipts, exchangeable for engraver stock certificates when issued.

The proceedings for the creation of this issue of Preferred Stock were taken under the supervision of Messrs. Guggenheimer, Untermyer and Marshall. The legality of the issue of the stock and of the guaranty by the American Smelting & Refining Company has also been approved by Messrs. Guthrie, Cravath and Henderson, WHO FURTHER ADVISE US THAT THE STOCK IS NOT SUBJECT TO TAXATION UNDER THE LAWS OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK.

Application will be made to list this stock on the New York Stock Exchange.

To the Holders of the Two Five Years 4½% Gold Bonds of the Southern Pacific Company

Notice is hereby given that the Southern Pacific Company will redeem at par and accrued interest on June 1, 1905, at the office of the Company, 120 Broadway, in the City of New York, all its bonds issued under its mortgage to the Central Trust Company of New York, Trustee, dated December 1, 1900, securing the two five years' four and one-half per cent. gold bonds of said Southern Pacific Company. Interest upon said bonds will cease on June 1, 1905.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC COMPANY,
By E. H. HARRIMAN, President.

Referring to the above notice, the Southern Pacific Company has resolved to create an issue of $30,000,000 "Two Five Years Four Per Cent. Gold Bonds," to be dated June 1, 1905, and to bear interest at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum from that date, payable semi-annually on the first day of June and the first day of December in each year, and to be redeemable at the option of the Company, or its successors, at par and accrued interest on June 1, 1907, or on any semi-annual interest day thereafter, and to be secured by collateral to be deposited with the Central Trust Company of New York as Trustee; AND THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC COMPANY HEREBY OFFERS to the holders of its "Two Five Years Four and One-Half Per Cent. Gold Bonds," which have been called for redemption on June 1, 1905, THE PRIVILEGE OF EXCHANGING THE SAME FOR SUCH NEW "TWO FIVE YEARS 4 PER CENT. GOLD BONDS" ON THE BASIS OF RECEIVING $1,000 FACE VALUE OF SUCH NEW BONDS AND $42.50 IN CASH FOR EACH $1,000 FACE VALUE OF SUCH FOUR AND ONE-HALF PER CENT. BONDS, WITH COUPONS MATURING JUNE 1ST AND DECEMBER 1ST, 1905, ATTACHED.

AT THIS PRICE [illegible] INTEREST YIELD OF THE BONDS IS 5.07% IF REDEEMED AT THE EXPIRATION OF TWO YEARS.
4.72% IF REDEEMED AT THE EXPIRATION OF THREE YEARS.
4.55% IF REDEEMED AT THE EXPIRATION OF FOUR YEARS.
4.45% UPON PAYMENT AT THE EXPIRATION OF FIVE YEARS.

HOLDERS OF SUCH FOUR AND ONE-HALF PER CENT. SOUTHERN PACIFIC COMPANY, COPPER IN MONTANA.

EFFECT OF MINNIE HEALY DECISION ON HEINZE INTERESTS. UNITED COPPER COMPANY.

The situation of the copper interests at Butte, Mont., the centre of probably the largest copper industry in the world, does not seem to be clearly understood. The interests practically on the one side belong to the Amalgamated Copper Company, which some years ago purchased from Marcus Daly and his partners the Anaconda, the Boston and Montana, and other properties, while on the other side are what is known as the Heinze properties, now owned by the United Copper Company.

The recent decision in the Minnie Healy case by the Supreme Court of the State of Montana has settled finally in favor of the United Copper Company, the only case in which the titles to their ground has been disputed. The result is that the United Copper Company, represented by F. Augustus Heinze, is now the undisputed owner of the richest properties in Butte. The fight has been a long one and has been against the enormous power of the Standard Oil and the Amalgamated, and been watched with the keenest interest from one end of the country to the other. The spectacle of one young man standing out alone against the great power of William Rockefeller and H. H. Rogers, and finally succeeding in the court of last resort in Montana, is one which has attracted the admiration of the whole country, and even of England and Germany, and is a great tribute to his courage and ability. Mr. Heinze is a man who, even his opponents admit, has the qualities of undisputed integrity, absolute fearlessness, and a thorough knowledge of the copper business.

The United Copper Company has now a production of thirty-six million pounds of copper per annum from undisputed ground of its own, upon which there is a net profit under Heinze's management of over five cents per pound. This production since the Minnie Healy decision will be increased to about forty-three million pounds per annum in about thirty days, which will amount to over two million dollars per annum net profit.

The United Copper Company has $880,000 in the treasury and is able to declare a dividend on the common stock this month. The amount of ore in sight owned by the United Copper Company is over $36,000,000 net, and upon its capital of five millions preferred stock and forty-five millions of common stock it certainly, under present conditions, should stand amongst the greatest of the copper producing companies of the world. The success of this corporation has been due to the earnest fighting qualities, the thorough knowledge of the economic production of copper, and the reputation for personal integrity of Mr. F. Augustus Heinze, who is the President of the company, and who devotes all his time and energies to the actual management of this corporation at Butte.

The common stock of the United Copper Company stands to-day on the New York Curb at less than $25.00 per share; par value $100. It is obvious that it is now worth intrinsically above $70.00 per share, and will doubtless reach this point within sixty days. It is, however, expected to go much higher as the Houston & Texas Central First Mortgage Bonds.

Notice of Bonds Drawn for Payment.

The Houston & Texas Central Railroad Company, having in its possession cash proceeds from sales of lands covered by Trust Indenture between Frederic P. Olcott, the Central Trust Company of New York, and the Southern Pacific Company, dated April 1, 1890, which are applicable to the purchase of the Houston & Texas Central Railroad Company's first Mortgage Bonds, secured by such Indenture to an amount sufficient at the price limited in said Trust Indenture to purchase and retire 250 of such bonds, and it having been found that such bonds cannot be purchased at or below 110 per centum of the par value thereof and accrued interest thereon, there have been drawn by lot, under the provisions of such Trust Indenture, bonds secured thereby bearing the distinguishing numbers hereinafter stated, to be paid for out of such proceeds of such land sales at the said rate of 110 per centum of the par value thereof and accrued interest thereon.

THE PHENIX NATIONAL BANK

OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

Notice is hereby given of the following amendments, proposed by at least two-thirds of the Board of Directors, to the Articles of Association of The Phenix National Bank of the City of New York, to wit:

I. Amend Section 1 of Article III. to read as follows:

The Board of Directors of this association shall consist of not less than five and not more than nine Directors. The number hereafter elected at each annual meeting of the shareholders to constitute the Board for the year, except at the special meeting of shareholders, on Wednesday, the 14th of June, 1905, or any adjournment thereof, seven, or a less number of Directors may be elected in addition to the fourteen Directors now constituting the Board.

II. Amend Section 2 of Article VI. to read as follows:

Notice of the Annual Meeting of shareholders shall be given by mailing a notice of the time, place, and object of such meeting to each shareholder at least ten days prior to the day of such meeting, or by publishing notice of such meeting for ten days in a newspaper published in the City of New York, N. Y.

III. Amend Section 6 of Article VI. to read as follows:

The Directors thus elected shall take their seats at the Board at the usual hour and place of meeting of the Board, or at such hour and place as may be provided for in the by-laws,) on the first business day after the annual meeting of shareholders for the election of Directors, and shall as soon as may be proceed to organize and to elect by ballot one of their number as President of the association.

IV. Add to Section 2 of Article VII. the following:

And until such election by the Board such duties shall be performed in the manner and by the officer or officers specified in the by-laws.

Delete Section 2 of Article VIII. and insert in lieu thereof a new section to read as follows:

These Articles of Association may be changed or amended at any time, by shareholders owning a majority of the stock of the association, in any manner not inconsistent with law; and the Board of Directors, by a two thirds vote, may call a meeting of the shareholders for this or any other purpose not inconsistent with law, by publishing notice thereof for ten days in a newspaper published in the City of New York, N. Y., or by mailing to each shareholder notice in writing at least ten days before the time fixed for such meeting.

Notice is further given that a special shareholders' meeting will be held on Wednesday, the 14th June, 1905, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at the office of the bank, No. 49 Wall Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, N. Y., for the purpose of filling any or all of the new Directorships that may be created by the amendment hereinbefore, provided for by electing seven, or a less number of additional members of the Board of Directors, in addition to the fourteen members of which the Board is at present constituted.

By order of the Board of Directors.

THE FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Neglected; Call Money Easy, 2@2½ Per Cent.

Dull and Featureless Market, Despite Some Rather Interesting Items of Intelligence.

The volume of business upon the Stock Exchange yesterday shrunk to one-half its recent proportions, and the fluctuations included few of so much as a point, while the fractional changes were divided between advances and declines, the latter probably prevailing. The yacht race is the most obvious explanation, although it must be added that the fog was as thick on the Exchange as at the starting line. There was news enough—general and specific—but prices were irresponsive. Missouri, Kansas and Texas reported an increase of March net of $131,048, and this meant more for this road than the figures might have signified in some other cases. The common fell a fraction, and the preferred rose a fraction. Similar apathy marked the price movement of Tennessee Coal and United States Rubber, although they made annual reports of significance regarding themselves specifically, and regarding the general industrial situation. Neither of these properties developed any tendency distinguishable from that of the general market.

The influences of general application were firstly an illustration that familiarity ought not to breed contempt with the war while it lasts. There was nothing in the report that Germany had seized Chinese territory, but the rumor sufficed to disturb London, whose sales were depressing in the early business. The strength in the produce markets also should be included among the day's factors inducing caution among traders. At this season strength in grain prices may signify either speculation—there were reports of a corn corner—or anticipation of some crop change. The weekly report contained nothing worse than delay in planting corn due to heavy rains—which should be made a note of against drought scares in a few weeks. The wheat condition, after all abatements, was summarized as "promising," with "satisfactory" advance during the week."

The sluggishness of the money market is worth remark, for it occurs under conditions adapted to cause awakening, if any is to be anticipated, for some time ahead. The shifting of loans this week, due to the banks' repayments to the Treasury and to large syndicate operations, were of exceptional proportions, but it is easier to borrow money than to lend it. The full preliminary report of foreign commerce was of the anticipated agreeable nature. The growth of exports of produce is reinforced by exports of manufactures, so that not even the failure of the wheat exports in this exceptional year prevents the largest monthly excess of exports during this calendar year, and the fourth largest for any April in a decade. We imported a slight excess of gold last month, although in April of the four years preceding we exported an excess. For the fiscal year the excess of exports shows a decrease due solely to the increase of imports, the exports running along equably. To know whether this increase of imports is wholesome it is necessary to await the classified figures.

APRIL'S FOREIGN TRADE.

Increases in Stock Exports and Imports—Excess of Exports Larger.

The Department of Commerce and Labor, through its Bureau of Statistics, has issued the preliminary statement of the foreign trade of the United States for the month of April. The imports of merchandise free of duty amounted to $44,694,773, as against $37,154,766 in April of 1904, while those dutiable were $50,941,369, as against $46,367,116 dutiable imports in April 1904. Domestic exports of merchandise for April amounted to $126,137,432, and foreign exports to $3,220,797, being a total of $129,358,229 and an excess of domestic exports over imports of $33,922,087. The total exports for April, 1904, amounted to $109,880,405, and the excess of exports over imports for that month to $26,358,523.

The figures on gold showed imports for April of $2,559,858 and exports of $1,308,874 as against imports of $10,389,869 and exports of $19,470,157 for April of 1904. Those on silver showed imports of $2,559,858 and exports of $2,317,599, as against imports of $2,215,436 and exports of $3,832,758.

For the ten months ended April 30 imports of merchandise totaled $935,072,990, as against $829,231,975 for April, 1904, and exports totaled $1,275,059,368, as against $1,277,715,490 for April, 1904. Imports of gold for the ten months were $48,842,767, as against $83,696,553 for the ten months ended April 30, 1904, and exports were $88,081,572, as against $36,868,553 for the corresponding ten months of the last fiscal year. Silver imports for the ten months amounted to $21,386,656, and exports to $38,677,597, against imports of $23,083,033 and exports of $39,964,055 for the ten months ended April 30, 1904.

MONTREAL AND BOSTON PLAN.

To be Dominion Copper Co., Ltd.—$700,000 Bond Issue.

The reorganization plan for the Montreal and Boston Consolidated Copper Company was announced yesterday. The new corporation, which will take over the properties of the old Montreal and Boston Consolidated, will be known as the Dominion Copper Company, Limited. It will have a capital of 3,000,000 shares of $1 par value and a mortgage of $1,000,000. Of the bonds, $700,000 will be issued at once to satisfy obligations holding over from the old administration and to provide working capital.

An underwriting syndicate was formed here to underwrite the bonds. They will be offered to stockholders at 90, a bonus of 200 shares of stock going with each bond subscribed. Stockholders of the old Montreal and Boston Company will receive share for share for their holdings.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Yachtsmen's Absence Felt by Market—Only 409,102 Shares Traded In.

The dullness in yesterday's stock market was to a large extent due to the absence of many of the floor traders who had gone down the bay to witness the start of the transatlantic yacht race. The absence of these in such dull times as the present, when most of the business originates on the floor of the Exchange, makes a decided difference. The yachtless customers, of the famous Travers epigram, are not greatly in evidence in this market. There were only 409,102 shares traded in. This is about 30,000 shares less than the low record for the year, which was made on Jan. 10. On Dec. 22 of last year the total was 421,865, and on Dec. 23, just before the Christmas holidays, the total reached was only 289,382 shares. Of the transactions yesterday more than half were recorded in the first hour. In the noon hour the ticker stood still for minutes at a time, and from 1 to 2 P. M. exactly 34,260 shares were sold.

Nothing Sharp at All.

When a market becomes as lifeless as that of yesterday, fluctuations cease to convey any meaning. The market yesterday reflected nothing, not even the news that did come out, such as it was. Foreign affairs and events had no influence on prices, and home news was not of the kind that stirs up speculation. "It is a very flat day," remarked a trader who had listlessly walked from the news ticker to the stock ticker and back again. "Yes," replied another, "a regular apartment house day." And the other sleepy customers woke up just long enough to mark their disapproval of this joke by deep groans.

Steel Common.

A very large short interest is understood to exist in existence in United States Steel common. Some commission houses are short of this stock for almost every customer in their offices, and there has been some considerable short selling for Pittsburg account. This selling has been encouraged by recent stories of a slackening in the demand for pig iron, and so far there has been no movement to drive these shorts to cover. Such a movement could probably be carried out with considerable success, as a good deal of the stock sold on the recent break to 30 has been taken out of the Street, paid for in full by persons who are willing to wait a year if necessary in order to get 50 for the stock, as many confidently expect they will get.

Want No More Issues.

Although the bond market is said to be better than it has been for some weeks, yet bankers do not give much encouragement to further new issues at this time. Some of the recent big issues are still undisposed of, even though large blocks of the Pennsylvania convertible bonds have been taken by speculative investors, who believe that the convertible clause will sooner or later prove a valuable one. Just what the feeling among bankers on bond issues is just now appears from the fact that a well-known banking firm is now receiving congratulations on not having participated as underwriters in a recent issue from the same persons who, when the issue was announced were inclined to think that the firm needed sympathy.

Why Gould Issues Resisted.

Every day brings new revelations explaining why the Gould issues during the bull market resisted with such signal success all efforts to advance them. The apparent differences existing between the head of this system and one of his lieutenants probably had something to do with it. Now that the disagreeable disclosures seem to be about over those who sold Gould issues short are beginning to find that these stocks resist attacks nearly as well as they resisted attempts to advance their prices a few months ago.

Outsider for Secretary.

There were rumors on the floor yesterday that a new Secretary to the Stock Exchange would probably be appointed at the next meeting of the Governing Committee and that the man selected would prove to be a well and favorably known outsider. Inquiry failed to reveal any further clue to the identity of the man, and the secret of the intentions of the Governors in this matter seems to be well guarded. The reappointment of Charles L. Burnham as Assistant Secretary is believed to mean that he will not be made the successor of William McClure.

St. Paul Puzzles.

The movement in St. Paul continues to puzzle the traders. The stock at one time yesterday touched 177, and although it closed with a net gain of only ¼ of 1 per cent. yet it was the only active stock with dealings of more than a few thousand shares which showed any strength. The Street was not inclined to look on the movement with favor, mainly because certain traders were more than active in this stock, and especially as there was no news to account for any movement. The opinion which found most favor was that the stock, because of its old speculative leadership, was being used as a "blinder" to hide selling in other issues. It was, however, contended by some that for this purpose the movement was too formidable. The close of the day left the speculative element as much in the dark as ever.

Trust Company Changes.

W. J. R. Mills, formerly Treasurer of the Central Realty Bond and Trust Company, has resigned the Secretaryship of the Lawyers' Title Insurance and Trust Company, to become associated with George W. Young in the banking house of George W. Young & Co. Walter N. Vail has been elected to succeed Mr. Mills as Secretary, and Archibald Forbes has been appointed Assistant Treasurer of the Lawyers' Title Insurance and Trust Company.

TRADING IN BALTIMORE.

Special to the New York Times.

BALTIMORE, May 16.—Trading to-day continued moderate in volume and irregular in prices. In the bond list Cotton Duck incomes were stronger and sold firmly at 3½, and Coast Line of Connecticut 5-20s were ¼ up, at 96¼. Losses were sustained in West Virginia 6s of ½, at 113½, and of ¼ in Light and Power 4½, at 95¼, and other bonds were steady.

The first transaction in the preferred stock of the proposed Consolidated Cotton Duck Company was recorded at 30. The stock is traded in "when issued," and has been quoted since it was admitted to trading Saturday at about 30 bid to 35 asked. A demand for Seaboard Air Line stocks following announcement of the holding company plan is taken as promising more active trading in these issues. The closing was firm. The sales were: Shares, 228; bonds, $58,400, as follows:

FOR PORT CHESTER'S WORK.

Financiers of Road Call for $1,000,000 for Buying Real Estate.

The Directors of the New York Railroad and Development Company, which is the corporation handling the financial end of the Port Chester Railroad, has sent out to parties interested an immediate call for $1,000,000, to be applied to the purchase of real estate already contracted for and to the acquisition of right of way and additional real estate needed for the immediate work of construction.

The Executive Committee, the members of which are J. H. Harding, John W. Gates, Charles W. Morse, D. H. Morris, and George R. Sheldon, is authorized to make such additional calls for cash as may be required. It is announced that the sub-contractors on the excavation and masonry will be set at work as soon as the necessary rights of way and real estate have been secured.

Oakleigh Thorne, President of the new Trust Company of America, and a representative of Harvey Fisk & Sons, are expected shortly to enter the Port Chester Directorate.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call loaned at 2@2½ per cent., closing at 2½ per cent. Most of the day's loans were made at 2½ per cent.

Time money rates, 8 per cent, for sixty days, 3¼ per cent. for ninety days to five months, 3¼@3½ per cent. for six months, and 3¾ per cent. for eight months.

Mercantile paper rates, 3¾@4 per cent. for thirty to ninety days' indorsed bills receivable, 4@4½ per cent. for choice four to six months' single names, and 5 per cent. for others.

New York Clearing House exchanges were $458,112,254; balance, $16,525,661; Sub-Treasury credit balance, $1,506,513.

Foreign exchange was firm. Nominal rates were $4.85¾ for sixty days and $4.87½ for demand. Rates for actual business were as follows: Sixty days, $4.8460; demand, $4.8680; cables, $4.8705.

Commercial bills were $4.84@$4.85. Continental bills were quoted as follows: Francs, 5.18⅞ and 5.17½@5.17⅝; reichsmarks, 94⅝ and 95 1-16; guilders, 40 1-16@40⅜ and 40 5-16.

THE LONDON MARKET.

LONDON, May 16.—Money was in better demand in the market to-day, and in moderate supply. Discounts were easy owing to the condition of Continental Exchanges.

Operators on the Stock Exchange were idle. Business was affected by the early but unfounded report of a German occupation of Hai-Chow, Shan-Tung Peninsula. Consols were easy. Home rails were heavy.

Americans opened quietly steady at about parity, hardened a fraction, then reacted slightly, and seasawed. Little business was transacted during the afternoon, and Americans closed flat. Grand Trunk was weak on forced sales.

Continentals were weak on Paris selling.

Japanese improved a little. Imperial Japanese Government 6s of 1904 were quoted at 101.

Copper was flat to-day, closing at 64½. The decrease in the stocks in England and France and the reduction in the visible supply, although bull features, were insufficient to sustain values against selling by bull interests. The weakness was accentuated by the reduction in the price of electrolytic and the decline in copper shares on the Stock Exchange.

Money, 2@2¼ per cent. Rate of discount in the open market, for short bills, 2 3-16@2¼ per cent.; for three months' bills, 2 5-16@2¼ per cent.

The amount of bullion taken into the Bank of England on balance to-day was £131,000.

Gold premiums are quoted as follows: Madrid, 31.62; Lisbon, 9.50.

NEW ICE COMPANY.

Said to Have Control of Artificial Product—Capital, $10,000,000.

With a capital of $10,000,000 the United States Pliable Plate Ice Company was incorporated in Trenton yesterday. The company is intended to take over the plants and business of several artificial ice concerns controlling patents which, it is said, will give to the new corporation a virtual control of the artificial ice business in this country.

In a descriptive statement published yesterday it was declared that the Pliable Plate Ice Company could put ice on wagons in New York City at one-half the cost of handling Hudson River ice to the point of distribution. A process in use in the Pittsburg plant of the company will, it it said, produce clear ice as against six or seven days required by other methods.

SUIT TO KEEP QUOTATIONS.

Exchanges Said to be Considering Step Against Bucket Shops.

The New York Stock Exchange and the New York Cotton Exchange are understood to be preparing to take advantage of the recent Supreme Court decision declaring that the quotations made in stocks and commodities on the floor of any Exchange are the property of the Exchange, and that for the unauthorized use of the quotations suit may be brought to prevent the delivery by the telegraph companies of quotations to "bucket shops."

It is understood that circulars are in preparation asking the members of the Exchanges to join in some movement to this effect.

BULLION AND MINING.

Bar silver was quoted in London at 26 9-16d per ounce and in New York at 57¾c per ounce. Mexican dollars were quoted at 44¼c.

On the Consolidated Exchange 9,500 shares of Brunswick sold at .02@.02¾, 100 Butler at 1.10, 300 Challar at .19, 200 Consol. GOULD MUST BUY KANAWHA.

Ramsey Says—To Leave Wabash Oct. 1—May Head Merged Roads.

President Joseph Ramsey of the Wabash yesterday talked of his approaching retirement from the Gould railroad interests, saying that he would probably resign about Oct. 1. The interview threw considerable light upon the source of the trouble between Mr. Ramsey and George Gould.

Mr. Ramsey was asked what he thought of the Pittsburg dispatches predicting open warfare between the interests that he represents in the Little Kanawha syndicate and the Gould interests. He said:

"It is not true that there is any open strife between the members of the Little Kanawaha syndicate or the members of any of the other syndicates which are naturally affected by the projects in development in the Pittsburg region. Nor can it be said that any particular interest is dominant in the Little Kanawha; certainly Mr. Gould is not. Whatever differences there have been have been those natural to men looking at a proposition from different sides."

Mr. Ramsey was asked if by this he meant that Mr. Gould, through the Wabash, was a prospective buyer of the Little Kanawha line, which is important as a connection between the Western Maryland Railroad and the City of Pittsburg as well as opening up valuable coal properties, and he replied:

"It seems to me that only the Wabash can be regarded as a logical purchaser of the property, for there is no other railroad to which it can possibly have an equal advantage."

What Mr. Ramsey had to say about Little Kanawha was in line with the versions of the Ramsey-Gould situation that have been current in well-informed Wall Street quarters for some time. The funds on which Mr. Ramsey went into the Little Kanawha came out of the Wabash-Pittsburg terminal project, which was entirely a Gould affair. Mr. Gould took a minority interest in the Little Kanawha syndicate. The understanding is that difference of opinion regarding the price he should pay for the Little Kanawha arose first between himself and Mr. Ramsey, other members of the syndicate subsequently siding with the latter.

The Directors of the Ann Arbor Railroad held a meeting yesterday, at which George M. Cummings of the United States Mortgage and Trust Company and Sidney Kleybolte represent the Detroit Southern in the places of Wellington R. Burke and A. W. Krech. Messrs. Cummings and Kleybolte represent the Detroit Southern interests which have recently taken over the control of the Ann Arbor Railroad.

From the fact that Joseph Ramsey, Jr., President of the Wabash Railroad, remains President of the Ann Arbor, it was said yesterday that Mr. Ramsey might eventually become President of the system to be formed eventually through the merger of the Detroit Southern and Ann Arbor. Samuel Hunt, who died recently, was considered for the place. Mr. Ramsey said that he could not discuss the matter beyond saying that he had no intention of resigning as President of the Ann Arbor and that it was his habit to be in active control of the properties of which he is President.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 16.—The local money market did not change to-day. The usual table of rates, &c., follows:

Call loans, 3@3½ per cent.; time loans, collateral, 3½@4¼ per cent.; time loans, mercantile paper, 3¾@4 per cent.; Clearing House loans, 2½ per cent. New York funds, 5@7 cents discount. Clearings, $28,057,020; balances, $1,720,711; Sub-Treasury credit, $68,817.

It does not seem possible to keep up the activity over twenty-four hours in the Boston market. Yesterday's was a very good trading market, but to-day there was a lull, and very little interest was to be seen in any direction. A few selling orders made their appearance in the copper shares and slightly lower prices were seen. Local investment issues were both strong and weak, but the tendency was to take profits where they could be seen, closing quiet and without feature. The complete list of transactions follows:

CHICAGO QUOTATIONS.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 16.—New York exchange to-day was 10c premium; time and call loans, 3½@4¼ per cent.

Dullness ruled most of the day in the local stock market. In the small trading of the morning session Chicago Subway shares changed hands in small amounts, 15 shares going at the new high level of 60. With the increasing tonnage of the tunnel cars and new connections between the Subway and downtown business houses there is growing interest in the course of the stock. The tonnage now is understood to be about 17,000 daily.

Some other stocks showed a slightly reactionary tendency. Biscuit common sold off to 61¼, and Can preferred to 63½. Swifts sold up fractionally, as did Metropolitan Elevated preferred.

Afternoon trading ran almost entirely to Subway, and, with about 2,000 shares changing hands, the high record price was raised to 60¾. Tool sold up 4¾ to 45¾. The list follows:

THE OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Interest Revived in Some Recently Neglected Issues.

Narrower Movement in Northern Securities—Bearish Attitude Toward Pennsylvania Bonds.

Price movements in the various outside issues traded in yesterday bore no semblance of regularity, each group advancing or declining seemingly without any reference to each other. Indications pointed to a resumption of activity on the part of some market interests, while others, whose specialties have all along been active, were seemingly content to allow the market to rest for a while. The previous day's sharp movements in Northern Securities were not repeated yesterday, that stock being dull within a narrow range. United Copper was reactionary in the early trading, but recovered practically all of its decline. The preferred showed a net loss of 1½ points. Among the other copper stocks the most conspicuous was British Columbia, which rose to 6⅜ on fairly active buying, attributed to insiders. Greene Consolidated Gold was weak, a fairly large amount of stock having been brought out by the bear drive made against the stock at the close, or to be more accurate, just after the close, of the market on Monday.

New Orleans Railways again advanced, both issues of the stock closing at the highest of the day. The common reached 35½ and the preferred 78⅝. For some days these stocks have pursued a steady upward course. The common has advanced about 5 points and the preferred about 3, the transactions in neither issue amounting to any considerable total. The common is now selling about 15 points and the preferred about 10 points above the prices at which they were figured in the reorganization.

Pennsylvania new convertible 3½s sold at 100½ for the 50 per cent. paid certificates and at 99 for the full paid "when issued" bonds. The fact that the bonds were taken to such a small extent by the stockholders has created a bearish attitude toward the bonds on the part of the traders.

The principal transactions in 100 share lots reported in the outside market yesterday, with high, low, and last prices, were as follows:

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

New York City.

LOUIS L. TODD.—A meeting of the creditors of Louis L. Todd, proprietor of the Hotel Vendome, Broadway and Forty-first Street, and formerly proprietor of the Marlborough Hotel, was held at the Vendome Hotel yesterday. Mr. Weil of Weil, Wolf & Kramer, attorneys for Mr. Todd, said those at the meeting knew that the liabilities for open accounts and notes were upward of $300,000; that the secured liabilities, consisting of mortgages on the Hotel Vendome, amounted to upward of $650,000, and that these mortgages were now being foreclosed. Mr. Weil also said that a proposition to purchase the hotel for about $750,000 had been made. A condition of this offer, he said, was that the hotel should be leased back to Mr. Todd for fifteen years to enable him to continue business. This amount, after paying the mortgages, interest, taxes, pending proceedings in court, and allowing $25,000 for repairs which are now under way in the hotel, would leave a sufficient sum to pay the creditors about 25 cents on the dollar in cash of the unsecured claims. The meeting was largely attended. Mr. Beckes was appointed chairman. A committee was formed, consisting of Mr. Green of E. C. Hazard & Co., Mr. Saunderson, William Lanahan of Lanahan & Son, J. J. Bowes of the Bowes Union Works, and A. Lester Heyer. The committee will look into the affairs of Mr. Todd and report to the creditors at another meeting, to be held on Tuesday of next week. A proposition of settlement was made, and the committee seems to be favorable for its acceptance.

PETITIONS IN BANKRUPTCY.

LEOPOLD MARX.—A creditors' petition in bankruptcy was yesterday filed against Leopold Marx of the Bronx Department Store, 2,753 Third Avenue, by Steinfeld & Co., $540; Berg Brothers, $215, and Harry Rosenberg, $15. The business was started by Marx under the foregoing style following the failure of the Bronx Dry Goods Company, which sold out under bankruptcy proceedings in July, 1904. He was Vice President of this company, and at the receiver's sale he purchased the larger part of the stock through a third party.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Twenty-six Bronx Apartment Houses, Valued at $1,250,000, Sold from the Plans—Builders Buy on Morningside and Washington Heights—Other Dealings.

MAY

What is probably the largest transaction ever effected in the city, involving buildings yet to be erected, was announced yesterday by the Fleischmann Realty Company. This company has sold to the Wilkins Realty Company, recently incorporated, twenty-six apartment houses to be built in the Bronx on the block bounded by Wilkins Avenue, One Hundred and Seventieth Street and Charlotte Street. This block is that part of the Bathgate-Beck property bought by the Fleischmann Realty Company from Henry Morgenthau several months ago, the remainder of which will be sold at auction next week.

The construction of these houses will be started immediately, and the contract calls for the delivery of them all within eighteen months. Fourteen of the houses will be six stories in height, on plots 37.6 by 100; ten of them five stories in height on plots 40 by 100, with two corner houses, each 37.6 by 100. The consideration in the deal was about $1,250,000. Nathan Weiss was the broker.

The Wilkins Realty Company, in which several prominent business men are interested, was incorporated about ten days ago. Its Directors are Max Baumann, Martin Roman, and Morris Silberman.

Paul Mayer has sold for William R. Rose to a syndicate of builders the plot of somewhat more than twenty lots at the southwest corner of Intervale Avenue and Jennings Street. The plot has frontages of 355 feet on the avenue and 182 feet on Jennings Street. It is one block north of the Freeman Street Station and one block south of the Bathgate-Beck property.

To Build on Morningside Heights.

The Berman Realty Company has sold to Horowitz & Lefkowitz, for improvement, the northwest corner of Amsterdam Avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-second Street, a plot 91 by 100; also, for Horowitz & Lefkowitz, the six-story apartment house, with stores, 1,497 and 1,499 Madison Avenue, on plot 50 by 100.

Herman Cohen and Samuel G. Hess have bought the elevator apartment house in course of construction, on plot 100 by 91, at the southwest corner of Amsterdam Avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-second Street, facing Morningside Park.

To Improve Upper Broadway Plot.

George W. Rowan has sold for Franklin Pettit to the Kight-Dongan Construction Company the northwest corner of One Hundred and Forty-second Street and Broadway, 50 by 100, for improvement with an apartment house.

Louis Becker has sold for the Harvard Realty Construction Company to an investor the new five-story triple apartment house at the northeast corner of Amsterdam Avenue and One Hundred and Sixty-third Street, on plot 34 by 100. The same broker has leased for John V. Irwin, as attorney, 191 Audubon Avenue, a three-story dwelling.

Max Marx has sold to the Deane Realty Company the plot on the north side of Two Hundred and Ninth Street, 100 feet east of Ninth Avenue, 75 by 99.11.

New Title Guarantee Building.

Plans have been filed for the new ten-story building to be erected on the east side of Broadway, just north of Malden Lane, by the Title Guarantee and Trust Company. Only six stories will be built at the present time. The structure will have a façade of granite and ornamental stone, with tall pilasters supporting the cornice. The cost is estimated at $300,000 by Architects Howells & Stokes.

Purchase Near Fourth Avenue.

The Kip's Bay Realty Company has bought 31 and 33 East Twenty-seventh Street, two three-story dwellings on plot 48 by 98.9. The property is 102 feet east of Madison Avenue, and faces Madison Square Garden. N. A. Berwin & Co. were the brokers.

S. Osgood Pell & Co. have leased for the William Rhinelander estate 66 West Thirty-eighth Street, for a term of twenty-one years. The building will be altered for business purposes.

Sales of West Side Dwellings.

M. L. & C. Ernst have bought from George W. McAdam 305 West One Hundred and Seventh Street, a five-story American basement dwelling, on lot 17 by 101.10. The buyers have resold the house to D. W. Richman for his own occupancy. The McVickar-Gaillard Realty Company negotiated both sales.

Jesse C. Bennett & Co. have sold for Mrs. Phoebe Starr Peters the three-story brownstone dwelling 275 West Eighty-fourth Street, 16 by 80. The buyer will occupy the house.

Walter C. Teale is the buyer of the five-story American basement dwelling 309 West One Hundred and Sixth Street, sold recently through L. J. Phillips & Co.

Plot Sold on 137th Street.

Kupperstein & Lowenfeld have sold for Adolf Mandel eight lots, 200 by 100, on the north side of One Hundred and Thirty-seventh Street, 345 feet west of Fifth Avenue; also, for a Mr. Falk, 126 and 128 East One Hundred and Eighteenth Street, 40 by 100, a six-story tenement, to Adolf Mandel.

Henry Kaufman has sold for Abraham Silverson the plot, 60 by 100, on the north side of One Hundred and Twenty-eighth Street, 175 feet east of Lenox Avenue, to Lesowitz & Kaufman, who will erect two six-story buildings. Mr. Kaufman has removed his office from 301 East Sixth Street to 65 and 67 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street.

M. Gustine Rieser has sold to Nathan & Zimmerman the four-story flat 784 Amsterdam Avenue, 25 by 84.2; also, to Oscar Haase, through John R. Davidson, the four-story flat 144 West One Hundred and Third Street, 27 by 104.9. Mr. Rieser was the buyer of the six-story apartment house 211 West Tenth Street, recently reported sold.

South Street Buildings in Deal.

Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown & Co. have sold for George A. Crocker 30 and 31 South Street, two five-story brick buildings, on plot 39 by 85.10.

Buyer of Fortieth Street House.

Adolph Rubin has sold 113 East Seventy-first Street, a four-story brownstone front dwelling, 20 by 102.2.

"Al" Adams Sells a Corner.

Pocher & Co. have sold for Albert J. Adams the five-story tenement 1,982 Second Avenue, southeast corner of One Hundred and Second Street, 25 by 109.

Sixty Years Established speaks for itself. Honorable dealing during that time has made us a host of friends as well as clients. We want to know you; your patronage will follow. We have a man who thoroughly knows the building business handling our sales department, and he is constantly on the lookout for good things. We do not hand these out promiscuously, but to a select few whom we care to favor. The entire time of our representative is given to our clients, and he will call by appointment, or you can see him at our office. Courteously yours, GEORGE W. MERCER & SON, 266 West 23d St.

Are fighting for real estate, and all great wars have been for one of two things, religion or real estate. Now if real estate is the backbone of a nation, how much more is it the backbone of the individual. Many people want to own their own homes but are prevented from doing so, either by lack of sufficient ready money or by fear of making an unwise investment. To such people I want to show Larchmont Park and explain to them my easy payment plan. Larchmont Park is in the heart of Larchmont-on-the-Sound, the most attractive and accessible village in Westchester Co. Write me at once.

BOXING, BAG PUNCHING, WHEN POLICE BREAK IN

WILD STAMPEDE TO ESCAPE

Managers of Place Had Tied Hands of Precinct Police with Supreme Court Injunction.

On the second floor of a six-story loft building in Grand Street, between Mott and Elizabeth Streets, Acting Inspector Hogan of the Second Inspection District, with a large force, found and raided yesterday afternoon an alleged poolroom in which were 400 persons.

The police arrested Joseph Bernstein, the prizefighter, twenty-seven years old, of 226 East Thirteenth Street, as the proprietor. Daniel O'Rourke, thirty-nine years old, hotel proprietor, of 180 Park Row, who is said to be the backer of the place; Louis Feinberg, twenty-three years old, tailor, 111 East Third Street; Charles Crowley, twenty-eight years old, salesman, of 85 Catharine Street, and William Hull, fifty-one years old, shoe dealer at 56 Catharine Street, were also arrested.

The raid caused great commotion. The building in which the alleged poolroom was located is used for workshops except on the floor occupied by "The Physical Culture Athletic Club," which was raided yesterday.

Two weeks ago Capt. Martens of the Mulberry Street Station raided the place. The backers went to Brooklyn and represented to Justice Marean that they were conducting a legitimate athletic club and were being persecuted, and the Justice enjoined Commissioner McAdoo and Capt. Martens and his precinct men from further molesting the place.

District Attorney Jerome then arranged with Acting Inspector Hogan to put one of his men into the place for several days to play the races and obtain evidence. Detective Joseph Bidner has been inside every day since.

When Bidner gave the signal yesterday the detectives attacked the place from several points. They had to break through several heavily barred doors. The attack caused something like a panic among the hundreds of men, women, and boys in the workshops, some of whom thought there was a fire. In the room itself when the police got in were 400 men. Some of them were standing around a ring in one corner watching two young men belaboring each other with gloves. Bernstein was punching a bag as if his life depended on it, and finally with a hard blow caused it to explode.

The report was like that of a pistol shot, and many believing that the police were using their drawn revolvers became altogether unmanageable.

District Attorney Jerome announced after the raid that he would try to obtain the indictment of the owners of the building.

BAD POLICE FORM CLUBS.

Revolvers, Too, When Detectives Are in Evening Dress.

Detectives McEntee and Kennedy went in evening dress on Monday night to raid a house in West Forty-ninth Street. They had a fight with two men, James Cassidy and George Maroney, who, according to the detectives, jeered at the police and then shattered a lantern upon their heads. The men were arrested. They were arraigned in the West Side Court yesterday.

"Why did you not use your clubs or guns?" asked Magistrate Wahle of the detectives.

"Well, your Honor, we were in evening dress, and it wouldn't have been in good form," replied McEntee, as he nursed a sore face.

Magistrate Wahle then held the prisoners for trial.

Twenty Years for Manslaughter.

Judge Foster yesterday sentenced William Preston, a negro, to twenty years in Sing Sing for killing John Gray, another negro, in a West Thirty-seventh Street dance hall last February. Preston was found guilty of manslaughter in the first degree. The maximum sentence for this crime was applied by the court.

Dreamland Pier Condemned.

The Dreamland pier at Coney Island was condemned by Maurice Featherson, Commissioner of Docks, yesterday, and all steamers are forbidden to land there. The pier is closed because the passageways leading to it are not wide enough to accommodate the crowds. The Commissioner will insist that the structure be widened twenty feet.

RUBBER PROFITS DOUBLE.

Net Figures for Year Ending March 31 Are $5,182,117.

The annual report of the United States Rubber Company for the year ending March 31, 1905, shows net profits of $5,182,117, against net profits of $2,642,877 for the year ending March 31, 1904. The gross sales for the year amounted to $37,080,905 against gross sales of $64,553,237 for the previous year, and net sales amounted to $32,931,211, against $32,396,919 in 1903-4. The manufacturing profits for the past year were $6,820,879 and the operating profits $5,020,725.

After making allowance from the net profits for bad debts and the like, and adding interest income, the report shows a surplus of $3,761,823 against a surplus of $1,575,641 for the previous year, and with the addition of previous surplus, a total surplus of $5,889,142 against a total surplus of $2,960,101 for the year 1903-4. Deducting $1,582,040 paid in dividends, there remains a profit and loss surplus of $3,987,102.

In his annual report to stockholders President Colt says:

The prosperity which a year ago was predicted for the United States Rubber Company has been more than realized.

The net profits of the business for the year amounting to $3,761,823, are more than double those of the preceding year, and this in face of the prevailing high prices for crude rubber, unprecedented in the history of the rubber industry.

The net sales of the company for the year were $32,931,211 as against $32,396,919 for the previous year, a slight decrease, yet largely in excess of any year other than the one preceding this.

The demonstrated result of the employes' profit-sharing plan is most gratifying. The market value of the preferred and common stock which was distributed among the employes represents from two to four times the price at which it was allotted, while the interest, energy, and loyalty of these employes abundantly shows the wisdom of this important step.

The report notes further the success of the operation of the General Rubber Company, which was organized for the purpose of controlling the crude rubber supply required by the United States Rubber Company. At the annual meeting of the stockholders in New Brunswick, N. J., yesterday the following Directors were elected: Walter S. Ballou, Anthony N. Brady, Samuel P. Colt, E. C. Benedict, Harry C. Converse, Costello C. Converse, James B. Ford, J. Howard Ford, Frank S. Hastings, Francis L. Hine, Henry L. Hotchkiss, Lester Leland, F. M. Shepard, Francis Lynde Stetson, William H. Truesdale, John D. Vermeule, and John J. Watson, Jr.

ZONE DOING WELL—DAVIS.

Conditions at Canal Good, Says General on His Return.

Gen. George W. Davis, United States Army, the retiring Governor of the Panama Canal Zone, who on account of illhealth was recently relieved of his duties by Secretary of War Taft, arrived in New York yesterday on the Panama liner Allianca, from Colon.

When Gen. Davis was asked about conditions on the Isthmus he was very positive in declaring them much better than had been reported.

"I can safely predict," he said, "that by the end of July, when the water and sewerage systems have been installed, there will not be a case of yellow fever on the Isthmus. I also believe that within a month Panama will see its last case of yellow fever.

"The people of Colon are now satisfied with the American occupation. They are getting the benefit of the money the United States is spending, and naturally the people are happy over it.

"There are between seven and eight thousand Government employes in the zone at the present time. The Government is doing everything to make them happy and to guard their welfare. A number of excellent houses have been constructed for them to live in, and a large number more will be constructed. These houses are as good as any in the smaller towns and cities of this country."

Gen. Davis said that it was true that a large number of employes had returned, but said that it was a case of "cold feet"—that without waiting to investigate or see for themselves they listened to some exaggerated story about the perils in Panama and returned to the United States again.

The body of Robert R. West, auditor of the Panama Canal Commission, who died of yellow fever on May 7, was brought here on the steamship.

COMMENT ON DAVIS SPEECH.

Nan Patterson's Counsel May Make a Statement Later.

Few lawyers yesterday would comment on the remarks made by Justice Vernon M. Davis on the trials of Nan Patterson at a dinner given by the Phi Delta Phi Fraternity on Monday night. Justice Davis declared his belief that Nan Patterson had held the revolver which killed "Caesar" Young, and also that the chorus girl had provaricated at the trial. In the Justice's opinion, if she had told the truth she would have been acquitted on the second trial.

District Attorney Jerome shook his head when asked for his opinion of Justice Davis's speech. "I have nothing more to say on the Patterson case," he said. Assistant District Attorney Rand declined to talk on the subject.

Abraham Levy, chief counsel for the defense, made this statement:

"I will not make any comment until I give Justice Davis's words serious consideration. It is too grave a matter; and he, being a Justice of the Supreme Court, it would not become me to enter into a controversy with him without thorough deliberation. I may have a statement to make later."

Recorder Goff said:

"I have not read the speech of Judge Davis, nor shall I read it. It is my policy never to comment upon a trial which has taken place before me, and the fact that Justice Davis has chosen to establish a precedent will not serve to change it."

Judge Warren W. Foster said: "I would not presume to criticise the utterances of a Supreme Court Justice."

"I will not comment on the remarks of an associate," said Justice Newburger.

BIGELOW CONCERN RECEIVER.

National Electric Company of Milwaukee to be Reorganized.

MILWAUKEE, May 16.—Judge O. A. Humphrey in the United States District Court to-day appointed John S. Beggs receiver for the National Electric Company. The petition represented that the company was indebted to three Milwaukee concerns exceeding $1,000, and admitted in writing inability to pay.

Frank G. Bigelow, recently President of the First National Bank, was prominently connected with the company. The motion for a receiver, it is said, is preliminary to thorough reorganization. Mr. Beggs was elected President of the company at a meeting following the Bigelow bankruptcy.

Western Pacific Meeting in 'Frisco.

The Directors of the Western Pacific Railroad will hold their long expected meeting for the determination of the plans for their Western extension some time this week in San Francisco, instead of here, as had been supposed. The reason is that the road is a California corporation, a fact that necessitates the Directors meeting in that State. George Gould and President Jeffries of the Western Pacific, who have been on a Western trip together, got back to the city yesterday, but neither would talk for publication.

Defers Insular Railroad Bids.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Secretary Taft has postponed until Nov. 1 the opening of bids for construction of railroads in the Philippines. The prospectus will be issued within a week. The Secretary therefore will hear representatives of interests which desire changes in the original plans.

GOSPEL TENT CAMPAIGN INTERESTS A THRONG

ROCKEFELLER GIVES $1,000

Many Give Money and Pledges—Two Services, with Music and Stereopticon, Every Day.

Under the auspices of the Evangelistic Committee of Greater New York a mass meeting in the interest of the Summer tent movement was held last night in Carnegie Hall. "The Problem of the City" was discussed at the gathering, which packed the vast auditorium to the doors and filled the galleries to their limit.

Bishop Coadjutor David H. Greer presided, and the stage was occupied by the leading representatives of the Protestant churches of the city. The Bishop said that it was very often the case that the most enlightened cities were most ignorant of themselves.

"A city," he declared, "is not like a great mirror, in which every one can see every one else, but resembles more nearly a screen, in which one's doings are hid from one's neighbor. We are here to have the screen removed—to have the actual life of the city, with its polyglot and religiously neglected population shown.

"The Gospel is not for one section of the city, but for all human life. The churches are rising above, ignoring and forgetting the differences of creed, are are going to preach the Gospel to the city. This is not a sensational movement, aiming at sensational ends, but a Christian movement designed to accomplish moral results."

Dr. Walter Laidlaw, Secretary of the Federation of Churches, announced that the revival would be launched on Monday, half an hour after noon, from the steps of the City Hall. Stereopticon views were shown to illustrate the need for a religious awakening. Dr. Laidlaw said that 82 out of every 100 persons in New York were tenement dwellers, and that Protestants represented but 8¼ per cent. of the population. In five Assembly districts, he declared, the percentage of Protestants was smaller than it was in the Island of Ceylon. Of the churchless in New York he said 1,067,762 were Protestants, 725,000 Jews, and 1,300,000 Roman Catholics.

Dr. Wilton Wells Smith warned the workers in the movement against false pride. "Don't draw the silken skirts of righteousness about you when you pass the painted woman," he said.

Among the others who addressed the mass meeting were Dr. F. B. Meyer of London, the Rev. A. F. Schauffler, President of the City Missions; Dr. James E. Ely, who has for several years been in charge of tent work in Philadelphia, and the Rev. Dr. Frank Mason North. A collection was taken up which netted several thousand dollars in money and a large amount in pledges. It was announced that John D. Rockefeller had sent his check for $1,000 to help the work along.

The movement as planned is something entirely new. The committee in charge of the campaign proposes to erect ten or more tents throughout the city. Daily services will be held, in the afternoon for children and in the evenings for adults. If vacant lots cannot be secured halls will be used. The stereopticon will play an important part in the work, and there will be plenty of music.

No collections will be taken at any of the tent meetings. The expenses are to be met entirely by pledges and subscriptions from individuals and churches.

Young Woman Dead on the Elevated.

A young woman described as very handsome and having a wealth of brown hair and very blue eyes, died last evening on the downtown elevated station of the Third Avenue line at Eighty-fourth Street. It is supposed that heart disease was the cause of her death. She wore garments apparently nearly new. Her hat was of gray felt, and was trimmed with red roses. She had $11 and a return ticket to Three Bridges, N. J., purchased there on Sunday.

F. P. OLCOTT RETIRES.

After Twenty-five Years in Wall Street—May Return, However—Is Ill.

Frederic P. Olcott, who has been President of the Central Trust Company, at 54 Wall Street, since 1884, and one of the best-known figures in Wall Street for a quarter of a century, resigned yesterday the Presidency of the institution to whose growth he has so largely contributed. The step was taken on account of Mr. Olcott's failing health, and it will be followed by his resignation from many other corporations in which he is a Director, for he has determined to withdraw from active business life entirely—for a time at least.

With most men, retirement at sixty-four from the financial world after a life spent almost wholly within the confines of Wall Street would be final. Mr. Olcott had not brought himself to that point when he left the office of his company for the last time, possibly, as its President yesterday. A friend spoke to him for a minute as he got into a cab at the Wall Street curb, expressing the hope that Mr. Olcott might find in his leisure the health and enjoyment of life that he was seeking. Mr. Olcott replied, a little sadly:

"I hope so. But a good many of them who try to get out of it all are not able to."

And then to a reporter who stood near:

Mr. Olcott became Vice President of the Central Trust Company in 1882 and its President two years later. He had been previously associated with the banking firms of Blake Brothers & Co. and Phelps, Stokes & Co., and had served one term as New York State Controller.

He was one of the first men to recognize after the close of the civil war the developmental possibilities of the Southern Railroad situation, and it was largely due to his efforts that several semi-bankrupt properties were put on their financial feet.

Of late years Mr. Olcott's health has been failing, and a long rest in Europe some months ago failed to have its desired effect. His friends urged him strongly to retire, and eventually he yielded, although with a mental reservation that may be judged from the remark he made as he left his office yesterday.

Mr. Olcott is a Director in more than a score of companies.

COWBOY BILL COLLECTOR.

Dude Woman Without Authorization, but with Weapon—Is Arrested.

Clad in cowboy garb with tipped sombrero cocked and an 18-inch "shooting iron" in a leather holster at his waist, a short, stocky man, who described himself only as Charles Brown, twenty-five years old, presented a dressmaker's bill for $75 at the apartment of Mrs. J. S. Jacoby, a member of the Metropolitan Opera Company, at 104 West Fifty-eighth Street, Monday night. The bill was correct, but Marie De Meredille, Mrs. Jacoby's maid, when she recovered from her astonishment, put the man off until 9 o'clock yesterday morning, although he pleaded that the dressmaker was in urgent need of the money.

Brown kept the appointment. After repeating his request to Mrs. Jacoby, who had learned that no collector had been sent and that the bill had doubtless been taken from her letter box, Detectives Fitzpatrick and Quinn sprang from a hiding place and arrested him.

He told them he had left the "X. I. T." ranch in Texas six months ago, and had since traveled all over the country.

"I'm hard up," he said, "but I wanted to get that money for somebody else."

He was held in $1,000 all on a charge of attempted larceny by Magistrate Wahle in the West Side Court.

Trolley Kills Child; Motorman Goes On

Helen Hardy, four years old, while playing in front of her home, at 785 Thirty-ninth Street, Brooklyn, was run down by a trolley car of the Thirty-ninth Street line late yesterday afternoon. She died instantly. The motorman, James Franklin of 1,675 East Forty-eighth Street, Brooklyn, stopped his car for a moment, but seeing that the child had been picked up by a woman and carried into the home of her parents, he went on. He was arrested two hours later on a charge of homicide.

WOMAN IN TRIO WITH MODERN BURGLAR OUTFIT

Police Say They Have the Gilbertsville Bank Robbers.

FINEST SAFE-BLOWING TOOLS

In Edward Watson, Mabel Watson, and John Mullin the detectives at Police Headquarters believe they have the ringleaders of a gang that robbed a bank in Gilbertsville, N. Y., recently of about $10,000 in cash. Inspector O'Brien says that when arrested the prisoners had the most complete, most expensive, and most modern set of bank burglars' tools ever taken to Police Headquarters.

On May 2 five masked men went into Gilbertsville, N. Y., entered the private bank of E. C. Brewer, and after blowing open the bank safe, stole about $10,000. This was done at 10 o'clock in the morning, while the people of the town looked on. They did what they could to stop the robbers, but were fought off, and the men escaped, cutting telegraph and telephone wires behind them.

Detective Sergts. Peabody, Clark, and Cooney arrested the three early yesterday morning at 231 West Forty-ninth Street. The arrests were kept secret for several hours.

After the prisoners had been taken to Police Headquarters their rooms were searched, and a varied assortment of burglar tools were found. There were two rubber bags of nitroglycerine, twenty diamond-pointed drills of the finest make, threaders of expensive pattern, a brace and bit, a dozen screw bolts, a dozen steel wedges, a coil fuse, a box of timers, a pocket oil lamp, a blackjack, an electric battery, a 44-calibre revolver, and four dozen cartridges, and a "drag" used to hold the door of a safe while it is being drilled.

The prisoners all refused to talk. Acting Inspector O'Brien said the police knew of Watson, but that he had never been arrested in New York before. The trio, they said, had been in the city for three weeks.

Although the police refused to say what led to the arrests, they were very positive in stating that they believed that they had the men who took part in the bank burglary.

At 231 West Forty-ninth Street a woman who gave her name as Mrs. Miller said she was the owner of the house; that the arrests had not been made there, and that she did not know the prisoners.

CARONIA STILL FAST; MAY HAVE TO UNLOAD

In Worse Fix After Tugs Fail to Move Her at High Tide.

GROUNDED TO DODGE KAISER

Liner Swerved to Avoid Ramming This Vessel or a Schooner—Passengers See Yachts Start.

Both cargo and passengers, it is feared, will have to be removed from the big Cunarder Caronia, which went aground off Sandy Hook day before yesterday, before she can be pulled out into deep water. With ten feet of her bow in the mud off Flynn's Knoll, the big ship was in much worse condition last night than she was yesterday morning.

Vernon H. Brown, agent of the Cunard Line, said last night, after a visit to the Caronia on a tug, that the liner's accident was caused by the Caronia having to choose between ramming the Kaiser Wilhelm II. or a schooner or running out of her course. She took the latter alternative, running aground.

Mr. Brown said the passengers were all safe, and denied that there was any dissatisfaction or demands among those on board to be taken off. He expressed the belief that the Caronia would be pulled off this morning, when the flotila of tugs will make another attack at 6 o'clock.

"Will you lighten her?" he was asked.

"As to that I cannot say. I do not know just what will be done until the morning," Mr. Brown replied.

When asked whether he had learned the cause of the accident, Mr. Brown said:

"The Caronia was going down the channel just behind the Kaiser Wilhelm II. The latter stopped suddenly and anchored on account of the heavy fog. The pilot of the Caronia saw that it was impossible for him to go ahead, for he would have run down the Kaiser Wilhelm. If he turned in the other direction he would have run into a schooner. The pilot, rather than run into either of these boats took the chance of leaving the course. As a result the vessel struck the mud bank."

At 1 o'clock this morning the vessel appeared to lie in an easy position. There was, however, a troublesome, choppy sea, and the wind from the east was blowing fairly strong. The weather at that hour was thick.

The 3,000 passengers aboard her took the accident as a joke at first, but after the unsuccessful attempts of the wrecking tugs to move the Caronia last night they began to get impatient.

"I'd like to go back to New York with you!" shouted a passenger from the top deck when a reporters' tug steamed alongside the Caronia.

"Give my regards to Broadway! We're getting mighty lonesome out here in the ocean!" yelled another.

All the hopes of the Captain, crew, and passengers were centred on the final efforts of the tugs at flood tide last evening. Like tiny ants trying to move a giant caterpillar, the tugs struggled for two hours to pull the Caronia from the mud into the channel. After it was all over the strong east wind and the tide had swung the stern two or three hundred feet around, and nearer to the mud bank in which the bow is stuck.

While the tugs were at work the passengers aboard the liner crowded to the rails of three decks, and peered anxiously to see some movement on the part of the big hulk. The steerage passengers, crowded on the forward deck, stood out in the gloomy drizzle, and viewed more phlegmatically than their more prosperous brethren the frantic efforts of the tugs.

The Captain of the Caronia shouted back an emphatic "no" when his permission was asked for a reporter to go on board. A minute afterward, when he thought he saw some one looking too zealously at one of the ports, he shoted:

"Don't you go aboard there!"

But the passengers on deck were communicative and, besides, they wanted to hear the news from New York. An afternoon newspaper thrown through the port reached the upper deck and was eagerly seized.

All day yesterday the Caronia lay with her head north by northeast, and that was her position just before floodtide. After her stern was swung around, she lay with her head almost due east.

No announcement has yet been made as to the probability of some other Cunarder taking the Caronia's passengers and proceeding to Europe, but if the Caronia is not pulled off this morning such action is said to be likely.

The liner lies about a mile from Sandy Hook on the far side of the Bayside Channel. Judging from the way she stuck in the mud, she must have been going at pretty high speed in the dense fog which enveloped the sea and harbor at the time. There is a line of red buoys on the port side of the channel and the Caronia shot between two of these.

The normal draught of the ship is thirty-four feet, according to the water line encircling her. The depths marked upon her side were visible down to twenty-six feet at low tide, indicating that she was eight feet out of the water. So firmly imbedded is she in the sand that the heavy tide, though it swung the free stern, did not move the bow at all.

Her position makes her peculiarly open to the buffets of the fierce winds and waves that disport themselves around the Hook. But the body of the great ship is so big and the plates on her side so thick and sturdy that there is but the smallest possibility of her being dangerously battered no matter how high the seas become.

The condition of the wind and tide are about as unfavorable as they could be. The moon is almost at the full, and the

HITCH IN ALTMAN'S PLAN.

Lease May Delay Building on Full Block on Fifth Avenue.

There is a hitch, it was learned yesterday, in the plans of B. Altman & Co. for the erection of a new store to cover the entire block fronting on Fifth Avenue, between Thirty-fourth and Thirty-fifth Streets, and bounded in the rear by Madison Avenue. The work of tearing down some of the buildings has already started, but so far the firm has been unable to get the corner lot at Fifth Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street, on which is a three-story building, occupied for many years by the art firm of M. Knoedler & Co. Roland Knoedler, the head of the firm, left for Europe yesterday morning, and his last word was that he had nothing at all to say about new quarters, as his old ones would be good enough for many years to come.

It is the old story about a lease with some years of life left, and the disinclination of a lessee to surrender quarters of more than customary advantage from a business point of view. But there is an unusual feature attached to this version of the old story. Knoedler & Co., it seems, are themselves in pretty much the same fix as B. Altman & Co.

It is well known that B. Altman & Co. had to spend a very large sum to acquire the property. That the block selected was diagonally across the thoroughfare from the Waldorf-Astoria and opposite the fanelike structure erected by the Knickerbocker Trust Company on the site once occupied by the Stewart mansion, did not make the task of acquisition easier or less costly. The dry goods firm was able to round off its purchase according to its plans only by accepting a long-time lease, instead of complete ownership, on the northwestern corner of the block, which forms part of the Astor estate.

The site occupied by the Knoedler Building was obtained without much trouble, however, and it was not known until recently that the lease held by the art firm, which is said to have five or six more years to run, would cause any trouble. Then the negotiations came to a sudden stop.

Mr. Knoedler has obtained possession of the northeastern corner of Fifth Avenue and Fortieth Street, apparently with the intention of building a new store for his firm. The site belonged to the Bixby estate, and it is now occupied by the residence of Miss Sophia Furniss, who holds a lease on it. And that lease has about the same period of life before it as has the Knoedler lease on the site further down the avenue. Miss Furniss has declared her intention not to desert the home in which she has spent most of her life until she is compelled by law to do so. Mr. Knoedler has not yet been persuaded that his firm should occupy temporary quarters till Miss Furniss's lease has run out. And that is why the new Altman building may have to be constructed in two parts, the stately front shown by the architect's plans remaining incomplete for the present because of the existence of the small structure at its southern end.

GIRL ROBBED OF $1,000.

Purse Grabbed as She Was Going Into a Bank.

Samuel Apolinsky, a commission merchant of 207 Washington Street, yesterday afternoon sent his sister, Rebecca, who is employed by him as bookkeeper, to deposit $1,000 in checks and cash in the Irving National Bank, at Chambers Street and West Broadway. Just as she was about to enter the bank a young man ran past her, and snatched the passbook containing the money out of her hands.

It was so sudden that the young woman could not make up her mind to start in pursuit until the thief had obtained much headway. So, instead, Miss Apolinsky began to yell "Stop thief!" with all her lungs.

The man fled toward Broadway. The young woman's screams and the man's flight through the crowded thoroughfare were sufficient to collect a crowd, which took up the chase and passed along the girl's cry.

The thief was fleet of foot, however, and was just about to turn into Broadway, where he would have been lost in the crowd, when John Abrahams, who is employed in a florist's establishment at 65 Vesey Street, tripped him. Abrahams pounced on the fugitive, and the struggling man soon was overpowered.

Policeman Opp of the traffic squad, who was on duty at the Chambers Street crossing on Broadway, ran up. He arrested the young man, and took him to the City Hall Station, keeping back an indignant crowd that followed and did its best to get at his prisoner. When they learned that his victim was a woman, a cry of "Lynch him!" was heard now and then from the more demonstrative.

At the station the prisoner was registered as Charles Paltora, seventeen years old, of 264 Elizabeth Street. He was taken immediately to the Tombs Court, and arraigned before Magistrate Finn. Policeman Opp told the Magistrate that he had found the passbook with checks to the amount of $900 and a $160 bill at Paltora's feet when he arrested him. The prisoner was held in $1,000 bail for the Grand Jury.

TOOK WAIF INTO CARRIAGE.

Woman Saw Weeping Bundle of Rags Outside Holland House.

Early last night two handsomely dressed women coming out of the Holland House saw a little bundle of rags in a corner at the entrance. The bundle unrolled itself and became a little boy, drawn with cold and rain, and crying.

The finders insisted on taking the waif into their brougham, and drove off down the avenue. They gave the lad a half-dollar for one hand and a bunch of flowers for the other.

At Twenty-eighth Street the boy was turned over to Policeman Phillip Wagner, who took him to the Tenderloin Station. He was later removed to Police Headquarters. He could not tell much about himself. He was understood to say his name was James Doncus, that he didn't know where he lived, and that he had left his home early yesterday morning.

He remained in the station three hours, and when he was taken away he still clutched in his hands the coin and the flowers that the two women had given him.

CANAL SUPPLY POLICY DIVIDES THE CABINET

SHAW MAY RUSH CAMPAIGN

Crisis Would Force Him Out to Go Against Taft—Democratic Aid for Roosevelt.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The first effect of the President's determination to buy Panama Canal supplies wherever they can be bought cheapest is a conflict in the Cabinet. It is too early to call it a split, because the opponents of the President's policy are not ready to declare themselves publicly. Nevertheless, a strong minority of his advisers is ranged in opposition to the policy.

Secretary Shaw, it is understood, is at the head, and his supporters are reputed to be Secretaries Metcalf and Wilson. Mr. Shaw is an aspirant for the Presidency and is a strong advocate of the "stand pat" policy. Mr. Taft, who appears in public as the sponsor for the President's policy, is now the favorite among the tariff revisionists.

The "stand-patters" in the Cabinet are endeavoring to get the President to disavow the policy, throwing the burden of it on Secretary Taft. The President manifests no intention whatever of backing down. He and Secretary Taft anticipated the wild cries which the stand-patters all over the country are emitting, and have not been surprised or dismayed. They expect a great deal more of this sort of thing.

Both the President and Mr. Taft have been hearing from the stand-patters all day. One called on the Secretary and announced: "I have come here to attend your political funeral."

"I won't believe in that funeral till I see the flowers," retorted the Secretary.

Secretary Shaw has never given countenance to the tariff revision talk, even when the President seemed most in favor of it. He has never intended to remain in the Cabinet throughout President Roosevelt's Administration, his purpose being to resign long before the approach of the next National Convention and enter upon his canvass. Should the present difference of opinion result in an actual split in the Cabinet Mr. Shaw undoubtedly will resign before he had intended to, and enter the lists as the stand-patters' candidate for the Presidency against Mr. Taft.

Secretary Hay is away, Secretary Morton is not in a position to take an active part on either side, Postmaster General Cortelyou is not a politician, but stands with the President on everything. Attorney General Moody is with the President, and the same is believed to be true of Secretary Hitchcock.

A split in the Republican Party in Congress is foreshadowed. The President will not lack supporters, despite the open attitude of Representative Grosvenor, one of the four leaders of the House machine, and the severe private comments of many Senators. Representative Payne, another of the quartet, has shown a disposition to hearken to tariff revision were the President shown to be really in favor of it.

The Western Representatives, typified by Representative Tawney, Republican whip of the House, hitherto have been held in check by the power of the machine and the lack of support in other directions, though Tawney last Winter showed a willingness to head a revolt. As supporters of the President, they will have a vantage ground which will make them enemies to be reckoned with.

Speaker Cannon, when questioned about the matter, said:

"I do not know that I have any message to the public touching the construction of the Panama Canal. My recollection is that the act of 1902 authorizes the President to construct the Panama Canal and to acquire and operate the Panama Railway, and it especially authorizes him to enter into the necessary contracts to accomplish the work. My recollection is that the authority of the President in the premises is plenary.

"I take for granted that all supplies needed should be, and will be, the product of our own labor wherever practicable."

The centre of conservatism will be in the Senate, but even there the President will have his supporters. The great fear of the "stand-patters" is that the President's action will furnish the Democrats with a powerful weapon in Congress, which can be used to great effect if the Democrats are ably led. In the House at least the Republicans are aware that the Democratic leadership will be strong and capable, for Representative Williams has already shown that he does not need even so strong a weapon as the one now given him to make trouble. In the Senate there is less danger, for there the Democrats are little disposed to follow any leader.

Democratic votes in the House at least will be given to the President's Republican supporters. This is another thing which worries the "stand-patters." The President stands in a different position before the country than any of his predecessors since James Monroe. He has received so many assurances of Democratic support and Democratic admiration that he feels independent of his party to an extent unprecedented since Monroe's time. If he cannot get enough Republican support to carry through his policies, he knows he can count on Democratic support, and he is aware that the Republican Party needs him more than he needs it.

BLOW TO INDUSTRY, HE SAYS.

Baltimore Trade Editor Criticises President's Canal Policy.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, May 17.—R. H. Edmonds, editor of The Manufacturers' Record of Baltimore, to-day sharply criticised President Roosevelt and the Canal Commissioners for deciding to buy canal material in the world's markets. He said:

"The story is almost incomprehensible to me, and if true amounts to one of the most serious blows ever dealt to American industries. The move is entirely inconsistent with the policy of the Republican Party, and it may be easily understood how and why the Administration will make itself unpopular.

"It will mean the loss to the American trade not only of the millions of dollars to be expended on the canal, but will materially affect the foreign market for American goods when the foreign trade realizes that goods may be purchased [illegible]."

$10,000,000 FOR BAPTISTS?

Hint at Gift for Aged Ministers—May Be from Rockefeller.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 17.—Hinting broadly that there was a gift of $10,000,000 on the way to the American Baptist Home Mission Society, W. S. Shallenberger of Washington, D. C., Second Assistant Postmaster General and President of the society, said to-night in his opening address that the gift would not be refused because of the source from which it might come.

"All money is primarily God's. If it comes to us for the furtherance of God's work, and it comes from men who have a legal right to its possession, we have no right to question the source of supply. We shall accept it as our own returning unto us."

The words of Mr. Shallenberger were received with much approbation from a part of the audience, but among others there was a marked failure to applaud the sentiment of the speaker. The general impression is that the ten-million-dollar benefaction is coming from John D. Rockefeller.

Mr. Shallenberger said that the sum was for the establishment of a fund to support superannuated ministers and missionaries of the Baptist denomination.

STOLE RIDE IN MOTOR CAR.

Boy Bootblack Drove Big Machine Over Broadway Sidewalk.

Antonio Rocco, a bootblack, fifteen years old, of 309 East Twenty-fourth Street, admires automobiles. He stole a ride in one that stood in front of the Hotel Navarre, at Seventh Avenue and Thirty-eighth Street, yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. After having dashed around two blocks at top speed, traveling part of the distance on a Broadway sidewalk, and having spread terror among several hundred pedestrians, he was arrested as a disorderly person.

Throwing his box in ahead of him he leaped into the front seat, and moved some levers. The result was immediate. The big, red machine leaped up Seventh Avenue, and wheeled toward Broadway at Thirty-ninth Street. It turned down Broadway, but the turn was too sharp, and the machine took to the sidewalk on the downtown side. Pedestrians scattered, the women screaming.

Taking the corner sharply at Thirty-eighth Street, the car whirled once more toward Seventh Avenue, again on the sidewalk. At Seventh Avenue it ran into a brick building, and the front axle of the machine was broken.

Rocco picked up his box, leaped from the machine, and ran up Thirty-eighth Street. He was caught near Eighth Avenue and turned over to the Children's Society.

MINISTER DIES ON ROSTRUM.

Dr. Cushing Stricken at Convention—New Baptist Body.

ST. LOUIS, May 17.—Organization of a permanent body, to be known as the General Convention of Baptists of North America, was perfected to-day by the election of the following officers:

President—E. W. Stephens of Columbia, Mo.; First Vice President—E. M. Thresher, Ohio; Second Vice President—Joshua Levering, Maryland; Third Vice President—Thomas B. Trotter, Nova Scotia; Secretary—J. S. Prestridge, Kentucky; Treasurer—H. Kirk, Porter, Pennsylvania.

Just as the Baptist convention was about to adjourn to-day Dr. Cushing, President of the Baptist University, Rangoon, India, was stricken while occupying a seat on the platform, and fell dying to the floor. While waiting for the arrival of an ambulance a prayer was offered for Dr. Cushing, but he died before the arrival of medical assistance.

President Stephens, as soon as he became aware of the occurrence, raised his hands commanding silence, and the great audience was overcome by the announcement of the death.

Mrs. Cushing, who has been helping her husband in missionary work in India, was at the Hamilton Hotel when apprised of the news of his death. She was prostrated.

Dr. Cushing translated the Bible into the language of the Shan people of North Burmah. He was one of the most prominent missionaries of the Baptist Church, and the college of which he was President is affiliated with Calcutta University. He was a member of the National Education Commission of India.

SUES MINISTER FOR SLANDER.

Saloon Keeper Whose License Was Not Renewed Asks $10,000 Damages.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 17.—Patrick Fitzgerald, a saloonkeeper, has instituted a suit to recover $10,000 damages for alleged slander from the Rev. Percy R. Ferris, who, as pastor of the First Baptist Church of Perth Amboy, successfully opposed the renewal of the license for Fitzgerald's saloon in Fayette Street, within half a block of the church.

The case had a hearing to-day before Judge Helsley. The minister, it was shown, went before the Excise Board last April and charged that Fitzgerald's saloon was a disorderly resort, that he had seen persons who evidently had been drinking heavily leave it on Sundays, and that it was conducted otherwise in an unlawful manner. Mr. Ferris is now pastor of the Baptist Church at Amenia, N. Y.

ALFONSO 19 YEARS OLD.

He Talks of His Marriage in a Speech to the Senate.

MADRID, May 17.—Replying in the Senate to birthday speeches of congratulation, King Alfonso, who is nineteen years old to-day, expressed the hope that his forthcoming tour of Europe would strengthen the ties of friendship, tend to universal peace, and thus assist in the reconstitution of the country and the development of its industry and commerce.

"As for that event fraught with happiness for the country and my hearth which you await with anxious desire," his Majesty said, "I have confidence in God that it will be realized for the good of the nation, for family love is so closely united in my mind with love of my country that I can have no other idea of marriage than that of two people loving and seeking the happiness of the country and its greatness."

NEWPORT RAISES TAXES OF THE MILLIONAIRES

Brown Family and H. A. C. Taylor Have $3,625,000 of Increase.

THOMAS HEIRS PAY HEAVILY

Gerry and Goelet Properties Hit by Levy—Mrs. Astor Assessed on $200,000.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, May 17.—For the first time the new tax books showing assessments for the present year were opened to the public to-day. The total valuation, as was made known several days ago, is $13,587,700 greater than a year ago, the real estate showing only a nominal increase, $274,600, while the personal property increase is $13,313,100.

The increase is nearly twice the entire personalty tax of last year. The advances affect chiefly the Summer residents who have a legal residence in Newport, and are thus relieved of the personal property tax in other places.

The largest increases have been made in the taxes of the Harold and John Nicholas Brown estates and in the personal assessment of Henry A. C. Taylor. Each is assessed at $1,000,000. The Harold Brown estate last year was listed at $50,000, and the estates of John Nicholas Brown and Mr. Taylor each at $100,000. John Nicholas Brown, Jr., is raised from $125,000 to $1,000,000. Mrs. Harold Brown's assessment has been raised from $30,000 to $350,000, and Sophia A. Brown's from $55,000 to $100,000.

The estate of Samuel Thomas's heirs, who removed here some time since on account of New York's tax rate, have the next largest increases. Eleanor T. Beekman and Edward R. Thomas have been increased from $5,000 to $750,000 each, Ann Augusta Thomas from $5,000 to $50,000, and the Samuel Thomas estate from $250,000 to $500,000. R. L. Beekman is increased from $500 to $150,000. The heirs of William C. Schermerhorn come in for heavy assessments. Mrs. John Inness Kane's assessment is $200,000, against $500 last year. The Schermerhorn estate is increased from $7,500 to $473,000, and the estate of Sarah Schermerhorn is taxed for $150,000 instead of $500.

Commodore Gerry's personal property is increased from $150 to $750,000, and that of Robert L. Gerry and Peter Goelet Gerry from $500 to $10,000.

The Robert Goelet estate is increased from $250,000 to $770,000, Robert Goelet and Robert W. Goelet from $150,000 to $300,000 each, and the Ogden Goelet estate is assessed at $550,000.

The King family's list follows: George Gordon King, from $50,000 to $75,000; Mary Leroy King, (deceased,) from $3,500 to $75,000; William Dehon King, from $28,000 to $75,000; Edith Edgar McCagg, from $45,000 to $75,000, and there are new taxes in the family aggregating $170,000.

Mrs. Astor's assessment is increased from $100,000 to $200,000. I. Townsend Burden must pay on $300,000 instead of $50,000. Theodore M. Davis is increased from $40,000 to $100,000. Blair and Edith Cushing Fairchild are assessed on $100,000 instead of $10,000. Ellen S. Mason's assesment is increased from $60,000 to $160,000. The George H. Norman estate is raised from $250,000 to $300,000, and Mrs. Norman is taxed on $50,000 in addition.

James J. Van Alen's assessment has been increased from $100,000 to $150,000, and his son's from $500 to $25,000. Others follow:

Milton S. Barger, from $50 to $20,000; Samuel F. Barger, from $30,000 to $50,000; Dr. C. M. Bell, deceased, from $50,000 to $200,000; Mary T. Best, from $10,000 to $25,000; William Binner, from $15,000 to $25,000; Mary H. Busk, from $30,000 to $50,000; Mrs. G. W. Collard, from $50,000 to $90,000; R. M. Cushing, from $5,000 to $50,000; William Cutting, from $20,000 to $50,000; F. S. G. D'Hauteville, from $25,000 to $50,000; J. R. Drexel, from $100,000 to $150,000; John W. Ellis, from $25,000 to $75,000; Fanny Foster, from $50,000 to $75,000; T. K. Gibbs, from $20,000 to $40,000; Virginia B. Gibbs, from $20,000 to $50,000; J. B. M. Grosvenor, William Grosvenor, and Rosa Grosvenor, from $30,000 to $50,000; Samuel R. Honey, from $3,000 to $13,000; Samuel E. Huntington, from $20,000 to $40,000; Caroline O. Jones, from $10,000 to $25,000 Louis L. Lorillard, from $15,000 to $25,000; James D. Potter and others, trustees, from $25,000 to $50,000; Frederick Sheldon, from $50,000 to $100,000; Mrs. W. W. FIND BOY WHO FIRED FOREST.

Egg Harbor Lad Was Nearly Starved —Says It Was Accident.

Special to The New York Times.

EGG HARBOR, N. J., May 17.—Joseph Gross, the fourteen-year-old boy, who disappeared during the firest fire, which he was caught lighting about a week ago, was found to-day by a searching party in the woods near the farm where he worked. He was nearly starved.

Gross was glad to get home after living so long in the woods. He says the firing of the woods was an accident. He declares he tried to stamp out the fire, but was unable to do so, and fled because he feared arrest.

TO WRITE ABOUT BEAR HUNT.

President Plans Two Magazine Articles, P. B. Stewart Says.

Special to The New York Times.

COLORADO SPRINGS, May 17.—Philip B. Stewart, who accompanied the President on his recent hunting trip, says Mr. Roosevelt will write two magazine articles on the hunt, and they will form part of the book on wild animals which the President has in mind.

The President has written a very interesting account of his cougar hunt four years ago. He always treats his subject from the standpoint of natural history as well as the hunter, which makes them valuable to students.

The skulls collected on his Colorado hunt will go to the Smithsonian Institution. His cougar hunt collections are the most complete that the institution has.

MANIAC AT ISELIN HOME.

Detectives Search Yachtsman's Grounds for an Escaped Lunatic.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, May 17.—A local teamster, crazed with the idea that the Black Hand Society intended to kill him, was followed by two detectives in a rowboat across Echo Bay to the estate of C. Oliver Iselin to-day, and is believed to be in hiding near the Iselin mansion.

Detectives Cody and Scott started after the man and he ran like a wild man to Hudson Park, jumped in a rowboat, and rowed across the bay. The Iselin servants were called to aid the officers in searching the grounds.

BALTIC NOT MUCH DELAYED.

Accident to Machinery Caused Loss of Only Six Hours.

LIVERPOOL, May 17.—The officers of the White Star liner Oceanic, which arrived here to-day from New York, say that the mishap to the Baltic of the same line, which left Liverpool on May 10 and was in wireless communication with the Oceanic, occurred on May 14 and necessitated a delay of only six hours.

A small part of the Baltic's machinery was affected, and no further delay was expected.

MORGAN IN CHICAGO DEAL.

Determined to Direct Traction Negotiations with the City.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 17.—J. Pierpont Morgan is now determined to direct the course of the local traction negotiations with the city.

For some time Mr. Morgan has been chafing at the outcome of the recent leadership, and the result of the city election. Now he proposes to take a hand in the negotiations with the city authorities for the sale of the properties.

The Chicago members of the City Railway syndicate have kept Mr. Morgan, who is in Europe, advised as to the local situation. Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Spoor will direct the negotiations with the Council committee, although they will not appear at the conferences.

$29,500 FOR A SMALL VASE.

Late Owner Paid $125, and Before That It Was Sold for $7.50.

LONDON TIMES—NEW YORK TIMES.
Special Cable. Copyright, 1905.

LONDON, May 17.—Fifty-nine hundred pounds ($29,500) was paid to-day at Christie's for an old oviform prunus pattern Nanking vase and cover 10¼ inches high.

The vase was part of the collection of the late Louis Huth. It is said that he acquired it for £25, and that the man who sold it to him got it for 30s., ($7.50.)

AFTER CATS, FELL TO DEATH.

Woman Pouring Hot Water on Them When Fire Escape Broke.

Mrs. Anna Hildebrand and her husband, William A. Hildebrand, were in the sitting room of their second-story flat at 489 Amsterdam Avenue about 9 o'clock last night when they were disturbed by a noise in the yard.

"It's the cats again," remarked Mr. Hildebrand.

Mrs. Hildebrand filled a dish with hot water and, going out upon the fire escape, she poured it upon the offending cats in the court yard below. At this moment Mr. Hildebrand heard a crash, and rushed to the window. When he reached it his wife was not there. The fire-escape had broken, and her body was found on the ground below. The surgeon who came with an ambulance from Roosevelt Hospital pronounced her dead. She had been instantly killed by the fall.

BOYS LOCKED UP AS FREIGHT.

Manage to Get Out After Being Hauled to Poughkeepsie.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, May 17.—Four frightened, hungry, and homesick New York boys were released from a freight car on the Hudson River Railroad at this city last night by a trainman who heard them pounding on the door and shouting. They were in a car bound west, and might have been shut up for several days without food or drink. Thomas Kilcourse, aged fifteen, of 309 East Seventy-eighth Street, was spokesman.

"We were playing in the railroad yards at Seventy-second Street, and crawled into an empty car to hide from our playmates," he said. "The door was suddenly slammed and locked. We pounded and kicked on the door, but nobody heard us."

All were remanded to the juvenile prison to await word from their parents.

BASEBALL BRAIN CONCUSSION

HARTFORD, Conn., May 17.—Stewart M. Dravo of Pittsburg, a member of the class of 1907, Trinity College, and the catcher of the university baseball team, is in the Hartford Hospital suffering from concussion of the brain received to-day in the game with Syracuse University.

Dravo was batting and a foul tip from his own bat struck him on the head. He thought little of the accident at the time, but three innings later he fainted and was carried off the field.

It was Kipling who asked not very long ago:

Who hath desired the sea?—the immense and contemptuous surges?
The shudder, the stumble, the swerve, as the star-stabbing bowsprit emerges?

Anybody who saw the eleven stanch yachts, thoroughbreds of the deep, curvetting about the Sandy Hook Lightship yesterday, waiting impatiently for the lifting of the barrier and the start of the transatlantic dash for the Kaiser's golden cup, would have considered the question fully answered.

Never has there been such a test of speed and seaworthiness for the boats, or of skill and seamanship for the skippers; never has there been such a gathering of the real aristocrats of the sea anxious to undergo this test, and for the fearless sportsmanship which so royal a contest will call forth, nothing less than an Emperor's prize would be an adequate reward.

A single hour after this remarkable fleet had headed into a nasty southeaster, which already had begun to kick up an ugly sea, the three-master Atlantic was in the lead, a mile ahead of the yawl Ailsa. Almost on even terms with the yawl was the much-feared Hamburg, and not far astern of the German boat was the Hildegarde.

Endymion, Fleur-de-Lys, Thistle, Apache, Utowana, and Valhalla followed in the order named. Utowana and Valhalla owed their positions to an error in crossing the line and were made to go it over. So when at 1:15 the Atlantic passed out of sight into the mist ahead the Valhalla was seven miles astern of her, a conspicuous last.

When the warning gun boomed out from the committee boat, exactly at noon, the eleven racers, scattered in all directions, within a radius of a mile, were all converging slowly, by graceful evolutions, toward the prosaic old lightship which has seen many a cup race. Nearest was Atlantic, the favorite, lean, swift, and powerful; to the east was the dark horse, Hamburg, low lying and sleek; to the north the Briton Valhalla, towering and majestic; in and out among the fleet the nimble Ailsa; and hovering about in various directions dainty Endymion, handsome Apache, plucky Fleur-de-Lys, speedy Hildegarde, stanch Thistle, sturdy Utowana, and the veteran Sunbeam.

The starting gun was due at 12:15, and as the minutes slipped away it was easy to distinguish which of the skippers were the trained racing men, for they all had advantageous positions near the line. When the tension was relieved by the sound of the gun, the tooting of the whistles of the spectator fleet was a tribute to the judgment of Capt. Marsters, who had the Hildegarde just on the line with the gun. Lem Miller on the Ailsa, who served his apprenticeship under Barr, was only two seconds behind, however, and had the real advantage of the start, because he squeezed his boat in between the Hildegarde and the committee boat and got away to windward, soon assuming the lead.

Barr, who apparently was not worrying about the value of seconds in a race of weeks, came next, well to the windward end of the line, and a quarter of a minute behind the Ailsa. Half a minute later came Hamburg and Endymion, the German boat having perhaps a single second's advantage in time. The Thistle, which went over at 12:17, was the tailender of the first section.

It was not until four minutes had elapsed after the Thistle's crossing that the little Fleur-de-Lys, which had been held back by a balky sail, came to the line, and then there was a ten-minute wait for the Sunbeam, which was followed in a minute by the Apache.

In the general movement to the front at the start, the Utowana was crowded out of the position whence she had elected to go over the line, and she left the committee boat to starboard instead of to port, as specified by the rules of the race. For some inexplicable reason, the Valhalla, which was between Endymion and Thistle, did the same thing, but both erring ships went serenely on their way.

The committee boat was compelled to hoist recall signals, and to call attention to them by blasts of the whistle, before the two yachts reluctantly turned about and crossed the line properly, that is between the Sandy Hook Lightship and the committee boat. The Utowana finally got over at 12:34, and ten miutes later the great Valhalla laboriously wore around the lightship.

The course chosen by all the yachts for the first stage of the race was southeast, and the wind into which they poked their noses was a seven-knot breeze from south-southeast, a close reach which put the square riggers at a decided disadvantage. All went over on the port tack, and it was no surprise when Ailsa began to travel away from Hildegarde, but most of the yachtsmen who saw the racers get away were astonished at the facility with which the three-master Atlantic approached and passed the Ailsa, working to windward all the while and increasing a commanding lead.

Hamburg, the unknown, soon began to show her prowess, and in half an hour the German boat had passed Hildegarde, and was abreast of Ailsa, though considerably to leeward. Endymion came next, taking things easily, and not far behind her was Fleur-de-Lys, which had caught up with Thistle and passed her.

MAY 19

Commodore Tod's boat was not covering herself with glory by the insistent manner in which she fell off to leeward.

For an hour, lacking but five minutes, all the racers kept on the same course, but the determination of each to choose its own ocean path was made apparent when the Endymion at 1:10 split tacks and broke up the merry party. A moment later the thickening mist swallowed up the leaders.

As the breeze at the start was moderate the yachts could afford themselves a liberal allowance of sail, and in that respect the race was unique in these, or probably any other waters. The variety in rig, naturally, was responsible for the extensive and variegated display of the sailmakers' craft, for the racers included a full rigged ship, a bark, eight schooners, including one of the topsail variety and two three-masters, and a yawl.

Most striking of all, and most beautiful, even with the dull gray skies overhead and a blank wall of mist as a background, was the Valhalla in her full ship's rig. She carried three jibs, fore and mainsails and mizzen spanker, fore main and mizzen upper and lower topsails, topgallant sails, and skyscraping royals, and all her topmast and top-gallant stay sails.

Such a picture never was seen about the old lightship, and as Valhalla came swiftly, running free, back to the starting line, all forgot the race to admire. Unfortunately the breeze of the day made the race itself a close reach, exactly the Valhalla's weakest point of sailing, and until the wind comes out of the west the ship will not be a factor in the racing.

Even dignified old Sunbeam, whose sportsmanlike owner, Lord Brassey, says that he doesn't expect to win the race, but only wants to encourage the young fellows, rose to the occasion by donning some new racing togs, including a jib topsail and a remarkable looking headsail with an extraordinary length of foot, which seemed to serve the purpose of a reaching jib.

The Atlantic carried most of her 20,000 yards of canvas and was easily the smartest looking boat in the fleet. Endymion handled her well-fitting sails with marked celerity, chiefly because her owner, George Lauder, Jr., took his boat for a ten days' cruise in Southern waters, and as a result everything is in the pink of condition for the ocean battle. The bark Apache's voluminous outfit of new sails also made of her a handsome picture boat.

The race, the fourth transatlantic yacht race in history, is international in more ways than one. Nominally, Valhalla and Sunbeam represent Great Britain, Hamburg carries Germany's flag, while Ailsa, Apache, Utowana, Thistle, Atlantic, Endymion, Fleur de Lys, and Hildegarde are in it to uphold America's prowess. As a matter of fact, the German boat and two of the American boats, Ailsa and Apache, were built in Great Britain.

The designers' part of the contest, therefore, is between Great Britain and the United States, the German entry, Hamburg, formerly the Rainbow, having come from the board of the late George L. Watson, the creator of Shamrock II. Ailsa, the fast yawl, is the work of the present chief of British designers, William Fife, and Apache, formerly the White Heather, was designed by Reid.

Of American designers, neither Herreshoff nor A. Cary Smith is represented. The favorite Atlantic is the creation of William Gardner, who designed Irondequoit, the present holder of the Canada's Cup, and other fast boats. Burgess, who designed the Puritan, Mayflower, and Volunteer, successful cup defenders, is represented by the Fleur de Lys. Endymion is the work of Crane, Chesebrough designed the Hildegarde and Wintringham is responsible for the Thistle.

Further international complications are brought into the race by the entry of the Utowana, which was built in this country from the designs of J. Beavor Webb, an Englishman, who moved to America after he had designed the unsuccessful cup challengers Genesta and Galatea. J. P. Morgan's strikingly handsome steam yacht Corsair is also the work of Mr. Webb.

Particular attention attracts itself to Fleur de Lys and her Gloucester skipper, Capt. Tom Bohlin. This yacht is the smallest in the fleet, her tonnage being but 86, and the conditions of the race, which originally intended to keep out all yachts registering less than 100 tons, were altered to permit her entry. Moreover, this yacht is one of the two American-designed boats in the race that ever sailed across the ocean before, the other being the Endymion. Lastly, the Fleur de Lys, while the smallest boat in the race, is the only one that carries a woman passenger, Miss Candace Stimson, the owner's daughter.

The biggest vessel in the race is the Earl of Crawford's Valhalla, which is more than seven times the size of the Fleur de Lys. The oldest is the Sunbeam, which confesses to thirty-four Summers, while the youngest is the Atlantic, whose christening party occurred only two years ago.

Such a race, in which, notwithstanding the wide diversity of rig, size, and age, there is no time allowance and no restriction excepting the international rules of the road at sea, is one of which yachtsmen long have dreamed, and the result, whatever it is, will leave a marked impress upon yacht racing and designing. The feature of the race, which will be most eagerly watched is the safety of the men, for no transatlantic race has yet been consummated without the loss of life.

Only three of these across-ocean events, however, have been tried, in 1866, when Henrietta left Sandy Hook for the Needles; in 1870, when the Cambria beat the Dauntless from Gaunt's Rock to Sandy Hook, and in 1887, when the Coronet beat the Dauntless from Sandy Hook to Queenstown.

While under all ordinary conditions of wind, weather, and sea, the Atlantic naturally is a favorite, the possible courses are so many, the chances so many, and the distance so great, that every vessel in the race, not excepting the Sunbeam, may be considered as having a chance. While there may be as many routes as racers, the shortest is what is known as the northern route, which is 2,884 miles across. The southern route is over 100 miles longer, or, to be exact, 2,996 miles. But the northern route is full of icebergs, and the southern is crowded with steamships, so the skipper who picks the golden mean will win.

The Lizard, for which the yachts are now straining, is a bold promontory on which there is an octagonal white lighthouse, with a tall tower, in which there is a powerful electric light easily discernible at a distance of twenty-one miles.

All things considered, and not forgetting the present stormy state of the Atlantic, the yachts that sight the tall English tower may consider themselves sufficiently rewarded in getting across safely, and the Kaiser's golden cup and three other prizes, which will go to the first four boats to cross the finish line, will be in the nature of additional favors from the hand of Fortune.

EARLY HOURS AT HORSESHOE.

Preparations for Start Follow Arrival of Committee Boat.

When dawn broke at the Horseshoe only nine boats rode at anchor at the rendezvous. The Apache and the Sunbeam were absent. These two had anchored off Tompkinsville for the night, afraid to venture down the bay in the heavy fog which enveloped the harbor after dusk. The Apache made an early start and reached Sandy Hook in tow in the neighborhood of 7 o'clock, but up until the signal was given to start for the lightship the Sunbeam had not appeared. Tenders were anchored close at hand ready to take up a line from each boat to tow them out.

Interest centred in the condition of the Fleur de Lys, which arrived so late the previous night as to admit of nothing more than a hasty inquiry of Dr. Stimson concerning her condition. While his assurances have allayed the anxiety felt for the little craft, each owner was anxious to see for himself the extent of the damage which had been done her.

A boat from the Utowana carried Allison V. Armour over for an early morning call. He found Dr. Stimson, Mr. Connolly, and Miss Stimson to welcome him. Together they made an investigation which showed that the repairs have remedied the damage satisfactorily and that the little boat was only worse off by reason of an unsightly scar which marred her trim appearance. Other owners speedily followed Mr. Armour's example, and Dr. Stimson and his daughter held an informal reception on the deck of the schooner.

Aboard each of the other yachts inactivity marked the early morning. None attempted to set any sail or do more than remove stops and covers preparatory to starting down the bay. Shortly before 10 o'clock the Vigilant, bearing Commander Hebbinghaus and the other members of the Starting Committee, appeared. They brought the information that the Sunbeam had been off Staten Island all night and was preparing to tow down the river. She had been instructed by the committee to make her way directly to the lightship, to arrive in the neighborhood of 11:30 o'clock.

Each yacht in the fleet was visited in turn by the committee boat. Similar instructions were issued to each, and immediately preparations were made for the start. The first tender to pick up its charge was the John A. Bouker with the Valhalla. At 11 o'clock the Earl of Crawford's big ship was under way, headed toward the lightship. Shortly after, the Hamburg, in charge of the W. A. Sherman, started.

These two foreign entries led the way out of the Bay. The Fleur de Lys prepared to raise her sails and go down unattended. At the same time the mainsail on the Thistle was hoisted and she started behind the tug Unique. Ailsa, in charge of the Fred B. Dalzell, was the next to get under way. As these two rounded out into the open the Sunbeam passed, making the third foreign boat to take the lead.

The Endymion, in charge of the H. P. Chamberlain, and the Hildegarde behind the M. Moran, followed, with the Utowana, towed by the John K. Gilkenson. The Apache, with the De Witt C. Ivins, and the Atlantic brought up the rear.

As the lightship was neared, Commodore Tod ran up the foresail on the Thistle. Ailsa's mainsail followed and each boat accepted this as a signal to set her larger sails.

The Hamburg was the first to cast off her tow. An instant later the Ailsa ran up her jib and proceeded under her own sail. Capt. Barr, on the Atlantic, stood in the waist, directing preparations for hoisting her three jibs. Then the Apache cast off and the Endymion and Hildegarde followed suit. Capt. Loesch took his place at the wheel, and Lem Miller steered the Ailsa.

The Fleur de Lys was the last to reach the light. She came down with all sails set, Capt. Tom Bohlin running well to the leeward of the lightship, and being in rather an unfortunate position when the preparatory gun signaled all the boats to cast off tow.

Then began the jockeying which resulted in the spectacular start.

SMALL FLEET OF YACHTS OUT.

Only Pick of the Steam Craft Went Down to See the Start.

There was in attendance a small but select fleet of private yachts around the Sandy Hook Lightship. The start was marked by the entire absence of any excursion fleet. One or two tugs made the trip down the bay, but each had private parties. No delegations from any of the large yacht clubs were present. Few women essayed the early start, and not more than half a dozen were aboard the entire fleet.

Five boats left the New York Yacht Club station at Twenty-third Street early in the day. Howard Gould's Niagara took Mr. and Mrs. Gould and a small party of friends to the Hook. Aboard her was Capt. Schamach, who built the boat. Frank Gould followed on the Helenita, with a party of six, in which his wife was the only woman. H. H. Rogers on the Kanawha took down a party of eight guests. Walter Jennings on the Tuscarora had a small number of intimates aboard. The largest party in attendance, perhaps, was aboard the fast Mermaid owned by William Ross Proctor.

The May, having aboard Col. Alexander Van Rensselaer and a small party of Philadelphians, members of the Corinthian Yacht Club, come over to suitably send off the Hildegarde, belonging to their clubmate, Edward R. Coleman, who was one of the earliest of the boats to seek the rendezvous at the Horseshoe. After visiting the Hildegarde and wishing the party aboard her success in the trip across, they made the rounds of the little fleet of cup yachts, ending at the side of the Utowana, where they went aboard to bid farewell to Allison V. Armour. Col. Van Rensselaer then put off in a launch and ran over to the Fleur de Lys, going aboard to inspect her injury, and to wish Dr. Stimson better luck on his long passage. He warmly complimented Miss Candace Stimson on her pluck in making the trip across; then left to return to the Corinthian flagship. Immediately after the May was under way and made her way down to the light.

The Monimia, which has been anchored at the Horseshoe for five days, observing every detail of the preparations for the race, followed the Vencedor out, carrying G. McKesson and a party of friends. Commodore Bourne of the New York Yacht Club, on board the tug the Edwin J. Berwind, was also an early visitor at the Horseshoe. He went down the bay with Alfred Marshall's Levanter, carrying the family and friends of Mr. Ellison Wilson to bid him farewell before the Atlantic left her anchorage. The new yacht showed evidence of considerable speed, and is a much larger and handsomer craft than her predecessor, after which she is named.

E. C. Benedict, with a party of six aboard the Oneida, was early at the Hook. He cruised about outside between the Light and the Horseshoe, observing every detail of the cup yachts on their way to the start, and followed them quite a distance after they had crossed the line.

A. J. L. Smith, with a party aboard the Privateer, arrived just before the preparatory gun sounded. His trim craft, which had been remodelled, has been greatly improved since last she appeared on the course. She was greatly admired by those who watched her speed, and on his return Mr. Smith was generally congratulated by his clubmates upon her.

A. Curtis James, aboard the Aloha, had a small party of members of the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht Club members aboard. He is the ex-Commodore of the club, and the Aloha was formerly its flagship. A. H. Alker, aboard the Florence, had a party of Manhassett Yacht Club men with him, while Evans R. Dick took down on the Elsa II. the same party which attended the postponed start on the previous day.

THE RACE IN LONDON.

Experts Favor the Atlantic—Hopes for the Valhalla.

LONDON, May 17.—Interest in the transatlantic yacht race started to-day from off Sandy Hook to the Lizard, for the cup offered by Emperor William, is as yet largely confined to yachting circles in London, but reports of its progress from passing vessels are certain to arouse popular enthusiasm in this city. Experts here are inclined to favor the chances of the Atlantic from a strictly expert viewpoint, while the Valhalla naturally is the favorite of the Englishmen, who are wishing for heavy winds. Betting on the race has not yet commenced.

The committee of judges, composed of the German Naval Attaché in London, Sir Edward Birkbeck, (Chairman of the Royal National Lifeboat Institution,) and Rear Commodore C. L. F. Robinson of the New York Yacht Club, will be on board Lord Lonsdale's yacht alongside the German third-class cruiser Pfeil at the finish line.

Mr. Robinson has hired a cottage at the Lizard, where he will entertain a few English and American friends next week.

BLOW TO CENTRAL'S PLANS.

Connecticut Assembly Votes to Change General Railroad Laws.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 17.—The House of Representatives this afternoon passed the bill which repeals certain sections and otherwise changes the general railroad law so as to compel any company to ask the General Assembly for a special charter to build a steam road parallel to existing lines.

Under the present law the New York Central Railroad, on authorization of the State Railroad Commission, could build a road across Connecticut on the line of its recent survey from Brewster, N. Y., to Feeding Hills, Mass., but if the bill becomes a law the company will have to ask permission of the Legislature.

In concurrence with the House, the Senate to-day passed the Consolidated Street Railway bill as amended, giving to the company all charter privileges of its constituents. This is the holding corporation for trolley properties of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad in Connecticut.

TEAMSTERS ARBITRATE ON GOMPERS'S ADVICE

Question of Disregarding Boycott Referred to Committee.

NEAR CHICAGO STRIKE'S END

Streets Resume Normal Conditions—Penalties Inflicted on Striking Public School Pupils.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 17.—At the suggestion of Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, the team owners and teamsters got together to-day and agreed to submit to the decision of an arbitration committee which will meet to-morrow morning the question of deliveries at boycotted stores. A decision against the teamsters, which is expected, would prohibit further spread of the strike.

The labor leaders are now all anxious for settlement of the strike, and undoubtedly before the week is out it practically will be called off. The men would welcome peace.

Gompers to-day conferred with members of the Team Owners' Association, the Teamsters' Union, and Mayor Dunne. He expressed confidence that the strike would be adjusted within a short time.

Little opposition was made to-day to deliveries by non-union drivers. The streets had assumed almost a normal aspect.

In the effort to stop the "strikes" by public school pupils, Judge Mack of the Juvenile Court this afternoon sentenced one boy to John Worthy School, a branch of the House of Correction, and sent two to the Parental School, while a fourth was released on probation.

"I threw coal at the teamsters all right," said Harry Kirwin. The boy's father, who was in court, interrupted, saying:

"Tell the Judge why you threw at them."

"Because they were 'scabs,'" asserted the prisoner.

"These school strikes must stop and they will stop right away. It is time these boys learned that there is such a thing as law and that those who break laws must suffer. The sentence will stand," declared the court.

Two negro strike breakers, Jesse Ballinger and James Jones, one of whom is believed to have fired a shot that resulted in the death of an eight-year-old school boy, Enoch Carlson, were arrested to-day. They are employes of the coal company which has been attempting to deliver coal at the public schools, and has been resisted by strikes of pupils.

The Chicago Subway Company is carrying freight through its tunnels to the limit of its capacity, this condition having prevailed since the teamsters' strike began. Business houses on the line of the subway are making connections with the tunnels as rapidly as possible.

PANAMA YELLOW FEVER LIST.

Col. Gorgas Reports Three More Deaths—Outbreak Subsiding.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Col. Gorgas reports to the War Department the following deaths from yellow fever on the Isthmus of Panama:

Ernest Melville, an American non-employe, taken ill on the 9th of May, died on 14th.

John Wilson, Canadian, employe on the railroad, taken ill May 3, died 15th.

A. E. Peck, American, non-employe, taken ill May 9, died 15th.

TRIED TO KILL A DETECTIVE.

De Lissi Knocked Carpenter Down, Then Ran for His Shotgun.

Stephen J. De Lissi, a young East New Yorker, was held at the Liberty Avenue Police Station last night, charged with attempting to shoot Detective Coles Carpenter. Carpenter recently made an arrest which De Lissi didn't like, and when they met yesterday afternoon at Liberty Avenue and Barbey Street De Lissi knocked Carpenter down. The blow almost knocked Carpenter senseless, but he got up, and with two other men followed De Lissi, who ran to his home at 504 Liberty Street. There De Lissi met them at the door with a shotgun.

"I'll shoot the first man who comes in!" he shouted. Carpenter made a rush toward De Lissi, and, according to the story of the detective, De Lissi snapped the gun, which failed to discharge the shot.

When the men pushed their way into the house De Lissi jumped through a window, carrying glass and window sash with him. He was finally found and dragged from under the bed in a neighbor's house.

CARONIA STILL FAST; MAY HAVE TO UNLOAD

tide is at the highest. A strong wind has been blowing in from the east, and last night it showed no signs of abating. When the wind and the tide combine the stern is inevitably swung further in toward the sand bar.

The vessel shows a decided list to starboard. Though the list was not great enough to create any additional danger, it served to emphasize the vessel's general appearance of helplessness.

One mitigating circumstance for the passengers yesterday was the start of the yacht race for the Kaiser's Cup. With nothing else to do but gaze at the surrounding seas and Sandy Hook, the passengers hailed with delight the pleasure craft that went down in large numbers from New York to be on hand at the start. The pleasure boats, on the other hand, were so much interested in the liner that they went out of their way and circled around it, good-naturedly jeering the imprisoned passengers.

The afternoon before the Caronia had passed the sight-seeing flotilla coming back from the postponement of Tuesday. The passengers knew that the race had been postponed, but did not know when another attempt would be made to start. When they heard of the plan to start at noon everybody went to the rail to keep a watch for the yachts. The first of the yachts to be sighted was the Hamburg. The Fleur re Lys got a rousing cheer, but none was cheered so lustily as the Atlantic, the last of all the yachts to pass.

After the start and as the boats with sightseers returned from the lightship the rails of the Cunarder were still lined with passengers. Some man with a big voice put his hands up to his mouth and yelled:

"Who's in the lead?"

"Atlantic!" came the answer, and there was great cheering and waving of handkerchiefs. One or two Germans waxed enthusiastic, because the Hamburg was third at the start.

But the passengers were not in such a good humor when they saw the failure of the tugs to move the vessel. They had been assured that when the tide was at its highest the boat would be pulled back into deep water.

Not in a long time have so many wrecking tugs been gathered around a big ship hereabout. The I. J. Merritt, one of the prize vessels of the Merritt-Chapman Wrecking Company, went down early in the morning, and began to get ready for action. Later in the day, about noon, Vernon H. Brown took down a fleet of tugs to help the I. J. Merritt. In the middle of the afternoon their Captains surveyed the situation, and made plans for the struggle which was to be made around high tide.

On the starboard—or windward—side, where the waves lashed furiously against the side of the giant craft, it was not possible for the tugs to work. Two kedge anchors, attached to long hawsers, were dropped about fifty yards from the liner in this direction. They were supposed to keep the liner from swinging around into a worse position, but did little good.

Since the ship was headed straight away from the channel all the pulling had to be done from the stern. Between the stern and Sandy Hook was the tug Battler, leading the fight against the tenacity of the mud. A little off to port, but well astern, were the I. J. Merritt and the George K. Kirkman. Directly alongside, to port, were the R. J. Barrett and the McCaldin Brothers.

The pilot boat New York, which was near, was not supposed to tackle the job, but when the Captain saw that the tugs were outmatched he steamed up to the port side and began to pull with the rest.

The first effort of the tugs was made at 5:40 o'clock, about half an hour before flood tide. The tide was rising fast, and the men in charge thought an attempt should be made immediately, so that, if it failed, another might be made. The first failed ignominiously. The engines of the Caronia were reversed and the big propellers began to churn the water with a fury that illustrated the impatiences of the Captain and his passengers. The stern began to swing, but it was not moving in the proper direction. Instead of moving out toward the channel the boat swung around on its bow as a pivot.

Defeated, the tugs let up and began to manoeuvre about for their last effort. Flooddide was due at four minutes after 6 o'clock, and, if it was possible to get the liner afloat, that was the moment. Slight changes were made in the arrangement of the attacking fleet, and a little before flooddide the real contest between the tugs and the mud began.

Again the ants pulled fiercely at the caterpillar, again the pilotboat gave its help, and again the Caronia's propellers churned the water. This was kept up for twenty minutes, and all the time the stern was slowly turning around toward the west, never moving toward the deep water, where it was meant to go. After a rest of a few minutes the tugs were at it again.

The last attack began at 6:45 and lasted until 7:20 o'clock. The Barrett and the McCaldin Brothers were swept from alongside the big boat and far down to port by the current made by the furious activity of the Caronia's propellers. A swift current was sent along the port side, from stern to bow, and the tugs were unable to withstand its force.

Friends of the imprisoned passengers were uneasy about them last night, thinking perhaps some calamity might result. The Ship News Office at the Battery was called up by telephone every few minutes to answer some anxious inquiry as to the chances of the boat's getting out of the mud last night.

CLERK LOOKED OUT FOR NO. 1.

Levin's Employe Says He Took Goods Because Others Were Doing It.

The trial of Louis Levin, charged with obtaining merchandise on false representations, was continued yesterday before Judge Foster, in Part II. of General Sessions.

Assistant District Attorney Train called Jacob Goldscher, who was shipping clerk in Levin's Bleecker Street establishment. He testified that he had sent a number of cases of goods to Indianapolis, which had never been unpacked in New York. He also said that on the day of the failure he had taken sixty yards of material to his own home, "because everybody was looking out for himself, and I thought I might as well, too."

Flor de Ynclan Perfecto

THIS size is one of the very choicest products of Havana, and has only recently been brought to this market in sufficient quantities to give it wide acquaintance.

For many years it has enjoyed the highest degree of favor among the comparatively few connoisseurs who had learned its exquisite qualities. It has long been especially popular with navy officers, the Ynclan Perfecto being the ward-room smoke par excellence.

We are now enabled to offer a complete line of sizes in this brand, in cigars especially selected for their choice color and workmanship.

SAY SPECIAL SESSION SHOULD ACT ON GAS

Republicans Wish Higgins to Include Subject in Call.

PARTIAL VICTORY, SAYS PAGE

Senator Points Out That Improved Gas for City Uses Will Benefit Private Consumers.

Before the Federal Junior Republican Club, at 73 Avenue D, last night Senator Alfred R. Page, author of the resolution which brought into being the Stevens Gas Investigating Committee, attempted to fix upon the Democratic Senators from New York City the responsibility for the defeat of the Eighty-Cent Gas Bill, and S. S. Koenig, the Republican leader of the district, made the announcement that at the meeting of the Executive Committee of the Republican County Committee this afternoon he would offer a resolution declaring it to be the sentiment of the committee that Gov. Higgins should include cheap gas among the subjects to be considered at the special session of the Legislature.

Senator Page said that it was the general opinion that because the Eighty-Cent Gas bill had failed of passage the fight for better and cheaper gas had been entirely lost. That impression was erroneous, he said; and he then told how the Republican legislators had outwitted the gas company on a very important point in connection with the distribution of gas. He said:

"Cheaper gas has not always meant lower gas bills, as your experience when gas was reduced in price from $1.25 to $1 abundantly testifies.

"We included the provisions for pressure and quality in the bill providing that the gas company shall not charge the city more than 75 cents per 1,000 cubic feet for gas. We did that for a purpose which the gas company's officials are only now beginning to appreciate. We knew from the conditions in the Senate that the bill providing for 80-cent gas to consumers could not pass, and we were determined that the people should have some relief.

"The gas company now finds itself in this condition: It must furnish gas to the street corner lamps of a certain quality and under a certain pressure, but as the mains which carry the gas to the street corner lamps are the same which carry it into the houses, the company will have to give the private consumers the same quality and pressure which it gives to the city, unless it establishes separate mains for the city's service.

Senator Page said that the State Gas Commission would have the power to lower the price of gas to the consumers, and he predicted that it would do so.

"The people are getting restless under the abuses of these corporations," he said. "If the public cannot get relief through State supervision, there will be an uprising, such as there was in Chicago, for municipal ownership. That is the question which we must face in the coming campaign. We have preferred to try State supervision before embarking on the dangerous sea of municipal ownership. On that platform we have an illustrious leader in the person of Theodore Roosevelt."

The regular Republican organization of the Sixteenth District at a meeting held Monday night, adopted resolutions calling upon Gov. Higgins to make a recommendation for cheaper gas in his message calling the extra session of the Legislature.

MAY THREATEN URUGUAY.

Britain Likely to Send Warships Owing to Sentences on Sealers.

HALIFAX, N. S., May 17.—The Nova Scotia sealing schooner Agnes G. Donahoe, with her outfit and her cargo of 400 sealskins, has been confiscated by the Uruguayan Government and her commander, Capt. Matthew Ryan, and crew of fifteen men have been placed in prison to serve terms of from six months to three years for alleged violations of the laws of Uruguay.

The case has been pending since 1903, and the decision of the court has just been delivered. The Agnes G. Donahoe sailed from Halifax in September, 1903, and was seized by two Uruguayan gunboats. The captain and crew were charged with raiding the seal rookeries and hunting in Uruguayan waters without permission.

The matter has been placed before the British Government. No action was taken pending the decision of the Uruguayan court.

Now, it is said, the British Government will probably send warships to Montevideo and demand an investigation.

OTTAWA, May 17.—The seizure of the Agnes G. Donahoe was discussed in the House to-day. The owners say the vessel was seized on the high seas.

Premier Laurier said that all the Government could do was to make representations to the British Government. The sentences were very severe, but mandates of the courts of Uruguay must be respected.

Mr. Roche of Halifax stated that part of the crew found their way back to Canada on board a United States man-of-war. He said it added nothing to the prestige of the British flag to have it known that Canadian seamen had to look to the American flag for protection.

THE WINE PRESS
By ANNA ROBESON BROWN

There is no question of sex in the greater things of life according to the author of this novel. The question is of character,—of strong man and weak woman,—of weak man and strong woman,—of weak woman and weak man,—or, when the bitterest struggle of all takes place, of strong man and strong woman. This is the most unique novel ever written.

Python Sent Him Overboard.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 17.—After having been disabled by a fire that raged under deck for three days the steamship Kingstonian arrived to-day with a remarkable cargo of animals, birds, and snakes.

The weather here was too chilly to allow the snakes to remain in the boxes, and the men were directed to transfer them—some of them were 15 feet long—to bags. The biggest python slipped away from the men and glided along the deck. The snake measured 15 feet in length, and the speedy way in which it crept along induced most of those on deck to give it a wide berth.

One of the sailors, however, was not quite quick enough. With a sudden turn it swung it's body like a whip cord, catching the man's body and knocking him overboard. In the mad scramble to rescue him, the others on deck forgot all about the snake, which had things its own way for a short time. It was, however, eventually captured.

Smartest of costumes, special at $12.75. To-day's great sale in our suit department.

INTEREST of smart dressers will centre in a sale of silk demi-costumes, also Bretelle and Suspender models at Simpson Crawford Co.'s to-day. Upwards of 200 creations will be offered at $12.75—this is a very special price, as the quality and style, as well as the merchandise, are above the average. No doubt the sale will create extraordinary buying enthusiasm, as it is admitted there's nothing smarter this season. Third Floor.

$12.75 for models in good heavy quality taffeta—colors blue, black, reseda and gray—made double suspender crush girdle effect, ornamented with small silk covered buttons: the other model, a half waist style with small straps running over shoulder, full round skirts, shirred or plaited. $12.75

$21.75 for very smart newest suspender model, in all the pretty plain and changeable checks—black and white, green, blue and gray—made with wide bodice finished with whalebones and the new deep cape effect falling over shoulders, tapered down to a point at waist line, finished off at edge with narrow shirred flounce—round length plaited skirt with five tucks.

$23.75 for silk demi-costumes—entirely new model in soft finished taffeta—in navy, royal, reseda or smart pin checks—finely tucked waist with little square yoke of white net and lace—full sleeve to elbow—finished with deep white lace cuff—crush girdle and full plaited skirt.

The Stylish Suspender Suit $10.50

THOSE dashingly swell models, the "Suspender Suits," possess a certain distinctiveness, and are the very essence of smart—stylish—dressy costume models.

There is a "go!" about them that is suggestive of the very swellest swagger effect, yet a charm of Summer coolness and comfort that is very enticing.

THE ILLUSTRATED MODEL AT $10.50 has the new shirred effect suspenders, wide at shoulder, with narrow straps at front and back, round length skirt, entirely shirred. At the price this is an exceptional opportunity, for the style and wearing attributes of this suit are unquestionable, and the price is lower than the quality would indicate.

ROJESTVENSKY BEGINS LAST STAGE OF VOYAGE

Russian Officials Expecting News of Opening Skirmishes.

ADMIRAL SAID TO BE ILL

Report Yesterday That He Had Telegraphed to the Czar Asking to be Relieved.

LONDON TIMES—NEW YORK TIMES.
Special Cable. Copyright, 1905.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 17.—I learn that the Foreign Office has received a telegram from Admiral Rojestvensky, sent via China, declaring that he is guiltless of any infraction of neutrality.

The telegram may be taken as evidence that Rojestvensky is proceeding north.

By The Associated Press.

AMOY, May 17.—It is believed that part of the Japanese fleet is taking up a position below Formosa, and that Admiral Togo has planned to fight the Russians south of that island.

The state of martial law first declared at Tamsui, Formosa, and subsequently made general throughout the island, has been followed by the appointment of a military executive, and the moving of the women and children from the Pescadore Islands to Formosa.

SAIGON, May 17.—Admiral de Jonquières, the French naval commander at Saigon, who has been cruising along the coast of Annam on board the cruiser Guichen, returned here to-day.

According to the reports gathered concerning the Russian fleet, Admiral Rojestvensky showed absolute disregard of the discussions on the subject of neutrality. The Russian commander proceeded as if his position gave him complete independence, declared that he acted on his own judgment, and said that criticisms did not change his opinions.

Iron discipline, it is added, is maintained on board the Russian warships.

A correspondent of a Hanoi newspaper who was believed to have been lost off Port Dayet (forty miles north of Kamranh Bay), was rescued by a junk and brought here. While on the junk the correspondent saw thirty Russian warships anchored in the bay. The junk later was stopped and boarded by the Russian repair ship Kamchatka.

The boarding officer blindfolded the correspondent and took him on board Admiral Nebogatoff's flagship, the Nicolai I., where he was closely interrogated. The explanations of the correspondent were found to be satisfactory and he was well treated. The Russian officers said they had not been ashore since February. They expected that an engagement would be fought soon. The united Russian fleet was then about to start for Vladivostok.

The bottoms of the vessels of Nebogatoff's division, the correspondent asserted, appeared to be foul, and the ships were weatherbeaten.

ST. PETERSBURG, Thursday, May 18.—There is a strong probability that Admiral Rojestvensky has set forth on the final stage of his journey.

Though the Admiralty, which has been completely silent since the advent of Rojestvensky in the China Sea, publishes no dispatches, the conviction is growing that the united squadrons departed from the Annamese coast immediately after their juncture, and naval officials are anxiously expecting news of the first skirmishes between the scouts of the hostile fleets.

In the meanwhile, however, very disquieting reports are in circulation about Admiral Rojestvensky's health. It was even said yesterday that he had telegraphed the Emperor that it was impossible for him to proceed. An evening paper printed a report that the Admiral had suffered a nervous breakdown.

No official confirmation of the reports was obtainable at the Admiralty, and all the officers questioned regarding them expressed doubt as to their accuracy. Nevertheless the Admiral's health has been the cause of considerable anxiety here. It is well known that he suffered from kidney trouble before leaving Kronstadt, and throughout the long voyage to the Far East he was so ill that he had to be carried about on a stretcher.

But the Russian commander stuck bravely to his post. If he were now compelled to give up his command the Admiralty would regard it as little short of a national misfortune. Rojestvensky has proved to be a genius as an organizer, and confidence has been felt that he would show equal ability as a fighter.

Should Rojestvensky be compelled to leave the fleet the command will devolve on Rear Admiral Voelkersam, who is now with Rojestvensky, but it is declared that Rojestvensky will keep his flag flying as long as he is not utterly incapacitated for command.

Voelkersam is known as an officer with a Teutonic thoroughness and attention to the details of his profession. He is also a notable strategist.

JAPANESE SEIZE TWO SHIPS.

Capture British Steamer Lincluden and French Steamer Quang Nam.

TOKIO, May 17.—The British steamer Lincluden was seized by a Japanese warship on May 15 south of Korea.

The French steamer Quang Nam was captured by another warship on the same date near the Pescadore Islands.

The cargoes and destinations of the two vessels are not announced.

GERMANY WANTED HAI-CHOW.

Is Said to Have Applied to China for a Concession.

LONDON TIMES—NEW YORK TIMES.
Special Cable. Copyright, 1905.

PARIS, May 17.—The semi-official denial that the German flag has been hoisted at Hai-Chow, Shan-Tung Peninsula, may possibly be justified, but it is stated, seemingly on good authority, that the news came from the Chinese Governor of the district in which Hai-Chow is situated.

That official may have forwarded the news from mere hearsay, but he would be more inclined to give credence to the rumor, as the German Government is said to have applied to the authorities at Peking for a concession authorizing it to occupy that point in Chinese territory, which concession has not been granted.

ROSEN ON HIS MISSION.

He Hopes to Restore America's Old Friendship for Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Thursday, May 18.—In his apartments at the Hôtel de l'Europe, where he spent the last Winter, Baron Rosen yesterday talked with undisguised pleasure of the prospect of representing Russia at Washington. His acquaintance with America extends over a period of almost thirty years, during which, he said, he had learned to admire both the country and the people.

Besides his service as Consul General at New York and as Chargé d'Affaires at Washington during President Cleveland's first Administration, Baron Rosen spent much time in the United States en route to and from Mexico and Japan. Although it is fifteen years since he left Washington, he still retains his membership in the Metropolitan Club of that city.

Baron Rosen said:

"As all Americans who have ever traveled in Russia can testify, the word American has always been synonomous with friend. If, unhappily, the old sentiment of America toward my country has somewhat changed I cannot but attribute it to a misunderstanding of events which preceded the present war—a misunderstanding which I sincerely believe the future and impartial history will correct. It certainly will be my earnest desire and purpose to revive the ancient feeling by bringing about a better understanding.

"I have already met President Roosevelt as a fellow-member of the Metropolitan Club, although he may not remember me."

The Baron will sail early in June. It is not unlikely that he will be the bearer of a personal message from Emperor Nicholas to President Roosevelt.

A PANORAMOGRAPH SQUAD.

Russians to Use Invention Which Photographs Stretches of Country.

ST. PETERSBURG, Thursday, May 18.—A recently invented apparatus for photographing wide stretches of country by means of a camera suspended from a kite has been acquired by the War Office.

Trials have been conducted in St. Petersburg for several weeks with such success that the General Staff expects important results from its new panoramograph squad in establishing Japanese positions and movements.

The apparatus is said to be capable of photographing an area of thirty square miles.

SERGIUS'S SLAYER EXECUTED.

Kaleieff Pays the Penalty for His Crime of Feb. 17.

LONDON, May 17.—A dispatch to a news agency from St. Petersburg says that Ivan Kaleieff, who assassinated the Grand Duke Sergius on Feb. 17 at Moscow, was executed to-day.

THE PLAGUE AT HARBIN.

It is Stated That the Deaths Average 300 a Day.

LONDON, Thursday, May 18.—According to the correspondent at Tokio of The Daily Telegraph, a severe epidemic of plague has broken out at Harbin.

The deaths, it is added, average 300 daily.

TURNS OVER K. C. SOUTHERN.

Harriman Faction Does Not Vote at Meeting—Sielcken's Directorate.

KANSAS CITY, May 17.—At the annual meeting of the Kansas City Southern Railway stockholders to-day New York interests were in control. Out of a total of 510,000 shares, 331,666 shares were voted. The Harriman interests did not vote. The stockholders elected thirteen new Directors, as follows:

Herman Sielcken of New York, coffee merchant; D. G. Boissevan, New York, of Maitland, Coppell & Co., bankers; H. Clay Pierce, St. Louis, of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company; S. W. Fordyce of St. Louis, John J. Mitchell of Chicago, of the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank; J. A. Edson, general manager of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railway; James A. Blair of New York, Ernest Thalman of New York, of Ladenburg, Thalman & Co., bankers; W. F. Harrity of Philadelphia, Vice President of the Equitable Trust Company; H. R. Duval of New York, retired; Samuel Untermyer of New York, attorney; G. M. Craig, President of the Citizens' National Bank, Port Arthur, Texas, and John Greerson of New York.

The new Directors adjourned to meet in New York City later. J. A. Edson will succeed Stuart R. Knott as President.

Before the meeting Mr. Sielcken said:

"We are tired of having the road dominated by an outside interest, which has practically no financial concern in it. We propose to operate it as an independent road in the interest of the Kansas City Southern, and not of any other road or group of roads."

BORROWED AUTO IN SMASH.

Arrested Men Would Not Say Where They Got the Car.

Some time yesterday Martin J. Seymour, thirty years old, of 461 Seventh Avenue; Richard White, thirty-three years old, of 1,275 Broadway, and one other man who escaped the police came into the possession of a big, black-bodied, high-priced automobile, and how and where they got it they refused to tell last night.

The machine was rushing down Seventh Avenue at 10:30 P. M. when it struck a trolley car at Twenty-third Street.

Julius Gibian of 257 West Twelfth Street, Hoboken; his wife Rena, and his sister Rosa were just stepping from the car. The shock hurled them to the ground.

Mrs. Gibian's nose was broken. All three were covered with mud and bruises. They went home after being treated at the New York Hospital.

The machine was found to be badly battered. Its factory number was 1,820 and its license number 3,227.

BRAUN REPEATS HIS CHARGE.

Says He Has Good Evidence That His Correspondence Was Opened.

VIENNA, May 17.—Marcus Braun, the American Immigrant Inspector, this morning conferred lengthily with Ambassador Storer, who is preparing a full report of Braun's case, which he will forward to Washington.

Mr. Braun says he has good evidence supporting the charge that his correspondence was opened, not by the Hungarian Post Office, which he desires to exonerate, but apparently by a detective permanently attached to the Royal Hungarian State Police.

The complaint of Mr. Braun to the embassy consists of the charges that his mail was opened and that he, as an American official, was subjected to insult and defamation.

Mr. Braun returns to Hungary to-morrow and will continue his investigations. His work includes the securing of evidence expanding and corroborating his report of 1904 concerning the emigration conditions in Hungary.

Mr. Reid Gets Final Instructions.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Whitelaw Reid called at the State Department today and received his final instructions at the hands of Acting Secretary Loomis previous to leaving for his post at London. Mr. Reid expects to sail on May 27. Mr. Choate, the retiring Ambassador, will not await Mr. Reid's arrival in London, but will leave for the provinces a day or two before his successor reaches the British capital.

To Pay $82,500 for a Rembrandt.

BERLIN, May 17.—The municipality of Frankfort has decided to buy Rembrandt's "Betrayal of Samson" from the Count von Schoenborn's gallery at Vienna, paying for it $82,500. Of this sum $72,500 was raised by private subscription, the city providing the remainder.

BRILLIANT ASSEMBLAGE IN GEN. PORTER'S HONOR

Farewell Banquet in Paris to Our ex-Ambassador.

HE LAUDS HAY AND DELCASSE

Henry Watterson Speaks of Paul Jones —Says If He Was a Pirate Franklin Was a Lobster.

PARIS, May 17.—A notable farewell banquet was given to-night to Gen. Porter, the ex-American Ambassador. For sumptuousness of appointments and the distinguished character of the guests present it has not been exceeded by anything of the kind held in recent years in Paris.

President Loubet was represented by Gen. Dubois, head of the Presidential Staff. The French officials present included Premier Rouvier, Foreign Minister Delcassé, Minister of Justice Chaumie, Minister of the Interior Etienne, Minister of Public Works Gauthier, M. Fallières, President of the Senate, and M. Doumer, President of the Chamber of Deputies.

The others present included the British, Italian, Turkish, Spanish, and Austrian Ambassadors; Baron d'Estournelles de Constant, Gen. Brugère, and the Marquis de Lafayette. The American guests, who numbered several hundred, included Henry Watterson, Rear Admirals Watson, Casey, Jewell, and O'Neil; Levi P. Morton, Thomas F. Walsh, J. Pierpont Morgan, President Kelly of the American Club, and President Dalliba of the American Chamber of Commerce—the last named acting as presiding officer.

The banquet hall of the D'Orsay Palace was elaborately decorated for the occasion. The Government assigned the famous Republican Guard Band to furnish the music.

A letter from Secretary Hay, in which he paid a tribute to Gen. Porter's brilliant career, was read.

In presenting the guest of the evening Mr. Dalliba summed up Gen. Porter's public service by saying:

"A Congressional medal of honor crowned his military career, the degree of LL. D marked his literary career, the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor rendered tribute to his diplomatic career, the building of the tomb of Gen. Grant and the recovery of the remains of John Paul Jones signalize his patriotic career."

Gen. Porter, speaking in English, said, in part:

"Upon coming from America to France I conceived it to be the highest duty of a diplomat to aim to make the two countries acceptable to each other, and I knew of no better way in which an Ambassador could accomplish that end than by endeavoring to make himself acceptable to the country to which he was accredited. If I have met with any success in that direction it is because the officials of France have met me much more than half way.

"While the public duties of the position have been arduous and at times exacting, they have been of absorbing interest. Here I have seen a marvelous century end and a promising century begin. I have been permitted to bear a humble part in the labors of two historic National administrations. I have seen my country enter upon her proud career as a world power, prepared to secure her just portion of the general prosperity, and at the same time to do her full part in sharing the burdens of humanity and preserving the peace of the world.

"I am not sufficiently rich in language to express the debt of gratitude I owe to my friends in France. You have manifested that genuine friendship which divides our sorrows and doubles our joys, and only strengthens with time."

Gen. Porter then turned to the distinguished French officials present, and, speaking in French with the same facility as in English, said in part:

"It is a great satisfaction to be able to say that the relations between our two countries are to-day of the most cordial kind, and there remains not a single irritating question.

"I experience a peculiar satisfaction in seeing among the eminent public men of France who have honored this occasion the distinguished statesman, the accomplished diplomatist, so perfectly versed in all international questions, whose name is known as well abroad as at home, who has conducted the most delicate and difficult negotiations in such a manner as to gain the friendship and confidence of other countries, and at the same time the respect and affection of his own, the official in whom I have sometimes found an antagonist able and resolute, but who never ceased to be my friend, sincere, cordial, faithful, the eminent Minister of Foreign Affairs.

"When the diplomatic history of this epoch shall be written two names will shine forth more brilliantly than all others—those of Théophile Delcassé and John Hay."

The speech of Gen. Porter brought out a tremendous ovation, the entire assemblage rising and cheering.

Mr. Watterson made a characteristic speech, in which, after a glowing tribute to Gen. Porter, he discussed the achievements of Paul Jones. His closing words, hurling back the taunt of the British press that Jones was a pirate, aroused great enthusiasm.

"It was the hands of Paul Jones," said Mr. Watterson, "which carried the flag which we adore, defiant and triumpant, into English waters, into the Irish Sea, and into the North Sea, yea, into St. George's Channel, not merely bearding the lion in his den, but coming away with those same hands stuffed with indisputable trophies, with actual and visible fragments of his mane and tail. I do not wonder they called him a pirate, but if he was a pirate Washington was a highwayman and Franklin a lobster."

Premier Rouvier responded to the toast to France. He spoke of the traditional spirit for liberty in America and France. Each day, he said, brought the two countries closer and closer together. Savants, artists, and workers in every field marched hand in hand. In the name of President Loubet the Premier expressed profound regret at Gen. Porter's departure and renewed assurances of lasting friendship between the two republics.

Foreign Minister Delcassé was enthusiastically received. He paid a tribute to Gen. Porter, saying that if the relations between France and the United States had been made closer it was due largely to the ability and skill of the Ambassador. He returned now, continued M. Delcassé, to the powerful country whose prodigious development commanded the admiration of the world. The Minister closed by proposing the health of President Roosevelt, which was drunk standing.

Amid cheers and the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner" and the "Marseillaise" the banquet closed.

STRENUOUS TIME FOR KAISER.

After Busy Day He Supervised Rehearsal Till Nearly Midnight.

WIESBADEN, May 17.—The annual festspiel, consisting this year of four performances specially staged in honor of Emperor William's visit here, opened to-night with "Der Freischütz." Seven trumpeters clad in the fantastic uniform of Frederick the Great's guards and placed in the front of the second balcony greeted the Emperor with ancient German fanfares as he entered the flower-festooned Court theatre.

His Majesty reviewed the troops yesterday morning in Alsace and heard Cabinet reports on board his train to Wiesbaden, where he arrived at 7 o'clock in the evening. He drove from the station to the theatre to supervise the rehearsal of "Der Freischütz," which lasted till nearly midnight.

He was none the worse for the busy day and at 7 o'clock this morning was riding on horseback through the streets, which were gay with pennants and triumphal arches.

To-night his Majesty followed the performance with evident delight.

Count von der Osten-Sacken, the Russian Ambassador to Germany, is expected to arrive here on Friday for the Emperor's grand dinner in honor of Emperor Nicholas's birthday.

Running Down Long?

You and Your Food are a Misfit Sure

It's a relief to feel the sunshine and glow of perfect health, bounding energy and "go" of the successful, brimful-of-spirits man. The joy of living real LIFE will come back when you give your body the kind of food it is mutely appealing for, that from which it can make good the daily waste caused by brain work and exertion.

Suppose you abandon for a time the food which evidently is not properly nourishing you, and go in for a 10 day test and see how near the food expert, who perfected comes to your case. Drop tea and coffee absolutely and if you want to get to the front by bounds cut your tobacco down to at least one-half.

Now for breakfast.

A little very ripe fruit, a saucer of Grape-Nuts (not over 4 heaping teaspoonfuls with some rich cream poured over it, insist on cream, milk will do as a last resort, but water spoils the delicate sweet flavor), a slice of very hard-baked toast, thinly buttered, and a cup of Postum Food Coffee. No more.

That will carry you until lunch time, when the same articles can be used, and add a little hot clear soup.

Take dinner at 6 or 7 and have a generous portion of meat, only one kind. Cut out the soup and fish, have 2 vegetables and a Grape-Nuts pudding, a cup of Postum Food Coffee (which will not keep you awake) and one or two slices of buttered toast. QUIT THERE.

Two days thus will open your eyes and ten days make this good old world seem a happy place again.

It's nice to be happy.

THERE'S A WAY, AND "THERE'S A REASON."

It's the Ammonia

It's the ammonia in

MILLER'S POWERINE

that makes it a powerful dissolvent of grease and dirt. The common household ammonia, in bottles, may have some strength left by the time it reaches your kitchen, but sometimes it does not! In Miller's Powerine, pure ammonia, is locked up tight in every granule of the soap—when sprinkled in the water you get the full strength immediately—the cleaning power is all there! Its quick action on dirt and grease makes it possible to accomplish much work in a very short time. Restores the original brightness to everything. You don't have to rub or scrub. Miller's Powerine, with ammonia, does the work. Large package 5c.

BOWEN-LOOMIS PAPERS MISSING FROM FILES

Minister Reports Loss to Secretary Taft.

BRINGS DUPLICATES, THOUGH

First Investigation of Loomis Now Said to Have Been Inadequate—A. D. Andrews in Controversy.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Two rather surprising facts in the Bowen-Loomis imbroglio came out to-day. One was that the investigation last Winter of Bowen's charges against Loomis, on which Loomis was reported to have been vindicated, consisted simply in asking a member of the Asphalt Trust whether he had ever bribed Loomis, and accepting that person's denial as complete and satisfactory. The other was that two of the papers necessary to Bowen's case could not be found in the archives of the State Department.

Mr. Bowen twice reported to the State Department that rumors affecting Loomis's character were afloat in Caracas. On the first occasion it was reported that the President had made an investigation and satisfied himself of Loomis's innocence. Then followed the publication of the charges, and now Bowen is here to answer an accusation of having given them publicity.

The principal charge was that Loomis had accepted a $10,000 check from the Asphalt Trust. The President, it is said, sent for his old friend Avery D. Andrews, who served with him as a member of the New York Police Board under Mayor Strong. Mr. Andrews is an officer of the Asphalt Trust. The President asked him if his concern had given Loomis any money, and Andrews replied in the negative, saying that Loomis had merely exchanged checks with the Trust.

In addition to proving that Bowen is responsible for the publication of the charges, Loomis must now prove his own innocence. He and Bowen were hard at work to-day reading each other's typewritten statements and preparing answers. Bowen denies having given publicity to the charges and denies that he made any charges, or did anything except to report to the State Department information which was current in Caracas.

Mr. Bowen this morning called upon Secretary Taft, who had given him the documents in the case, and reported that two of the most important were missing. One was a letter from President Castro to Mr. Loomis, and the other was an assignment made to Loomis by another man. Secretary Taft caused the State Department to be searched for these documents, but they could not be found. He then delivered some vigorous remarks to certain officials in that department on the general subject of loose methods in the executive departments, and then informed Bowen of the loss. Mr. Bowen said he had brought along from Caracas duplicate copies of the missing documents, and that he would like to submit them if copies could be received as evidence. Mr. Loomis offered no objections.

DOUGLAS UPHOLDS WAGE CUT.

Governor Finds Demand in Fall River Strike Was Unjustified.

BOSTON, May 17.—In a statement to-day Gov. Douglas, as referee in the settlement of the Fall River textile strike of 1904, finds that a partial restoration of wages is not warranted.

When the strike was settled in January through Gov. Douglas's intervention, he was empowered to fix a margin of profit at which operatives would receive an increase of wages. The Governor reports that the conditions during the months between January and April were not such as to warrant an increase.

The strike, which affected about 25,000 persons, was begun in July, 1904, to resist a cut of 12½ per cent. The operatives returned to work last January with the reduction in effect. The Governor after investigation was to decide upon what margin the mill owners could grant an increase of 5 per cent. up to April 1. He finds that it would require a margin of 74.38 cents between the price of cloth and its equivalent in unmanufactured cotton to pay the increase of 5 per cent. This would allow 6 per cent. for mill dividends, and 5 per cent. for annual depreciation.

HOSPITAL SITE SOLD.

Eye and Ear Infirmary's Old Property Brings More Than $400,000.

The Manhattan Eye and Ear Hospital, the new buildings of which institution are now being erected on Sixty-third and Sixty-fourth Streets, east of Third Avenue, has sold its property at the southeast corner of Park Avenue and Forty-first Street, for about $420,000.

The buyer is Anthony Arendt, although it is understood that he is acting only as the representative of the real purchaser. Albert B. Ashforth was the broker in the transaction.

A hotel probably will be erected on the present site of the hospital.

NOISELESS LOWER BROADWAY

Wood Paving from Fulton Street to Battery When Subway Is Completed.

As a result of the petitions filed with Borough President Ahearn by building owners and tenants of lower Broadway, a wood block pavement is likely to be laid from Fulton Street to the Battery as soon as the Subway work is finished, and the lower section of Broadway can be restored to its proper shape.

At the request of Mr. Ahearn, Thomas F. McCarthy and H. C. Hunter, the President and Secretary of the Truck Owners' Association, called on him yesterday to discuss the proposition. Both said their organizations were not opposed to a so-called "noiseless" pavement if a grooved wood-block should be adopted. After the meeting President Ahearn said that he had authorized his engineers to get a survey of lower Broadway for repaving, and that the wood-block would be laid as soon as the rapid transit work is completed.

FLORIDA'S ASYLUM SCANDAL.

Legislative Committee Charges Mismanagement of State Institution.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 17.—A committee investigating the State asylum for the insane submitted a report to the Legislature to-day, charging the Asylum Board with responsibility for deplorable conditions in the asylum.

The report declares that the institution is not a hospital for insane, but a retreat for all kinds of patients, who are maintained at enormous expense to the State. It alleges that no systematic effort is made or treatment given to restore the mentality of the patients, and that the sick have not been given necessary attention. It charges drunkenness among the attendants and nurses, and cruel treatment of helpless patients.

Strike Threatens Schwab House.

The English-speaking marble workers, who come under the arbitration agreement of the Building Trades Employers' Association, it was learned yesterday, are trying to bring about a strike on the residence of Charles M. Schwab on Riverside Drive, though none of them is employed there. As far as could be learned yesterday none of the unions are working under the arbitration agreement.

MORTON SAVED LEMON CROP.

Gave Shippers $1 Rate, Witness Tells Senate Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—George F. Meade of Boston, President of the National League of Commission Merchants, continued his statement before the Senate Inter-State Commerce Commission to-day, giving details of alleged abuses of the private car system. He asserted that Armour & Co. in some cases charged several railroads $2.50 per ton of freight for ice and paid the roads a rebate of $1 per ton. Refrigerator charges and freight charges, he said, were consolidated in one bill, the different items not being specified. David A. Wilburton of Pittsburg, a member of the Pennsylvania State Senate and a fruit dealer, said that the Armour car line furnished a satisfactory service.

E. M. Brown of California, representing the lemon interests in his State, said that Paul Morton, Secretary of the Navy, when an official of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé Railroad, in a consultation with lemon shippers on the Pacific Coast, asked if a dollar rate would save the lemon crop. Being informed that it would, the witness added, that rate was made. Joseph Bartle of St. Paul, Minn., an old shipper, testified that St. Paul and Minneapolis were not treated fairly in the matter of rates. He said he thought the Standard Oil Company received concessions from the railroads.

The Senate committee received this afternoon the protest of the Philadelphia Board of Trade against the proposed enlargement of the powers of the Inter-State Commerce Commission.

POLICE SEEK REINSTATEMENT

Demand on Behalf of Inspector Smith and Others Served on McAvoy.

The first move of the batch of Inspectors, Captains, and Sergeants removed on May 9 by Police Commissioner McAdoo to get back on the force was made yesterday when demand for reinstatement was made in legal form on First Deputy Commissioner McAvoy, acting in the absence of the Commissioner as head of the department. The demand for reinstatement was on behalf of the following:

Inspector Elbert O. Smith, Capts. Michael E. Foody and Nathaniel P. Shire, Sergts. John McNally, Joseph Saul, Michael McNamara, Charles Schauweckker, Michael O'Meara, Thomas Morgan, and Albert McDonald.

The papers were served on Deputy McAvoy by the law firm of Grant & Rouss, counsel for the policemen. All demand immediate reinstatement on the ground that they were illegally dismissed from the force "without charges being preferred and without trial being afforded as required by law."

All were retired on the ostensible grounds of physical disability. All allege that they are able to perform police duty and declare, in their applications, that the section of the charter giving the Commissioner the power to retire men twenty-five years on the force and of fifty-five years of age on the ground of physical disability is unconstitutional. The report of the Police Surgeons in the case of Inspector Smith says that he is disabled on account of defective eyesight. As he has only one eye, he asserts that this does not constitute disability.

DEFEATED BY OWN SEX.

Women Teachers Feared Miss Goessling's Agitation for Equal Pay.

Fearful that any attempt to equalize the salaries of men and women teachers in the elementary schools of the city would result in a general reduction, the women teachers of Brooklyn defeated a candidate of their own sex for the Presidency of the Class Teachers' Organization of that borough at the election held last Tuesday afternoon, because she stood on the platform of "equal pay for equal work."

The result of this election has not been officially announced as yet, because the by-laws of the organization declare that the ballots of each school must be counted at a special meeting of the Executive Committee. This meeting has not been held, but a preliminary canvass of the schools of the borough indicates a crushing defeat for the women's ticket. Returns from sixty-five schools give John B. Cottrell of Public School No. 19, the male candidate for the Presidency, 1,000 votes to 300 for his rival, Miss Anna Louise Goessling of Public School No. 44.

"I did not expect to win," said Miss Goessling. "I only started the movement to arouse the teachers. Thus far I have succeeded, and I am confident that sooner or later women will rule this organization. They have a right to, for there are only about a dozen men who belong to it altogether."

WITNESS KNEW LOBLEY.

Clerk Brings New Charge Against Man Accused of Policy Swindle.

When Samuel Lobley was arraigned in the Kings County Court yesterday, charged with swindling the Equitable Life Assurance Society out of $27,816, he was recognized as a man who swindled Volkommer Brothers of Brooklyn out of $1,400 in 1901. He pleaded not guilty, and was committed to Raymond Street Jail by Judge Crane.

Lobley was led into the courtroom while Otto Kuch, a clerk for Volkommer Brothers, was in the witness chair testifying in the trial of a man charged with stealing a horse. Kuch gave a start, and then said that he recognized Lobley as the man who under the name of W. A. Rabe had given a bogus promissory note for $1,400 on his firm.

Lobley is accused of having stolen a check for $27,816 from the Equitable Assurance Society. If he is not convicted of that charge he probably will be prosecuted by Volkommer Brothers.

Lundberg, Slocum Inspector, on Trial.

Henry Lundberg, the United States Steamboat Inspector who did or did not inspect the General Slocum, was placed on trial yesterday for the third time, on charges of criminal negligence before Judge Thomas, in the United States Circuit Court. A jury was impaneled and the testimony will begin to-day. Prior trials of Lundberg have resulted in disagreements.

OBJECT TO FEDERAL RATE MAKING POWER

National Manufacturers Pass Resolutions to That Effect.

LAWS IN CONFLICT—SPENCER

ATLANTA, Ga., May 17.—The National Manufacturers' Association to-day passed resolutions upholding the stand taken by President Parry against the exercise by the National Government of railway rate-making power. E. B. Fike of New Hampshire, Chairman of the standing committee of the organization on Inter-State Commerce, led the fight in favor of the rate-making power.

The other important features of the second day's session of the association were the addresses made by President Samuel Spencer of the Southern Railway and Eugene N. Foss of Massachusetts, whose subject was Reciprocity. The report of the Committee on Resolutions, which caused a lively debate and the rejection of that portion of the report which called upon the Isthmian Canal Commission to use American made goods in canal construction work.

The resolutions adopted indorsed the "open shop" as embodying the true spirit of American liberty; deprecated "the crimes and outrages on personal liberty daily occurring" during the Chicago teamsters' strike, and commended the declaration of President Roosevelt that the State is back of the city and the Nation back of the State.

The dilemma which the rate question presents to the railways of the United States was the subject discussed by Mr. Spencer. He pointed out th anomalous position in which the railroad men find themselves because both the Congressional act for the regulation of commerce of 1887 and the subsequently adopted Sherman anti-trust law have been held by the courts to apply to common carriers.

"The result of this," said Mr. Spencer, "is that if the carrier obey one law he runs the risk of disobeying the other. The only way he can establish that uniformity and stability in rates demanded by the one law is to enter into an agreement which may be forbidden by the other. It is the part of the Government to see that the field of competition is kept open equally to all. But it is not its province to bolster up the fortunes or even the opportunities of one against the other. We seem to be threatened now with a most serious departure from these fundamental laws and principles.

"The recently proposed legislation in respect to fixing rates of transportation by the United States Government through one commission for the whole country may be a most significant beginning. The right to name one price is, of course, the right in the end to name all. I am now only pointing out that if the Government in its regulation of common carriers shall go beyond the point of correcting illegal and well-defined abuses and unjust discriminations, it may unintentionally be entering upon a policy of governmental paternalism from which retreat will be difficult, if not impossible."

Mr. Foss pleaded for an understanding with Canada, and maintained that "we have incited the Dominion to imitate our protective system until she has gone beyond it and granted a discriminating tariff to our rivals."

James A. Emery of San Francisco spoke on "The Necessity of Organization by Employers to Meet Abuses of Power by Organized Labor." The following resolution was passed:

"Whereas, The International Typographical Union has indicated that its members will on Jan. 1, 1906, demand of their employers throughout the country the establishment of an eight-hour work day instead of nine hours as now, without proportionate adjustment of wages paid, coupled with the statement that where demands are refused work will cease immediately in the establishment so refusing, and such concerted action being in the minds of this convention in a measure a conspiracy to force the employing printers to accede to the demands made and contrary to the principles of equity and fair dealing; therefore be it

"Resolved, That we, as individuals and consumers of printing, do hereby pledge to the employing printers of America our hearty support and co-operation during the crisis in their business caused by this demand."

Cutting Balls Chauffeur Who Hit Man.

William Bayard Cutting of 24 East Seventy-second Street, furnished bail at the West Sixty-eighth Street Station yesterday for George W. Phillips of 235 West One Hundredth Street, whose automobile struck a laborer at Columbus Avenue and Seventy-second Street. The injured man was Dominick Broderick, a laborer, of 431 West Fifty-fourth Street. He was working over the conduit of the New York City Railway Company when the automobile struck him.

Found!

I.

"Why is there no magazine in English that publishes the great foreign stories we hear about so often?" There is no doubt about the demand for such a periodical. The best English and American fiction is divided among so many magazines that there's not enough to go around—the magazine that publishes six really great stories in a year does not exist. But a magazine that draws on the whole of the world's literature could easily give its readers a dozen great stories each month, and still not exhaust the rich treasures that are hidden from the average English-speaking reader—stories filled with the life and brilliancy of France; with the psycho ogical insight of Germany; with the realism of Russia; with the pathos and aspiration of the North; and with the romance and glamour of Italy and Spain.

Would not such a magazine appeal to you?

New Yorks Score Another Victory, but Chicago Escapes a Shut-Out.

With Capt. Chance on duty again the Chicagos did better in the fourth and last game of the series with the New Yorks at the Polo Grounds yesterday, for instead of being shut out, as was the case on the three previous occasions, they improved in their batting a little, scored two runs, which were two less than were scored by the champions. This time Wiltse opposed the visiting batsmen, and while he was primarily responsible for the runs scored by the Chicagos, his left-handed pitching in the main was quite effective, the six hits recorded against him being of a non-run-getting character, excepting in the fourth inning.

The New Yorks were not so puzzled with Lundgren's delivery as they were on last Saturday, when they made but three safe hits. Their work at the bat, however, was confined to two innings, but in that limited time they hit like champions should, and earned three of the four tallies with two home runs, a triple and a double.

Both pitchers received excellent support, only one error, Dahlen's poor throw to first base in the first inning, being made during the game. There were two instances of rather sensational fielding, Mertes preventing an almost sure home run by reaching high with his left hand and catching Casey's hard hit ball in the first inning, while Maloney, in the third inning, made an unusually brilliant catch of Mertes's high ball to right field with his left hand and on a full run.

The New Yorks began their run getting in the first inning, scoring three runs, two of which were earned. Donlin was easily retired by Lundgren to first base, but Browne hit to right field for two bases. McGann reached first by being hit by a pitched ball, but Bresnahan's fly was accepted by Slagle. Mertes sent a ball to right field, which bounded into the seats of the "bleachers," which counted for a home run, and three men tallied. Dahlen followed with a single to centre field, but he was thrown out in attempting to steal second. Only three hits were made in the next five innings, but in the seventh the champions added the last run to their total. Donlin started by hitting a terrific ball toward the clubhouse, on which he made a circuit of the bases. Both Browne and McGann were retired on fly balls, but Bresnahan batted for three bases to left field, but could get no further.

A base on balls to Slagle, Tinker's long fly to right field, and Hoffman's out by Dahlen to McGann, scored the first run for Chicago in the second inning, and the visitors tallied another in the fifth, after Lundgren had struck out Casey's single, a hit to Wiltse, Chance being hit with a pitched ball, and Slagle's one-base hit. There were three men on bases when Tinker's foul was caught by Bresnahan.

St. Louis Had No Trouble to Defeat Greater New York.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, May 17.—The Greater New Yorks received a severe drubbing at the hands of St. Louis to-day, suffering defeat by the score of 10 to 2. Hogg and Clarkson were both batted hard, and to make matters worse both were wild as March hares. Peity, on the other hand, pitched good ball and held the heavy-hitting New Yorkers safe at all stages. The batting of Stone and the fielding of Williams were the features. Stone secured two three-base hits out of three times at bat, one each off Hogg and Clarkson. His hit in the eighth inning came with the bases full. He scored a minute later on Koehler's hard double over third. Koehler, too, scored when Yeager threw wild to first on Frisk's hit toward third base.

New York managed to get one run in the second inning on a base on balls to Anderson, Conroy's out from Wallace to first, and Chase's hard hit to centre for two bases. Wallace made the run easy by fumbling Stone's good relay. Another run came in the sixth inning on a single by Dougherty, Keeler's bunt, a wild pitch by Peity, and Williams's fly to deep left field. Lindeman Makes Poor Beginning with Jersey City and Montreal Wins.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Canada, May 17.—Leroy's wet ball fooled the Jersey Citys to-day, while the locals touched up Lindeman, the ex-Pittsburg pitcher, for eight hits, including two doubles by Gibson. The visitors got one run in the eighth inning on Leroy's throw to the "bleachers" of Lindeman's bunt, while Wiedensaul's bad throw in the ninth got Merritt to second, and he tallied on Halligan's out to right field. Montreal scored in the third on Gibson's double, Miller's out, and Bannon's single. By reckless base running and Bean's error Gibson scored on Leroy's light bunt in the seventh, while Lachance was sent to first on called balls in the fourth and finally scored. The score:

COLUMBIA SHUTS OUT PENN.

Morningside Students Outclass Quakers and Take Game by 10—0.

It was a sorry day for the baseball team of the University of Pennsylvania yesterday afternoon at American League Park, the Columbia University representatives easily administering a shut-out to the tune of 10 to 0. The game was far from as uninteresting as the score would seem to indicate, the players on both teams, giving exhibitions of fast and snappy baseball. In the first inning Aldendifer of Pennsylvania had his collar bone broken by Saunders sliding into him while attempting to steal second base.

The Quakers were hopelessly outclassed by the Blue and White nine. Pitcher Tyler was the stumbling block. He seemed to have come suddenly to the form which marked his work last year, and he proved a puzzle to the Pennsylvania batsmen. Only two hits were made off his delivery during the entire nine innings.

Columbia touched up Crimean for four runs in the initial inning, three of which were earned. Frambach's home run brought in two men besides himself. The slaughter was finally stopped and in the next inning Fennell was in the pitcher's box for Pennsylvania. He did quite creditably up to the eighth inning, giving only a few scattered hits. Columbia, however, then solved his delivery, and before the Quakers really woke up six runs had been sent across the plate.

Not an error was credited to the Columbia players and only two to the Pennsylvania contingent. Saunders, in left field for the Morningside collegians, played a star game, pulling down several long flies, which seemed good for more than one base. He made a beautiful running catch of one skyward drive, which evoked the applause of the spectators.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Georgetown was shut out this afternoon, the second time this year, by the Fordham University team of New York. Pitcher McLean was almost a complete puzzle for the local collegians, but three hits being made off his delivery of wet balls and outcurves. Fordham presented the most formidable team in the field that has been seen here, notwithstanding that Princeton put up two fine games earlier in the season. Raftis hit a home run over the right field bank in the second inning and sent two runners home ahead of him. Score by innings:

PRINCETON, N. J., May 17.—Princeton won to-day's game with Lehigh by the score of 12 to 3. The field was wet from recent rains, so that fast ball was impossible. Lehigh excelled in making errors, many of which were costly, and were responsible for runs for Princeton. Gray, the freshman, pitched his first full game and did fairly well, considering the day and the support he received. Score by innings:

SHOW HORSE SMASHES STAND

Miss Day's Winners at Orange Cause Judges to Run.

Special to The New York Times.

ORANGE, N. J., May 17.—Miss Luella Day's blue-ribbon winners in the tandem class to-night at the close of the Orange Horse Show, in the Riding and Driving Club, created considerable excitement among the spectators by leaping into the judges' stand while being exhibited in the ring. C. F. Lawton drove the pair, and while making a sharp turn the leader became entangled in the harness, and before he could be controlled jumped over the low wooden railing surrounding the judges' stand and tore out one side of it completely. The assistants fled precipitately, while grooms ran to extricate the prancing horse. He was quickly got out of the difficulty before breaking the harness, and the judges awarded the blue ribbon to the pair, beating Mrs. A. O. Van Heusen's entry. Earlier in the day Miss Day won the blue in the harness class with the same pair, Master Claude and Miss Earle.

A matinée was held, and the final awards in the evening attracted the largest crowd of the week. Miss Mary Rose Smith rode her brown saddle horse Lady Standford in the evening, appearing in the class for ladies to ride, for the cup offered by the Morristown Field Club. She captured the trophy handily, beating Miss Ellen H. Reid. Miss Smith is the daughter of ex-Senator James Smith, and her victory was heartily applauded, as it is the fourth blue ribbon she has won in the show with the same horse.

Miss L. M. Cruikshank won another blue ribbon with her brown mare Garnet, and Miss Alberta Webb won first in the pony saddle class. The polo pony class was an interesting event, and something out of the ordinary was presented when a wild Western cowboy who was with the Indian troupe in the recent Horse Fair at Madison Square Garden, New York, gave a spirited exhibition of riding a polo bronco. He showed many genuine cowboy tricks of the plains, and was heartily applauded. The awards:

Carriage Horses, over 14.1 hands and not exceeding 15.1 hands.—Won by Miss L. M. Cruikshank's b. m. Garnet; Tonzo Sauvage's ch. g. Lord Nelson, second; Peter Hauck, Jr.'s blk. m. Midnight Belle, third.

Field Day for Manhattan Students.

The students of Manhattan College had their annual field day at the grounds of Classon Point Military Academy yesterday, and the sports were of an interesting character. The chief feature was the fine performance of Ed Hanrahan, 1906, Science, in the 100-yard dash for seniors and the 440-yard for seniors. By winning in each he enabled his class to capture the track championship of the college. Another interesting event was the game of baseball between the sophomores and the seniors for the interclass championship, the sophomores winning by 9 to 5. Summaries:

100-Yard Dash, Senior College.—Won by Ed Hanrahan; Ed Weinberg, second. Time—0:10 1-5.

100-Yard Dash, Commercial Department.—Won by C. Villegas; B. O'Byrne, second.

Running Broad Jump.—Won by W. Boyleston, (15 inches,) 18 feet 3 inches; R. O'Hagan, scratch,) 17 feet 6 inches, second.

440-Yard Run, Senior.—Won by Ed Hanrahan, 1906; J. Bonner, second. Time—0:56.

440-Yard Run, Junior, Handicap.—Won by W. Boyleston, scratch; J. Sullivan, second.

880-Yard Run, Open.—Won by C. Timony, Cathedral School; W. Murray, La Salle Academy, second.

One-Mile Relay, Academic Department.—Won by second year team—Boyleston, Ryan McNamara, and W. McDonough; third year team—Fleming, J. McDonough, Prudens, and Harned—second.

One-Mile Interclass Relay.—Won by 1906—Weinberg, Flanagan, Hennessy, and Hanrahan; 1907—Cullinan, Auletta, Deevy, and Carey—second.

Parochial School One-Mile Relay.—Won by Cathedral School; St. Mary's School of Yonkers, second.

One-Mile Relay, Catholic High Schools.—Won by De La Salle Institute; St. James, second; La Salle Academy, third.

Maturo Leads Lewis for Pool Honors.

The second night's play for the professional pool championship of New York State resulted in James Maturo continuing in the lead over Samuel Lewis at the Broadway Academy, Sixty-fifth Street and Broadway. Lewis made up the ground he had lost, and at every point in the competition last night he outplayed Maturo. For the night's play Lewis sent 147 balls to the pockets while Maturo was counting 118 balls. The grand total for both nights for the men is: Maturo, 251 balls; Lewis, 214 balls.

It was on position work and splendid execution of combinations that Lewis scored so heavily. His cue work in the position play was particularly good, and resulted in so many bad the counting. Lewis scored two high runs of 31 and 29 balls. Three scratches were recorded against him during the progress of the contest. The best run made by Maturo was 24 balls, and two scratches were recorded against him. The match will be continued to-night.

"Johnny" Baker's Good Shooting.

PARIS, May 17.—"Johnny" Baker, the American rifle and trap shot, won the Golden Casket clay pigeon match at the Puteaux Shooting Club to-day, defeating Parisian sharpshooters, with the foreign record average of 98 per cent. of hits.

HYLAS GOT RACE AFTER FOUL IN STEEPLECHASE

GALLAVANT WON AWAY OFF

After a foul near the finish, Hylas was first for the steeplechase at Belmont Park yesterday, and with odds offered against him in the belief that he would be disqualified for interference with Sandhurst, was declared the winner.

The race, the fifth on the programme, was the introduction of Hylas, regarded as one of the cleverest jumpers in the stable of Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., to cross-country racing on the metropolitan tracks, and he started a warm favorite in a field of eight maiden jumpers, Sandhurst being the second choice, with Dick Roberts the next in favor. The contest was a pretty one from start to finish, Sandhurst attended by Russell Sage and Allen Ferris leading for a mile and a half of the two-mile course, with Hylas back in the crowd to that point. On the last jump, coming out of the back side of the course, Allen Ferris fell while abreast of Sandhurst and Russell Sage, and Hylas at the same time moved forward after the leaders. Closing under the whip, Hylas wore down Russell Sage in the run around the last turn, and just as the horses headed for the last jump went up to Sandhurst, the pair starting to the obstacle neck and neck. There Hylas, on the inside, bore out and carried Sandhurst out of his course, threatening to send him over the fence for a few strides, and again jostling him just as they went at the jump. Hylas, hard ridden from that point to the end, crossed before Sandhurst once more they got to the winning post, Hylas first by a half length, ridden out, while Russell Sage, third, was six lengths further back. Finnegan, who rode Sandhurst, promptly entered complaint against Ray, who rode Hylas, and a crowd gathered about the Stewards' stand, in confident expectation that the race would be taken from Hylas, as the jostling was in plain view of the stands, and was witnessed by every one. When the Stewards, W. S. Vosburgh, S. S. Howland, and H. J. Morris, dismissed Finnegan's claim, and permitted the horses to be placed as they finished, a wail of distress went up from the betting ring, as the decision was the hardest possible for the layers, Hylas to win and Sandhurst for the place having been equally heavily backed.

Hylas was one of three successful favorites, the best average of the Belmont Park meeting for the betting visitors. The other winning post choices were Leonard Joe Hayman, which led a big field of two-year-olds about all the way in the second race, and Kenilworth, which galloped in the lead from end to end, and ridden out, won from Rostand, his only opponent. R. T. Wilson, Jr.'s Gallavant, after having three times run second, was entered to sell for $1,500 in the selling sprint for two-year-olds, and it caused no surprise when he was withdrawn from that race, though it puzzled backers when he was added as a starter in the race for the Maiden Stakes, at five furlongs.

For this event, the Belmont entry, Woolwich and Bivouac, always held the place of favorite at odds on, but Gallavant was backed consistently, and went to the post at about 2 to 1. In the contest, Optician led, with Gallavant at his throat latch for nearly a quarter of a mile, Gallavant then bursting away from his field and opening a big gap in it by amazingly short run. From the moment that he made his run to the finish, Gallavant drew further off at every stride, and won in a romp, far off before Woolwich, which beat his stable mate, Bivouac, a neck for second money. WOOD TELLS THE JURY OF HIS EVIL SPIRITS

DOCTORS SAY HE IS CRAZY

Story of Wolf, Mack, and Little Black Man Called Vagaries of an Epileptic.

Special to The New York Times.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., May 17.—George H. Wood, on trial for the murder of George Williams, the Watchung grocer who was found dead in a sleigh with a bullet wound in his head on Feb. 2, testified in his own defense to-day.

Wood, still wearing his listless smile, talked of "Mac" and "Wolf" and "the little black man," the three characters which he says figured in his movements at Watchung at the time of the murder. His counsel, Mr. Swackhamer, urged him to tell all he could remember from the time he left New York prior to the shooting of Williams until he was arrested.

Wood said that he, "Wolf," and his friend "Mac" started for Scarsdale, Penn., to get $1,000 from "Mac's" father. They left the train at a railway junction, where they had dinner and drank a glass of beer.

"While sitting in the café," said Wood, "I felt a queer sensation. A little dark man came in, and about the same time 'Wolf' and 'Mac' disappeared. The little black man and 'Wolf' afterward took a train. All this time I felt queer, and the black man seemed to be driving a lesson through my mind."

"How long did that queer sensation last?" asked Mr. Swackhamer.

"Until I found myself in the Tombs in New York."

"'Wolf,' who claimed to be an illegitimate son of my father," said Wood, "offered to get me $1,000 from Mack's father. After he made that offer I thought that his feelings had changed, and that the big man was my friend. When 'Wolf' ordered me to do a certain thing I always had to do it, for I couldn't disobey him."

"What does 'Wolf' look like?" asked Mr. Swackhamer.

"I think he resembled my father and myself," was the reply.

Mr. Swackhamer asked Wood impressively: "George Wood, did you kill George Williams?"

"No, positively, I did not," replied Wood firmly; "I did not know him and cannot remember ever having seen him."

Prosecutor Roger asked Wood whether he had ever raised a check from $4 to $40, and had afterward passed the check.

"Wolf passed that check for $4, and he afterward gave me a check for $40," said Wood. "This check turned out to be the same one that had been raised."

Jewne Smith of 374 West One Hundred and Thirty-first Street, New York, testified that shortly after his marriage he had visited Mr. and Mrs. Wood and that Wood seemed startled when he saw Mrs. Smith. Later Wood said he had married her when only fifteen years old aboard a ship in Hoboken.

Dr. Charles J. Lufburrow, City Physician of Plainfield; Dr. William Steinach of Bellevue Hospital, New York, and Dr. George M. Parker testified that Wood was insane from epilepsy and not responsible for his actions.

MARX HANGED AT MIDNIGHT.

Aged Murderer of Connecticut Farmhand Pays Extreme Penalty.

HARTFORD, Conn., Thursday, May 18.—Gershon Marx, the aged murderer of Pavol Rodecki, was executed this morning at the State prison at Withersfield, and at 12:12 o'clock was declared dead.

STARTED FIRE IN JAIL.

Queens County Prisoners Craved Excitement and Obtained It.

Prisoners in the Queens County Jail at Long Island City who are awaiting trial or indictment became tired yesterday of doing nothing. These prisoners are kept in the lower part of the jail, while petty offenders who are in for thirty days or so are kept on the upper tiers.

At 6:30 o'clock last night the jail filled suddenly with smoke. It was suffocatingly thick where the short-term men were. The alarmed prisoners shouted, and those on the lower level, who knew the cause, added to the noise.

Some one outside heard the cries and saw dense smoke pouring from the ventilators. A fire alarm was turned in, and in a few minutes the Fire Department had rattled up. Meanwhile the keepers put out the fire, which had been started with papers and pieces of wood and cloth. It had been set where there was no danger of its spreading to the structure. It took some time to clear the jail of smoke and to quiet the prisoners.

TRUSTEE GONE; $300,000, TOO

Charges of Misappropriation Against the Missing C. F. Berry.

BOSTON, May 17.—Creditors of Charles F. Berry of this city, trustee of estates aggregating about $500,000 in value, who disappeared last March, have petitioned the United States District Court that Berry be declared bankrupt.

In the report, which was filed to-day, Receiver Colt charges Berry with being responsible for the disappearance of about $300,000 from various estates. The receiver alleges that securities were sold by him and used by him in various speculative enterprises. The misappropriation began, the receiver, says, in 1899.

REVENUE OFFICER A SUICIDE.

Cashier at Milwaukee Declared Life Had Been a Mistake.

MILWAUKEE, May 17.—George D. Richardson, cashier in the Internal Revenue Office in this city for thirteen years, shot himself in the head to-day. He left a note saying:

"My life has all been a mistake. May God bless my dear wife and children."

His books are being examined, and, it is said, discrepancies have been found.

BARS BULLDOGS AT COLLEGE.

Not Typical of Students' Ideals, Declares Chancellor Day.

SYRACUSE, May 17.—Chancellor James R. Day of Syracuse University this morning ordered the fraternities to get rid of all bulldogs at their houses within twenty-four hours, and threatened to expel any student seen on the street with one.

The killing of a dog by a bulldog was the cause of the order. He declared that the bulldog was not typical of the ideals of students.

Columbia Rejoices Over Hamilton Hall

In celebration of the recent gift of a new college hall, Hamilton Hall, the students of the collegiate department at Columbia University, last night gave a dinner in honor of Dean James Howard Van Amringe, who has been pleading for the gift ever since the institution moved to its new site. Dean Van Amringe and ex-Mayor Seth Low, President of Columbia until he became the executive head of the city, were the first of a list of honorary guests who were invited. Both made speeches. Several graduates and undergraduates also spoke.

63 Graduates from Hebrew Institute.

The largest class of boys since the foundation of the school, numbering sixty-three, was graduated from the Hebrew Technical Institute, 34 and 36 Stuyvesant Place, at the commencement exercises held in Cooper Union last night. In the opening address to the graduates President Joseph I. Buttenwieser said that the 512 graduates of the school employed in the business world averaged a yearly salary of over $1,100.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Gerome's Statue La Bellona Not Free of Duty—Other Decisions.

In a decision written by Judge Waite, the Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday denied the claim of Tiffany & Co. and held that a statue of La Bellona by the French artist Gérôme, is not a work of art within the meaning of the Dingley tariff law. The statue was one of the last works by Gérôme previous to his death.

Collector Stranahan levied duty on the statuary, as a manufacture of ivory, at the rate of 35 per cent. ad valorem. An appeal was then made to the Board of Appraisers by the importers, it being maintained that the statue was statuary, and, therefore, a work of art within the meaning of the Tariff act. Judge Waite, in his opinion overruling the claim of Tiffany & Co., says there is no doubt that the piece is a work of art, but that, nevertheless, previous rulings of the board and of the Federal courts render it incumbent upon the customs tribunal to uphold the Collector's assessment. When the Collector exacted duty on La Bellona several weeks ago, French artists abroad expressed great surprise at the action of the American customs officials. It is likely that the importers will carry the case into the United States Circuit Court. The statue is said to be valued at $15,000.

Other importers' protests overruled yesterday were by Van Blankensteyn & Hennings, Max Mendel, Sundheimer Brothers, Hermann Boker & Co., W. R. Brown, Wallace L. Gough, Thomas S. Pierson, New York; John Wanamaker, O. G. Hempstead & Son, Philadelphia; T. Kusonoki, William G. Irwin & Co., Honolulu; Parke, Davis & Co., C. H. Ritter & Co., Detroit, Mich.; H. J. Pieras & Co., San Juan, Porto Rico; Hollander & Co., Gustave Herrmanos, San Juan.

Protests sustained were by Albert Lorsch & Co., Rudolph C. Hahn, Wing Wo Long, New York; Thatcher Brothers, Boston; the Rice-Stix Dry Goods Company, St. Louis; See Bue, San Francisco; Successors de Suan, San Juan; Charles Barber, Philadelphia, and May & Hills, New Orleans.

THE PRESIDENT'S TARIFF FIGHT.

How widely and deeply the Republican Party will be rent over the question raised by the business plans of the President for canal purchases is shown by the editorial and news columns of the chief Republican organ in the Union, The Tribune of this city.

The peculiar authority of that journal in the party is well known. Since the death of its eminent founder and its passage after the GREELEY campaign to the control of its present proprietor its loyalty to the party has been conspicuous through good and evil report. But it has not been blind loyalty. For years The Tribune has shown a clear conception of three elements in the political situation: The terrible strain on the protective tariff system imposed by the splendid growth of the trade of the country; the tendency of the tariff to foster monopolies; the danger to the party from these sources whenever the opposition should attain a sound organization and a capable leadership. On the strength of this rational understanding of the facts and possibilities, it has, during the first term of Mr. MCKINLEY and that of his successor, maintained markedly close relations with the Administration, has been the recipient of unusual confidences, and, especially through its Washington bureau, has kept the country constantly informed as to all the indications of sane and progressive treatment of tariff questions. Its attitude as to the Cuban and Porto Rico and Philippine tariff requirements has been strikingly liberal. During the period in the early part of Mr. ROOSEVELT'S succession, when he was using his utmost energies to arouse his party to the need of adapting the high tariff to the changes in the conditions of trade and production, The Tribune gave him its diligent aid. And recently, when the question of revenue to meet the deficit in the Treasury assumed new importance, it was through The Tribune that the position of the President was made known and his intention to advocate the reduction of duties, with the consequent stimulation of imports, as a means of increasing the customs receipts. In short, The Tribune may with entire reasonableness be said to have reflected the desire of Mr. ROOSEVELT, with which the acute and trained intelligence of Mr. WHITELAW REID naturally sympathized, to relax the fetters of the tariff on the party and on the country as rapidly and effectually as could be achieved without splitting the party.

The position of the paper, therefore, lends especial significance to its treatment of the present affair. It refers to "the numerous protests of a most emphatic character which have reached the President and Secretary TAFT" as "a long and deep howl from the 'standpatters' of the country." This "howl" is answered in its Pittsburg dispatches. These state that "President RAMSEY has made it a point to show the President and his advisers that the Steel Trust has two prices, one for domestic consumers and one much lower for the foreign market." And it reports that when "the Steel Corporation and the various pools engaged in making rails, structural steel, &c., decided to charge the Government to the full extent," this "led President ROOSEVELT to make the competition open and to give producers of every country a chance to bid on steel rails and other supplies." It was high time. The Tribune gives the following facts to show how greedy have been the extortions made possible by the protective tariff as it stands; they have been frequently mentioned in our columns, but we reproduce them with the authority of that paper:

> Last Fall, before the election, steel rails were selling at the British mills at $22.16 a ton. The same rails made in the United States brought $28 a ton, and the price was fixed by the rail pool. There was a slackness in some lines in the American rail, and makers took contracts to deliver rails in Great Britain as low as $22 a ton in Liverpool and Cardiff. This meant that the Steel Corporation paid a railroad freight of $2.20 a ton on the rails from the Pittsburg mills and $6 a ton for ocean freight, making a total of $8.20 a ton in the cost of transportation, and the rails were laid down in a foreign port $6 a ton cheaper than a railroad could have purchased them at the Pittsburg mills.

These figures fully sustain the statement of CHARLES M. SCHWAB, also frequently reported, and now reproduced by The Tribune, that "we have got the cost of the manufacture of rails down to the inevitable $12."

Editorially the position of this recognized organ of the Republican Party, with its continuously confidential relations to President ROOSEVELT, is, as to the matter in hand, entirely clear. "We have no doubt," it declares, "that this decision (that supplies 'shall be purchased wherever they can be most advantageously secured') will be criticised unfavorably by a few, chiefly by some whose expectations are not altogether disinterested. We have no doubt either that it will be cordially approved by the best judgment of the American people." We also have no doubt as to the final outcome of the best judgment of the American people. Nor will this judgment limit itself to the sound principle that the Government should buy wherever it can buy most advantageously. It will claim the same right for all the people. And especially it will condemn as absurd and oppressive the fact that the necessaries of life, the materials of industry, shall be made more costly by the monopolies intrenched behind the tariff rates. Americans will not forever stand idly by and see the protected giants picking their pockets under the shelter of the tariff, and the revolt of President ROOSEVELT against having the pocket of the Government picked will go far toward opening the eyes of the people to what they are themselves suffering.

THE PORT OF MANILA.

One of the most wholesome and promising results of our occupation of the Philippine Islands is the determination, arrived at by the Insular Government, to make the most of the natural advantages of the port of Manila. Gov. WRIGHT has appointed a committee to review the existing arrangements of the port and to recommend such changes as may be necessary to facilitate American and foreign trade with and from the islands. Gen. CORBIN, in command of the Department of the Philippines, has accepted the Chairmanship of the committee, in the objects of which, as appears from an interview reported in The Manila Times, he heartily and even enthusiastically believes.

Manila, he points out, by the natural advantages of its situation and the natural possibilities of its harbor, "should be the distributing centre for the Asiatic coast from Singapore to Manchuria." Of course it was not to be expected that under Spanish rule the exigencies and demands of modern commerce should occupy much of the thought of the Governors, whether Generals or Bishops. But they have attracted the attention of the American authorities, with the result that, when the system of docks now projected and in course of execution is completed, the largest of the Pacific liners can tie up alongside the wharves of the harbor. This is an advantage which no port on the mainland of Asia enjoys or is likely to enjoy. At Shanghai large steamers cannot come within fifteen or twenty miles of the city, all their cargoes having to be lightered for that distance. At Hongkong the ships lie out in the harbor and the cargoes must be transshipped by junks. The same conditions prevail at Singapore.

Evidently this difference is an enormous factor in favor of the American port, provided our preparations and commercial regulations are such as to enable us fully to avail ourselves of it. The facility most needed, after the completion of the docks themselves, is, according to Gen. CORBIN, the creation of a system of modern bonded warehouses. In these American goods could be stored while agents were soliciting an Asiatic market for them. With such a system a "hurry call" for American goods from Hongkong could be filled within sixty hours, whereas under present conditions about thirty days must elapse before they could be delivered from San Francisco to Hongkong on a cable order. If Manila should become the terminus of the transpacific lines, as it would do if it supplanted Hongkong as the distributing centre for Asia, the trip from our shores should be made in about a fortnight, instead of twice that time, which it now requires. Private capital, in Gen. CORBIN'S opinion, should and could be trusted to provide the requisite facilities, provided, of course, the Government lent such furtherance to private enterprise as it legitimately might, and as, for instance, the British Government has been lending for the better part of a century to British enterprise all over the world, with such astonishing results.

The difficulty, apparently, will be to induce Congress to trust "the man on the spot." With such "men on the spot" as Gov. WRIGHT and Gen. CORBIN, that difficulty should not be insuperable, nor even serious. And no better way of overcoming it could be devised than the "Congressional Excursion" which Secretary TAFT has devised in his capacity of an ex-"man on the spot" for the enlightenment of our legislators.

SOCIALISM AND PROTECTION.

President D. M. PARRY of the National Association of Manufacturers is a good deal stirred up about the Socialists. He observes with uneasiness the tendency to attempt a cure of all sorts of public evils by a resort to Socialistic innovations. It is not to the moral unsoundness of the people but to ignorance that he attributes the tendency toward Socialism. He himself takes the ground that "the function of the Government should be limited to certain specific public ends." And he believes that "the National Association of Manufacturers is at the present time the greatest bulwark of individualism in the country."

Having freed his mind about Socialism, President PARRY went on to talk about the tariff. While he questions the wisdom of the "stand-pat" policy, he does not see any occasion for a revision of the Dingley act. Reciprocity, in his judgment, would be better than revision. He goes in for "a conservative policy looking more to the opening up than to the bottling up of our commerce."

Evidently Mr. PARRY does not see that he is involved in a frightful moral and logical mix-up. One of the chief provocatives to the Socialistic impulse in this country is the protective tariff. Protection strikes its roots into that same subsoil of human helplessness that nourishes the poisonous jungle plants of Socialism. The Socialist says: Let the Government own and operate instruments of production and transportation in order that we may all be better off. The protectionist says: Let the Government compel the American consumer to pay me high prices for my goods in order that I may be better off. In the one case as in the other the individual leans on the Government, asks the Government to help him, and stands before the world an unedifying spectacle of shiftlessness. The Socialist, though, appears to better advantage than the protectionist, for while he is prompted by muddled notions of the public welfare the protectionist has practically no other motive than the desire to put money in his own pocket.

Seeing the Government lend its aid to a private individual in order that he may grow richer, the Socialist is bound to inquire why it would not be better for the Government to take hold of the private individual's shops and factories and operate them for the benefit of all the people. Protection is a long step toward State Socialism; the Socialist very naturally wonders why the next step and all the other steps are not taken until the State becomes the great owner, manufacturer, and operator of productive industries. The Dingley act is a much more active stimulus of Socialistic thought in this country than the misbehavior of the public facilities corporations.

THE MAYOR ON GAS.

The memorandum accompanying Mayor MCCLELLAN'S approval of the cheaper gas bill reducing to 75 cents the price of gas used by the city expresses a very sane and sensible view of the obligations of a public service corporation. He said:

> The gas companies affected by this bill have a distinctive character. They are public service corporations, and in addition to the rights which they so vigorously assert they have duties which are inseparable from their rights. One of the duties of these public service corporations is to furnish to the public illuminating gas of good quality and at a just price. Franchises sought by the companies for their private advantage are granted conditional on the observance of this duty to the public. If competition entered into this business it might be easier to determine what is a fair price for gas. The companies with which we are now dealing are consolidated, or under one control, so that competition has been eliminated and monopoly exists.

This line of argument would apply with equal force to a just regulation of the price of gas to private consumers. The monopoly affects them much as it does the city, with the essential difference that the individual consumer is powerless to protect himself.

"TAINTED MONEY."

The Bishop of Rhode Island expresses a wish that the time may come when the churches shall "decline, not offensively, but quietly and firmly, to accept money which carries with it the honoring of men or methods which are 'below standard.'"

The good Bishop at the same time "recognized the difficulty of drawing a line." He would have recognized it, we think, still more clearly had he read the correspondence which appeared on the same day with his charge, and which shows what difficulties the protestants against the A. B. C. F. M. are experiencing in trying to justify the rejection of Mr. JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER'S money for foreign missions. The pastors of Congregational churches in New Haven have, with one consent and one exception, combined to call the protestants to account for the use of recklessly sweeping language. The language is: "The courts can be bought, the Legislatures can be bought, the Churches can be bought, but the American people cannot be bought." The unlucky definite article makes the mischief. If it had been omitted, few would quarrel with the assertion that there were courts, Legislatures, and Churches which could be bought. But the "the" makes the charge universal and converts it into an accusation that all courts, Legislatures, and Churches are venal. And, if all the organs through which the American people makes known its moral standards are venal, it is difficult to save the American people from the reproach of venality. Even if the assertion of the Secretary of the protestants in reply be admitted to be true that "from no quarter come any attempts to lighten the moral odium which these charges involve," it is to be regretted that the protestants should have been tempted, in their zeal to show cause why Mr. ROCKEFELLER'S money should be refused, into such an indictment of the whole country.

It seems that the heads of the New Haven pastors are much cooler and clearer than those of the protestants when they "draw the line" at "any man's gift of that which is lawfully his own," and deny that the acceptance of it makes the receivers of the gift "for religious or charitable uses "enter into an alliance with him in his business, or become yoke-fellows with him in wrong practices."

The experimental collision arranged at Pittsburg gave instructive results, but perhaps failed to afford any great basis of comfort to people who ride in trains. Fifty steel cars were divided into three trains. Two of these were left standing on the track fifty yards apart. The third section was run back two miles and made to collide with one of the stationary sections while running at the rate of forty miles an hour. This caused the section struck to ram into the other stationary section, to which it coupled automatically. The cars are said to have been uninjured. They did not leave the track, the trains did not "buckle," and no harm was done. But had the cars been full of people those who survived would have had a very uncomfortable half minute. However, there is no reason to doubt that they would have fared better than in wooden cars of the usual pattern, although the difference between an arranged collision and one occurring casually is very wide.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Telephones and Manners.

A little book issued by the Southern New England Telephone Company with a surprisingly frank avowal of the intention or desire to better the manners of its patrons, runs along for some time with harmless platitudes about the need of treating "Central" with such common courtesy as is her right as a human being as well as a woman. Displays by her, it is laboriously pointed out, of the occasional fallibility which is characteristic of all mortals should not be held evidence of a darkly criminal nature, and neither her adherence to the rules of the service nor her expectation that subscribers also learn and observe them should be taken as insulting. Of course we all know all that and we all live up to it—as much as we live up to the other things we know. The booklet becomes really interesting, however, when it lays a mysterious emphasis on its author's idea that, when telephonic communication has been established, the conversation should always begin with "Is this so-and-so?" naming the person or business company wanted, and never with "Who are you?" The latter question, it seems, should always be answered with "Whom do you want?" and the person who brings down upon himself or herself that reply should consider himself or herself severely rebuked. Now we have ourselves a feeling that the telephone subscriber who calls a number and gets a connection has a right to assume that the connection is the one wanted, and on that assumption to go ahead with his talk of business or pleasure as the case may be. Of course, if, so doing, some amazed and bewildered person breaks in with a demand to know what it is all about, there is no real utility in asking who the amazed and bewildered one is, but then it is very natural to do so and does no particular harm, and we cannot see why "nothing can be ruder than such an inquiry," or why "nothing should be more regularly snubbed." About the best beginning that we know of for a telephonic communication is an announcement of the speaker's own identity, and then it is well to assure one's self of the identity of the person at the other end of the line, but the great and terrible difference between "Who are you?" and "Is this so-and-so?" is not quite apparent to us. We can stand either without a trace of resentful emotion, and shall continue to save up all rage for the boor and villain who has us called to the telephone by an office boy and then takes his time about getting there himself. The thing to do to that fellow is not to ask him who he is, but to tell him to "Wait a moment" after he is ready to talk, and then to take care that the moment he waits is a good five minutes. That lesson, often repeated, has an admirable effect.

Had a Book About Witchcraft!

Out in Vincennes, Ind., the District Court of the Evangelical Synod has just tried, convicted, and punished with dismissal from the ministry the Rev. WILLIAM SCHULZ, against whom there had been brought by a member of his congregation a curiously elaborate and varied set of accusations. They included "fraud in making a will and being appointed administrator of his mother-in-law's estate, leaving $300 unaccounted for; swindles in horse trading; manufacturing lies to suit his purpose; quarrel with neighbors; failure to keep within the teaching of the Church; telling immoral stories; possessing a book on witchcraft; calumniating other pastors of the Synod; gross neglect of pastoral duties; devoting too much time to business outside of the pastorate and doing violence and threatening himself and others with bodily harm." As every count in this terrible indictment was held to have been proved, it may fairly be held, presumably, that the Rev. WILLIAM is of a badness which, if not quite all-round, yet takes in a considerable part of the circle. What interests us most, however, is the inclusion among his transgressions of possessing a book on witchcraft. This seems to have been held an offense as heinous as any of the others—whence there may be drawn, by those who will, some queer conclusions as to the kind of intelligence fashionable either in Vincennes, Ind., or among the members of the Evangelical Synod, we don't know which. The trial court, we notice, was composed of the Rev. F. DARMS of Cincinnati, presiding officer; the Rev. FRED HOHMANN of Pleasant Ridge, Ohio, Secretary, and GEORGE FISCHER, a grocer of Evansville, the lay member, while the names of the witnesses who said their signatures to the bill of charges were genuine were J. T. RITTERKAMP, C. H. VOLLE, JOHN PEPMEIER, SIMON KIXMILLER, the Rev. C. G. KETTLEHUT, WILLIAM ALBREICHT, CARL HAMKE, LEANDER KOCH, GOTTLIEB KOENICH, EDWARD BROCKSMITH, H. SCHROEDER, H. E. VOLLE, Mrs. HENRIETTA KETTLEHUT, and Mrs. MARY BROCKSMITH.

As to the Hitting of Heads.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Donneybrook Fair rules must prevail in THE TIMES office, "Whenever you see a head hit it." Your editorial on "The Indiscretion of a Judge" hit a very much-swelled head. New Yorkers rejoice that you had the courage to hit it good and hard. Suppose it should happen that the District Attorney should elect to try Nan Patterson again, and the case should come before this Judge? That the reading public agrees that THE TIMES is pretty generally right is evidenced by a count of noses I made in a car this morning. Twenty-four out of thirty-two readers held THE TIMES. F. HYDE.

Accounted For.

From The Chicago News.

"Are you a married man?" asked the lawyer who was doing the cross-examining.

"No," answered the witness, who had one arm in a sling and traces of the strenuous life on his face. "I was run over by an automobile last week."

THE PRESIDENT AND CHICAGO.

An Inquiry as to Whether or Not Everybody Is Getting a Square Deal.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In one of the large cities of the United States in the year of our Lord 1905 there was much work to be done and a great many men well satisfied with the work and the wages, and relying on the protection of their rights under the Constitution of the country by the authorities, tried to do an honest day's work.

Many of these men were beaten and stoned to death by organized mobs. This state of affairs continued for weeks. Does our young and enthusiastic President think it is a "square deal" all around? It is fortunate for the country that there is a power superior to the President. Thank God, for the United States Supreme Court and the United States Senate's experience and common sense, both so necessary to guide the affairs of a Nation. WILLIAM LANGLEY.

WHAT CAUSES BALDNESS?

Thought, Says One Whose Own Labors Have Swept His Pate Clean.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I would explain to "Stenographer" the cause of the baldness of stenographers. It is thought. Thought sets the brain boiling, blisters the hair roots, and eventually destroys them. The brain's blood vessels cannot be scalded with impunity. He must stop thinking in order to save his remaining hairs.

It is known that women more rarely grow bald than men, and it is accounted for by the circumstance that women have more fat underneath their head skin, thus furnishing a richer soil, so to speak, for the feminine tresses to spring from. Female stenographers are never bald.

I had a fine head of hair before I "short-handed." a murder trial. Marie Antoinette, Byron's Prisoner of Chillon, and Orsini, the conspirator, did a wonderful change act from black to white. I reported to the office after the trial with a head like a Mexican dog's. I have stopped thinking, and am trying to save my three remaining hairs, which give me a rather distinguished Bismarckian appearance. WALTER BEVERLEY CRANE.

New York, May 17, 1905.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of even date I note inquiry of "Stenographer," and as a reply and possible suggestion of a cause would advance the theory of lack of personal care of the hair. Certainly stenography causes no such infirmity. OLD SUBSCRIBER.

New York, May 17, 1905.

PUBLICITY AND MORALS.

Their Relation as Seen by the Mother of Three Girls.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am a mother of several daughters. It is rarely I become interested in sensational criminal affairs, but the trial of a certain notorious woman has attracted no little of my attention. Even admitting her innocence of the murder (if such is possible), the idea of featuring a woman of this character before the public is certainly harmful.

It presents a terrible moral to many young, unthinking girls of her type who court publicity. If theatrical managers can sink so low as to use such a character to gather in the "shekels," the American public should show their disapproval by their non-attendance. If encouragement is shown in the slightest degree, then have the morals of this great Republic sunken low indeed, and I tremble for its future. AN ADMIRER OF THE TIMES.

New York, May 17, 1905.

Mr. Man Explains His Position.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is a source of regret to me that my attitude in relation to the question of examinations for Principals' licenses should have been misunderstood by THE TIMES, as shown by your article of to-day.

You say that I have "expressed myself in favor of doing away with Principals' examinations." I have not done so, but have taken the position that under the statute, Section 1,089 of the charter, it lies with the Board of Education, on the recommendation of the Board of Superintendents, to designate such examinations for licenses as are to be held, and that it has not by its by-laws or otherwise required an examination in the case of license for Principal. The question raised is purely one of statutory construction. I can well believe that an examination is desirable, but (in accordance with the statute) it should be such as the Board of Education upon the recommendation of the Board of Superintendents may require and not an examination proposed and devised by the Board of Examiners upon its own motion, with questionable authority.

The examinations which have been held may have been wholly appropriate in character, but as, in my opinion, the Board of Examiners have not the power to propose and initiate an examination the present eligible list for Principals may not include all who are eligible under the by-laws.

As a concrete case arises in the instance of Mr. Gross I have raised this question in order that the By-Laws Committee may pass upon the meaning of the statute and decide whether Mr. Gross was entitled years ago, as he claims, to be placed upon the eligible list or not. If he was, his rights must be protected. As to the future the Board of Superintendents has the remedy in its own hands, which is to recommend to the Board of Education for consideration such additions or amendments to the by-laws as may be necessary to provide for any examinations which it may consider desirable and appropriate. Those Duane Street Cars.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I would suggest that one of your reporters look at the cars which run through Duane Street to the Roosevelt Street Ferry. I am astonished that the Metropolitan Company allows such broken, dirty, disreputable conveyances to run in the city, and should truly be ashamed to have the residents of any other city believe that we tolerate them. To the Editor of The New York Times:

Concerning "the largest piece of bronze in the world"—what of Japan's numerous statues of Buddha, all of them larger than the statue in Mexico City. The column in memory of Iyeyasu, at Nikko, is double the height of "Charles IV. of Spain," and the Dai Butsu at Kamakura, erected in the thirteenth century, is forty-four feet high. A Stockholder.

From The Philadelphia Press.

"It's a very nice place," said Newlywed, "but the railroad fare is very high."

HOSPITAL BOARDS RESTORED.

Gov. Higgins Signs Alid's Bill—New Child Labor Law.

ALBANY, May 17.—Gov. Higgins to-day signed Senator Alid's bill re-establishing local boards of managers for State hospitals. It takes effect on June 1.

The bill generally amends the insanity law, but especially restores the detail of management of the State hospitals to local boards, to be appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate, consisting of seven managers, at least two of whom are to be women, for each hospital, each serving for seven years, and one term expiring annually.

The salary of the medical Inspector of the Commission in Lunacy is increased from $3,500 to $5,000.

The Governor signed also to-day Assemblyman Fish's bill giving the Commission in Lunacy power of inspection over private sanitariums.

Senator Hill's Child Labor bill, which increases the responsibility resting on an employer of a child "apparently under the age of sixteen years," was signed.

Gov. Higgins signed the bill of Senator Stevens, limiting the amount a bank or trust company may loan to any one borrower to 40 per cent. of its capital stock and surplus and providing that where such loans exceed one-tenth of capital stock and surplus the excess must be secured by collateral worth at least 15 per cent. more than the amount of loans.

Daily newspaper men throughout the State will be exempt from trial jury duty after Sept. 1 under the terms of the Phillips bill, signed to-day.

Hearings before Gov. Higgins were announced to-day as follows: May 25, 3 P. M., the three Elsberg bills transferring the power over franchises from the Board of Aldermen to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment; May 23, 2:30 P. M., Senator Grady's bill prohibiting foreign insurance companies from doing business in this State while their funds are invested in any other insurance company; 3 P. M., Assemblyman Rigby's bill authorizing a commission to spend $2,000,000 on the construction of a trunk sewer through the Bronx Valley in Westchester County.

PEACE CIRCLE TO MEET.

Women Celebrate To-day Anniversary of Opening of Hague Conference.

The Women's Peace Circle, which is the American auxiliary of the Universal Peace Society, announces an open meeting, to be held under its auspices at the Madison Square Theatre at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon to celebrate the anniversary of the opening of the Hague Peace Conference. The boxes will be occupied by delegates from Columbia, Princeton, Cornell, and Yale universities and Barnard College, the Presidents of twenty-six allied clubs and the honorary Vice Presidents of the Circle. The music will be by the Euterpe Club of women musicians. Among the speakers will be Bishop Potter, Oscar Straus, Mrs. Garlin Spencer and Mrs. Lucia Ames Meade of Boston.

ROOSEVELT LETTER; $16.

Was Written at Time of His Election to Assembly.

A two-page letter of President Roosevelt, written when he was beginning his political career, was one of the many interesting autographs from the collection of Gen. James Grant Wilson, sold at auction yesterday by the Merwin-Clayton Company, 20 East Twentieth Street. The letter in full is as follows:

6 West Fifty-seventh Street,
Nov. 10, 1881.

My Dear Sir: Allow me to thank you very sincerely for your kind note and your efforts on my behalf.

I am a very young man to go to the Legislature, and I hardly know whether to be most pleased with the confidence my friends have shown in me, or anxious lest I should disappoint them. In great haste I am yours very truly.
THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

This sold for $16. A one-page letter of President Roosevelt, same address, Dec. 18, 1883, to Gen. Wilson, fetched $4.50.

THE PRESIDENT'S SPORTS.

How They Compare with Those of Others Who Are Denounced.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The miscreants who were recently caught in our Bronx reservation, maiming and killing for the fun of it, must be rather astonished at the public indignation in general and the wrathful expressions of our genial philosopher, the "Topic man," in special. Why should they be singled out as wretched survivals of savagery when there are so many more illustrious examples on hand? Can it be said that their motives differ in any degree from those which impel our President to go thousands of miles west in order to find a vent for his notions of fun, or the motives of our ex-President to travel a thousand miles south to exercise his body and inclinations? GEORGE BRUNSWICK.

RUSSIA—1905.

A red haze hung over the mountain,
The flail in the valley was still,
A lone woman wept o'er a baby that slept
And the grain lay unground at the mill.
A plow in the half-cloven furrow,
A forge that was smokeless and dead,
While over it all hung the stillness, a pall,
And the haze o'er the mountain, blood red.

And over and over and over
By village and farmhouse and hill,
A haze, bloody red, all the landscape o'erspread
And the valleys deserted and still.
The earth at the seedtime unbroken,
The fields at the harvest ungleaned,
And lone vigil kept by a woman who wept
With a babe at her bosom unweaned.

Then down from the mountain a horseman
Dashed, plumed and sworded and mailed;
Nor heard he the moan of the woman alone,
Nor saw he the grain all unflailed:
"To arms!" for the battle was bloody;
"To arms!" for the columns were thinned;
And over the land rang his brazen command,
For his horse wore the wings of the wind.

Then fatherless lads from their hovels
Went shouldering ponderous guns,
And old men and gray tottered weakly away
To find the rude graves of their sons;
For Country is higher than kindred,
And what is the glory of sod
Unwet by the flood of its yeomen's red blood?
And war—is it not more than God?

So women with babes at their bosoms
Gazed out o'er the furrows untilled,
Through the haze resting red like the blood that was shed
In a far-away struggle unwilled.
And eyes that are swollen and anguished
Uplifted in silent appeal:
"O God of the Poor, does thy mercy endure
When thy monarchs know naught but of steel?"

And over and over and over
By village and hamlet and hill
The haze resting red like the blood that is shed,
But the flail in the valley is still.
The earth at the seedtime unbroken,
The fields at the harvest ungleaned,
And a lone vigil kept by a woman who wept
With a babe at her bosom unweaned.

MOODY WANTS REVIEW OF PHILIPPINE ORDER

A Tariff Decision That May Cost Treasury $7,000,000.

VIEWS OF SUPREME COURT

WASHINGTON, May 17.—A petition of the Government for a rehearing in the cases of the United States vs. Peabody & Co. and the United States vs. Warner, Barnes & Co., involving the construction of the President's Philippine tariff order of July 12, 1898, was submitted to the Supreme Court of the United States to-day. The petition was presented by Solicitor General Hoyt, and was supported in a brief by Attorney General Moody.

"The reason for the importance to the Government of the ground upon which this case is to be decided, if it must be decided in favor of the complainants, is that there are doubtless claims amounting to more than a million dollars, on which suit was not brought before July 1, 1902, the date of the ratifying act, but upon which suits have been and will be brought in view of the present decision of the court. For these reasons we think it of the utmost importance to the Government that an opportunity should be given for a reargument."

The court held that the President's order expired by its own terms when the war with Spain came to an end, but the Solicitor General says:

"It is difficult to see why, because the exercise of the war power was initiated under a foreign war, it ceases at the end of that war and does not extend on into a much more serious war, simply because the territory was domestic. To entertain this view, it seems to me, is to disregard the doctrines laid down in the civil war cases, which unqualifiedly sustain the exercise of executive power for which the Government contends in dealing with an insurrectionary war in domestic territory.

"Without magnifying possible dangers, it is evident, I think, that while the opinion of the court strikes down only the tariff on merchandise from the United States, the legality of the entire structure of civil government after the ratification of the treaty is involved and may be denied hereafter relative to other features not now presented or foreseen, if the court adheres unqualifiedly to the logic of this opinion.

"The court would not regard as controlling either the large amount of money involved or the fact that the claimants added the duties to the price of their goods. But it is worth while to point out, as accentuating the great importance of this case, that the refunds called for under the decision of the court will reach the sum of $7,000,000, and that this vast sum will be paid in large part to claimants, many of them aliens, who, as public records show, were, on the whole, opposing rather than supporting the authority of the United States."

INCREASE IN STATE TAX.

Addition to Pay Barge Canal Interest and Sinking Fund.

ALBANY, May 17.—The State tax rate for the ensuing year will be 154-1,000 of a mill on each dollar of assessed valuation. The bill fixing this rate was introduced and passed in the closing days of the Legislature and became a law through Gov. Higgins's signature to-day.

Last year the rate was 13-100 of a mill. The increase this year is due to the addition of 24-1,000 of a mill to pay for interest and sinking fund on the barge canal debt. The rest of the tax is caused by the old canal debt.

BROKE GROUND FOR TERMINAL.

Formal Beginning of Brooklyn's Big Railroad Improvement.

Ground was broken yesterday afternoon for Brooklyn's new railroad improvement, which includes the rebuilding of the Bay Ridge and Manhattan Beach lines of the Long Island Railroad, the elevation and depression of all tracks along these lines, and the abolition of all grade crossings. These improvements will cost $7,000,000, and will be the means of revolutionizing east-bound freight traffic from New York.

Borough President Martin W. Littleton presided at the ceremony of breaking ground, and a large crowd of borough officers and railroad officials and others went to Parkville as guests of President Ralph Peters of the Long Island Railroad. The first earth was dug up by Beatrice Brooks, the five-year-old daughter of Frank N. Brooks, President of the Grade Crossing Commission of Brooklyn, with a silver trowel. The ceremony took place at the intersection of Grand Avenue and the Long Island Railroad tracks.

SURRENDERS $18,000 FEE.

Collector Stranahan Willing That Its Fairness Be Passed Upon.

Collector Stranahan, whose action in retaining as his fee 30 per cent. of the claim of Oswego County against the State, which he prosecuted successfully through the courts, occasioned considerable criticism, has sent to the Board of Supervisors the full amount of the claim which he collected and an open letter explaining his course. Mr. Stranahan says that he was employed by the Board of Supervisors to prosecute the claim on an agreement that he would receive 30 per cent. if successful, he to meet all of the necessary disbursements. Under that arrangement his fee amounted to about $18,000, and he sent to the board $43,247.19 as the amount due the county. Mr. Stranahan says in his letter, which is dated May 15:

"It is now urged that the entire sum collected should be paid to the treasury and the Board of Supervisors permitted to pass upon the whole subject. To that course I have no objection whatever, and to that end I shall, on my return to New York, send the County Treasurer a draft covering the balance of the judgment."

PENSION EPISCOPAL CLERGY.

Church Provides for Those Who Retire at 65—Orr's Plan Beaten.

Alexander E. Orr's recommendation that delinquent churches be excluded from convention privileges was defeated at the Episcopal convention in the Cathedral of the Incarnation in Garden City yesterday after protracted arguments had been heard on both sides of the question.

A new canon adopted by the convention creates a pension fund for old clergymen, and provides rules governing the administration of the fund by the trustees. Clergymen may be pensioned after fifteen years' continuous service in the diocese if they have then reached the age of sixty-five years.

Another canon was amended so as to give the Bishop the power to remove a missionary for causes affecting his moral character or efficiency after six months' notice.

TWO PAIRS OF PARENTS CLAIM MISSING CHILD

Police Tangled in Hunt for Irene Helen Hayes-Thurston.

ONE MOTHER GONE, TOO

Mrs. Hayes Believed to Have Sailed on the Caronia with the Little Girl.

The police and detectives are puzzled over the mysterious disappearance of Irene Helen Hayes, or Irene Helen Thurston, about two years old, who has been reported as kidnapped. The child disappeared Tuesday from the home of John B. Thurston, 256 East One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street, in the company of Mrs. Nellie Hayes, and has not been seen since.

The Thurstons reported the case to the police and declared the child was theirs. When the detectives took up the matter they were confronted by a tangle, for Ernest Hayes, a silversmith, said the little girl was his child, and that the woman who had taken her away was her mother.

Thurston is a steamfitter employed at Randall's Island. He says that he married Mrs. Thurston in Middletown seven years ago, and Mrs. Thurston says that Irene Helen was born of that marriage.

"On Tuesday morning," said Mrs. Thurston, "Mrs. Nellie Hayes, whose address I knew as 334 East Fortieth Street, called to see me. She has always been very much attached to little Irene, and often took her for walks. Yesterday morning she told me that she was going to Europe and asked to be allowed to take Irene for a short walk by way of saying good-bye to the little girl. I let them go out together. Mrs. Hayes did not come back, and when my husband came home we began to search for her and the baby. Failing to find them, we went to the police."

Acting on the theory that Mrs. Hayes was about to start for Europe, detectives were posted at the steamship docks to watch for the woman. In the meantime Mrs. Thurston was clamoring hysterically for the return of the child.

Ernest Hayes was found by detectives at a silver manufacturing company's store on Broadway. He astonished the officers by saying that the child was Irene Helen Hayes, and that the woman who was supposed to have kidnapped the little one was his wife.

"I thought my little girl was in Scotland with Mrs. Hayes's people," said he. "Mrs. Hayes and I have been separated for some time." Last December Mrs. Hayes went abroad, taking, as I thought, the baby with her. When she returned here in January the child was not with her. She told me that she had left Irene with her folks in Paisley, Scotland. That satisfied me, as Mrs. Hayes's people over there are wealthy and in a position to take every care of my little daughter. Later Mrs. Hayes and I separated. We had been living at 833 Second Avenue. Since our separation I had heard nothing of my wife or child until to-day."

The Thurstons, when they heard of Hayes's statement, told the police that they had legally adopted the child and that the adoption papers were signed at the law office of Isaac Steinhardt, 99 Nassau Street. Mr. Steinhardt added more confusion to the affair by denying all knowledge of the case.

In view of the last story told by the Thurstons the police are now decided that Mrs. Hayes has "kidnapped" her own child. Mrs. Hayes and the baby are believed to be on the Caronia.

ARCANUM SUPREME COUNCIL.

Begins Session of Ten Days at Atlantic City.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 17.—More than a hundred delegates from all parts of the United States and Canada were present at the opening session here this afternoon of the Supreme Council, Royal Arcanum. Supreme Regent A. S. Robinson of St. Louis presided.

The report of the Financial Secretary shows that the organization's assets are more than $2,500,000, while the gain in membership during the year has been about 25,000, making the present strength of the order 315,000.

The officers here for the council meeting include Supreme Regent A. S. Robinson, St. Louis; Supreme Vice Regent Howard C. Wiggins, Rome, N. Y.; Supreme Orator Robert Van Sands, Chicago; Supreme Secretary W. O. Robson, Boston; Sitting Past Supreme Regent J. A. Longfitt, Pittsburg; Supreme Treasurer E. A. Skinner, Westfield, N. J.; Supreme Auditor Alfred O. Turner, Boston; Supreme Chaplain E. A. Leisinring, Chambersburg, Penn.; Supreme Guide N. S. Burkhardt, Chicago; Supreme Warden I. W. Caulfield, New York; Supreme Sentry R. C. Milliken, Evansville, Ill.; Junior Past Supreme Regent W. Holt Apgar, Trenton. The meeting will continue about ten days.

CONSUL'S WIFE IN COURT.

Servant Who Gets No Wages Makes Trouble for Mrs. de Figueredo.

Mrs. Louisa C. de Figueredo, wife of the Venezuelan Consul in this city, who lives at 101 West Eightieth Street, appeared in the Children's Court yesterday as complainant against Maria Dominga Capote, thirteen years old, whom she brought from Venezuela four months ago as a servant. Mrs. de Figueredo said that the girl is ungovernable, and asked that she be committed to some institution.

"Since she has been here," said Mrs. De Figueredo through an interpreter, "she will do no work. If I ask her to do any housework she first sulks and then beats her head against the wall. I must get rid of her. Is there no institution to which I could send her?"

Justice Wyatt asked how much she paid the girl.

"I don't pay her anything," was the reply. "I merely give her board and clothing."

Supt. Jenkins of the Children's Society declared that Mrs. de Figueredo merely wanted the child placed as a dependent upon the County of New York to get it off her hands. Justice Wyatt allowed Mrs. de Figueredo a week in which to suitably dispose of the girl.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

At the Academy of Music to-night there will be a souvenir performance of "Quincy Adams Sawyer." Copies of the book "Quincy Adams Sawyer" will be distributed among the women patrons.

Wilton Lackaye is to include "Trilby" in his repertoire next season. He will open in San Francisco on Sept. 4, with "The Pit." Later he will come to New York, where he will produce his own play, "Jean Valjean."

The first and second classes of the United States Military Academy at West Point are to attend the performance of "Fantana" on July 13, at the Lyric Theatre. The corps of cadets will wear their dress uniforms, and the house will be decorated in their honor.

LAWSON TELEGRAMS BY MAIL.

New Frenzied Finance Announcements on an Economical Basis.

In advertising his forthcoming chapter of "Frenzied Finance," which deals with "The First Great Crime of the Amalgamated," Thomas W. Lawson of Boston has hit upon a scheme of reducing expenses without diminishing the impression produced. The trumpet blares that heralded former "Frenzied Finance" instalments have reached the newspapers in the form of telegraphic dispatches, sometimes a thousand words or more in length.

Many persons who have received the latest announcements were mystified when they saw the superscription on the envelope in which they were enclosed. This was "The Eastern Telegraph Company, delivered from 693 Broadway, New York." Men connected with telegraph companies said yesterday that they had never heard of such a concern.

The announcement, written in the breeziest style of the Boston financier, came on the regular filing blanks of the Western Union Company. These, of course, are never used for received messages—except in this case by Mr. Lawson. The message was dated, "Boston, May 11, 1905." It was delivered yesterday, and came by mail.

At 693 Broadway is a cut rate ticket office, in the rear of which is a small branch office of the Western Union Telegraph Company. The operator, Miss Kelly, said yesterday that ever since Monday the postman has brought with every mail about a bushel of the "Frenzied Finance" proclamations which had failed to reach the persons to whom they were addressed.

At the main office of the Western Union Company, 195 Broadway, the officials laughed at the latest resort of Mr. Lawson, though they said it was pretty hard on the company that even a fac simile of a Western Union message should appear to have been a week in transmission from Boston to New York.

"Mr. Lawson is a pretty good customer, however, and we have no complaint to make," said one of the officials.

STOCK CIRCUIT IS FORMED.

Fifteen Theatres Will Be Included in New Organization.

Fifteen managers of stock companies in cities between Providence, R. I., and Chicago met yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Navarre, and formed an organization which will be known as the Association of Theatrical Stock Managers, and which will be incorporated under the laws of New York.

Representatives from the following theatres were at the meeting: Proctor's Fifty-eighth Street Theatre in this city, Corse Payton's, Brooklyn; Lyceum, Baltimore; Forepaugh's, Philadelphia; Imperial, Providence; Empire, Columbus; Marlowe, Chicago; Empire, Cleveland; Park, Buffalo; La Fayette, Detroit, and five others. The ten theatres mentioned are included in the organization, and later the five others will be taken in.

At the meeting the officers elected were: President—I. Kaufman; Vice President—F. F. Proctor; Secretary—A. A. Spitz; Treasurer—Col. Albaugh. These officers, with Corse Payton, will be the Directors of the association.

The plan of the combination is that each manager will make a production, which will cover the circuit of the theatres playing at each house for one week. At the end of fifteen weeks each manager will make a new production, and, as the season is to last forty-two weeks, beginning Aug. 26, it will be necessary for each manager to put on three plays.

Economy will be a result of this new system. Instead of having to make a new production each week a manager has but to make three in a season. Thus, it is thought, it will be an easy matter to employ betters actors. Again there will be a lessening of expense in printing, advertising, &c., for that will all be attended to in one office in this city. The scene painting will all be in the hands of four artists in a studio here.

Each resident manager will have 50 per cent. of the gross receipts of the earnings at his house each week. At the end of the season there will be a meeting at which each member will get one-tenth of the net receipts of each company for the year.

The association was very definite in the statement that no player or company not in the organization could play at any theatre managed by its members.

A GOVERNMENT ART BOOK.

Elaborate Catalogue of the Hubbard Print Collection.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The Library of Congress has published an interesting and important book for collectors and art lovers in the form of an illustrated catalogue of the etchings and engravings collected by the late Gardiner Greene Hubbard, which were presented after his death to the United States by Mrs. Hubbard for deposit in the Library of Congress as a memorial of her husband.

All the great engravers are represented in the collection, including Hogarth, Claude, Rembrandt, Dürer, and Raimondi. The collection of Dürer's is almost complete, only lacking seven or eight examples. There are over 100 etchings by Rembrandt. The collection contains unique portraits of Frederick the Great and Napoleon.

The catalogue consists of over 500 pages. The reproductions of the masterpieces in the collection are done by the autotype process.

DAMROSCH'S REPLY TO UNION.

Federation Exonerates Him on Charge of Importing Musicians.

DETROIT, May 17.—Walter Damrosch, director of the New York Symphony Orchestra, appeared to-day before the Executive Board of the American Federation of Musicians in answer to complaints that he had imported three foreign musicians for his orchestra.

Mr. Damrosch satisfied the board that he had not violated the alien labor law, and the convention accepted the report of the board. It was stated that the men in question had not been engaged and would not be engaged until they had been admitted as members of the Federation.

RAMSEY-THURSTON WEDDING.

Brooklyn Couple Will Be Married To-night in St. Peter's Church.

The wedding of Miss Jane E. Thurston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parish Thurston of 238A Carlton Avenue and George Read Ramsey, son of George Ramsey of 218 Lincoln Place, both of Brooklyn, will take place at St. Peter's Church, State Street, near Bond, that borough, at 8 o'clock this evening. The Rev. Dr. Lindsay Parker, the rector of the church, will perform the ceremony.

The maid of honor will be Miss Isabelle K. Root, and the best man Henry B. Thurston, brother of the bride. The church decorations will be palms and Southern smilax.

Black Diamond's New Schedule.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad Company changed its schedule last Sunday and the Black Diamond Express now leaves Twenty-third Street at 11:55 A. M., Cortlandt and Desbrosses Streets at 12 noon, and Fulton Street, Brooklyn, at 11:45 A. M. It runs daily except Sunday and makes the trip to Buffalo in about ten hours.

Magazine Editor Dead.

PHILADELPHIA, May 17.—Dr. Frederick W. Speiers, editor of The Booklovers' Magazine, died to-night at his home in Lansdowne, a suburb of this city, after a short illness. Dr. Speiers was educational director of the Booklovers' Library and organized the Booklovers' Library in England. He was well known as a university extension lecturer. Dr. Speiers was thirty-seven years of age and leaves a wife and one child.

THRONGS VIEW CRONK'S BODY AT CITY HALL

New York Honors the Last of the 1812 Veterans.

CROWD FILES BY AT NIGHT

Dead Veteran Wears Uniform of 1812 Artillery Corps—The Burial Ceremony To-day.

Thousands of persons filed through the double lines of police at the City Hall yesterday and all last night to look upon the dead face of Hiram Cronk, the last soldier of the war of 1812. From 11:45 o'clock in the morning the old warrior's body lay in state in the main corridor of the City Hall, and it will be kept there until 10 o'clock this morning, when it will be taken under military escort to the Cypress Hills Cemetery.

At 9 o'clock last night it was estimated that 25,000 persons had passed the casket. The file of people continued to pass until after midnight, and many visited the City Hall to see the body during the early morning hours.

The body reached the Grand Central Station yesterday morning from Booneville, N. Y. Three sons and a daughter of the veteran accompanied the body. They were Philander Cronk, aged eighty-one; William Cronk, aged seventy-two, John Cronk, aged sixty-six, and Mrs. Sarah Rawley, aged seventy-one. In the funeral party also was Mrs. C. L. Morehouse of New York and her husband, Dr. Morehouse. Mrs. Morehouse is an adopted daughter of Mrs. Rawley. For years Mrs. Morehouse has worked to have a military funeral for America's oldest soldier, and it is through her efforts that the ceremonies are being held.

After the train arrived the casket was placed in the baggage room at the Grand Central Station until 10 o'clock, when the escorting bodies formed and started the march to the City Hall. The line of march was from Grand Central Station to Fifth Avenue, through Washington Arch to Fourth Street, to Broadway, to City Hall, and the column was made up as follows:

Police escort of mounted and foot officers.
United States Regular Army contingent, consisting of soldiers of the Eighth Regiment of Infantry from Governors Island, in command of Capt. Evan M. Johnson.
Society of 1812, made up of men whose fathers fought in the second war of this country.
Veteran Artillery Corps.
Hearse escorted by the members of U. S. Grant Post, G. A. R.
Washington Continental Guard from Washington, D. C.
Army and Navy Union.
Aldermanic Committee and other city officials in carriages.

The hearse containing the body, which was incased in a solid oak casket, was draped with an American flag which saw service in the war of 1812, and which is the property of Mrs. Morehouse.

The Regular Army band from Governors Island, during the procession from the station to the City Hall, played the Dead March from "Saul." All along the line of march the procession attracted throngs which lined the sidewalks.

At City Hall, which had been draped elaborately in mourning, a large crowd had gathered waiting to see the body. The casket was placed facing the Post Office building. The body was dressed in the uniform of the Veteran Corps of Artillery of the war of 1812.

The Guard of Honor at the City Hall consists of the Veteran Corps and the members of U. S. Grant Post, G. A. R. The members of the corps stand on guard in twos, the first two being Adjutant Howard Pell and T. J. Oakley Rhinelander. The first two of the Grant Post guard of honor were Past Commander Miles O'Reilly and John L. Baker. Their relief will be Chaplain M. B. Taylor, G. W. Hart, S. Delmler, William M. Brady, Isaac Tippit, C. W. Kennedy, G. W. Dickinson, S. A. Underhill, W. T. Gardiner, G. R. Brown, Isaac Bates, Andrew Peck, and William V. Shaw.

The guards were relieved at regular intervals during the day and night. The last funeral at City Hall was in 1885 when Gen. Grant's body lay in state there.

Col. Richard F. Butt, Commander of the Grant Post, will be in command of the procession which will escort the body to Cypress Hill Cemetery, where sixty other comrades of Cronk are buried on Victory Hill. The procession will be made up as follows:

Police escort.
Squadron C in full-dress uniform.
Fourteenth Regiment, N. G. N. Y., Col. Adolph C. Kline, commanding.
U. S. Grant Post, G. A. R.
Mourners in carriages.
Brig. Gen. McLeer, N. G. N. Y., U. S. Army officers, and city officials in carriages.

The procession will leave the City Hall at 10 o'clock.

DRUMMER, AGED 4, WAS LOST.

Rhythmic Tattoo Lured William Knell Far from Barracks.

With his little red cap cocked on the side of his head and marching to the irresistible tattoo of his own drum, William Knell, four years old, walked and walked away from his home at 833 East Forty-seventh Street early last night, until finally he got far beyond his known territory. Policeman Ring picked him up, and he was later taken from the East Fifty-first Street Station by his father, Jacob Knell.

Mr. Knell was himself a drummer boy in the German Army once. He keeps William well supplied with drums, and he has already taught the youngster a good deal about beating one.

The martial spirit was on William last night, when he beat a call for ranks to fall in. Straightening his back, he marched up First Avenue. Pedestrians laughed and gave way to him. William tramped on and on. When the policeman halted him far up on First Avenue he declared stoutly that he could go home. Beating a retreat, he marched to a house which he thought was his. But it wasn't. He knew that he was lost. He cried a very little, and then was taken to the station.

A DAY'S WEDDINGS.

SHREVE—CARSTENSEN.

Special to The New York Times.

SCARSDALE, May 17.—One of the prettiest country weddings of the season took place at Scarsdale to-day, when Miss Adele Carstensen, daughter of John Carstensen, Fourth Vice President of the New York Central Railroad, was married to John Nelson McJilton Shreve. The ceremony was performed in the Church of St. James by the Rev. Dr. G. A. Carstensen, uncle of the bride, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Livingston Roe Schuyler.

Following the ceremony there was a reception at Old Orchard Lodge, the country seat of Mr. and Mrs. Carstensen, on the outskirts of White Plains. The interior of the church, as well as the Carstensen home, was decorated with apple blossoms and roses. A special train on the Harlem Railroad conveyed the guests from the Grand Central Station to Scarsdale. The bride's gown was white satin princess, with a bertha of rose point.

The bridesmaids were Miss Lucille Bacon, Miss Florence Foster, Miss Lillian Fraser, Miss Mary Shreve, Miss Hopeton Atterbury, and Miss Helen Ludington. The maid of honor was Miss Mabel Estelle Adams. The ushers were Alfred Fitzroy Anderson, Rupert W. K. Anderson, J. Barstow Smull, and Robert H. Grimes. The best man was William De Burgh Whyte of England.

Among those present were Senator and Mrs. Chauncey M. Depew, W. H. Newman, President of the New York Central, and William H. Burdette, Paymaster.

BRENNAN—MUSLER.

Special to The New York Times.

ORANGE, May 17.—Miss Bertha T. Musler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Musler of West Orange, was married this morning in St. Venantius's Church, Orange, to Edward J. Brennan. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John P. Callaghan, rector of the Church of Our Lady Help of Christians, East Orange, and the bride was given away by her father. Miss Rose Musler, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and the best man was Stephen Brennan, a brother of the bridegroom. The ushers were Harold Musler and George Musler.

NORTHRUP—CASE.

JOHNSTOWN, N. Y., May 17.—The marriage of James L. Northrup, Mayor of Johnstown, to Mrs. Nina A. Case took place at noon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Alvord, at Marcellus. Mr. Northrup is the Democratic Mayor of a city ordinarily Republican. He is Vice President and Treasurer of the Northrup Glove Company.

HALLER—SCOFIELD.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., May 17.—Miss Rose Scofield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Scofield of Bedford Street, was married here last night to Dr. Charles P. Haller of Bridgeport. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. Eugene Bartlett, pastor of the Universalist Church.

WHAT IS DOING IN SOCIETY.

Miss Louise Hollins, whose marriage will take place on June 6 in St. James's Church, Madison Avenue and Seventy-first Street, to Henry Chauncy Cryder, son of William Wetmore Cryder, will have her sister, Miss Edith Hollins, as maid of honor and her only attendant. Mr. Cryder's best man will be Charles Keller Beekman, and the ushers selected are A. Gordon Norrie, I. Chauncey McKeever, Theodore A. Havemeyer, and Richard T. Wainwright. The wedding will take place at 3 o'clock. Miss Hollins's father, William M. Hollins of Montclair, will give her away, and the reception will be at the home of her uncle, Charles A. Wissman, 22 East Seventieth Street. Mrs. Hollins died when the Misses Hollins were very young. They lived with their grandmother, Mrs. Wissmann, until she died, and afterward continued to make their home at the Wissmann residence with their uncle, Charles A. Wissmann.

Miss Grizelda Houston Hall, whose marriage to Capt. R. P. Hobson is set for May 25 at Tuxedo, will have no bridesmaids, nor will there be any ushers. It is planned to have the ceremony as quiet as possible.

Mrs. Henry Clews, Jr., who, with her husband and family, will arrive in New York from Paris in June, will be joined here by her mother, Mrs. John B. Morris of Baltimore. Mrs. Morris will spend part of the Summer at Guinea Hollow Farm, Roslyn, L. I., with her son, John B. Morris, who married Violet Lee Willing. Mrs. Clews and her family will also be guests there for a time.

***

***

Mrs. Robert Goelet's yacht, Nahma, is due at Venice, having sailed a day or so ago from the Island of Cursola, in the Adriatic, for that port.

BAY STATE CHURCHES ACT

Movement Against Rockefeller Gift Stirs Debate in Convention Over Resolution.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., May 17.—In the report of the Committee on Applied Christianity to-day at the seventy-second annual meeting of the New York State Association of Congregational Churches, a part was devoted to the discussion of "The Church and Wealth." It declares:

"Men are to-day profoundly stirred by the colossal aggregations of wealth, the methods of crushing out all industrial opposition, and the inevitable questions as to how and where resulting fortunes shall be distributed. For the Church to withdraw to her own quiet and busy herself solely with the question of saving a man here and there is moral blindness and loss of the supreme opportunity of leadership.

"Least of all dare we consider the Church a mere distributing agency of men's conscience money. We believe the supreme question before the Church to-day is to teach brotherhood as the only true basis of business.

"We believe the Church should guard against all such alliances with institutions or individuals of great wealth as can give color to the charge that the Church is under the domination of the rich, or that her ministry is silenced regarding business methods oppressive and menacing to personal independence.

"It is our conviction that no gifts to charitable or religious enterprises can atone for the wrong done against society by financial or industrial methods which ignore the natural law that only the creators of wealth are worthy to enjoy or distribute it."

LOWELL, Mass., May 17.—The General Association of Congregational Churches in Massachusetts, after a spirited discussion, to-day adopted the following resolution:

"That our Congregational Churches and their representatives in their dealings with persons whose character and business methods are in serious question should have due consideration for the effect of such action on public morals and on the efficiency of the Church as a moral and spiritual leader."

JEFFERSON BIRTHPLACE SOLD

Philadelphia Speculator Buys Actor's Old Home for $8,125.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 17.—Sentiment did not enter into the sale of the house at the southwest corner of Sixth and Spruce Streets, in which Joseph Jefferson was born. It was sold to-day at auction by Samuel T. Freeman & Co. to William H. Ramsey, an attorney, for $8,125. The bidding lacked interest, and with the exception of several other real estate men who also were looking for investments, Mr. Ramsey was the only bidder. He said that the house had been purchased for a client who speculated in real estate.

"Of course, if any representatives of the Jefferson family wish to buy the property or any association desires to perpetuate his name, my client will sell it again for a profit," said Mr. Ramsey.

The building is of the type of the ordinary Philadelphia residence in that section and at present is used as a store and dwelling.

CROKER FUNERAL TO-DAY.

Brother Tells Result of Investigation into Herbert's Death.

The body of Herbert Croker, who died on a railroad train near Newton, Kan., recently, reached this city yesterday morning and was taken to the home of Mrs. Richard Croker, 5 East Seventy-fourth Street. With the body came Richard Croker, Jr.

The funeral will be held to-day at 11 A. M., from the Church of St. Ignatius, Eighty-fourth Street and Park Avenue, where a requiem mass will be celebrated by the rector, the Rev. Father McKinnon. Interment will be at Calvary.

Richard Croker, Jr., issued a statement last night, in which he said: "In view of the many contradictory statements, mostly of a sensational character, I feel it my duty, in justice to my family, and particularly to my brother's memory, to make public the true facts of his unfortunate death.

"At my request, Charles J. Egan, Sergeant-at-Arms of the Common Council of Kansas City, made an independent and rigid investigation of the movements of Herbert, and it is gratifying to me to be able to lay before the public the result of Mr. Egan's inquiry, every word of which can be verified. According to his report Herbert was at the Elm Ridge race track last Thursday afternoon about 3 P. M., and met there Frank Kelly, chief trainer for Edward Corrigan's racing stables. To Kelly Herbert complained of being ill. He looked sick.

"Kelly made an appointment to meet Herbert at Cronin's café, at Fourth Street and Broadway, at 7:30, and from there to go with him to the Union Station. Kelly did not keep the appointment, as he was unexpectedly called out of town. Herbert went to the café, accompanied by Wilson, the negro porter, who acted as guide from the Coates House to Cronin's.

"Herbert made no request to go to any other place, and the statement that he visited any resort of a questionable character is absolutely false. This Wilson declares with emphasis, and adds that until they arrived at the train they entered but two buildings—Cronin's and a place in the Chinese district of interest to sightseers, identical in character with the tea houses in our own Chinatown section. Wilson says they were not there more than ten minutes, together with other strangers who went in and out. Neither Herbert nor any one smoked opium, as has been erroneously stated in the newspapers. What may have caused that impression is the fact that Herbert grew very much worse, and Wilson had to call a cab to take him to the station, and possibly the additional circumstance that Herbert was unable to leave the cab without assistance on account of the increasing violence of his malady. Wilson is prepared to substantiate under oath and wishes it clearly understood that Herbert was not under the influence of liquor or any drug, but was a very sick boy.

"Mr. Egan concludes his report to me as follows:

"'I am satisfied after a most searching investigation that the foregoing are the true facts in the case. All of Wilson's statements have been verified by reliable persons. I also talked with Dr. Lester, County Coroner and a physician of the highest standing in Kansas City, and he informed me that the death was a natural one, and, if hastened at all, it was simply by the fatigue of the long journey.'"

The Makers and sellers of "mercerized cotton" clothing, and their apologists, excuse the prevalence of this form of deception in clothes by saying that such fabrics are "the response of a demand."

This statement is so often reiterated by them, and editorially in clothing and textile trade journals, that it interests us a good deal.

"The response" has been very generous and profuse; more than eighty per cent. of the clothing on the market is made from the "mercerized cotton" cheat. So lavish a "response" surely indicates a very widespread and insistent "demand."

But the makers and sellers of "mercerized cotton" clothing are not saying anything about it; their silence is oppressive. It seems like bad business judgment to keep still about a line of merchandise that so many people "demand."

The fact is, the "demand" is for honesty in clothes; and "mercerized cotton" fabrics are a cheat. We stand for all-wool; and our label is the sign: a small thing to look for, a big thing to find.

ANDREW D. WHITE.

The interesting autobiography of this famous educator and diplomatist will be reviewed in THE NEW YORK TIMES BOOK REVIEW on Saturday by Mr. H. W. Boynton, who treats of Mr. White as a representative American.

PRESCOTT.

A new life of the famous American historian will be the subject of another article, and there will be extended reviews of the Memoirs and Literary Remains of J. H. Shorthouse, author of "JOHN INGLESANT," of Edith Sichel's fascinating new book about "Catherine de Medici," the late Laurence Hutton's "Talks in a Library," and Eva Scott's narrative of the wanderings of KING CHARLES II.

These, with a criticism of the newest poetry, and articles in appreciation of the best of the recent novels, such as "JORN UHL," will specially commend this number of THE NEW YORK TIMES BOOK REVIEW to students of literature, while all the regular departments will be richly interesting, and the latest information concerning authors and publishers, at home and abroad, will appear in the columns devoted to

The Accomplice

Frederick Trevor Hill, the author of The Webb and other stirring bits of fiction, has produced in this volume a novel of mystery along lines wholly new in fiction.

The story is told from a novel point of view—the hero being the foreman of the jury at a hotly contested murder trial. The story goes in and out of the courtroom through a maze of mystery and sensational developments, and is not without a pretty love tale in the lighter moments.

SEABOARD AIR LINE RAILWAY

To the Holders of Voting Trust Certificates for Preferred and Common Stock

On the 12th of January, 1905, the Committee filed with the Morton Trust Company, as Depositary, a plan for consolidating the constituent companies of the Seaboard Air Line Railway. The Committee firmly believed that the plan proposed was so fair and just that it would command the assent of practically every certificate holder, and if consummated, that it would assure to the holders of all securities of the Company great benefit.

The provisions of the plan were approved and accepted by over 521,000 shares out of the outstanding 600,000 shares of the capital stock of the Company.

Of the non-assenting shares, approximately 70,000 were represented by a Committee in Baltimore, with whom your Committee has been in repeated communication, and this Committee has declined to assent to the plan. If, with this amount of shares not assenting, the Committee proceeded with the consolidation, the consolidated company would be obliged to acquire the outstanding stock through legal proceedings. Such acquisition would involve lengthy litigation and delay and uncertainty as to the amount which the consolidated company would be obliged to pay, which would also mean the use of money for the acquisition of minority stock which the assenting stockholders would have contributed, not to this purpose, but for the pressing and immediate needs of the Company and future improvements.

Under these circumstances, the Committee has deemed it wise to modify the plan, but in such a manner that the benefits of the original plan may still be obtained for the depositing shareholders, and hereby gives notice, that, pursuant to the powers conferred upon it by the plan and agreement of January 12, 1905, it has made and adopted a change, or modification, or new plan, and has this day filed with the Morton Trust Company, Depositary, a copy of the same.

This modified plan has already been accepted in writing by depositors of more than a majority of the capital stock of the Company, and this fact assures the plan being carried into effect.

The modification consists practically in the substitution of a holding company for the consolidated company, with the same authorized capital, the same classes of stock, and the same basis of exchange, as provided for in the original plan.

The payments to be made by such of the depositors as shall elect to subscribe to the First Preferred Stock of the new company will be the same in amount as provided by the original plan.

The proceeds of such sale of the new First Preferred Stock, it is intended, shall be advanced to the Seaboard Air Line Railway to provide for the immediate pressing needs of the railway and for improvements. For the moneys so advanced, the new company will receive notes of the Railway, or mortgage bonds, to which all the stockholders of the Railway will also have the right to subscribe.

If practically all the stockholders of the Railway assent to the modified plan, it is contemplated that the original plan of consolidation may then be carried out through the agency of the holding company.

The charter of the new company will, among other things, provide that neither the Directors nor stockholders shall have power to pledge or voluntarily encumber the stock of the Seaboard Air Line Railway acquired by the new company, and that the total indebtedness for which the new company may at any one time be obligated shall not exceed $500,000.

This notice is not intended as a full or precise statement or outline of the provisions of the modified plan, but as a mere notice that such a plan has been filed.

All stockholders are urged to obtain a copy of the modified plan and will be held bound by the provisions thereof.

All depositors who shall not surrender their certificates of deposit and withdraw their stock on or before June 24, 1905, said date being two weeks after final publication in accordance with the provisions of the plan and agreement of January 12, 1905, of the notice of the fact of the filing with the Depositary of the change or modification or new plan, shall be conclusively deemed to have assented thereto.

Copies of the modified plan may be obtained of the MORTON TRUST COMPANY, Depositary, No. 38 Nassau Street, New York City; the OLD COLONY TRUST COMPANY, Ames Building, Boston, Mass., and the CONTINENTAL TRUST COMPANY, Baltimore, Md., sub-depositaries.

The Committee will receive deposits of shares and voting trust certificates from those who have not already deposited at the office of the Depositary, or either of the sub-depositaries above named, until and including the 24th day of June, 1905, at twelve o'clock noon, after which time the Committee reserves the right to refuse to receive further deposits.

HOCKING COAL CO. MEETING.

Officers Re-elected—Loss Shown in Report Not Under Present Regime.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Columbus and Hocking Coal and Iron Company in Columbus, Ohio, yesterday, the following Directors were elected for the ensuing year: N. L. C. Kachelmacher, L. C. Lathrop, Robert Forsyth Little, H. O. Seixas, F. M. Cronise, T. P. Linn, A. L. Thurman, C. M. Voorhees, and C. G. Barratt. The following officers were re-elected: President—N. L. C. Kachelmacher; Vice President—L. C. Lathrop; Secretary and Treasurer—A. L. Thurman. The only change in the board is the addition of H. O. Seixas, who is also a Director in the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron Company.

The financial statement of the year's business presented at the stockholders' meeting showed a net loss for the year of $39,540.18. It was said, however, that the losses were incurred previous to the time when the President just elected, N. L. C. Kachelmacher, assumed control of the company's affairs. The present management has effected a reduction in the cost of operations, and the average cost of mining being 84 cents, against 99 cents during the same period the preceding year.

TRADING IN BALTIMORE.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, May 17.—A good demand for high-grade investment bonds gave the market to-day a better tone in the early trading, but the close was quiet and steady. The local market offers more attractive securities which are selling at reasonable prices than New York, and brokers expect good buying orders for investment to carry over the Summer dull period.

In the bond list Alabama Coal and Iron 5s advanced ½ after opening steady at 92. Norfolk Railway and Light 5s, at 92½, were ½ up; Georgia and Alabama 5s were ¾ higher, at 112, and Cotton Duck 5s, at 78½, were ⅛ up.

A few shares of Consolidated Gas sold again at 88, and Northern Central stock was steady at 103. Consolidated Cotton Duck common, "when issued," was quoted at 12½ bid and 15 asked. The total sales were 567 shares and $81,000 bonds, as follows:

SEABOARD AIR LINE PLANS.

Committee Submits its Modified Report on Consolidation.

The committee in charge of the consolidation of the constituent companies of the Seaboard Air Line has made public its modified plans for the consolidation and for obtaining funds for improvement. The provisions of the original plan were accepted by the holders of 521,000 shares out of 600,000 outstanding. The 70,000 non-assenting shares are represented by a committee in Baltimore, which has declined to assent to the plan.

The modification consists practically in the subscription of a holding company for the consolidated company, with the same authorized capital, the same classes of stock, and the same basis of exchange as provided for in the original plan. The proceeds of payments to be made by depositors who shall elect to subscribe to the first preferred stock of the new company will be advanced to the Seaboard Air Line Railway to provide for its immediate needs and for improvements, and for the money so advanced the new companies will receive notes of the railway company or mortgage bonds, to which all the stockholders of the railway will have the right to subscribe.

The charter of the holding company will provide that neither the Directors nor stockholders shall have the power to pledge or voluntarily incumber the stock of the Seaboard Air Line Railway acquired by the new company, and that the total indebtedness for which the new company may at any time be obligated shall not exceed $500,000.

TO QUIT FEDERAL SMELTING.

Its Acquisition by American Smelting Means Retirement of Charles Sweeney.

Officials of the American Smelting and Refining Company yesterday announced that through the acquisition of the Federal Smelting and Refining Company by the American Smelting and Refining interests, Charles Sweeney, the President of the Federal, would retire in favor of Fredric Bradley, President of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan Company, the control of which is also included in the purchases recently made for the newly formed Smelters Securities Company. It is probable that representatives of the Smelters interests will later go into the Board of Federal Smelting.

The $25,000,000 Series B preferred stock of the Smelters Securities, guaranteed as to principal and 5 per cent. interest by the American Smelting and Refining Company, which was offered yesterday, has been oversubscribed four times.

Stocks Heavy; Call Money Easy, 2¼@2½ Per Cent.

Business Still Dull and Prices Sagging, Chiefly Upon Poor Reports of the Iron Trade.

There was some improvement in the volume of business yesterday, but it could very well have been dispensed with in consideration of a better tone or more interesting intelligence. The news forthcoming was of the slenderest amount and interest. Early there came better foreign prices, accompanied by peaceful rumors which later were unconfirmed, or even offset by persistence of Monday's report that Germany was forcing an entrance into the Eastern question. Such reports, however, are unimportant now unless they disturb Paris, and Paris exchange upon London fell, denoting improvement in sentiment there. The domestic news included suggestions of the approaching end of the Chicago strike, and vague forecasts of labor troubles at Pittsburg. The influence of this upon the iron and steel stocks was slight compared with the calming account of the iron trade conditions and inferences drawn from the agitation over the Panama Canal purchases. Nothing is better adapted to chill the market for securities whose profits depend upon the tariff than any discussion bringing the tariff within range of practical politics. The loss of profits upon Panama contracts is of slight importance compared with the prospect of a continuous performance including a permanent object lesson of how the tariff works, accompanied by a debate in Congress upon how the situation may be improved. The crop news as reported by private observers was not good, but the wheat market was easier. Cotton and corn were firmer, apparently as much from speculative considerations as from any real question about the supply.

The day's interest centred in the Steel stocks and St. Paul, which together supplied almost half the day's business. If both had advanced together they might have carried the list upward, or if both had fallen together the market might have had a slump. But the strength in St. Paul offset the weakness in the steel shares as nicely as though designed for that purpose. This seems a more reasonable theory than any of the new or old stories regarding St. Paul's relations with the Northwestern group, its dividend prospects, or urgent buying to absorb Union Pacific's proceeds from the sale of its Northern Securities stock. Thus professional activity rather than intrinsic reasons was the apparent cause of the day's strength, but the reverse must be said of the day's softness. Changes in prices were less significant than the change in temper, which makes it all the easier for the lost ground to be regained whenever conditions warrant a better feeling.

IRON TRADE CONDITIONS.

Reviewing the situation in the iron trade The Iron Age says in its issue of to-day:

From all the principal distributing markets come the reports that in the raw material, pig iron, the buying movement is almost arrested. Many producing interests take the ground that a time like this is not one to force sales, and are withholding. On the other hand, buyers are not being tempted by such concessions as are being made, like for instance the recent lowering of Southern iron to the $13 basis. While many consumers are well covered in some instances into the fourth quarter, others have all along fought the advances made and are still purchasing in small parcels for very prompt delivery.

Thus far, on the whole, the demand from the general foundry trade has not developed an increase at all in proportion to the swelling of the requirements of the steel trade. This, however, may be explained partly by the fact that the product of many foundries is in highly finished forms for which the demand follows after industrial expansion has had full headway. We need only instance machinery for the expansion of old plants and the building of new manufacturing works.

The volume of business in the heavier lines of finished iron and steel is heavy, and the amount of tonnage in sight is large. It is probable that the 21,000 tons of structural material for the Pennsylvania station in this city will go to a Southern Pennsylvania mill. The whole undertaking will call for about 50,000 tons. The contract for the 20,000 tons of material for the Philadelphia Rapid Transit has not yet been actually signed. The flow of tonnage for new buildings and manufacturing plants is ample and steady.

It is in the lighter lines of finished iron and steel that the situation is less satisfactory. It almost looks as though the jobbing trade had overbought early in the year. It is certain that some of these interests are making efforts to get their goods by offering concessions. Reports are conflicting as to the degree of success which is attending their efforts, and there is some talk of measures on the part of some manufacturers to back them up.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, May 17.—The Iron Trade Review to-day says:

The deadlock in the iron trade continues, but it is a wait for better data as to the price basis for the next buying movement and not necessarily an indication of a check on consumption. The American Bridge Company closed 12,000 tons on well-distributed buying the past week, and emphasizes a total of 50,000 tons for May. Bids on the new Pennsylvania Railroad station foundation in New York have gone in, ranging 20,000 to 21,000 tons of steel, and the superstructure will require 40,000 tons more.

That the car-building programmes of the railroads are to go further is now more certain than appeared recently. The total of steel car orders placed this year is estimated at 53,000, and of all cars at 105,000. Important to the steel and pig-iron trades was the meeting of independent manufacturers at Pittsburg, and the decision to give options on their plants with a view to consolidation. The cooperation of an important steel-making interest is a part of the plan.

The meeting of wire manufacturers at Chicago last week resulted in better understanding between a Western mill and the leading interests as to questions that have come up in Western territory. The long and strenuous campaigns of the blast furnaces have brought the expected result. Three important furnaces in the Central West have gone out for relining, and more will follow. For Southern iron, $13, Birmingham, is now quoted, and on Northern iron quotations are from 25 to 50 cents lower than in early May. A movement has been started at Pittsburg looking to the establishment of a sales agency for Bessemer and basic iron.

BALTIMORE AND OHIO EARNINGS.

The statement of the earnings from traffic and expenses of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, exclusive of the controlled or affiliated lines, for the month of April, 1905, as compared with April, 1904, makes the following showing:

	1905.	1904.	Increase.
Gross earnings	$5,723,524	$5,501,230	$222,304
Expenses	3,933,594	3,870,166	63,428

For the ten months of the fiscal year ended April 30 the gross earnings from traffic were $56,081,718, an increase of $1,686,502. The expenses were $36,764,387, an increase of $418,999. The net earnings were $19,317,381, an increase of $1,216,508 over the ten corresponding months of 1904.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

St. Paul Contributes One-fifth of the Day's Transactions.

The professionals continued to exchange stocks yesterday in an effort to make an eighth here and a quarter there. That was about all there was to the market, unless an exception be made of St. Paul, in which there was what appeared to be a movement on transactions which exceeded 100,000 shares and furnished one-fifth of the entire day's business. There were all kinds of reports put out to account for the rise, but no one took them seriously, least of all the men who gave them circulation. The names of the buyers reported from the floor represented a fairly complete roster of all the floor traders on 'Change. There was a suggestion made to the effect that Union Pacific interests were hiding their identity by using these men to purchase the stock as a reinvestment for the proceeds of the sale of the Union Pacific holdings of Northern Securities stock, but this did not appear reasonable because of the limited prospect of the movement. It took over 50,000 shares to put the stock up 4 points, but in the afternoon a few thousand shares sufficed to put it down 2 points. Traders did not like that.

Manipulation in St. Paul.

Inquiry in authoritative quarters brought out the unanimous assertion that the movement was purely a manipulated one. There is but a very limited supply of the stock on the market, and those back of the movement took advantage of that fact, as well as of the absence of some of the men largely interested in the property, to mark up the price. William Rockefeller, the largest individual stockholder in St. Paul, is in Europe, and James Stillman, who is believed to be not in favor of a bull movement in the stock, is on the ocean bound for foreign shores. If these men were here, it was intimated, there might be some opposition to any extensive manipulation of the stock, but from other holders no such opposition need be expected, because those who believe in the stock do not sell out, and this makes the marking-up process easy. What the Street is wondering about is what the pool will do when it begins to market the stock acquired on the advance.

Not Believed Control is Sought.

Reports of the buying up of control of St. Paul in the open market have never been received with much credence. Wall Street since the unsuccessful attempt to get control of the property in 1901 which was made by James J. Hill and the Morgan interests before they acquired the Burlington. After these interests had acquired a large block of stock in the open market they found that in order to obtain a majority they would have to deal with William Rockefeller or some of the men with him, who held a majority of the stock. These men are H. H. Rogers, J. Ogden Armour, James Henry Smith, Roswell Miller, and their friends. The price asked at that time proved to be more than the Hill interests cared to pay, just as recently the price at which the Northern Pacific was offered to the St. Paul proved to be more than that road cared to pay. All stories of a combination of the St. Paul with other roads at this time may be considered untrue on authority.

St. Paul Prevents Decline.

Experienced market observers expressed the opinion that the movement in St. Paul was either intended to hold the rest of the market firm and to prevent a break, or to enable short selling under cover. Whatever the purpose, the strength in St. Paul may be said to have prevented a serious decline in other issues. It acted as a counterweight, so to speak, which seemed to be a very general opinion that such a counterbalancing weight was necessary for the weakness in the steel issues at one time looked ominous. It may be that the weather, gloomy also in Chicago, brought pessimistic views to the surface, as it often does in Wall Street. Such views were much in evidence.

Cable to Jersey City Exchange.

According to a story which has been going the rounds of the Street for some days, a trunk line cable from the financial district to Jersey City has been contracted for by the proposed new Exchange which is to start business there on June 1, when the Transfer Tax bill takes effect. A Wall Street news bureau yesterday intimated that the cable was ordered in the interest of the bucket-shop men, who would move their headquarters across the river. This bureau said that it was known that one Wall Street concern operating many private wires had planned to move before June 1, and that a Broadway concern, backed by an expolicy man, would follow suit. As a matter of fact, the bucket shops would be foolish to give up so remunerative a field of operations as New York City, where the crop of lambs seems never short.

Delusion of a New Trader.

Brokers often get the blame for losses due to a customer's folly, but nothing more clearly shows the difficulties they have to contend with than the experience of a manager of a big firm who had to surrender yesterday to the demand of a customer who wanted to go long and short of a certain stock at the same price for 100 shares each. It was useless to tell this man that his winnings on one side of the market would be offset by his losses on the other, and that he would be merely throwing away commissions and interest. He asked in reply whose money he was playing, and got angry when the manager told him that if he kept it up he would not have any to play with at all. So the manager had to pacify him by giving in. The idea of the customer is that he will take a profit on whichever side his account shows one first, and then wait on the other side of the ledger until a profit is shown there also. With unlimited capital and patience this theory might win out, unless, as it often happens, the stock should never reach the old price again.

Drop in Value of Exchange Seats.

As a result of the dull market the bid prices for Stock Exchange seats have dropped from $83,000 to $78,000. The last seat sold was at the high figure, and of the two seats now posted one brought $81,000 and the other $80,000. It is understood that there are now two members of the Exchange inclined to sell their seats, and it is not improbable that the offer of $78,000 will be accepted by at least one of them.

⁂

Wall Street Wag Busy.

The Michel Hot Roast Beef Sandwich Company, Gloucester City; capital, $125,000. Incorporators—Charles C. Galbraith, Firman Michel, and Arnold Brunner.

Mustard & Co., Jersey City; capital increased from $250,000 to $300,000.

"While no official statement in regard to the matter was made, it was intimated in well-informed quarters that the purpose of the increase in the capital stock of the Mustard concern was to acquire a controlling interest in the newly organized Hot Roast Beef Sandwich Company."

BULLION AND MINING.

THE LONDON MARKET.

LONDON, May 17.—Money was in fair demand in the market to-day, and the supply was affected by various calls offsetting the dividend distribution. Discounts were firmer.

Operators on the Stock Exchange were more cheerful, having recovered from yesterday's nervousness, though there was no increase in speculation. Consols were maintained.

Americans opened irregular and ruled dull at about parity. They hardened somewhat in the afternoon and closed steady. Grand Trunk was firm on the traffic returns exceeding anticipations.

Foreigners had a better tone, owing to increased support from Paris. Russians improved. Japanese were mostly dearer. Imperial Japanese Government 6s of 1904 were quoted at 101½.

Copper shares were depressed, owing to a continuance of the liquidation of weak bulls and the uncertainty regarding the outcome of the approaching naval battle in the Far East. The decline was checked by good buying to cover and also by the consumption. The metal closed at 49⅝.

Bar silver steady at 26⅝d per ounce.

Money, 2@2½ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 2¼ per cent.; for three months' bills, 2¼ per cent.

The amount of bullion taken into the Bank of England on balance to-day was £216,000.

Gold premiums are quoted as follows: Madrid, 31.60; Lisbon, 9.50.

LONDON CLOSING QUOTATIONS.

In Continental Centres.

PARIS, May 17.—Prices on the Bourse to-day were firm at first, but the trading subsequently grew dull. Russian securities, however, strongly advanced, owing to the growing confidence in Admiral Rojestvensky.

Renewed reports in regard to the feebleness of the head of the Rothschild banking institution, rumors of whose illness were circulated on the Bourse on Monday, depressed the securities held by that house. Russian Imperial fours were quoted at 89.40 and Russian bonds of 1904 at 512.

Three per cent. rentes 99 francs 30 centimes for the account. Exchange on London 25 francs 18½ centimes for checks.

BERLIN, May 17.—Trading on the Boerse to-day was generally quiet. Exchange on London 20 marks 48½ pfennigs for checks.

Discount rates—Short bills, 2 per cent.; three months' bills, 2⅝ per cent.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 17.—United Gas Improvement stock was the principal feature in this market to-day. Shortly after opening the word was passed around among the political element that the gas lease extension would be passed to-morrow, and the contract would be awarded to the United Gas Improvement Company, the Smith syndicate bid being ignored as far as possible. This tip brought a flood of buying orders into the market, with the result that United Gas Improvement advanced from 115¾ to 119, closing fractionally under the highest. Union Traction made a new high record, 62. Girard National Bank stock was off 2 points. Lehigh Valley advanced sharply, then relaxed ¾, while West Jersey and Seashore advanced 1. These were the most important changes. Trading was fairly active throughout the day, but commission houses were not inspired with the character of the buying. The total sales were 42,841 shares and 165,800 bonds, as follows:

THE OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Irregular Price Changes Accompany Continued Dulness.

Question of Dividend on United Copper Common—Little Actual Trading in Northern Securities.

Trading in the outside market yesterday was very dull and failed to display a single feature of special interest. The changes in prices were for the most part losses, but among the gains were several in the higher priced issues which amounted to a point or more. Standard Oil remained strong, but was extremely dull. Guggenheim Exploration sold at 167½ and the 70 per cent. paid issues at 165, these prices being in both cases as high as have recently been paid for these stocks. Increased attention has been drawn to them by the flotation of the American Smelters' Securities stock. Northern Securities declined 2 points from the highest of the day and closed at the lowest. The belief prevails that the amount of the stock now available for market purposes is very small and that most of the trading represents nothing but the shifting back and forth of the same lots of stock from one trader to another.

⁂

UNITED COPPER was the most active stock yesterday despite the belief expressed by some traders in the stock that the insiders were not meeting with much encouragement from the public and that they were likely to abandon the movement. The view of the insiders seems to be that the results will more than justify the recent advance and that the stock will not need any aggressive support to keep it at this level. Much skepticism prevails in some quarters in regard to the ability of the company to begin the payment at present of dividends on the common stock, but the management has practically committed itself to the payment of a dividend in the very near future.

⁂

SHIPPING AND MAILS.

New York City.

J. LUDWIG & Co.—Julius Ludwig and Samuel Neufeld, composing the firm of J. Ludwig & Co., manufacturers of beds and bedding at 124 Third Avenue, made an assignment yesterday to Julius L. Newfield. The liabilities are estimated at $800, with assets of $400.

Out of Town.

TROY.—The schedule and inventory were filed in the County Clerk's office under the general assignment of Nelson L. Bills, Jr., dated June 2, 1905, to Frank A. Dwyer of Amsterdam. The schedule shows: Liabilities, $5,597.97; nominal assets, $4,082.15; actual assets, $3,747.09.

PETITIONS IN BANKRUPTCY.

FRANK W. MILLER.—Frank W. Miller, who conducts a men's furnishing business at 12 Water Street, Newburg, has filed a petition in bankruptcy here, showing liabilities of $4,781 and assets of $1,008, consisting of stock, $1,128; debts due, $331; cash, $5; books, $50, and household goods, $194. On application of a creditor, Judge George C. Holt appointed Harry Hirshfield of Newburg receiver and fixed his bond at $1,000.

ANTONIO FILIPPI.—Antonio Filippi, mason, of 174 Canal Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $800 and no assets.

SMITH & ROBINSON.—Judge George C. Holt, in the United States District Court yesterday appointed John W. Loveland receiver in bankruptcy for Smith & Robinson, general contractors for river and harbor improvements, 17 State Street, on petition of Charles F. Gentzlinger, attorney for the estate of P. O'Riordan of Charleston, Mass. The petition alleges that various creditors have taken replevin proceedings to replevin machinery in the Boston Navy Yard, taken on lease by the alleged bankrupts, and that unless a receiver be appointed said machinery will be taken away.

MARAS DONNENBERG.—Judge George C. Holt, in the United States District Court yesterday appointed Henry Melville receiver in bankruptcy for Maras Donnenberg, hats and trimmings, of 2,016 Third Avenue, on application of Pauline Glaser, and fixed his bond at $1,000.

CARL LINDSKOG.—Carl Lindskog, painter and decorator of 1544½ East Seventy-second Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy showing liabilities of $2,459 and assets of $250, consisting of stock.

EDWARD T. SANDY.—Edward T. Sandy, manager of saloons at 1 and 44 Jackson Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy showing $13,707 liabilities and nominal assets. The Eastern Brewing Company, $3,986, is the largest creditor.

WILLIAM THOMANN.—William Thomann, baker, of 1,560 Third Avenue, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, showing liabilities of $16,712 and assets of $8,056, consisting of bond and mortgage, assigned to Kessel & Co., $2,000, and debts due, $6,000, ($2,400 assigned to Kessel & Co.,) the balance being unsecured claims. At the same time Mrs. Rose Thomann, the petitioner's wife, filed a petition in bankruptcy showing liabilities of $4,886 and no assets.

MAX KAMAK.—Judge George C. Holt, in the United States District Court yesterday refused a discharge in bankruptcy to Max Kamak, real estate broker, of 7 Pine Street, who filed a petition in bankruptcy on July 3, 1902, showing liabilities of $44,181 and assets of $258.

Cheap Transportation

appeals to us all; as a nation we dislike paying railroad fares almost as much as we dislike paying customs duties. From Larchmont Park the yearly commutation to New York is less than $6 per month, and already a road is being built which will reduce this considerably. Where can you go and get such property as I am offering, on such liberal terms, in such a good location, and with such cheap transportation? The improvements, and they combine all those possible, are not under way—they are all finished, and there are no assessments to be paid. When you buy your property from me you know just what you are paying for and getting—sewer, water, gas, electricity, sidewalks, and macadamized streets. Let me take you to the property and then you can judge for yourself.

REFEREES' NOTICES.

SUPREME COURT, KINGS COUNTY.—THE PEOPLES TRUST COMPANY, as Trustee, Plaintiff, against THE KNICKERBOCKER STEAMBOAT COMPANY and others, Defendants.

In pursuance of the judgment of foreclosure and sale and order, duly made and entered in the above entitled action, dated respectively April 28th and May 3d, 1905, the undersigned referee in said judgment named will sell at public auction at the auction rooms of Burdett & Dennis, 29 Burling Slip, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 25th day of May, 1905, at 1 o'clock P. M. on that day, by Burdett & Dennis, auctioneers, the following property described in said judgment: The steamboat "Grand Republic," her engines, boilers, masts, tackle, apparel, furniture, and appurtenances.

All of the above described property will be sold in one parcel, and subject to all claims, civil or maritime, which may have been or may be made against the plaintiff as mortgagee of such steamboat, or against the said steamboat, or on account of any matter arising in connection with the operation by the plaintiff of such steamboat as such mortgagee since August 20, 1904; and the purchaser or purchasers at such sale will be required to assume the same, and to indemnify the plaintiff from all claims and demands by reason thereof. The upset price is $35,000, and no bid will be accepted for less than that amount.

Dated New York, May 3, 1905.

J. EDW. SWANSTROM, Referee.

D. 1905, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, at which time the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a trustee, examine the bankrupt, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

F. K. PENDLETON,
May 18th, 1905. Referee in Bankruptcy.

SURROGATE NOTICES.

O'DONOHOE, MARGARET.—The People of the State of New York, by the grace of God, free and independent.—To Kate Leahy, Mary Ann Carmondy, Nora Bradshaw, Thomas O'Donohoe, Mrs. Mary S. Courtney, and Mrs. John Courtney, and to all persons interested in the estate of MARGARET O'DONOHOE, late of the County of New York, deceased, as creditors, legatees, next of kin or otherwise, send greeting:

You and each of you are hereby cited and required personally to be and appear before our Surrogate of the County of New York, at the Surrogates' Court of said county, held at the County Court House, in the County of New York, on the 26th day of May, 1905, at half-past one o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to attend a judicial settlement of the account of proceedings of Daniel E. Barry, as executor of the last will and testament of said deceased; and such of you as are hereby cited, as are under the age of twenty-one years, are required to appear by your guardian, if you have one, or if you have none, to appear and apply for one to be appointed, or in the event of your neglect or failure to do so, a guardian will be appointed by the Surrogate to represent and act for you in the proceeding.

In testimony whereof, we have caused the seal of the Surrogates' Court of the said County of New York to be hereunto affixed. Witness, Hon. Abner C. Thomas, a Surrogate of our said County, at the County of New York, the 8th day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and five.

JAMES A. DONNELLY,
Clerk of the Surrogates' Court.

WOMEN CAUGHT IN GAMBLING RAID

Roulette and Poolroom Apparatus Found in Boarding House.

PROFESSIONAL IN CHARGE

Players All Had Hysterics When Police Entered, Although Most Are Listed as Regular Patrons.

To what straits gamblers and poolroom men of this city have become reduced was shown yesterday afternoon, when Acting Captain O'Brien of the West Forty-seventh Street Station descended with a force of plain-clothes men upon a boarding house in West Forty-third Street, near Sixth Avenue. In its basement dining room seven women were gambling at a roulette wheel presided over by a professional member of the gambling fraternity. This man, who gave the name of Fred Ray, was held and will to-day be arraigned in the West Side Court on the double charge of conducting a poolroom and a gambling house. He had $700 in his pocket when arrested.

The women were permitted to depart after having given their names and addresses to the raiders and convinced them that they were not borrowing identities for the occasion. All of them were very well dressed, and most of them were young. In statements concerning the nature of the place, which each of them had to sign, several admitted being regular habitues of poolrooms and small gambling houses run exclusively for women.

The attention of the police was drawn to the West Forty-third Street place by a conversation overheard by Precinct Detectives Donohue and Quinn at the Belmont Park track the other day. They heard one woman give to another the address of the Forty-third Street place. Then they watched the house for three days and recognized among the numerous callers a number of women known by the police to frequent poolrooms. There is at the present time in the hands of the police of the Tenderloin and West Forty-seventh Street Stations a long list of such women.

When Acting Captain O'Brien thought the time ripe for the raid yesterday he employed a small boy with a large bunch of flowers as a decoy to get the outer door open. The flowers were addressed to a chorus girl known to be living in the place, and while the boy was parleying with the owner the Captain and two of his men pushed the door open and entered. Simultaneously two other plain clothes men scrambled across the board fence in the rear of the house and shut off escape in that direction.

The women were too busy looking at the whirling wheel to notice their danger until the police appeared in the room. Then ensued panic and futile attempts to escape. One woman hid her head ostrich fashion behind a lounge. Another rushed down into the cellar and was pulled from behind the furnace. Two shut themselves up in a small closet and were nearly suffocated. As each woman was brought into the dining room, where the wheel, the telephone, and poolroom paraphernalia were placed, she went into hysterics, for the soothing of which the detectives had to employ all their diplomacy and fine manners.

A very pretty young woman took the matter more coolly than the others, and was merely angry because the game had been interrupted while she was a heavy loser.

"I have never had any luck with the horses," she remarked in explanation. "This fellow here got $20 out of me today because I had a sure tip on Odd Ella. No, the wheel is my choice. I'm sure I would have made up my loss and got out a winner if you hadn't broken in when I was $25 out on the black."

Another woman said she had placed $40 on Lord Badge with the man who called himself Ray. Lord Badge did not win.

DENIES ANY FRICTION AMONG HYDE COUNSEL

Reported Effort to Oust Him Is Untrue, Untermyer Says.

NEW POLICY HOLDER'S SUIT

Aged Virginian Alleges Equitable's Money Is Being Wasted and Wants Division of Surplus.

The Equitable Life rumor mill yesterday ground out a story that there was a difference of opinion between counsel representing James H. Hyde with the result that Elihu Root and William C. Gulliver were working together to oust Samuel Untermyer as manager of the Hyde forces and to have William Nelson Cromwell supplant him for the purpose of stopping the controversy, Mr. Cromwell acting as pacifier.

When a copy of the newspaper article in question was shown to Mr. Untermyer he declared the story a fabrication from start to finish, and said that there was not and had not been the slightest difference of opinion between Mr. Root, Mr. Gulliver, and himself as to the policy of conducting Mr. Hyde's case. He also denied that Mr. Cromwell had anything to do with Equitable affairs, so far as he knew. Peace talk, however, was current in financial circles yesterday. It was in substance that a strong element was being developed in the Board of Directors that was of the opinion that personal controversy of every kind should be stopped pending the reports by the Frick Investigating Committee and Superintendent Hendricks.

It was said that Mr. Hyde's counsel had demanded open hearings in at least one of the investigations, on the contention that the interests of the society could be best served if the public knew what the investigators learned, and at the same time. From what quarter opposition to the proposal was developed was not stated. The Frick committee continued to take oral testimony yesterday, and Congressman Driscoll of Syracuse, in the absence of Superintendent Hendricks, did a little testimony taking on his own account.

The publication yesterday morning of figures on the operations of "James H. Hyde and Associates," purporting to have been taken from his testimony before the Frick committee, brought out from quarters friendly to Mr. Hyde, the assertion that there were but eight syndicates in all for the underwriting of bonds in which James H. Hyde and Associates were members, in which the society afterward bought any bonds. These syndicates represented $144,000,000 of bonds, and all of them, it was said, were heavily oversubscribed, so that no underwriter was ever called upon to take any of the bonds.

"James H. Hyde and Associates," it was declared, was a single underwriter out of an average of 110 in each syndicate, and Mr. Hyde's personal interest averaged one fifty-seventh of the entire amount of bonds handled, or approximately $2,587,000. Of the total of $144,000,000 bonds handled by all the syndicates, the Equitable purchased $10,400,000. So it was figured, if the society had bought no bonds and if the syndicates had not been oversubscribed Mr. Hyde would have had to take $190,000 of bonds as the result of all his personal participation.

The amount placed in the hands of the cashier of the Equitable society by Mr. Hyde representing his syndicate profits, pending decision as to the propriety of his retaining it, was about $61,000. This, it was said, did not represent more than a fair underwriting commission on his individual participation of about two and one-half millions.

Col. Alexander S. Bacon, as counsel for Rowland D. Buford, said to be a resident of Virginia, but suing in the Supreme Court of New York, yesterday served upon C. B. Alexander of the law firm of Alexander & Green, attorneys for the Equitable, papers in another suit. Mr. Buford is nearly eighty years old, and since 1871 has kept up his payments upon one of the original old-line policies. He complains that in accumulating a large surplus over the legal requirements, the Equitable is not carrying out its contract with him, and he wants the court to direct the Directors of the society to divide the $80,000,000 surplus up so that he will get an equitable share. He also asks the court to cause them to change their policy of accumulating a surplus above what is actually required by law, and to remove them and put in other Directors if they do not do so. The complaint says:

"The administration of the officers and Directors of said society has been and is extravagant, wasteful, and vicious; the President and Vice President receive $100,000 each per annum of salaries, for which they give no adequate return; enormous attorneys' fees and miscellaneous disbursements are covers for illegitimate and illegal expenditures for dinners and traveling expenses for Directors, and for lobbying charges and political expenses whereby the campaign expenses of members of the Legislature are paid indirectly through munificent expenditures to political leaders and committees; enormous sums of moneys taken from said surplus are deposited in banks and trust companies controlled by said Directors, and thus, indirectly, used to float underwriting schemes in which said Directors are personally interested and obtain enormous profits, and investmnets therefrom are made in violation of law, public policy, and good morals to the enrichment of Directors personally."

FIVE YEARS FOR OWENS.

Has Mania for Check Passing—Often Pretended He Was Elkins's Son.

Albert C. Owens, known to the police of several cities under various aliases, a man who has been declared by psychological experts to be prenatally disposed to forgery, was sentenced yesterday in General Sessions to five years in Elmira Reformatory for passing a forged check. Owens has frequently represented himself as being the son of Senator Elkins of West Virginia, but he is not related to that statesman.

Two years ago Owens bought goods valued at $35 from Charles Hauptner, a Broadway haberdasher, and had the bill charged to A. C. Osborn, which was his alias at that time. Recently he bought more goods from Hauptner, giving a check signed A. C. Osborn for the whole amount. In court he gave the name of Assistant District Attorney Smyth as a witness in his behalf. Mr. Smyth told the court that Owens, while not exactly of unsound mind, lacked entirely the sense of right and wrong in matters pertaining to money.

TERM OF OFFICE BILL UNOPPOSED AT HEARING

Mr. Fox, for City Club, Urges Mayor to Sign Measure.

McCLELLAN HAS SOME FUN

He Will Veto the Plans for Rerating Non-Uniformed Members of the Fire Department.

Sixteen legislative bills, among them the measure increasing the term of the Mayor and other chief city officials from two to four years, came before Mayor McClellan yesterday for public hearings. It was expected that many civic organizations would be heard on the term-extension measure, but although representatives of the Citizens' Union, the City Club, and the Civil Service Reform Association were present none but Austen G. Fox of the City Club spoke for the measure and no one appeared in opposition.

Mr. Fox caused considerable mirth by hesitating in the wrong place in his introductory remarks when he arose to urge the Mayor to sign the bill.

"Your Honor has been long enough in office," he began, and paused.

"What is that?" inquired Mayor McClellan with mock seriousness, while the others present smiled broadly.

"What I started to say," said Mr. Fox, apologetically, "was that your Honor has been long enough in office to feel that the longer you are in office the better you can fill it, the better satisfy the citizens, and the better acquaint yourself with the needs of the city."

"Oh!" exclaimed the Mayor with simulated relief, "I thank you, Mr. Fox. From your opening remark I was afraid you were going to be less complimentary."

Mr. Fox then said that the City Club believed the best argument for the bill could be found in the fact that by making the term four years instead of two local affairs would be divided effectually from National affairs, as the municipal elections would be held in each instance the year following a National election and three years in advance of the succeeding Presidential contest. He said an election each year would hardly be more intolerable than one every two years, and in addition he argued that a two-year term would not give a Mayor or other officer a chance to complete anything and would debar him from obtaining the services of men of the proper calibre for his heads of departments.

Representatives of the Interborough Railroad Company spoke in opposition to a bill to compel them to establish an uptown elevated station at One Hundred and Thirtieth Street and Eighth Avenue. A downtown station has been maintained there for fifteen years. Counsel for the company argued that the bill was in the interest of a few property owners who wanted to collect damages for the establishment of a station in front of their property. The Mayor did not indicate what his action would be.

The Mayor will veto the bill putting on the uniformed force of the Fire Department with uniformed rank the employes of the Bureau of Combustibles.

A bill to place stokers and firemen of the fire boats on equal footing as to rank, pay, and claim on the pension fund with the uniformed men will also be disapproved.

Other measures considered were of minor importance.

SECRETARY MORTON'S PLANS.

Rumor That He Will Join Banking Firm on Leaving Cabinet.

There was a report in Wall Street yesterday that Secretary of the Navy Paul Morton, who has been mentioned for the Presidency of several railroad systems, would, upon his retirement from the Cabinet, become a member of the banking firm of Redmond & Co., at 41 Wall Street.

Members of the firm declined either to deny or affirm the report. Mr. Morton was in the financial district yesterday, but refused to talk about his plans.

NO BLAME FOR WRECK, CORONER'S JURY SAYS

Beyond Human Power to Prevent Harrisburg Smash-Up.

ROAD'S LOSS MAY BE $350,000

Death and Accident Claims Being Adjusted — Not a Trace of E. D. Edson.

HARRISBURG, Penn., May 17.—The Coroner's jury this afternoon returned a verdict exonerating the Pennsylvania Railroad Company from any blame for the South Harrisburg disaster last Thursday in which twenty-two lives were lost and more than 100 persons injured.

The jury finds that the cause of the accident was applying air brakes to the freight train in order to stop it so that it would not collide with the shifting locomotive. The shifting crew, with its train, was properly on the track. The freight train was properly equipped with air brakes and no human agency could have stopped the passenger cars running into the wreck.

PHILADELPHIA, May 17.—It is estimated that the Harrisburg disaster will cost the Pennsylvania Railroad Company close to $350,000. Most of the claims of the injured have been settled.

Two bodies remain unidentified. Railroad officers believe that Mr. and Mrs. James McCauley of 1,310 North Sixth Street were killed, as well as E. D. Edson, a lawyer of New York.

PHILADELPHIA GAS LEASE TIES CITY FOR 75 YEARS

City Councils Approve the Grant for $25,000,000.

CITIZENS STORM CHAMBERS

Uproar of Protest as Action Is Taken —Police Called to Clear Galleries.

PHILADELPHIA, May 18.—Amid scenes of disorder unprecedented for Philadelphia's legislative body the City Councils to-night voted to lease the city's gas works to the United Gas Improvement Company for a term of seventy-five years for a total of $25,000,000, the money to be paid in various amounts before the end of 1907.

The Councils chambers and committee rooms were crowded with excited citizens, who protested against the lease to the United Gas Improvement Company from 1 o'clock this afternoon, when the proceedings opened in the Finance Committee room, until after 8 o'clock, when the Select Council passed the bill and sent it to the Mayor.

The agitation resulted in the Common Council amending the bill so as to provide for a slight reduction in the price of gas. The present price, $1 for 1,000 feet, remains until 1911; from 1911 to 1921, 95 cents; from 1921 to 1936, 90 cents; from 1936 to 1956, 85 cents, and thereafter until expiration in 1980, 80 cents.

Mayor Weaver, it is expected, will veto the bill. He is in favor of a postponement of the whole question until 1907, when the first ten years of the present thirty years' lease to the company will expire. At that time the city has the right to take back the works on payment of the amount expended in improvements.

In the event of a veto both chambers probably will pass it over his veto. The vote in Common Council was 74 to 9, and in Select Council 37 to 4. The one Democrat in each body voted against the lease. There is talk among citizens of taking the fight to the courts.

The climax of disorder to-day was reached when the vote in Common Council was announced after three hours of debate. The moment the President, George McCurdy, announced the vote a great uproar was started in the gallery, which was crowded to the door.

From all over the gallery came hisses and cries of "thieves." The outburst was somewhat startling to the presiding officer, who made a vain effort to quell it. Finally he sent for a squad of police to clear the gallery. This started the disorder anew. The crowd continued to hiss and call the Councilmen thieves and other names until the police arrived. As the people moved out they sang uncomplimentary songs. In clearing the gallery there were several clashes between the police and spectators, but no one was hurt.

All through the session of the Common Council there was disorder. In Select Council there were so many policemen on duty that no one dared to interrupt the proceedings. There was neither a cheer nor a hiss when the bill passed that body.

The Finance Committee had before it two propositions, one from the United Gas Improvement Company and the other from E. B. Smith & Co., bankers of this city, representing New York and Philadelphia capital.

The Smith bid differed from the other in that it proposed to share profits with the city at the rate of one-third for ten years and one-half for the remaining sixty-five years, and also provided that the city could reduce the price of gas as the profits increased.

A sub-committee reported in favor of the United Gas Improvement Company. The report stated that the city was in immediate need of $49,000,000, and that the present borrowing capacity of the municipality was only $15,000,000. In view of these facts, the report stated, the best the city could do would be to lease the gas works for a long term, the money to be paid in advance.

A letter from Mayor Weaver asking the committee to postpone action was read, but no action was taken.

The committee then announced itself ready to hear from citizens. Select Councilman Charles Seger, a Republican organization leader, moved that each speaker's time be limited. This suggestion was received with hisses and cries of "Shame!" and "Robbers!" Order was restored with difficulty, and Mr. Seger's motion was withdrawn.

Those who spoke against the United Gas Improvement proposition were John C. Winston, Chairman of the Committee of Seventy; Francis B. Reeves, Chairman of the Committee of Nine, appointed at a recent mass meeting of citizens; William Potter, former Minister to Italy; W. T. Tilden of the Committee of Nine; G. W. Norris, representing the Smith syndicate, and ex-Judge James Gay Gordon.

At the conclusion of the meeting, which continued stormy throughout, the committee favorably reported the gas company's lease to the Common Council.

Fifteen minutes after the bill had passed the Common Council it was taken up by the Select Chamber, which had taken a recess to await the measure. It was read quickly and a motion to postpone action for the present was defeated.

Samuel Crothers, who fought the bill in this chamber, shook his fist in the faces of the leaders and said it was "the blackest crime ever perpetrated by Councils on the City of Philadelphia."

The Committee of Nine to-night issued the following statement addressed "to the citizens of Philadelphia":

"You received to-day the most insolent affront from your Councilmen ever given to the people of any great American city. Despite reason and respect for the rights of the people, the City Councils voted to confer upon a corporation the unhampered control of your gas works. Your committee, appointed by town meeting, now calls upon you—first, to awaken to your injuries, which are;

A—Insult to your declared opinion and the expressed wish of your Mayor asking for delay.

B—Theft of your property.

C—Enslavement for three generations to a gas monopoly.

Second—To rise in your might and by personal, unceasing effort make impossible the consummation of the greatest steal ever attempted.

a. By assemblage in every ward, by personal demand and pressure upon your local Councilmen.

b. By full and immediate use of the cards and literature distributed by the committee, as well as other forms of written protest.

c. By preparing for a great rally that will block the final attempt to complete the conspiracy, when the ordinance is again considered, after the Mayor has vetoed it."

BALTIC COMING IN TO-DAY.

Her Reversing Gear Broken in a Heavy Gale on Sunday Last.

Special to The New York Times by Wireless Telegraph, via Siasconset, Mass.

ON BOARD STEAMSHIP BALTIC, May 18, 7 P. M.—The White Star steamship Baltic, which sailed for New York from Liverpool on Wednesday, May 10, and from Queenstown on Thursday, May 11, was disabled at sea at noon on Sunday, May 14.

From the beginning of her voyage the Baltic encountered extremely heavy weather, which developed on Sunday morning into a gale of sixty-five miles an hour, accompanied by very high seas. The lift of the seas frequently raised the stern of the ship out of the water, causing her propellers to race at high speed. To check this racing the reversing gear was used until, suddenly, at noon on Sunday, the gear broke under the severe strain.

It was necessary for the vessel to stop for four hours, during which the reversing gear, which had been seriously damaged, was disconnected and temporary repairs were made. Since then the ship has proceeded under somewhat reduced speed, and will, her officers estimate, reach her pier in New York by noon on Friday.

At the offices of the White Star Line, Pier 48, North River, it was said last night that the Baltic was due here at noon yesterday.

The Baltic was in wireless communication with the east-bound White Star liner Oceanic on May 14, when the west-bound vessel reported having encountered bad weather and suffered an accident to part of her machinery.

Among the Baltic's passengers are Charles M. Schwab, the Duke of Sutherland, and Joaquin A. Nabuco de Araujo, Brazilian Ambassador to the United States.

$504,000 FOR BLAUVELT.

Whitney Engages Singer for Six Years in Comic Opera.

Fred C. Whitney announced yesterday that Lillian Blauvelt had signed an agreement with him calling for her appearance next season in comic opera. According to the terms of the contract made public, Mme. Blauvelt has signed for six years, during which period she will receive $504,000. Mr. Whitney, it is understood, guarantees his new star a season of forty-two consecutive weeks each year at a salary of $2,000 a week, or $84,000 a year.

At the same time that Mr. Whitney signed his agreement with Miss Blauvelt, he also made contracts for the opera in which she is to appear. It is called "The Rose of the Alhambra," and is the work of Charles Emerson Cook and Lucius Hosmer, the former supplying the book and lyrics and the latter the score. Mr. Cook's latest work was "Red Feather," written with Reginald De Koven. "The Rose of Alhambra" is characterized as a "romantic comic opera," and, as its name implies, is Spanish in subject, with its scenes laid in Seville and Granada.

$12,000 FOR BANK IN TROUBLE

Dead Cashier's Relatives Give It—May Go to Worst Sufferers.

The Advisory Committee of Fifteen, which has been acting with Receiver Joseph Mayer of the Bank of Staten Island in trying to straighten out its tangled affairs, met at Tilley's Hotel, St. George, last night. Mr. Mayer exhibited a draft for $12,000, which he received yesterday from the relatives of Otto Ahlmann, the cashier and practical owner of the bank, who used its funds in Wall Street and then committed suicide.

Mr. Mayer has been trying to induce Ahlmann's relatives, who are said to be very wealthy, to make good Ahlmann's shortage. He sought to obtain something like $100,000 from them, and yesterday he received the draft for $12,000. There was a lengthy discussion at the meeting as to how to use it. Mr. Mayer's chief representation to the Ahlmann family was that many of the depositors were poor, and that they would be seriously inconvenienced and straitened, if their needs were not relieved.

The general sentiment of the meeting was that the draft was not an asset of the bank. On this ground a circular letter will be addressed to all the creditors, asking unanimous consent to the distribution of the $12,000 among those most seriously affected by the failure. If there is objection to this on the part of a small number the courts will probably be asked to pass upon the matter. If there is a general objection, the draft will be turned into the receiver's accounts as an asset of the bank.

CLEVELAND, May 18.—Otho L. Hays, formerly President of the Gallon National Bank, and under indictment for misapplying the bank's funds, is now working as a marker in a billiard room in this city, in order to get money to keep his family and pay his lawyers. He said to-day:

"When I went out of that bank in Galion I didn't have a dollar in the world, and I tried to find employment. Finally some of my wife's friends got together and helped her to buy out the interest in this place, and she is now trying to pay off the mortgage on it."

WAR ON DOCTORS' WHISKERS.

Iowa State Board of Health to Put a Ban on Them.

Special to The New York Times.

DES MOINES, Ia., May 18.—The Iowa State Board of Health has declared war on whiskers. Said Dr. J. F. Kennedy, Chairman of the board, to-day:

"In several countries at the present time physicians are required to discard whiskers. They are regarded not only as unprofessional, but a menace to the families they visit. If women's skirts carry disease germs from the streets into the homes is it not reasonable to conclude that the bewhiskered doctor will carry disease germs from infected homes to other homes he may subsequently visit, as well as to assemblies of people with whom he may meet?"

FOUR-TRACK SUBWAY TO TUNNEL 34TH STREET

Rapid Transit Board Adopts Plan of Metropolitan Interests.

BLOW TO BELMONT IN QUEENS

Tunnel Under East River Is Provided For, and Existing Trolley Routes Will Have Rivals.

Without a dissenting vote the Rapid Transit Commission yesterday finally rejected the proposition to construct a moving platform crosstown subway in Thirty-fourth Street and then adopted elaborate plans proposed by Metropolitan interests to enable them to invade the Boroughs of Queens and Brooklyn by a tunnel under the East River from Manhattan to Long Island City.

This crosstown subway and tunnel, as approved by the commission, will extend from Eleventh Avenue in Manhattan to Jackson Avenue and Fifth Street in Long Island City, a point beside Newtown Creek, which divides Long Island City from Williamsburg. The road will have four tracks across Manhattan and two tracks under the river and in Queens. The construction of such a subway and tunnel, if the contract is awarded to the Metropolitan interests, will bring the Metropolitan into direct competition with the Belmont trolley lines in Queens and also will give the Pennsylvania-New Haven-Metropolitan combination just such a tunnel under the East River as August Belmont and the Interborough managers sought to construct under the old Steinway tunnel franchise, which failed of revival in the last Legislature.

President Orr said to the members of the Rapid Transit Commission at the meeting that the proposed extension of the Thirty-fourth Street crosstown line under the East River was laid out at the urgent suggestion of one of the prospective bidders for the next subway work, but he declined to say which interest desired it, although admitting that it would parallel the route of the proposed Steinway tunnel. John B. McDonald, who was present at the meeting in the interest of the Metropolitan contingent, smiled when asked if the Metropolitan people had asked to have the route laid out.

"Just say that the Rapid Transit Commission thought this a good plan," said Mr. McDonald. "The route, however, interests our people very much, and we shall give it careful consideration. We certainly shall bid for its construction."

As laid down formally by the commission, the crosstown subway with its Queens connection will be offered to bidders in three sections. One will be from Eleventh Avenue in Manhattan to Ninth Avenue, the second from Ninth Avenue east to East River, and the third section will be the tunnel under the river. It is proposed to have the East River tunnel section descend from the grade of the crosstown section at a point between Second and Third Avenue.

The river section will run under private property to the East River at Thirty-fifth Street, and in the Borough of Queens will run under Borden Avenue to the yards of the Long Island Railroad, two blocks away from the passenger station. The tracks will be brought to the surface beside Newtown Creek at Jackson Avenue and Fifth Street, and may be extended at any time throughout Queens Borough. By taking the tracks across Newtown Creek an entrance would be effected to Williamsburg and Brooklyn Borough. It also is suggested that Long Island Railroad electric trains may be used through the tunnel for local traffic to be transferred to various Metropolitan longitudinal lines, as only through trains to the Pennsylvania station can be brought into New York in the Pennsylvania tunnel.

The entire matter came before the board when George L. Rives, counsel, presented the resolutions formally declaring the routes to be passed on. Mr. Rives also reported on the legal question which had arisen as to the power of the board to lay out alternative routes for Thirty-fourth Street, one to be for a subway for trains and the other for the moving platform. Mr. Rives said the board could leave the matter undecided until bids were called for, but that further delay might cause serious obstacles in the courts.

Mr. Wickersham, counsel for the Interborough, took a different view, and did not think that any trouble would arise.

Edward M. Shepard, in a letter, advised the board to decide in advance on a general mode of operation for the Subway, and not to leave the matter open. Mr. Shepard also appeared in person and said that serious delays might be caused by property owners if the course he outlined were not followed. President Orr held that the board might as well settle at once whether or not it wanted a moving platform subway, and on a vote it was unanimously decided that the moving platform should be eliminated from further discussion. The general crosstown route, with the East River tunnel section then was adopted. Mr. Rives explaining that the East River tunnel section had been included in the resolutions in the instructions of President Orr.

A letter was read from August Belmont, who wanted the board to hear him in executive session on a new proposition to increase the facilities of the east side elevated lines. Mr. Belmont, whose plan to four-track the Second Avenue line was rejected a few weeks ago by the board, is understood now to want to four-track only in Second Avenue, and a third track in Third Avenue. It was decided to have a meeting of the Committee of the Whole in a week or ten days, and then to hear Mr. Belmont.

President Orr announced that the Committee on Plans and Contracts had held a meeting earlier in the day and recommended the appointment of George S. Rice as chief engineer of the board at $15,000 salary, which was paid to William Barclay Parsons when he held the same position. Since Mr. Parsons's resignation Mr. Rice has been acting chief engineer at $10,000. The resolution making him full-fledged was unanimously adopted.

Mr. Rives said that the printed formal resolutions for the Brooklyn and Bronx subway routes would be ready for formal action of the board at next week's meeting.

JEFFERSON PLUNDER FOUND.

Acter's Son Recovers Goods Stolen from Buzzard's Bay Home.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 18.—Thomas Jefferson was in this city to-day, and identified several articles recently recovered by detectives as having been stolen from the Buzzard's Bay cottage of his father, the late Joseph Jefferson, while the family was in Florida this Spring.

Later in the day Mr. Jefferson went to Fall River in search of other stolen property. He is particularly anxious to find a rifle, valued at $600, which was owned by his father.

POLICE FIRE ON PIRATES.

Two Men in Yawl in North River Refuse to Halt and Return Shots.

Over the telephone just after 11 o'clock came this message to Acting Sergeant Michael Mulhall at Pier A, the headquarters of the harbor police, last night:

"Send your men up to us; pirates are trying to board a lighter off our pier at the New York Central dock, foot of Barclay Street."

Roundsman Ellis and four men tumbled into Launch No. 4 and opened the throttle as they swung up the river. Coming athwart Pier 17, they made out a broad-beamed open yawl, fitted with a naphtha engine, making across the North River at full speed.

"Shut her down and come to!" shouted Ellis.

The two men in the yawl paid no attention to the command, and Ellis turned the launch head on in the wake of the fleeing yawl and hailed her again. When once more there was no response, Ellis pulled his pistol and fired. Back came two shots from the fleeing craft, and two more before the other policemen could pull their pistols. The next volley from the police launch sent the bullets pattering against the side of the yawl and she heaved to.

As soon as the police launch drew alongside, Ellis clambered aboard. The two men in the yawl had thrown their pistols into the river. Ellis covered them with his revolver, and taking the wheel, ordered them to start the engine, while he steered the craft down to Pier A.

In the bottom of the pirate yawl the police say they found five bags of concha beans, valued at $1,000, and used to make a substitute for vanilla. The men arrested said they were Harry Bryant, a Swedish boatman of 778 Henry Street, Brooklyn, and William Brown of 82 Sullivan Street, Manhattan. They were charged with grand larceny and lodged in the Church Street Station.

On the bags seized was the mark "L. V.," underneath which was the word "Germain."

A VICTORY FOR LA FOLLETTE.

Wisconsin Senate Unanimously Passes His Railroad Rate Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

MADISON, Wis., May 18.—By a unanimous vote of the thirty-one Senators present, the substitute Railroad Rate bill introduced by the Committee on Railroads was passed at to-night's session of the Senate, and will be sent to the Assembly for concurrence. This is the bill for which Gov. La Follette has been fighting, and its passage by the Senate, which has been called anti-La Follette, indicates its certain passage in the Assembly, which is strongly in favor of the administration.

This harmonious conclusion to one of the most memorable contests waged in the Wisconsin Legislature was not reached until after an eight-hour struggle on the floor to amend the measure.

The bill provides for a commission of three members to be appointed by the Governor with power to fix rates, their decision being subject to appeal to the courts and present rates to stand till altered.

KILLED BROTHER IN PLAY.

Twelve-Year-Old Boy Discharged Pistol He Didn't Know Was Loaded.

YONKERS, May 18.—Rowland Jones, eleven years old, son of Samuel Jones of 60 Ravine Avenue, was shot dead this afternoon by his brother, William, twelve years old. They were playing in the dining room, when Rowland, who had a small squirt gun that throws water, playfully aimed it at his brother and discharged it.

There was a revolver lying on a sideboard, and William, not thinking it was loaded, picked it up and in turn took aim at his brother. The weapon was discharged and Rowland fell dead. The father of the boys is employed by the New York Central Railroad.

FELL DOWN 80-FOOT STACK.

Bricklayer Only Slightly Hurt by His Sudden Descent.

On the top of an eighty-foot chimney, at the Home of the Guardian Angel, at Twelfth Avenue and Sixty-fourth Street, Brooklyn, Robert Walsh, a bricklayer, was at work making repairs late yesterday afternoon. Michael Nolan, helper, was below preparing a hod for the hoist.

"Hey, you, there, Nolan, git a move on!" yelled Walsh impatiently.

Nolan's feelings were ruffled.

"Come down and do it yerself, if yer so swift," he flung back.

Then to the amazement of Nolan, Walsh disappeared. He had stepped incautiously over the edge of the scaffold and had dropper feet first into the chimney, a flue about three feet in diameter. Down the bricklayer shot, instinctively putting out his arms at times and thus checking the velocity of his fall somewhat. He wound up in the basement of the building, rolled out on the floor, sat up and looked about him. There were three other men at work there, and when Walsh so suddenly appeared, they yelled and ran.

Walsh rose, limped out, and wanted to go back to work, but the others sent for an ambulance. He was treated for a sprained ankle and went to his home in West Fortieth Street, Manhattan.

WINCHELL WARNS THE WEST.

Rock Island President Sees Danger in Government Rate Control.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, May 18.—President B. L. Winchell of the Rock Island Road, who was here to-day with a party of officials, says:

"Great danger to the Middle West lies in the plan for the Government to regulate freight rates. To the cattle men and grain producers of Nebraska, especially would such a law prove hurtful. Government regulation means higher rates. If a rate bill is enacted into law, the only regulation which will be practicable will be the introduction of a new straight distance tariff or a rate at so much per ton for each mile. In numberless cases freight is carried at cost in order that equipment may be kept moving and the vast army of railroad employes kept at work."

GETTYSBURG BATTLEFIELD AND WASHINGTON.

HAMBURG LEADS RACE FOR THE KAISER'S CUP

Atlantic One Mile and a Half Behind German Yacht.

AILSA MET EARLY MISHAP

Sighted at 10 o'Clock Yesterday Only Seventy-five Miles Out, but Going Fast Headed East.

The German schooner Hamburg was leading the ocean race for the Kaiser's Cup early yesterday morning. She was then 130 miles out, heading northeast, making apparently for the Nantucket Lightship. A mile and a half behind her was the Atlantic on the same tack and footing at a good rate. Both boats were crowding on all the sail they could handle close hauled, and were beating against the fifteen-knot breeze blowing from the northeast.

E. C. Benedict, on his steam yacht, the Oneida, followed the racers all of Wednesday, and left them early yesterday morning. It was foggy, and the haze was thickening fast. When he turned back he could make little of the two boats. He turned back at dawn, and while returning saw no signs of the other racers until at 10 o'clock yesterday morning he met the Ailsa seventy-five miles out heading east. He was five miles out heading east. He was then not able to learn what had delayed her, but she then appeared to be making good headway, and to be driving hard to make up lost ground. The other vessels in the fleet scattered early in the race, and are probably pursuing widely divergent courses.

The Oneida returned to Greenwich and was berthed at 11 o'clock last night at Indian Harbor. The party aboard her went to the Benedict place for the night.

In the time elapsed from the start of the race until the Oneida lost the two boats in the fog they had made good progress, footing fast all the way. Both boats were admirably handled and took advantage of every possible point.

The showing made by the Hamburg was a big surprise to those watching her. While it was known she was speedy, it was not thought she would pass the Atlantic in that kind of work. The impression left by her splendid work was that the Marshall boat would have all it could do to beat her on an even basis.

If the two have equal luck with the weather they will furnish as pretty a race as yachtsmen could wish for. The issue will probably depend on the choice of a course. Both are likely to go well to north, chancing danger to the limit of reasonable safety, hoping to get strong winds in the northern circle.

The Ailsa's showing is most puzzling. That she had only proceeded seventy-five miles in twenty-two hours under conditions peculiarly favorable to her is most surprising. Some mishap must have occurred to account for her poor showing.

Whatever the accident was it is unquestioningly remedied, for no sign of disability was apparent to the Benedict party. It will be regretted by her well-wishers that she has lost the opportunity offered by weather to which she is better adapted than any other of the boats in the fleet.

What courses the other boats are proceeding upon is a question. It is doubtful if the square riggers, in the face of conditions existing all afternoon and night could have reached Nantucket in any case until late in the day. A dense fog prevailed all morning about the shoal light, and it might easily be that all the boats could slip by there without being seen. That all passed that way is by no means certain.

Shortly after noon the northeast winds that had been blowing from the start freshened and shifted. From fourteen miles an hour they increased to eighteen and then to twenty. The direction of the wind altered to north and then northwest. This would give the square-riggers a chance to make up some of their lost ground. It will take southwesterly winds to put them on anything like favorable equal grounds with the fore and afters until they pass the Banks, so that it is probable they are still miles astern the leaders at this hour.

There is no hope of any further information of the positions of the boats until they are heard from on ocean liners incoming. Even then their relative positions cannot be determined unless the extremely unlikely circumstance should occur that a liner should meet more than one boat.

All that such a report could tell would be the position of one yacht at a given time, which, when the elapsed time was calculated, would give some idea of the progress she was making, but even this would show nothing of the place she held in the advance of the fleet. From this time on, therefore, it is likely that no definite news, giving an idea of the outcome of the race, will be received until the first boat is sighted off the Lizard.

WIRELESS REPORTS APACHE.

Grosser Kurfurst Passes the Bark 60 Miles East of Nantucket.

SIASCONSET, Mass., May 18.—The wireless station here has received a message from the North German Lloyd steamer, Grosser Kurfurst, which sailed from New York to-day, announcing that it had sighted the bark Apache at 10 o'clock to-night in longitude 70.50 degrees west and slightly south of Nantucket lightship.

The Apache is a bark-rigged yacht, owned by Edmund Randolph, and a competitor in the ocean race. That she has not proceeded further than Nantucket in thirty-four hours is not surprising in view of the fact that for the first twenty-four hours a northeast wind blew constantly, against which she had to beat.

It was impossible for her with her square rig to make any effective progress, and it is probable that she was lucky to make much over a hundred miles in that time. After noon the wind shifted to northwest, which would give her a blow off her port quarter that would drive her fairly well and admit of her reaching Nantucket shortly after midnight.

WILL TUTOR KING ALFONSO.

Wisconsin Man Will Teach English Language to Monarch.

Special to The New York Times.

LANCASTER, Wis., May 18.—Ralph L. Ray of Lancaster will relinquish his duties with the Lee Live Stock Commission Company at Chicago immediately and will come directly home to prepare for his trip to Spain, where he will act as private tutor to King Alfonso.

The Spanish King is desirous of becoming familiar with the English language and American ideas, and it was to gratify this wish that a Spanish consul recommended Ralph Ray to a Spanish nobleman who was sent to this country to find a tutor. He will reach Madrid June 22.

KILLED IN A SHAM FIGHT.

Lieut. G. L. Chapman of 25th Infantry Shot at Fort Reno.

Special to The New York Times.

EL RENO, Okla., May 18.—In a sham battle at Fort Reno this morning First Lieut. G. L. Chapman of the Twenty-fifth Infantry, Adjutant of the post, was killed by a shot through the body.

The affair is ascribed to accident, but inasmuch as loaded cartridges are not used in these exercises there is a suspicion that some one in the ranks, with a grudge against the young officer used the occasion to satisfy his resentment.

A careful inquiry will be ordered.

Lieut. Granville L. Chapman, who was thirty-one years of age, was born in Tennessee. In 1898 he was a Lieutenant in the First Tennessee Infantry, and in 1899 occupied a similar rank in the Thirty-seventh United States Infantry. The same year he became Second Lieutenant in the Tenth Infantry and in the following year was transferred to the Twenty-fifth Regiment and promoted to be First Lieutenant.

ASHORE AT MONTAUK POINT.

A Wireless Message Reports a Vessel in Trouble.

NEWPORT, R. I., May 18.—A wireless message received at the Government station here from the Montauk Point (L. I.) station to-night reports a four-masted schooner ashore on Montauk Point near "Fort W."

The message ended abruptly after "Fort W.," with the exact location of the schooner left undetermined. The Fall River Line Priscilla, on the way from Fall River, also picked up the message to the local station, but could not make out anything after "Fort W."

TURKS AND GREEKS FIGHTING.

Battle Near Basilika Has Been Raging Since Wednesday.

SALONICA, May 18.—Fighting has been going on since Wednesday between Turkish troops and a large Greek band near Basilika, three hours distant from Salonica. Reinforcements of 300 men and two guns proceeded thither to-day.

ROCKEFELLER REPORT FALSE.

Not to Give $10,000,000 to Pension Clergymen "at This Time."

This was sent out by The Associated Press yesterday:

"The Associated Press announced to-day that it had investigated the statement published yesterday that John D. Rockefeller was about to give $10,000,000 to establish a pension fund for retired clergymen, and that it is authorized to say that Mr. Rockefeller has no such purpose at this time."

Chicago Car Companies Ask Only Time to Decide Values.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 18.—"We are willing to sell to the city upon fair terms, but we require more time to determine definitely the value of our properties," was the answer given to the city by the traction representatives to-day. It was decided upon at a joint meeting between the Chicago City Railway and the Union Traction representatives and Mayor Dunne and Clarence S. Darrow.

Both the Union Traction and the City Railway Company said they were having figures prepared in New York which would show their tangible assets and their earning capacity. When these are ready they would talk business with the city.

BOSTON, May 18.—The Common Council to-night adopted a resolution condemning the discrimination practiced by landlords against families with children, and inviting the Legislature to take some action to prevent this encouragement to race suicide.

ASK $2,500,000 FOR HARVARD.

President Roosevelt Signs Appeal for Teachers' Salaries.

Pointing out that the Corporation of Harvard University, "facing deficits in seven of the last nine years, has now cut down general expenses to the danger point," and reduced the standard of salaries of new teachers, a committee of Harvard men, including President Roosevelt and Bishop Lawrence, issued yesterday an appeal for an endowment of at least $2,500,000 before next commencement "to increase the present totally inadequate amount available for the salaries of the teaching staff of the college."

The circular which conveys the appeal is signed by Bishop William Lawrence, Francis L. Higginson, Charles S. Fairchild, Henry S. Howe, Francis R. Appleton, Augustus Hemenway, Robert Bacon, Theodore Roosevelt, James J. Storrow, and Benjamin Carpenter. The signers announce that in the past few months contributions, aggregating $1,800,000 have been made to the fund by alumni and friends of the college.

Another LL. D. for Roosevelt.

WORCESTER, Mass., May 18.—President Roosevelt will receive the degree of LL. D. from Clark University on June 21, when he comes to attend commencement. This was announced to-day by Carroll D. LOTOS CLUB'S GOOD-BYE TO AMBASSADOR REID

Depew and Stedman Praise the Departing Diplomat.

HE IN TURN LAUDS CHOATE

Gives Newspapers Advice as to Treatment of Foreign Complications—Seth Low and Others Talk.

With all its long history of hospitality dispensed the Lotos Club never gave a more heartwhole godspeed to one of its members than that tendered last night to Whitelaw Reid, who is soon to set sail for England as the Ambassador of this country to the Court of St. James. Mr. Reid, in his speech, paid high tribute to Joseph H. Choate, whom he will succeed, and to Gen. Horace Porter, whom Mr. Reid preceded in Paris.

The banqueting halls, in which every available seat was occupied, were lavishly decorated with dog-wood blossoms and American Beauty roses. The menu was of special design and etched on Japanese vellum. In the centre was a portrait of the guest of honor, surrounded by lotos flowers, and in the corners were vignettes representing the principal events in the career of Mr. Reid.

One of these vignettes showed him as a war correspondent, another showed The Tribune tower. There also was a sketch of the house occupied by Mr. Reid while he was in Paris, and under this was inscribed "Minister to France, 1889 to 1892." The remaining sketch showed the Palace of St. James's with the inscription "Special Ambassador to the Victoria Jubilee, 1897; Special Ambassador to the Coronation of King Edward VII., 1902."

Frank R. Lawrence presided, and with him at the guests' table, besides Mr. Reid, were Clark Howell of The Atlanta Constitution, Michael H. De Young of The San Francisco Chronicle, Edmund Clarence Stedman, Senator Depew, Seth Low, the Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, the Rev. Dr. Minot J. Savage, Dr. William Wallace Walker, William H. McElroy, the Rev. Dr. Donald Sage Mackay, Melville E. Stone, and George H. Daniels.

When it came time for the speechmaking, President Lawrence referred to Mr. Reid's fourteen years of service as President of the club.

MR. LAWRENCE'S SPEECH.

Continuing, Mr. Lawrence said:

"To-night we hail Whitelaw Reid as the Ambassador of the United States to the Court of St. James's, the most distinguished station which can be held by an American abroad. The relations between the United States and Great Britain are so important that they cannot be overestimated. In a large sense these two great countries hold in their keeping the peace, the advancement, and the welfare of the civilized world. We may be assured that through no act of our distinguished guest will that peace or welfare ever be endangered.

"The respect in which Americans are held abroad has been greatly enhanced, and the American name has been infinitely dignified, by the presence in London to represent our people there of Motley and Lowell and Phelps and John Hay, not to mention the illustrious Choate, who is now about returning home. The high level which these men have established can only be maintained by sending to succeed them such a man as Whitelaw Reid."

Mr. Reid received a tremendous ovation when he got up to speak, and throughout his remarks were punctuated with applause. This was accentuated when he spoke on the value of minding one's business in international affairs. Then he remarked that he was preaching as usual, and trying to reform the tough old world, like his old friends Clark Howell, Charles R. Miller, and Gen. Taylor.

MR. REID'S SPEECH.

In beginning his speech, Mr. Reid recalled bygone days of the Lotos Club and referred to the many distinguished guests from abroad whom he had helped to welcome. He mentioned Canon Kingsley, James Anthony Froude, and Wilkie Collins.

"But why," he said, "should I prolong these reminiscences? We could never recount them all. Matthew Arnold, that rarest Greek in the later English world of letters; Sir Edwin Arnold and Sir Henry M. Stanley, Edmund Yates and George Augustus Sala, and dear old Tom Hughes, whom you never could learn to call anything but Tom Brown, and Sir Henry Irving belong to the earlier days. William S. Gilbert and Sir Arthur Sullivan came while "Pinafore" and the "Pirates of Penzance" were young. In later years the list of Englishmen you have made your guests is far too long for the briefest recital.

"Increasing cares and duties have of late made me a very unworthy member of the club. I am almost ashamed to recall the fact that the last time I stood before you was to thank you for the welcome you gave me on my return from a post whence my colleagues and myself had brought home peace, with national expansion.

"May I add with reference to the new appointment whose duties I am now about to undertake that far the most gratifying thing about it is the way it has been received? We have been living in a strenuous time. No man in this great metropolis and in my place could well escape an active part in the incessant controversies and turmoil of the last third of a century, and my critics, I believe, have generally agreed that I was apt to assume at any rate my full share of them. After such a life to have this appointment made by the President of my country without the filing of a single recommendation, and approved by the Senate without a dissenting voice, and received by the press and the public with such apparently general cordiality, fills me with a sobering sense of responsibility beyond anything I have ever felt before, and with earnest aspirations that all this generous confidence may prove in the end not to have been wholly misplaced.

THANKS THE EDITORS.

"I, too, take the opportunity before this club, so largely made up of members of the press and others of literary and artistic pursuits, to say further that [illegible]

among whom I have lived and worked and done my share of fighting for more than a generation.

"May I presume a little on this? I would like to take the liberty of pointing out that other work may now bring different duties. No one, I trust, will ever find me unmindful of the rights and the just claims of the profession I honor most in the world and am the proudest to have served. No man can have spent his life in newspaper work without being led by all his habits and instincts to sympathy with newspaper workers and a readiness to facilitate their efforts. And yet may I hint to the General Manager of our wonderful Associated Press service, whose wary eye I see upon me, and to others, in less responsible places, who may have chanced to think of the matter hitherto with less scrupulous care than Mr. Stone himself and his representatives in the great capitals always show, that there may, in fact, there must come a time when it will be my duty to report first and exclusively to the Government instead of reporting to the newspapers!

"It is perfectly true that an open course is the best; that a free people wish to know from day to day what is being done in their name and by their authority; that our Government is not adapted to secrecy and does not like to make a mystery of its movements and its policy.

"But the Japanese have been showing, on a great scale, that there is a duty in war which under any sagacious government must come before the duty of furnishing bulletins for the daily press. Diplomacy, if it is to be sagacious or successful, even the diplomacy of a republic, must be somewhat in the same class. Neither can always be advantageously conducted coram publico.

"There is another phase of our newspaper activities that merits more serious consideration from all of us than we generally give it. The free press largely rules a free country. It may make peace or war; it has done both. But it is quite capable of fomenting very grave difficulties which it never desired or intended or even thought of. In our great distances and isolation between two oceans, and general feeling of remoteness and elbow-room and independence, it has sometimes been apt in moments of excitement to measure its words as little in dealing with a high-spirited and sensitive nation as with a candidate for town constable or the Board of Aldermen. Is it not time for the press, when it exercises the power, to recognize also the obligations of rule—consideration, moderation, and a scrupulous regard both for the rights and the susceptibilities of others?

COMMENT ON FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

"We have ourselves resented at times with unwonted asperity the slightest foreign interference in our own domestic discussions. More than once those of us of maturer years have seen this country lashed into a fury almost belligerent merely by the critical or carping references in foreign newspapers. It might be well now, in some quiet hour, to consider the other side and reflect how they may feel over our free-spoken comment on their affairs. Have we not, in fact, taken sides, habitually, and even vehemently, on almost every foreign question that comes to our notice?

"But let us change the subject. Whoever looks back over the earlier records of this city will find that there were two New Yorkers, then in the prime of active work, among us whom you summoned again and again to your table, and whose sparkling oratory was your constant delight. For many years they have been serving the Republic abroad with conspicuous ability and distinguished success. They will soon be on the ocean homeward bound, and it warms the heart to think of the greeting you will give them.

When, then, by all Fame's banners fanned,
Our laureled wanderers come to land.

"Meanwhile, Mr. President, and gentlemen, may I hope to see you from time to time in London? You will know where to find me, and you will not need my assurance that I shall try to make you as welcome as you have made me. The great kindness you extend now, and the confidence you bestow are purely on credit. I shall have deserved it all only if while taking the greatest care for our own interests I can still help maintain in full force that good understanding between ourselves and Great Britain which has grown clearer and stronger at each step of our advance in the paths that have been steadily broadening before us every year and month since our peace with Spain."

E. C. STEDMAN'S AMBITIONS.

Mr. Lawrence then introduced Edmund Clarence Stedman as a former editor of The Tribune and a warm personal friend of Mr. Reid. Mr. Stedman said he expected to be summoned years ago to such an affair as the present one, and caused much laughter when he said that his first expectation was twenty-one years ago, when William Walter Phelps carried off the prize. Fate, he said, fixed matters better than mortals, for she preferred that Mr. Reid should be first Minister, then Special Ambassador, and then, in the ripeness of his years and the height of his powers, go abroad under the happiest circumstances.

Mr. Stedman drew a graphic picture of his life as war correspondent in 1861, and thereafter with Mr. Reid, Dean Howells, and John Hay.

"When I think of the work we did at that time for $20 or $30 a week, with $30 for expenses and an allowance of one horse, the pulsed experiences of the present war correspondents at large salaries and with military escorts make me tired," said Mr. Stedman.

Mr. Stedman said he remembered when Mr. Reid at a dinner of millionaires in his house introduced him as "an amateur socialist," and Dean Howells as "a parlor anarchist." In conclusion he said, turning to the guest of the evening:

"Go to your new post of honor, and God bless you. You have not arrived at the summit of your ambitions, and whatever they may be they will not be stayed. I would just like to be at the gates of heaven if Peter attempted to put any obstacle in the way of your entering when you applied for admission."

Senator Depew was the next speaker. Speaking of the Diplomatic and Consular Service of this country as compared with others, he said:

"Nothing more marks the difference between the United States and these older ecuntries than our methods of diplomatic appointments. We have no trained diplomacy, and never had. We have no schools for education in the Consular Service. In this service and in the minor positions of diplomacy throughout the world, we have suffered loss and mortification. Bishop Potter has said that in his voyage around the world he found in the East our Consular and diplomatic representatives could converse only on the inadequacy of their salary to meet their expenses, while they knew nothing of the people or the country among whom they lived.

"But he said this want was supplied by an American official who was equal to all requirements of the Consular and Diplomatic Service, who possessed and could intelligently give his traveling countrymen the information of the people, their habits, the country, its commerce, its places of interest, and its history. This well-informed and enterprising American is invariably the representative of the Standard Oil Company. Though a Bishop of the Church, and notwithstanding the recent outcry against Standard Oil money for religious and missionary purposes, the Bishop accepted with gratitude this tainted information.

"When we come, however, to the higher walks of diplomacy, to our representatives at the great capitals of the world, we find that the versatility of Americans and their experience have given us great diplomats without a school of diplomacy."

Addresses were made also by Seth Low, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, William H. McElroy, and Clark Howell.

Union League to Say Good-bye to Reid.

One of the last of the farewell banquets tendered to Whitelaw Reid before his departure for the Court of St. James's will be given at the Union League Club by a number of his warmest personal friends in the organization on the evening of Wednesday, May 24. The gathering will be one of the most representative of professional, social, and financial circles ever held in the clubhouse.

A WARNING TO TRUSTS ON CANAL, SAYS CANNON

Thinks President Only Meant to Forestall Combined Bidding.

TARIFF MEN ARE DISTURBED

Do Not Expect Revision Will Be Forced, However — Hemenway Explains the Deficiency.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Several Republican leaders in Congress who have come to Washington since the announcement of the President's intention to have the Panama Canal Commission purchase materials in the markets of the world are very much disturbed.

Speaker Cannon and Senator Hemenway were among the callers to-day at the White House. While both declared that the canal question was not discussed with the President, neither hesitated to state his disapproval of the policy. The Speaker was among the most pronounced of the stand-patters in the last Congress and, since adjournment, has insisted that the tariff schedules should not be overhauled.

Mr. Cannon regards the President's declaration as an admonition that any effort to combine in this country to force the Government to purchase at exorbitant prices will be met by going into the foreign markets rather than as a fixed purpose to invite competition from abroad. He declares that there will be no difficulty in getting supplies at home cheaper than those of equal quality can be got in foreign markets.

Senator McCumber of North Dakota said that if there should be combinations to force the Government to pay exorbitant prices he would approve the policy outlined by the President and Secretary Taft. He feels confident, however, that such a condition will not arise.

Representative Dalzell of Pennsylvania is outspoken against purchase in foreign markets, even if they could be had at lower prices. He sees no greater reason or necessity for purchasing materials abroad for the canal than for battleships. Taxes collected from the American people should not be expended, he says, in promoting the manufactures of other countries.

The "stand-pat" leaders do not fear that the threat will force tariff revision at the approaching session. They believe that a reduction in expenditures is what is neded to arrest the growing deficit.

Mr. Hemenway, who has been at the head of the Appropriation Committee of the House since the elevation of Mr. Cannon, declares that if the departments kept within their appropriations there would not be a deficiency.

"This practice of anticipating revenues has become so common," said Mr. Hemenway, "that clerks, of their own motion, have created deficiencies without consulting the head of a department."

There are three sources of deficiency, Mr. Hemenway says. Constructing naval vessels more rapidly than was expected by Congress, thus involving unexpected purchases for armor plate and armament and creating a deficiency of about $14,000,000, and rush work on coast defenses in which about $6,000,000 has been expended are two. The other is the expenditure by different departments of greater sums than were appropriated by Congress. Mr. Hemenway overlooks the fact that Congress was very liberal with the free rural delivery, and as a consequence there is a deficiency in the Post Office Department of about $16,000,000, fully $9,000,000 above the estimate.

QUARREL OVER TARIFF.

New York Manufacturers Pass Lie at Atlanta Convention.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 18.—The closing session of the National Association of Manufacturers was marked by a clash between Delegates George P. Seabury of New York and E. P. Metcalf of Auburn, N. Y. At the close of Mr. Seabury's speech, which was a plea for protection, Mr. Metcalf arose and charged that Mr. Seabury had made a false statement when he declared that American manufacturers were selling abroad cheaper than they were at home. Mr. Metcalf made his statement as manager of the International Harvester Company, and declared he knew whereof he spoke.

Mr. Seabury declared that he had not made the statement attributed to him.

"I said," he went on, "that foreign manufacturers were selling agricultural implements in this country cheaper than American manufacturers could do. That is all I did say."

"You said what I said you said, and I say the statement was a false one."

"I didn't," came back from Mr. Seabury, and the latter then walked up to where Mr. Metcalf was sitting and demanded a retraction.

The Chair rapped for order and the delegates came between the gentlemen before blows were struck.

Later Mr. Seabury was seen and he said: "He lied, that's all; and I told him so, didn't I?"

Mr. Metcalf declared: "Mr. Seabury made a false statement, and I told him so."

The association selected New York for the convention of 1906, re-elected D. M. Parry of Indiana as President, and ordered that the association shall be incorporated under the laws of New York State. Resolutions were adopted opposing anti-injunction legislation, denouncing the eight-hour law, and favoring gold exchange with silver-using countries.

At a banquet of the association this evening Secretary of Commerce Metcalf declared that the South was growing in commercial importance and manufactures more rapidly than any other section of the country. Her population and every product of the soil, her iron and coal production, showed a higher percentage of increase than the United States as a whole.

Speaking of European competition in the markets of the world, he dwelt upon the slow progress of exports of manufactured goods from this country. American manufacturers, he said, had made little effort to extend their markets abroad; European competitors of the United States produced and packed their goods in form and conditions suited to the markets which they were intended to supply; there was a lack, particularly in Asia, South America, and Africa, of financial institutions and machinery through which business transactions might be conducted, and of direct shipping facilities to the countries where competitive markets are to be found and developed.

Secretary Metcalf had spent the day under the care of a physician, suffering from a malarial attack.

BANKERS FOR ROOSEVELT.

Savings Bank Association Refuses to Condemn Rate-Making Policy.

The members of the Savings Bank Association of New York gave emphatic approval yesterday to President Roosevelt's campaign for Federal regulation of railroad rates. The matter came up somewhat out of the regular order of things in a resolution presented by Charles A. Miller of Utica, opposing the granting of further powers to the Inter-State Commerce Commission. This brought ex-Congressman Coombs of Brooklyn to his feet.

"I am a Democrat," he said, "but I most emphatically object to this resolution being passed until we have thoroughly debated it. There are two mighty forces at work in the railroad-rate situation, and I will not be for anything to tie the hands of President Roosevelt. He is doing his best to make the railroads do what he thinks is right. He may be wrong, but if he is he will find it out in time, and I ask in all earnestness that if we cannot sustain the President we do nothing that will weaken his hands."

Cheers followed Mr. Coombs's speech, and the resolution was tabled.

The following are the officers elected by the association: President—W. B. Van Rensselaer, Albany Savings Bank; Vice Presidents—James McMahon, Emigrant Savings Institution; E. S. Dawson, Onondaga Savings Bank, and Charles E. Hanaman, Troy Savings Bank; Treasurer—Samuel D. Styles, North River Savings Bank, New York; Secretary—W. G. Conklin, Franklin Savings Bank, New York. Thomas Balfe of Newburg was elected a member of the Executive Committee.

RAMSEY'S COAL LAND DEAL.

Kanawha Property in His Control—Didn't Tell Roosevelt About Steel.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, May 18.—That the Little Kanawha syndicate with its rich coal lands belongs to Joseph Ramsey, Jr., and his friends, and not to George J. Gould, was indicated here to-day when Ramsey's representative paid the Union Trust Company $450,000, lifting the last note held by J. M. Guffey against the West Virginia coal lands. This explains the hasty trip of Ramsey to Pittsburg yesterday, and his conference with the Gould people.

The deal which Mr. Ramsey has closed was most profitable. The Little Kanawha syndicate paid $47.50 an acre for 57,000 acres and has been offered $100 an acre for the property.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 18.—Joseph Ramsey, Jr., President of the Wabash Railroad, to-night denied the story that he had given President Roosevelt information which led to the Government's determination to buy steel products wherever it could get the most satisfactory prices.

"The story is absolutely without foundation," said Mr. Ramsey. "I have not discussed this or any other matter with Mr. Roosevelt recently. I have not even seen the President for some time. These stories that I have interfered with the business of the Steel Trust are made out of whole cloth."

"Did you talk to Secretary Taft on this point?" Mr. Ramsey was asked.

"I do not remember having done so," he replied. "I have met Mr. Taft twice recently, and we talked about a variety of matters, but only in a friendly way. I have certainly made no effort to interfere with the business of the Steel Trust."

BIBLE AT EUCHRE PARTIES.

Housetop Evangelist Will Visit Card Players and Read Selections.

Special to The New York Times.

YORK, Penn., May 18.—The Rev. Jacob Kurtz of this city, the "House-Top Evangelist," has started from here to attend the meeting of the German Baptists at Bristol, Tenn., on June 2. He will walk, ride, and preach all the way. He will do some house-top preaching, and will visit all the towns and cities along the route, going into homes and factories to preach.

Mr. Kurtz took with him only an umbrella, a small Bible, and a bundle of cards, which he will tack to door posts of homes that he visits.

"I will find out as I go along," said Mr. Kurtz, "where they are going to hold a euchre party, and I will say to them there is one visitor you forgot to invite. I will go in and sit down and tell them to get their Bibles, and I will have them look up references in the Bible. By the time I am through with them there won't be any time left for the game."

ATTACK FAMILY WITH EGGS.

Crowd of Youths Pelts Young Hymen, His Father, and Sister.

Thirty young men attacked Jacob Hymen in front of his home, 917 East One Hundred and Eighty-third Street, about 10:30 o'clock last night, and also his father and sister Annie when they responded to his cries for help. When they tired of beating young Hymen and his father, some of them ran across the street to Rosenbaum's grocery, where they stole a bread knife and several dozen eggs.

With the eggs they attacked the Hymens, forcing them to retreat to the house and scream for the police out of the windows, dodging back whenever the eggs landed too near their heads.

Policeman Muldoon of the Tremont Station dispersed the attacking party, but made no arrests. The Hymens say that the attack was unprovoked.

Iowa Bank Clerk Took $5,000 for Invalid Boy's Trip.

DES MOINES, Iowa, May 18.—Carl M. Spencer, an employe of the Des Moines National Bank, was indicted by the Federal Grand Jury to-day on a charge of embezzling $5,000 of the bank's money.

For several years annually Spencer had been taking an invalid son East for medical treatment. Being unable to meet the expenses of the trip this year, he says he took the money to save the boy's life. Another clerk suspected of the theft and dismissed is exonerated by Spencer's confession.

THE CARONIA, OFF SAND, ON WAY TO LIVERPOOL

Tugs Get the Cunarder Free at High Tide.

BIG LINER IS UNINJURED

The Cunarder Caronia, which went aground on Flynn's Knoll, just outside of Sandy Hook, on Tuesday afternoon, was pulled back into deep water yesterday morning. The big ship was undamaged, and at high tide late in the afternoon the Caronia weighed anchor and proceeded on her voyage to Liverpool.

After the failure on Wednesday night to float the Cunarder, it was thought that it would be necessary to lighten her, and possibly transfer the passengers before she could be pulled back into navigable water. It was decided, however, to make one more effort to float the vessel, so at high tide yesterday morning, which was at 5 o'clock, six big ocean-going tugs and the pilotboat New York made fast to the ship, and immediately began the second attempt to release her from the bed of sand in which she was stuck.

For nearly three hours the tugs and pilotboats strained and pulled before the great ship began slowly to move. At 8:10 o'clock the liner was afloat and immediately put back to Gravesend Bay, where she anchored to await the favorable tide in the afternoon.

Later in the day, Vernon H. Brown, the Cunard agent in New York, said that an examination of the ship showed that she was undamaged, and that the reason the liner was not floated on the two previous attempts to free her was that the tide flowed at such a terrific rate that the tugs not only had to pull the vessel, but had to fight their own way against the adverse current.

The passengers, Mr. Brown added, had taken the delay very philosophically, and that everything was all right so far as they were concerned. It was also said yesterday that the reason that the Lucania, which is berthed at the foot of Jane Street, was unable to communicate by wireless telegraphy with the Caronia Tuesday night, was that a wireless telegraph company, in attempting to establish communication with the liner, interfered with the wireless currents of the Marconi apparatus, which system is in use on the Cunarders.

The Caronia, which was scheduled to reach Liverpool next Wednesday, should reach that port, barring accidents, next Friday night. As the Caronia does not carry mail, the mishap will result in no postal complications.

The Caronia crossed the Bar at 5:50 o'clock. Mr. Brown received the following Marconigram from Capt. Warr at about 7 o'clock:

"Everything working satisfactorily. All well."

The message was received at the Marconi wireless telegraph station at Babylon, L. I.

DOUGLAS REPORT NOT FINAL.

FALL RIVER, Mass., May 18.—The United Textile Council met to-day on receiving an official copy of the decision of Gov. Douglas as arbiter of the question of an advance in wages for the cotton mills operatives. At the conclusion of the meeting the following statement was given out:

"We accept the Governor's decision with the same confidence that we placed in him when he was appointed arbitrator. It should be understood, however, that the findings only cover the period from Jan. 20 to April 1, 1905, and will in no way affect future wage schedules. The whole question will be taken up by the council at an early date."

Colored Theological Class Orator.

Special to The New York Times.

ORANGE, N. J., May 18.—A class of forty-three theological students was graduated to-day from the Drew Theological Seminary, in Madison. The exercises were held in the seminary chapel. Channing Heggie Tobias, a colored man, from Augusta, Ga., was one of the class orators. He is the only colored man in the class. There were ten graduates from New York State. One of these, Charles Scott Deming of Washingtonville, goes at once to Korea, where he will do missionary work.

SALE TERMINATES SATURDAY

Annual Spring Sale of

EXCHANGED PIANOLAS

GROUP I. $150 $15 down and $7 a month

GROUP II. $175 $20 down and $8 a month

GROUP III. $200 $20 down and $10 a month

Persons who have felt that they would like to own a Pianola but have hesitated on account of the price, will have no more favorable opportunity than the present. While the Pianolas in this sale have seen more or less use, they have all been so thoroughly renewed at the factory that most people could not distinguish them from absolutely new instruments until the difference was pointed out.

Every Pianola purchased on these special terms is thoroughly protected by the manufacturers' complete guarantee. Furthermore, at any time within three months, the instrument may be returned and the full purchase price will be allowed on a new Metrostyle Pianola or Pianola Piano, should such an exchange seem desirable.

Also a lot of Piano-Players of various makes at $75 to $125
Monthly payments to suit purchaser

Annual Spring Sale of

THIS offering of Uprights and Grands was announced to surpass any similar sale that New York had heretofore known. Experienced buyers and judges of piano values have enthusiastically endorsed this assertion, and the many who have already bought now realize that they have obtained the best value for their money that it has ever been possible to secure.

If you have in view some favorite make of piano, it will be wise to see just what this sale offers in that particular make, for if you can find here the instrument you want, you can be sure of securing it at a remarkably low price. The best known makers are represented and the pianos will be found in exceptionally fine condition. This uniformly high grade is due to the fact that they were received in part payment for the new Pianola Piano and not because their owners had discarded them for any intrinsic fault.

In view of the unprecedented character of this sale, it will be found well worth attending so long as there is a single piano left.

Prices range from $90 upwards. Moderate monthly payments can be arranged when desired.
Specially easy installment terms will be extended to those who desire to purchase a piano in connection with a Pianola.

LOW PRICE FOR KANSAS OIL.

$20,000,000 for Pipe Line to Beat Standard, Says Campbell.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Representative Campbell of Kansas, who introduced a resolution in the House last session for an investigation of the Standard Oil operations in the Kansas and Oklahoma fields, was a caller at the White House to-day. With him was David Mulvane, Republican National Committeeman of Kansas.

"Since the trouble began," said Mr. Campbell, "the Standard has lowered the purchasing price for the best crude oil produced in Kansas from $1.36 to 57 cents a barrel. At that price it is not worth while to sell it, and the people of our oil regions have returned to agriculture with renewed vigor, intending to hold their oil until they can get a fair price.

"We have secured pledges of subscriptions for the pipe line to the Gulf, amounting to more than $7,000,000. About $20,000,000 may be needed, but I think it is only a question of time until we carry the project to a successful conclusion."

JERSEY'S HEROES HONORED.

Shaft Unveiled in North Carolina in Memory of Ninth Volunteers.

NEW-BERNE, N. C., May 18.—A handsome monument was unveiled in the New-Berne National Cemetery to-day commemorating the valor of the Ninth New Jersey Volunteer Infantry in the civil war. The monument is seventeen feet high and is surmounted by a figure of a soldier.

Addresses were made by Gen. James Stewart, Jr., of New Jersey, Gov. Glenn of North Carolina, and Gov. Stokes of New Jersey. Ex-Confederate soldiers helped decorate the monument and the soldiers' graves. Among the occurrences of the day were the return of the captured Beaufort County Plowboy flag and the presentation by the visitors of a United States flag to the Confederate veterans.

MOROCCO SNUBS FRANCE.

German Influence Paramount According to Berlin Paper.

BERLIN, May 18.—The Sultan of Morocco, according to the Cologne Gazette to-day, has refused all the French requests except that 2,000 troops be placed under French instruction.

Count von Tattenbach-Ashold, the head of the German mission, is content with the reception accorded the mission, and with the real character of German influence at the Moroccan capital.

DIED ON HIS WEDDING TRIP.

P. S. Wescott of Jersey City Victim of Pneumonia at Denver.

News was received in Jersey City yesterday of the death at Denver, Col., of Philip S. Wescott, a broker, residing at 38 Bentley Avenue, while on his wedding trip. Three weeks ago he married Miss Margaret Townsend of Highland Falls, N. Y. They started from that place for a tour of the West.

The dispatch to Mr. Wescott's family merely stated that death resulted from a sudden pulmonary attack. Mr. Wescott was thirty-three years old and was in business in New York.

NORWEGIAN RADICALS WIN.

Storthing Passes Bill for Separate Consular Service.

CHRISTIANIA, Norway, May 18.—The Storthing to-day unanimously adopted without discussion the bill providing for the establishment of a separate Norwegian consular service.

Previous to this action ex-Premier Hagerup moved to postpone consideration of the measure until the electorate had an opportunity of pronouncing on it, but the motion was rejected by 80 to 6 votes.

While the action of the Norwegian Storthing need not lead to any serious rupture between Norway and Sweden, it is fraught with dangerous possibilities. The whole subject of an independent Consular Service for Norway has been under consideration by a Royal Commission, composed of prominent Swedes and Norwegians, which recently reported its findings. These, however, have not yet been passed upon by the Government.

The present action of the Storthing is a decided victory for the Norwegian radicals, who won another triumph only a few years ago when they succeeded in having the union emblem removed from the Norwegian flag. Their aim is to have the union replaced by an offensive and defensive alliance between the two countries.

Approves Dismissal of Officer.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The President has approved the sentence of dismissal of First Lieut. Albert C. Osborne, Twenty-sixth Infantry, convicted by court-martial of disobedience, absence without leave, conduct to the prejudice of good order and military discipline, embezzlement, and conduct unbecoming an officer and gentleman. The dismissal will take effect on May 20.

PLEA OF HOCH'S COUNSEL.

Recites and Gives the Jury Copies of "Lead, Kindly Light."

CHICAGO, May 18.—Attorney Plotke, in his plea for Johann Hoch, on trial for wife murder, begged the jury for a direct acquittal.

In concluding his address he said: "I ask you to take with you to the jury-room a few lines of poetry and consider them. With these verses in your minds, I believe you will give this man the liberty which he should have."

The attorney then recited two verses of "Lead, Kindly Light." After handing each of the jurymen a copy of the entire poem, he thanked them and closed his argument.

PRESBYTERIANS FOR MOFFATT

Chosen Moderator of the General Assembly at Winona Lake.

WINONA LAKE, Ind., May 18.—Dr. James D. Moffatt, President of the Washington and Jefferson College, Washington, Penn., was elected Moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly this afternoon.

There was no opposition. Dr. Moffatt's name was presented by Dr. Robert McKenzie of New York, and seconded by Dr. John H. Converse of Philadelphia, and Dr. John F. Hende of Jefferson City, Mo.

GOMPERS'S MISSION A FAILURE SO FAR

Quits Chicago, but Will Return to Try to End Strike.

DRIVERS ARE IGNORING SHEA

Negotiating with Team Owners—Street Fights Resumed—Parents March Pupils to School.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 18.—President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor left to-night for Dayton, Ohio. He said he had accomplished little toward ending the strike.

"If the trouble still exists when I return to Chicago next Saturday," he said, "I will take up the matter where I left off this afternoon and continue my efforts to bring about a settlement of the controversy."

He said the employers were firm in their decision not to arbitrate or make any concessions, adding that he would not dare call the strike off unless something was conceded to the men. The employers are not likely to take any such step.

Some of them have hired the strike breakers permanently and business seemed to-day to almost be at its normal condition. Several hundred white men arrived to-day under contract to drive trucks.

The teamsters are still negotiating with the large team owners on the question of arbitrating whether or not goods shall be delivered to boycotted houses. Shea opposes this arbitration, but the men are going ahead with their negotiations just the same, and there is a fair prospect of the two sides coming to an agreement. If they do the strike will fall to the ground, and Shea will be completely discredited.

President Shea was the chief witness in the injunction hearing to-day before Master in Chancery Sherman. He refused to answer most of the questions put to him, declaring that his answers would tend to incriminate him.

For the first time in several days riots were renewed to-day, and there were numerous fights between non-union men and teamsters. A disturbance at Twenty-second and Indiana Avenue blocked all traffic and delayed street cars for half an hour. The police were compelled to use their clubs vigorously to disperse the crowd, and they made several arrests. The non-union driver for the wholesale grocery firm of Steele, Wedel & Co., who was the innocent cause of the outbreak, was severely beaten.

In some portions of the South Side a vigorous antagonism to union men has developed, and the teamster wearing a union button in driving through that quarter meets with about the same treatment as a non-union man does when passing the union teamsters' headquarters. Several union teamsters were attacked and beaten to-day near Twenty-sixth Street and Wentworth Avenue and their union buttons were torn off.

Parents of six children, who have taken part in the recent public school strikes because of the delivery of coal by non-union men, were arraigned to-day before Justice Hurley, and each parent was fined $20 and costs for not sending the children to school.

One hundred and fifty parents in the D. S. Wentworth school district formed a procession and marched their "strike fever" sons and daughters back to the school. The parents stayed near the building for some time to make sure that the children remained in school.

SAYS $200,000 IS MISSING.

Haight & Freese Company Receiver Charges Fraudulent Mismanagement.

BOSTON, May 18.—James D. Colt, receiver for the Haight & Freese Company, stockbrokers, to-day filed a bill of complaint in the United States Circuit Court here, in which he charged that $200,000 of the concern's funds is missing.

The bill was brought against William H. Lillis of Winchester, Vice President of the company, and against various Boston banking institutions. The receiver alleges in his bill that Lillis in collusion with George G. Turner and Harvey Watson, Directors, "has fraudulently mismanaged the affairs of the corporation, and diverted large sums to his own use, so that the concern is now insolvent." Receiver Colt declares that he has received information that Lillis withdrew money from the company and concealed it.

It is affirmed that the $200,000 has been deposited in various banks, and the receiver asked for an injunction restraining these institutions from paying money to any person but the receiver, and that they be ordered to turn over the funds to him.

NEW OREGON LINE.

Northern Pacific Ready to Build Into Clearwater Country.

Special to The New York Times.

TACOMA, Washington, May 18.—After waiting five years for settlement of the Clearwater controversy with the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company, the Northern Pacific announced to-day that it will build through Clearwater country in Idaho as soon as surveys can be completed. Part of the new line will extend from Lewiston to Grangeville, ninety miles. Three corps of Northern Pacific surveyors are now in the field.

Tiring of the delay, the citizens of Clearwater country have incorporated a company to build an electric line to Grangeville, using the right of way surveyed by the Northern Pacific several years ago. Surveyors for the electric line clashed yesterday with the Northern Pacific engineers, and the Northern Pacific's stakes were destroyed.

REFUSES TO GRANT DIVORCE.

Judge Says That There Was Collusion Between Mr. and Mrs. Griffiths.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, N. J., May 18.—Because of what he called collusion between husband and wife, by which the latter was to receive the lump sum of $5,000 and an allowance of $500 for counsel fees, Vice Chancellor Bergen to-day refused to grant a divorce to Mrs. Eleanor Griffiths of East Orange from her husband, Henry W. Griffiths, of New York.

According to the evidence Mrs. Griffiths based her claim for the divorce on the ground of desertion in August, 1898, while the couple were living at Bath Beach.

ANNOYED GERMAN CABINET.

Fleet Society's Zeal Not Appreciated—Two Generals Resign.

BERLIN, May 18.—A crisis has occurred in the German Fleet Society, causing the resignations of Gens. Menges and Helm, two of the highest active Directors of the society.

According to stories printed in the newspapers the trouble is due to the too far-reaching demands of the society in its propaganda for increasing the strength of the navy, which demands are embarrassing to the Government.

It is asserted that the highest patrons of the society received an intimation from the Government that it would be advisable to dampen the excessive ardor of the [illegible] propaganda.

COMPLAINS TO FRICK.

Favoritism Alleged in Fire Insurance for Equitable Clients.

Moses Tanenbaum of the insurance firm of I. Tanenbaum & Co., with offices in the Whitehall Building, Battery Place, sent yesterday to Chairman Henry C. Frick of the investigating committee of Equitable Directors, a letter in which he called the committee's attention to an alleged practice in the society of inserting in its bond and mortgage forms a provision compelling the holder of the mortgage to procure his fire insurance through a broker of the Equitable's selection. Coupled with this information was the statement that a near relative of an officer of the society is the broker through whom the fire insurance on property mortgaged to the Equitable is placed.

Deputy Superintendent of Insurance Robert Hunter, with Congressman Driscoll of Syracuse, Superintendent Hendricks's personal counsel, yesterday took up the examination of William H. McIntyre, Fourth Vice President of the Equitable, who was once private secretary to the late Henry B. Hyde. Mr. McIntyre was before the Deputy Superintendent all day. The Frick investigating committee also held a session yesterday in the Equitable Building.

In the Supreme Court yesterday Justice Greenbaum reserved decision on the application of William McCulloh of Alexander & Green to vacate the order to show cause why James H. Hyde, James W. Alexander, and Gage E. Tarbell should not be examined before trial in the suit of Herbert E. Tull of Philadelphia to enforce a distribution of the Equitable's surplus.

Policy Holders Here to Organize.

About thirty policy holders in various insurance companies yesterday answered the call sent out a couple of weeks ago by the law firm of Phelan, Toomey & Phelan of Bridgeport, Conn., for a meeting to organize a National policy holders' protective association. The meeting was held at the Waldorf, and a committee was appointed to incorporate or otherwise form as it saw fit an association on lines suggested. The committee will report at a meeting on Tuesday. The managers of the meeting said that they had received letters from William J. Bryan, Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell, Gov. La Follette of Wisconsin, and Gov. Folk of Missouri approving the movement for the protection of policy holders.

MRS. CHADWICK'S $3,000,000.

Had That Much Since 1900—Borrowed Only $900,000.

CLEVELAND, May 18.—Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick made a statement last night. She said:

"Since Jan. 1, 1901, I have had $3,210,000. Of this amount I borrowed $900,000, the remainder came from a trust fund and some sales.

"In April or May, 1901, I owed only $53,000. I paid that debt. I was then induced to make an investment of $400,000. I took no security for this, and the transaction, so far as I was concerned, never materialized. That put me in debt $400,000. Besides that I incurred a loss of $200,000. To meet these obligations I made large loans and paid heavy commissions.

"I have borrowed in all $900,000. I obtained $175,000 on my own note. A loan of $240,000 was secured by me on the indorsement of a prominent New Yorker.

"I have had an offer of bail by a prominent Clevelander, who wishes his name kept secret, but I shall not accept freedom on such a condition."

At the trustees' sale of the Chadwick homestead to-day, the highest bid was $35,000, made by W. W. Boynton on behalf of the Savings Deposit Bank and Trust Company of Elyria, Ohio, the holder of a mortgage which, with interest, amounts to $43,000. The property was appraised at $40,000.

CHURCHES IN A MERGER.

United Brethren Vote to Join Forces with Congregationalists.

TOPEKA, Kan., May 18.—The United Brethren General Conference to-night voted for union with the Congregational and the Methodist Churches. A hard fight was made on the adoption of the syllabus, in which the Pennsylvania delegation took the lead.

The opponents of the plan urged that its adoption would cause the United Brethren Church to lose its identity, and predicted that in case the merger were made the federation would finally be named Congregational.

Commissioners will be appointed to confer with representatives of the Methodist Protestant and the Congregational Churches. Whatever plan they agree on will be submitted to referendum vote by the members of the three churches.

CAPTAIN PAYS FOR HAZING.

British Cruiser's Commander Compulsorily Retired on Half Pay.

LONDON, May 18.—A recent case of "ragging" on board the British cruiser Kent has been promptly followed by the supersession of Capt. Douglas A. Gamble, her commander, who has been compulsorily retired on half pay for allowing such an occurrence on his ship, and by the punishment of others concerned in the affair.

The "ragging" occurred in the gunroom, where the midshipmen attempted to strip and flog an unpopular comrade. The latter promptly drew a revolver and shot one of the midshipmen in the mouth.

Answering a question on the subject in the House of Commons this afternoon, Admiralty Secretary Prettyman announced the punishments meted out to the culprits, and added that the Admiralty had determined to put down such practices.

PULLMAN CONTRACTS LAWFUL

Texas Court Decides That Sleeping Cars Are Public Benefit.

Special to The New York Times.

AUSTIN, Texas, May 18.—The Supreme Court rendered a decision to-day against the State in the anti-trust suit of the State against the Fort Worth and Denver City Railroad Company and the Pullman Car Company.

The suit was brought by the Attorney General to recover penalties amounting to $22,000, on the ground that the railroad and the car company were parties to an exclusive contract for the operation of Pullman cars over the line. The court holds that such a contract is not in restraint of trade and that it is a benefit to the public instead of an injury.

There are forty-eight similar suits pending against the Pullman Company and different railroad companies in the District Court here. They will now be dismissed.

DE ORO LEADS AT POOL.

Defeats Keogh in First Night's Play for Championship.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 18.—The match between Jerome Keogh of Buffalo and Alfredo De Oro of St. Louis, for the pool championship, began at Concert Hall to-night before a large crowd. De Oro finished the first night's play with a margin of twelve points in his favor, the score being: Keogh, 101; De Oro, 203. Each made two scratches. The conditions of the match call for 200 points a night for three nights. The score:

Keogh—15 12 15 14 15 7 6 0 6 9 9 0 6 0 0 7 5 10 4 13 2 10 15 1 0 8 2. Total, 191. Scratches, 2.

REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE FAILS TO ACT ON GAS

Decides to Await Action by Proposed State Commission.

MAY BE ORDER FROM ODELL

Chairman Halpin Says Board to be Named by Gov. Higgins Will Control Situation.

At the meeting of the Republican County Committee last night the organization was committed to the "stand pat" policy on the gas question. Chairman Gruber of the special committee appointed to confer with the Stevens committee said:

"The committee is advised, and believes, that the State Gas Commission will give the gas consumers of this city the relief which they asked from the Legislature. We ask that our committee be continued for the purpose of appearing before the State Commission, when appointed by Gov. Higgins, that we may make a determined effort to secure eighty-cent gas for the people of this city."

The motion of Mr. Gruber to continue the committee was adopted, and the meeting was then adjourned.

Samuel S. Koenig, leader of the Sixteenth District, whose district organization adopted resolutions calling upon Gov. Higgins to include gas among the subjects to be considered at the special session of the Legislature, and who announced that he intended to make a fight for the adoption of such a resolution in the Executive Committee of the Republican County Committee, arrived at the Fifth Avenue Hotel yesterday afternoon ten minutes after the Executive Committee had adjourned.

Mr. Koenig expressed himself as disappointed that he had not been in time to offer his resolution, but decided not to bring it before the County Committee last night. He explained that as he had been prevented from having the resolution debated in executive session he would not embarrass the organization by offering it in the open meeting of the County Committee.

"I think, however," said Mr. Koenig, "that our leaders will make a political mistake if they do not urge Gov. Higgins to press the cheap gas bill at the special session. That is the great issue on the east side."

It was rumored that President Halpin's desire to prevent action by the organization on the gas issue was due either to instructions from State Chairman Odell or to a suggestion from Gov. Higgins. Message from State Chairman Odell on the subject. When asked why he thought it was good policy for the county organization not to urge action by the Legislature on gas at the special session, Mr. Halpin said:

"The State Commission bill is broad enough to answer every purpose. The commission will be able to control the situation absolutely."

HEARING ON GAS BILLS.

Governor Sets May 24 as Date—More Measures Signed.

ALBANY, May 18.—Gov. Higgins this evening said that he would devote the main part of next week to hearings on bills. The following week will be fully occupied by conferences with heads of departments regarding items of the Appropriation bill.

At the request of the Consolidated Gas Company, several independent gas companies of Brooklyn, and some of the New York civic organizations, the Governor has assigned hearings on the afternoon of May 24 on bills creating an Electricity and Gas Commission and fixing the rate which the gas companies may charge the City of New York for the municipal supply at 75 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

Other hearings are assigned as follows: May 22, 3 P. M., Bedell bill for State inspection of locomotive boilers; May 24, 4 P. M., Goodsell bill, authorizing railroads to straighten curves and make minor changes, for the benefit of the New York Central and Erie; May 26, 3 P. M., Ambler bill, to abolish "Raines law hotels," to take effect immediately.

There have been no requests for hearings on either of the mortgage tax bills.

The Fraudulent Debtors' bill, which District Attorney Jerome succeeded in getting through the Legislature in the face of strong opposition, was signed to-day. Other bills signed were:

Assemblyman Agnew's, forbidding municipal officers of New York City to direct householders to use any patented article on any building or street, unless there can be fair opportunities for competition.

Senator Burr's, to retain employes on ferries acquired by the city without civil service examination.

The Senate Judiciary Committee bill relating to safeguards on elevators of buildings under construction.

Senator Hill's, authorizing the issue of child employment certificates by local health authorities on documentary evidence.

Senator Armstrong's bill extending to second-class cities the law of 1903 regulating the employment of children in selling newspapers.

Gov. Higgins has not signed Senator Elsberg's bill amending in several respects the election law as applicable to the metropolitan election district as reported last night. It was discovered this morning that two printed bill numbers had been confused. Gov. Higgins was not prepared to-day to announce his action on the Elsberg bill.

SANTA FE WANTS MORTON.

President Ripley Says Road Would Like to Get Him Back.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 18.—E. P. Ripley, President of the Santa Fé Railroad, when asked regarding the report that Paul Morton, Secretary of the Navy, and formerly Vice President of the Santa Fé, would renew his relations with the railroad upon leaving the Cabinet, said that nothing definite was known yet. He added that the Santa Fe would be happy to have Mr. Morton assume official relations with the road, that Mr. Morton would be in Chicago next week, and that some arrangement might be made at that time.

"I have been in California lately," said Mr. Ripley, "and have not seen Mr. Morton for three months, and do not know what his plans are. The Santa Fé would be glad to have him back."

FRANCIS'S SON IN FIGHT.

Auto Accident Results in Scrimmage with Farmer and Arrest.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, May 18.—An automobile adventure, the participants in which were Mrs. D. R. Francis, wife of the World's Fair President; her son, C. B. Francis; a party of young women, William D. Higgins, a chauffeur, and William Shields, a six-foot farmer, resulted in the arrest of young Francis, Higgins, and Shields on charges of assault.

The Francis automobile broke down and was stopped at the roadside for repairs when Shields came along in a buggy with his wife and daughter. The horse was frightened, and Shields alighted to lead it past. The horse refused to go past, and Shields got angry at the automobilists.

Francis and the farmer got into a fight, and both were considerably bruised. Francis is an athlete.

MRS. MAYBRICK A CRIPPLE.

Doctor Says Menial Prison Labor Left Her with an Injured Knee.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Mrs. Florence Maybrick was unable to appear and give testimony in the preliminary hearing to-day of the case of her mother, the Baroness von Roque, against D. W. Armstrong and others, for the recovery of lands in Kentucky and Virginia. The attorney for the Baroness von Roque submitted the affidavit of a New York physician stating that Mrs. Maybrick is suffering from rheumatism of the knee and threatened ossification of the bone.

In a letter to counsel the physician says the trouble is due no doubt to the menial labor his patient was compelled to perform while she was an inmate of the English prison.

CHURCH'S SLAP AT SENATE.

Iowa Congregationalists Only Mentioned President and the House.

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, May 18.—President Roosevelt and the House of Representatives were heartily commended for their efforts to curb the trusts by the sixth annual session of Iowa Congregational Churches to-day, but the United States Senate was intentionally omitted from the resolution.

The Rev. William Salter of Burlington, Iowa, drafted the resolution, and there was no dissenting voice when the vote was taken.

TEAMSTERS WON'T STRIKE.

Union Declines to Act with Rockmen and Excavators.

By a unanimous vote Local 506 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters has decided not to strike against Contractors' Protective Association in sympathy with the rockmen and excavators, thus averting a repetition in New York of the Chicago disturbances.

At the time the Rockmen and Excavators Union ordered the present strike it was confident that it would have the co-operation of the teamsters, but waited before it called out the entire membership of 26,000 until the Teamsters' Union would act. A strike of the teamsters would have been a serious matter, as it would have tied up all building operations, and they could have called on the other teamsters throughout the city belonging to the union to strike with them.

13th Cavalry Back from Philippines.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—The transport Logan arrived from Manila and Nagasaki to-day bringing home the Thirteenth Cavalry after two years in the Philippines. On board were Brigadier General V. W. S. McCaskey, who has been in charge of the post of Manila and now goes to Denver to take command of the Colorado post, and Brig. Gen. F. V. Robinson, who has been Lieutenant Colonel of the Thirteenth Cavalry, recently promoted and retired. The headquarters and Second Squadron of the Thirteenth Cavalry go to Fort Myer, the First Squadron going to Fort Riley.

WED BESIDE DEATHBED.

Mrs. Franks's Last Wish Was to See Daughter Married.

Miss Adelaide E. Franks and John W. Closterman were married beside the deathbed of the bride's mother, Mrs. Margaret Franks, in Jersey City, at 8 P. M. on Wednesday.

They had been engaged for some time, and the wedding was set for the end of June. Mrs. Franks, who was a widow, resided with her only daughter at 292 Varick Street. A week ago she was taken ill, and on Tuesday Dr. Dunkel, the attending physician, said that there was no hope of her recovery.

Mrs. Franks said she was prepared for death and had but one wish; that was to see her daughter married before she died. Mr. Closterman was at once notified, and the Rev. J. A. Brown was summoned. He married them in the presence of Mrs. Franks. Charles Closterman, a brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and Miss Dinie S. Sinton acted as bridesmaid.

At midnight, four hours after the wedding, Mrs. Franks died. The funeral services will be held at 8 P. M. on Friday.

Mr. Gerry's Cap Duly Recorded.

Elbridge T. Gerry's sealskin cap was formally recorded at the Custom House yesterday, as it has been every year for many years, preparatory to Mr. Gerry's trip to Europe. The "sealing act" of 1897 is very stringent in its prohibition of the entry of sealskins. Americans taking them to Europe must have them certified in order to avoid trouble upon their return to this country.

Harper's Book News

The Tyranny of the Dark

Hamlin Garland has boldly advanced into a new and unexplored field for romance, full of fascinating possibilities. He has pictured a delightful Western girl in a situation so strange that the whole story makes a daring departure from modern fiction. Seeming unrealities become startlingly real, and even the sceptical reader finds himself asking if these are unrealities after all.

"To all interested in a good, well planned, well told modern story, it will prove intriguing, fascinating, and thoroughly satisfying—a model of what a good novel should be."—Brooklyn Eagle.

The Marriage of William Ashe

"The most noteworthy heroine of English fiction since 'Becky Sharp,'" declares Life in praise of Lady Kitty in Mrs. Ward's great novel. It is a story that will endure—a masterpiece of modern English fiction. There is a breadth of sympathy, a delicacy of touch in the great moments of abandonment, a realness which makes the book not so much a picture of life as life itself.

"About 33⅓ per cent. of all children in the schools have defects of vision, interfering with the proper pursuit of their studies."

Many a child is blamed for a seeming dullness at school when the real trouble is in the eyesight.

ROJESTVENSKY TO LEAD HIS FLEET TO BATTLE

May Be Relieved by Birileff If He Reaches Vladivostok.

IS NERVOUS AND IRRITABLE

Fear He Would Not Agree with Fortress Generals—Exchange of Prisoners Arranged by Russia and Japan.

LONDON TIMES—NEW YORK TIMES.
Special Cable. Copyright, 1905.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 18.—A high official of the Naval Staff, discussing reports of a pending change in the command of the Baltic fleet, said to me today:

"Let us first set aside rumors that Rojestvensky has been compelled by sickness to abandon the command. He was on the sick list only two days in the whole two months off Madagascar.

"But his health, which never was good, certainly has undergone a terrible strain since he left St. Petersburg. His nerves are shattered, and a breakdown is probable. However, there is nothing immediately serious.

"We feel confident of his physical ability to retain the command long enough to engage the foe, and hope he will take the fleet to Vladivostok, but that accomplished, Rojestvensky will have more than fulfilled the arduous, glorious mission he undertook and be entitled to return to St. Petersburg and resume the post of Chief of the Naval Staff.

"Indeed, once at Vladivostok, Rojestvensky's usefulness will be greatly diminished. He is too nervous and irritable for harmonious co-operation with the commandant of the fortress and the other Generals there. In all probability Birileff will relieve him as soon as Rojestvensky arrives at Vladivostok."

The date of Birileff's departure is kept secret, but I hear he will be allowed ample time to prepare for the journey. This, if correct, implies a further sojourn of the fleet in Southern waters.

I understand that an exchange of prisoners has been arranged between St. Petersburg and Tokio.

BIRILEFF SUMMONED BY CZAR.

Fleet of Junks May Be Waiting to Provision Russian Ships.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 18.—Emperor Nicholas to-day summoned Vice Admiral Birileff to Tsarskoe-Selo.

TOKIO, May 18.—The reported departure of Vice Admiral Rojestvensky from Hon-Koe Bay northward renews the popular expectation of a naval action in the near future. It is believed that Admiral Rojestvensky having filled his coal bunkers and resupplied his fleet is now in a condition to assume the aggressive, if he so desires.

It is the opinion of some that Rojestvensky may make a demonstration in the vicinity of the islands of Formosa and the Pescadores, and then enter the Pacific, en route for Vladivostok. This is, however, purely speculative. Everything depends upon Admiral Rojestvensky's plans, which, while as yet undisclosed, may include an extended stay in southern waters.

It is reported that the contractors who supplied the coal and provisions to Admiral Rojestvensky in Indo-China waters, approached the French colonial officials prior to the arrival of the Russian fleet and arranged a rendezvous at Kamranh and Hon-Koe Bays.

HONGKONG, May 18.—A special correspondent, who recently proceeded from here to Kwang-Chau Bay, Leichau Peninsula, north of the Island of Hainan, observed at 11 o'clock at night on May 16 150 deeply laden junks, presumably loaded with provisions for the Russian fleet, anchored southwest of and twenty miles off Cape St. John.

The junks exhibited signal lights, which were extinguished upon the steamer's approach to Kwang-Chau Bay.

The Russian fleet was in latitude 13.30 north and longitude 111.30 east (about 120 miles northeast of Cape Varella, coast of Annam) during the morning of May 16, according to a report brought here by the British steamer Hong Wan I.

The German steamer Segovia sighted forty-two Russian ships forty miles from Cape Varella on May 15, steaming slowly north.

LONDON, Friday, May 19.—Kwangchou Bay, where provision junks are said to be waiting for the Russian fleet, is the most northward of French possessions on the Chinese Sea, and the last port which Rojestvensky can select for his final departure to meet the Japanese.

Reports still circulate in London to the effect that the Russian Pacific fleet's coaling arrangements are extremely inadequate, and have been the main cause of its prolonged stay in Indo-Chinese waters, and that the Admiral is finding ever increasing difficulty on this score.

VLADIVOSTOK EXPECTS SIEGE.

Foreign Commercial Agents Ordered to Leave the Fortress.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Richard S. Greener, American Commercial Agent at Vladivostok, has cabled the State Department that all the foreign commercial agents there had been asked to leave the Vladivostok Fortress. Permission to reside in the cities of the maritime provinces had been given them. Mr. Greener himself was just leaving Vladivostok for Haborowsk.

It is recalled here that a similar measure was adopted by the Russian authorities at Port Arthur at the beginning of the investment of that place by the Japanese land and sea forces, and hence it is assumed that Vladivostok is expected to become a centre of the seat of war very soon.

GUNSHU PASS, Manchuria, May 18.—After several days of rain a violent downpour set in to-day which has ruined the roads and will necessitate a period of military inaction, besides being likely to increase sickness in the camps of the two armies.

According to Chinese reports, the Japanese are strengthening their left wing, and also are sending important reinforcements to Korea, but no changes in the position at the front have been noticed.

TOKIO, May 18.—The Foreign Office today announced the receipt of a communication from the German Government pronouncing utterly unfounded the reports of the occupation of Hai-chow. The rumors of the German occupation of Haichow were never entirely credited here, but their disavowal was received with satisfaction.

LONDON, Friday, May 19.—Dispatches from Shanghai declare that the German landing at Hai-chow was for the purpose of selecting a landing place for a cable which the Germans are laying from Tsing-tau to Shanghai and Java.

CAN RAISE RUSSIAN WARSHIPS.

Japanese Say Six Port Arthur Ships Can Be Used.

LONDON, May 19.—The Daily Telegraph's correspondent at Tokio telegraphs as follows:

"The Japanese Admiralty considers that the Peresviet, Poltava, Retvizan, Pobieda, Bayan, and Pallada can all be raised at Port Arthur and repaired at an approximate cost of $750,000 each."

Special dispatches from Shanghai assert that the Pallada has already been raised.

ROUSED BY ZHITOMIR RIOTS.

East Side Jews Hold Meetings—Fear a General Slaughter.

There is excitement on the lower east side over the cablegrams telling of further anti-Semitic riots in Russia, and the people fear a slaughter similar to that which took place at Kishineff. Letters received in regard to the rioting at Zhitomir, Russia, make the situation appear more alarming than the cables.

A crowded meeting was held last night at Apollo Hall, 126 Clinton Street, under the auspices of the Poale Zionist Society, and speeches were made to the effect that the American people should be aroused to the conditions in Zhitomir as they had been about Kishineff.

Another meeting was held at the synagogue, 32 Orchard Street, by east side business men to raise funds for the Jewish sufferers in Russia. Cablegrams were sent to the leading rabbis in Zhitomir asking for full particulars.

WOULD HAVE SOLD CUNARD CO

But Purchase of Every Share Was Condition, Inverclyde Says.

LONDON, May 18.—Lord Inverclyde, Chairman of the Cunard Steamship Company, replying to the protest of J. Bruce Ismay of the International Mercantile Marine Company regarding the attitude of the Cunard Company in the recent dispute over steamship rates, says the Cunard Company never desired to enter the International Mercantile Marine Company.

He admits that the trustees under his father's will were approached as to the sale of the company's shares held by his father, but they declined to sell unless at a stipulated price and on condition that the purchasers undertook to purchase the whole of the Cunard shares at the same price within a specified period. He declined as one of the trustees to enter these negotiations.

Later an offer to purchase 55 per cent. of the Cunard shares in order to obtain the controlling interest was also declined unless the proposed combination was prepared to purchase the whole concern.

Lord Inverclyde repudiates animus toward the International Company arising from the failure of these negotiations, or a desire to persuade the public that such a combination is a menace to the Cunard Company. The latter, he says, is prepared as in the past to work in harmony with its competitors under both the British and foreign flags; but is no less bound to resist any attempt to deprive it of its position on the Atlantic.

The Cunard Company never complained, Lord Inverclyde says, of Mr. Ismay's inability to get the American Postmaster General's consent to a change in sailing day.

IRISH M. P. DIES SUDDENLY.

William O'Doherty Stricken While Writing in the Commons.

LONDON, May 18.—William O'Doherty, Nationalist member of Parliament for the North Division of Donegal, was stricken with paralysis while writing in the House of Commons this afternoon. He was taken to a neighboring hospital, where he died.

Mr. O'Doherty was born in 1868, was a lawyer by profession, and had been a member of the Londonderry Corporation since 1886.

WOULD REVIVE CANAL TOLLS.

Proposed Retaliation for American Ban on Canadian-Caught Fish.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, May 18.—New York State passed an act some time ago forbidding the admission of Canadian-caught fish. Mr. Demers of St. John's and Iberville suggested in the House to-day that this was a retaliatory measure because Canada would not stop seine fishing in Missisiquoi Bay. That being the case, Mr. Demers said the Dominion Government should re-establish tolls on the Chambly Canal against United States craft. The canal was principally used by United States boats.

Mr. Prefontaine, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, hoped the matter would be referred to the proposed international commission on the fisheries which was to meet soon and in this way a satisfactory conclusion might be reached.

WIND 100 MILES AN HOUR.

Terrific Storm Devastated French Oceania—Ten More Lives Lost.

TAHITI, Society Islands, May 6—Via San Francisco, May 18.—Meagre details were brought to-day by the steamer Mariposa of the destructive hurricane which swept through French Oceania from March 23 to March 25.

It is now known that the northern half of the Tuamotu Archipelago suffered the worst. The wind blew 100 miles an hour, the sea swept over the islands, destroying many villages and half of the cocoanut trees.

Two dozen small sailing craft and three large vessels were wrecked. Ten lives were lost. The financial loss in this group was more than $200,000.

WANTS DIVORCE LAW CHANGED

London Diocesan Conference Would Prevent Remarriage in Church.

LONDON, May 18.—The London Diocesan Conference, now in session here under the Presidency of the Bishop of London, the Right Rev. Arthur F. Ingram, passed a resolution to-day, demanding an amendment of the English marriage law so as to preclude the remarriage in church of divorced persons during the lifetime of the other party to the proceedings.

An attempt to modify the resolution in favor of permitting the remarriage in church of the innocent party was defeated by a large majority.

CHURCH DEBTS IN FRANCE.

Chamber of Deputies Makes Parochial Societies Responsible.

PARIS, May 18.—The Chamber of Deputies to-day during the consideration of the bill for the separation of Church and State, passed the important clause deciding that the responsibility for the repayment of Church debts contracted while a State institution falls on the newly formed parochial societies, which henceforth will receive the Church revenues and control the edifices.

Where no such society has been formed the local authorities will be liable for the debts.

KAISER'S VIEW OF PARADES.

Now Cares Less About Show Because of Japanese Example.

BERLIN, May 18.—Emperor William, addressing the officers of the One Hundred and Forty-fifth Regiment of Infantry at the Officers' Club at Strasbourg recently, said, according to Col. Gaedke:

"The marching on parade of my regiment was not altogether brilliant, but I have shut both my eyes. The Japanese have shown that although they do not make a fine review they march and fight well."

HAGUE'S ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED BY WOMEN

Oscar S. Straus, Kept Away by Illness, Sends Letter.

CZAR DENIED WIVES' APPEAL

Such a Country Deserves Dissolution, Mr. Straus Tells Peace Circle—Addresses by Prominent Women.

To celebrate the anniversary of the opening of The Hague Conference the Women's Peace Circle of this city held a public meeting yesterday afternoon in the Madison Square Theatre. The theatre was crowded, and on the stage were many prominent clubwomen and advocates of the cause of universal arbitration.

Mrs. Harry Hastings, President of the Circle, which is allied with the American Peace Society and the Universal Peace Society, presided and made an address. An address was also made by Mrs. Arnold Schramm, the founder of the organization, which was incorporated in March last.

The decorations were unique. Draped across the back of the stage was an immense flag of the United States in a border of white, the peace color, which was purchased by donations of 40,000 boys and given to the peace cause. Two flags, one the Stars and Stripes and the other the British standard, bordered with white satin, and which will be hung over the judges' seats in the Peace Palace to be built by Andrew Carnegie, occupied prominent positions, as well as one of special design, which will figure prominently in the laying of the cornerstone of The Hague Peace Palace.

Oscar S. Straus was to have delivered the principal address, but illness kept him away. He sent a letter to Mrs. Hastings containing his regrets, in which he said:

"It would give me much pleasure to aid in making propaganda for the humane cause of the world's peace among the peace-loving women, who have the highest and first right to demand that their appeals shall be heard above the barbaric clatter of martial drums that lead to unrighteous war.

"The suffering mothers and wives of Russia some months ago presented a touching appeal to the Czar against sending their sons and husbands, the breadwinners of their starving families, to the shambles of Manchuria, but his Imperial Majesty did not even deign to reply, upon the theory that the women of Russia had not the right to meddle in state affairs.

"In this age the Government which silences the humane voices and tearful pleas of the mothers and wives of the people, and which crushes to earth public opinion, is indeed deservedly drifting upon the rocks of dissolution."

Addresses were made by Dr. Ernest Richard of Columbia University and President of the German-American Peace Society, who spoke on "Women's Work for Universal Peace"; Miss Mary Pierson, who spoke on "The Peace Movement in the Schools," and Anna Garlin Spencer of the American Peace Society.

LAUDS OUR CUSTOMS SYSTEM.

Member of German Reichstag Criticises German Officials.

LONDON TIMES—NEW YORK TIMES.
Special Cable. Copyright, 1905.

BERLIN, May 18.—The International Economic Conference, which met here to-day, discussed the treatment of exporters by the customs officers.

Dr. Petthoff, a member of the Reichstag, said that whereas at the German customs offices importers were treated as though they had fraudulent designs, in America their word was accepted.

In view of the frequent complaints by Germans of the American customs examination this statement was regarded as significant.

JOLO REBEL LEADER KILLED.

Gen. Wood's Troops Pursue Remnant of Pala's Followers.

MANILA, May 18.—Pala, the outlaw Moro chief, who has been pursued for two weeks on the Island of Jolo by troops under Gen. Leonard Wood, has been killed.

Troops are on the trail of his few surviving followers. At the beginning of the uprising it was reported that Pala had a following of 600 well-armed men. Most of these have been killed.

MINING COMPANY DROPS NAME OF GOV. BRADY

Writes to President Roosevelt That Prospectus Is Withdrawn.

NOT RE-ELECTED A DIRECTOR

Other Concerns Complained That Alaska's Chief Executive Did Not Recommend Them All.

It became known yesterday that after a meeting of the Reynolds-Alasaka Development Company, held at its local offices, 60 Broadway, on Saturday, a letter was forwarded to President Roosevelt, in which it was announced that all the company's mining advertising literature containing the name of John G. Brady, Governor of Alaska, who has been criticised for allowing his name to be used to promote, as has been alleged, the sale of shares, had been withdrawn. The letter read:

"In order to relieve the Administration of possible embarrassment, all literature mentioning Gov. Brady has been withdrawn from circulation, and at this, the regular annual, election of officers John G. Brady was not re-elected as a Director."

Gov. Brady has said that he would not resign under fire.

The trouble stirred up about the use of Gov. Brady's name on advertising literature arose from the fact that his name was used by only one company. The Governor was accused by other mining concerns of partiality, but, as he explained himself, he was not in a position to become interested in all the mining concerns in the United States. The talk began shortly after Brady entered his third term as Governor last year. A copy of the prospectus and a letter of complaint were filed with Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock. Since then there have been reams of correspondence, official and otherwise. The letter announcing that the literature had been withdrawn and that Brady was not re-elected as a Director is regarded as a propitiatory measure.

In his twenty-six years of experience in the Far Northwest, Gov. Brady has been a teacher, a missionary, and finally Chief Executive of the goldfield country. He caused little stir in the land until he accepted the position of resident Director of the mining company, and the other companies complained.

SPIDER DONS COOL RAIMENT.

Bronx Keeper, Who Didn't Know His Habits, Badly Scared.

Keeper Ohmer, attached to the reptile house of the Bronx Zoological Park, was scared nearly out of his wits yesterday afternoon. After hearing his story, Directory Hornaday said that he wasn't surprised.

Some time ago the collection in the reptile and poisonous-insect department was enriched by a huge spider, imported from South America. It measured eight inches and was labeled "The Mygale," and described as one of the most deadly insects in the world.

Yesterday Ohmer noticed that the Mygale was suspended from a twig in its cage and was listlessly fluttering in the breeze. The keeper watched it for a moment, then noticed that the light shone through it. He got a stick and poked it. The stick revealed that it was only a shell of a spider, and as he saw a number of little red ants about the cage concluded that the industrious "reds" had made a weeks square meal of the Mygale.

Keeper Ohmer went back to clean out the cage preparatory to stowing it away until another Mygale could be found. He was dusting the twigs in the cage when out jumped the Mygale with its fangs ready for business. Ohmer snapped the door of the cage into the lock and wiped the perspiration from his brow.

"Now," he muttered, "that's a spider, sure enough, and it's a dead ringer for the dead Mike. Who's this fellow, or where did that other fellow come from?"

Off he went to Director Hornaday, who presently came and examined the second Mygale. It was identical except that the one in the cage looked a little fresher.

"That's natural, the other feller bein' dead," said Ohmer.

Then a thought struck Director Hornaday, who made for his books. He presently learned that the South American Mygale changes his clothes as the warm days come on.

INCREASE IN EXPORTS.

April a Record Breaker in the Nation's Foreign Trade.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The commerce of the United States—(imports and exports)—in April established a new record for that month, the total being valued at $225,000,000, as against $193,000,000 in April, 1904, and $197,000,000 in April, 1903.

Prior to 1900 there is no instance in which April imports and exports aggregated as much as $180,000,000.

A notable feature of the marked growth in the commerce of the United States is the preponderance of exports, despite the everincreasing home demand for manufactures, agricultural, and other products. April exports amounted to $129,358,229, the highest record ever made in April of any year. April imports were also unusually large, being valued at $95,750,000.

Reviewing April commerce from 1875 to 1905, imports have grown much less rapidly than exports. In 1875 the April imports amounted to $43,600,000. Meantime exports have grown from $39,600,000 in April, 1875, to their present figure. The balance of trade has frequently shifted from one side to the other in the past thirty years, usually resting on the export side.

CHINESE MINISTER WORRIED.

Deprecates Newspaper Agitation of Exclusion Treaty Question.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Sir Chentung Liang Cheng, the Chinese Minister, called upon Acting Secretary Loomis at the State Department to-day to talk about the difficulties that had arisen in the effort to negotiate a new Chinese exclusion treaty. The Minister deprecated newspaper agitation of the question at this time as calculated to render abortive the efforts to compromise the present radical differences of opinion between the Chinese Government and the Department of Commerce and Labor.

He did not explain his purpose in collecting testimony from Chinese in this country and others who had been deported, relative to the execution of the exclusion law by the agents of the Department of Commerce and Labor, and it is not known to the department whether it is the purpose of the Chinece Government simply to use this testimony to strengthen its hands in endeavoring to secure an amelioration of the existing inspection rules by negotiation, or whether it is the purpose to begin habeas corpus proceedings in the Federal courts to finally determine the validity of the exclusion law.

FAMILY WAR ON PIER.

All the Schwartzes Wanted to Entertain Mother, Who Arrived on Steamer.

When the Hamburg-American liner Deutschland, from Hamburg, docked at Hoboken last night, two men and four women, representing the rival factions of the Schwartz family of New York and Brooklyn, were on the pier to greet Mrs. Mary Schwartz of Hamburg, the mother of two of the three women and one of the men and mother-in-law of the other man and woman. Mrs. Schwartz is said to be a woman of considerable means, and the pleasure of entertaining her was desired by her son, E. Schwartz and his wife and Mrs. Adolf Luhrman, a daughter, representing one faction, while David Trautman and his wife, who, prior to her marriage was Miss Teresa Schwartz, were just as anxious that she should be their guest.

The Trautman party arrived at the pier first. Soon after the Schwartz-Luhrman contingent arrived. The minute the rival factions faced each other there was fire in all eyes concerned. Miss Julia Schwartz rushed forward and struck Mrs. Luhrman, her aunt, with her parasol. Then there was hot words, but the approach of a customs officer caused everybody to cool down. The rival factions thereafter remained tranquil until the big liner was docked and the woman who was the innocent cause of all the trouble walked down the gang plank.

The minute Mrs. Schwartz was sighted making her way ashore all hands shouted "Mother!" and with one accord all rushed forward to extend a greeting and an invitation to her to share the hospitality of their several homes. Mrs. Luhrman attempted to kiss her mother and Mrs. Trautman pulled her away. Then Mrs. Trautman tried to kiss her and somebody pulled her away. The commotion drew a great crowd to the vicinity of the gang plank.

At last the Trautman faction prevailed temporarily, and the Schwartz-Luhrman faction retired to the south end of the pier, where Mrs. Luhrman buried her head in her hands and wept. A few minutes later the mother managed to escape from the Trautmans and went to the end of the pier to see her daughter. She hardly had time to grasp her hand when along came a Trautman and led her back to the headquarters of that faction.

At this moment Deputy Collector of Customs Cooneys took a hand in the affair, and after that there was no more wrangling. The Trautmans held to the old woman the rest of the time she was on the pier, the Schwartz-Luhrman party looking on from a distance. When Mr. Schwartz was asked what the trouble was about he said:

"When my mother was last in this country three years ago she stayed with us, and as I am her son and Mrs. Luhrman is her daughter, I don't see why she should stay with Trautman, who is nothing but her son-in-law. Yes, it is true. Miss Trautman did strike my sister, and she said some mighty rough words besides. My brother-in-law, Mr. Trautman, is a lawyer, with offices at Stanton and Ridge Streets, Manhattan. I am a shirt manufacturer at 536 Bridge Street, Brooklyn."

WHIPPED SON IN SCHOOL.

Then Parent Began to Yell and Was Arrested.

William Kottman, Principal of Public School No. 7, Hester and Chrystie Streets, appeared yesterday before Magistrate Moss in the Essex Market Court to prosecute Hyman Gordon of 199 Forsyth Street on a charge of disorderly conduct. He said that the prisoner tried to cause a disturbance in the school, and if he had not taken immediate action there would undoubtedly have been a panic among the 3,000 children. He said he was compelled to grasp Gordon by the collar of his coat and lead him from the fourth story to the street. There Gordon was arrested.

Gordon wept in court. He told Magistrate Moss he went to the school at the request of Mr. Kottman, who demanded that he punish his twelve-year-old son, Charles Gordon, with a long wooden ruler. The Principal, he declared, laid the boy across a desk in one of the classrooms and he (Gordon) was forced to strike him three times with the ruler.

Principal Kottman said that Gordon began yelling, and it was necessary to get him out of school as quickly as possible to avoid frightening the children. Magistrate Moss discharged Gordon with a reprimand.

OSBORNE SUCCEEDS EMORY.

Pennsylvanian Becomes Chief of Bureau of Trade Relations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—John B. Osborne of Pennsylvania has been appointed to succeed Frederick Emory as chief of the Bureau of Trade Relations in the State Department, from which position Mr. Emory voluntarily retired on account of ill health.

Mr. Osborne is the son of the late Gen. Edwin S. Osborne, several times a member of Congress. In 1889 John B. Osborne was appointed Consul to Ghent, Belgium, which position he held until 1894. Since 1897 he has been Assistant Secretary of the Reciprocity Commission of the State Department. He is a writer on economic subjects.

FORGER KILLS HIMSELF TO ESCAPE DETECTIVES

First Gave Drug to Woman Who Fled with Him from Florida.

Companion with Him at Hotel When He Died Was Hooper Young Witness—She Is Detained.

Fearing arrest on a charge of forgery, Herbert Leon Kepler, a bookkeeper, of Deland, Fla., committed suicide by taking morphine at the Hotel Sueseus, Fifty-sixth Street and Sixth Avenue, early yesterday morning. Before taking the poison, Kepler administered a dose to Mrs. Dona Miller, a young woman, who told the police she had fled with Kepler from his home town after he had gotten in trouble there over forging his father's name to checks.

The dose given the woman was not strong enough to kill her, and she awoke a couple of hours later to find Kepler dead. She aroused the hotel manager, and, the police having been called in, the woman was detained, pending an investigation. The Coroner sent her to the House of Detention, pending the inquest to-day.

It was not until she was brought before Coroner Scholer that it was discovered Mrs. Miller was suffering from morphine poisoning. The Coroner is a physician. He discovered that the pupils of her eyes were contracted and other symptoms of opium poisoning. She first denied that she had taken the drug, but after Coroner Goldenkranz, who also is a physician, was called in and confirmed the suspicions of Coroner Scholer, Mrs. Miller said it had been given to her by Kepler.

The police turned over to the Coroner a letter which they found in the room occupied by Kepler and Mrs. Miller. The letter was addressed to his father, at Deland, and in it Kepler wrote:

"We [meaning himself and Mrs. Miller] love one another, and not even death shall separate us."

He asked the forgiveness of his father and of his little daughter, whom he left behind in Deland. He made no mention of his wife, whom he had left.

Kepler and the woman came to the hotel on May 9, and both kept close to their room. Kepler never went out except at night. At 3 o'clock yesterday morning Mrs. Miller aroused the housekeeper, Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, and asked for the proprietor, saying that her husband was ill. Mrs. Smith said she could not disturb Mr. Sueseus on such a pretext.

"But he is dead," said the woman.

Mrs. Smith then sent for the police. The woman in the meantime had left the hotel. She was gone about forty-five minutes. When she returned Policeman Byrnes took her into custody. The woman said she had retired early the night before, and that Kepler had joined her at 11 o'clock. She said Kepler had forged eight or ten checks on the Voturia County bank of Deland, and that Wednesday he had received a letter from his father that the bank would make no settlement, and had put Pinkerton detectives on the case. At the time when the suicide was committed the detectives had the man under surveillance.

"Herbert told me," the woman told the Coroner, "that if his father failed to settle he would kill himself."

Mrs. Miller told the Coroner that she had lived across the street from Kepler, that her husband was a dentist, and that she has a little daughter. Kepler had lived apart from his wife for seven or eight months, she said. The woman said she was a witness in the case of Hooper Young, who killed Anna Pulitzer, and spent some time at the House of Detention. She said she introduced the murdered woman to Young.

Kepler left a note for John Raymond, his nephew, who is cashier of the Hotel Cadillac. He said Kepler had been one of the most prominent tennis players of the South, and was at one time the Southern champion, having defeated Roderick W. Beach of New Haven. Beach, by a strange coincidence also met an untimely death. He was shot in a quarrel.

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., May 18.—Herbert Kepler was the son of W. L. Kepler, a retired merchant of this city. The young man spent the Winter with his parents in Florida, where his father owns an orange grove. His whereabouts was unknown here until the message of his death came. His family is very prominent in this city, but the young man had figured in many escapades. He leaves a daughter. Some years ago he was divorced by his wife.

COLUMBIA MAY MEET TIGERS.

Football Relations Said to be Strained Between Princeton and Cornell.

ITHACA, N. Y., May 18.—It was reported here to-day that a break has occurred in football relations between Cornell and Princeton, and that as a result the Ithacans will not meet the "Tigers" on the checkerboard next Fall. Heretofore two-year agreements have existed between the two colleges, games being played alternately at Ithaca and Princeton. Princeton, it is said, has requested Cornell to play in Princeton this Fall, and next year to hold the game in New York City.

The reason given was that Princeton wished to avoid the long trip to Ithaca so soon before the Yale game. This suggestion did not appeal to Cornell's athletic council, and consequently no arrangements have been made. It is further reported that the date Cornell desired on Princeton's schedule has been given to Columbia. There is no ill feeling over the controversy, so far as the Cornell authorities are concerned, and matters yet may be satisfactorily arranged for a renewal of the two-year agreement on the former terms.

Distinctive Suits for Men

An unmistakably common condition is that air of staleness which pervades the stocks of usual ready-for-wear clothes. Such conditions dare not exist here, a constant introduction of new models in suits keeps our stocks fresh and new. There is always something new here that you have not seen before and that you will not find anywhere else. Thus the interest is kept always tense by reason of our stocks always being new and always "complete and replete." All of our suits have our New "Concave" Shoulder and "Closefitting" Collar.

Fifteen Dollar Suits for Men

At $15 we present suits in six single and double breasted sack models, a series which is notable for character and worth. The suits concerned are of black Thibets, blue and black serges, unfinished and smooth surface worsteds in all the new gray tones, from very light to very dark gray. And a diversified collection of fancy cheviots in all the new color schemes.

Jenkins and Gotch Ready.

Both Jenkins and Gotch are in the finest fettle for the catch-as-catch-can wrestling match to a finish at the Madison Square Garden to-night, and all indications point to a desperate struggle for supremacy. It will be the third meeting between the best two wrestlers in America, Gotch having beaten Jenkins a year ago, after the Cleveland man had defended the championship against all comers for ten years, but a short time ago, at Madison Square Garden, Jenkins reversed the previous verdict in one of the most sensational contests ever seen in this country, Jenkins's victory was due to his superior generalship and head work, while Gotch made many friends by his fast work.

The rivalry between these two burly wrestlers is of the bitterest kind. Jenkins ruled a slight favorite in the betting last night, but the men are so evenly matched that when they face each other on the mat to-night neither man will be a favorite.

HILL AND HARRIMAN CEASE RAILROAD WAR

Assurances of Peace Exchanged at Northern Pacific Meeting.

HARRIMAN OFF THE BOARD

Admits Illegality of His Being Director of Competing Line—Eight New Members Chosen.

"If assurances given to one another by those most directly concerned in the Northwestern railroad situation are to be carried out, there will be no further disturbances in that territory." This was the assertion of a representative of the Hill-Morgan interests in connection with the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Northern Pacific Railway Company, held yesterday.

The statement was made with reference to the fact that neither Mr. Harriman nor any of the men who are supposed to represent him is on the newly elected Board of Directors. It was said some weeks ago that Mr. Harriman would not be re-elected a Director, because, under the law, it would not be legal for him to hold office on a competing system. It was said at that time that other Directors would also be left off the board for similar reasons. It was said further that Mr. Harriman had expressed himself as being unwilling to resign, on the ground that he was advised by his counsel that there was nothing illegal in his occupying a directorship on a competing line.

It is now said by representatives of Hill-Morgan interests that Mr. Harriman receded from his position, acknowledged that he had been wrongly advised, and gave his proxies to the Hill-Morgan interests to be voted as they saw fit. This, so it was asserted, means an elimination of all friction which Mr. Harriman's attitude had evoked, and will assure harmony in the Northwest as between the Hill-Morgan and the Harriman lines. Each of these roads will be operated independently, without regard to the other, so as to assure to the stockholders the greatest possible returns on their investment.

Yesterday's annual meeting of the Northern Pacific stockholders was the first held in two years. The injunction preventing the voting of the stock of the Northern Securities Company had made the presence of a quorum of stock impossible, and for two years the meeting had been adjourned from time to time. At yesterday's meeting 1,101,022 shares, of a total of 1,550,000, were voted. The stock was voted unanimously, most of it by a proxy committee, consisting of J. P. Morgan, who was not present; Daniel S. Lamont, J. J. Hill, and John S. Kennedy.

The first act of the meeting was to classify the Directors to serve one, two, three, and five years, respectively. Then the following Directors were elected:

For Directors for Three Years from First Tuesday in October, 1904—John S. Kennedy, D. Willis James, George F. Baker, John Sloane, and Robert Bacon.

For Directors for Two Years from First Tuesday in October, 1904—Daniel S. Lamont, Lewis Cass Ledyard, Howard Elliott, Charles Steele, and George W. Perkins.

For Directors for One Year from First Tuesday in October, 1904—William P. Clough, James N. Hill, Amos Tuck French, Alexander Smith Cochran, and Payne Whitney.

Of these John Sloane, Robert Bacon, Lewis Cass Ledyard, George W. Perkins, James N. Hill, Amos Tuck French, Alexander Smith Cochran, and Payne Whitney are new members. All are heavy stockholders in the Northern Pacific. Those who retired were E. H. Harriman, William Rockefeller, Samuel Rea, Brayton Ives, Samuel Spencer, James Stillman, Eben B. Thomas, and H. McK. Twombly. Some of the retiring Directors are Morgan men. Others represented various interests, but were originally placed on the board by Mr. Morgan because of their standing as railroad men in times when a feeling of mistrust pervaded the financial community. The meeting was adjourned until June 15, but it was said that there was no particular significance in this fact.

CLOVER LEAF'S CHANGE.

Voting Trust Expires July 1, and Stockholders Will Control.

The voting trust of the Toledo, St. Louis and Western Railroad Company, commonly known as the Clover Leaf, which expires by limitation on July 1, will not be extended, but the property will be turned over to the stockholders.

The voting Trustees are Frederic P. Olcott, Thomas H. Hubbard, and William A. Read. The road has made application to the Stock Exchange to have its entire capital stock listed in exchange for the present voting trust certificates. The control of the Clover Leaf is very closely held, Edwin Hawley being one of the chief stockholders.

Texas Railroad Men Here.

Representatives of Texas railways are understood to have been in New York for several days conferring with parties financially interested in those properties. A great deal of money has been advanced and expended in improving the Texas properties, and the tonnage handled by those properties has largely increased, but the net result of their operation has not been quite satisfactory. This has been attributed to the reduction of local rates by the Railroad Commission, which, in many instances, has caused a corresponding reduction in inter-State rates.

REPRIMANDS JURY FOREMAN.

Recorder Declares Mistrial in Case of Abraham Katz.

Clarence Belden, a real estate dealer, of 71 East One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street, was ordered by Recorder Goff yesterday to appear before him to-day and explain how he happened to be, in the opinion of the Recorder, unfit yesterday for service as foreman of a jury drawn for the trial of Abraham Katz of 78 Essex Street, who is charged with having received stolen goods. The Recorder declared a mistrial.

"I am sorry to see a man of your appearance in such a condition," said the Recorder. "You are not in a condition now to realize what I am about to say to you, neither are you fit to go on with the case. Therefore it becomes necessary to direct that you be withdrawn from the jury and to declare this a mistrial. I direct you to appear before me to-morrow morning and make what excuse you may."

Belden attempted to make a statement, but the Recorder would not hear him.

Eames and Fremstad on La Savoie.

ADDICKS MUST PAY $140,867.

Judgment for Old Clark-Ward Firm on Gas Stock Trades.

Augustus C. Brown, the referee appointed by the Supreme Court to take testimony in the suit brought against Edward J. Addicks by James F. A. Clark, Reginald H. Ward, and Frank A. Schirmer, surviving members of the old firm of Clark, Ward & Co., filed his report yesterday in the County Clerk's office. The referee finds that the plaintiffs are entitled to judgment for the full amount they sued for, $140,867.42, with interest, and that when they get this money they must return to Addicks 3,835 shares of the Bay State Gas Company, together with $32,200 in second mortgage and income bonds of the corporation. At yesterday's market quotation the stock referred to was worth about $956, the quotation being 3-16 bid, ¼ asked.

The action against Addicks was commenced on Sept. 23, 1901, it being alleged that Addicks owed to the plaintiffs the sum mentioned as the aggregate of balances due them on transactions with Addicks as their customer, they being the stock brokers or agents, the accounts embracing transactions in the purchase and sale of the stock and bonds of the Bay State Gas Company in New York and Boston.

The referee, after referring to the opening of the Addicks account with the firm, says that later, in July, 1892, Addicks conferred on the plaintiffs an authority in addition to that previously possessed by them to buy and sell on his specific orders—"namely, a general authority to buy and sell for his account in their discretion, with a view to keeping the market active, and making quotations therefor on the Boston Stock Exchange," and that the only limit imposed upon the firm was that the firm should not accumulate too much stock.

The referee refers to Bay State Gas stock, and says that it is admitted that the transactions were "to make a market" and "jack up prices," although neither of these expressions can be found in the evidence. He also goes into some of the old Bay State Gas matters which already have been made known to the public. The report will probably come before the court for confirmation in a few days.

GLAD TO IDENTIFY BURGLARS.

Bank Clerk, Who Surprised the Two, Beaten by Them.

Edward Watson and John Mullen, who were arrested in a furnished room at 231 West Forty-ninth Street a few days ago on suspicion of having broken into the bank of E. C. Brewer of Gilbertsville, N. Y., and stolen $10,000 on May 2, will have to stand trial for that offense. Magistrate Steinert so decided in the Yorkville Court, where the two prisoners were arraigned yesterday, and turned them over to Sheriff Mather of Gilbertsville, who took them to Cooperstown, N. Y., yesterday afternoon. Mabel Watson, a young woman who was found with them and taken into custody at the same time, was set free.

The two prisoners were identified at Police Headquarters yesterday by E. C. Stockwell, a clerk in the Gilbertsville bank, as two men whom he had seen coming out from the bank a couple of minutes after the safe had been blown open and the robbery committed. Stockwell, who lived in a house adjoining the bank, had been awakened by the explosion, and upon coming out to investigate met the two men.

Stockwell told Capt. McCauley of the Detective Bureau that he was very happy the two men had been caught and of the prospect that they would be punished, as they had treated him very brutally on the night of the robbery. He was kicked and beaten by them, after which they bound his hands behind his back and tied him up to a telegraph pole in front of the bank, where he had to remain until daylight.

LAST CAUTION TO MOTORISTS.

No Clemency to Those Who Drive Recklessly, Warns Justice.

In fining several automobilists yesterday in the Court of Special Sessions, Justice Hinsdale, who presided, announced that from now on no clemency will be shown to men convicted of exceeding the legal rate of speed.

Le Grand C. Griswold, a banker, of 28 West Forty-eighth Street, paid a fine of $75. William Van Kleeck of 208 West Thirty-eighth Street paid $50, and Lewis G. Young, a broker, of 19 East Forty-fourth Street, paid $35.

District Attorney Jerome said yesterday that he had received many letters complaining that the case against E. R. Thomas, the horseman, which is set down for next Monday, had not been heard. The impression is that Mr. Jerome in person will prosecute the case. Among the letters demanding that Mr. Thomas be tried was one from J. P. Peters, President of the Independent Club of the Twenty-first Assembly District, and another from Reginald Pelham Bolton, Secretary of the Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association, who wrote that the danger from speeding autos on Washington Heights was constantly growing.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Linen Suitings Not Dutiable as Etamines—Other Decisions.

In an opinion written by General Appraiser De Vries, the Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday sustained a claim by D. W. Macleod & Co. of New York, and held that linen suitings made up from madras goods, linen scrim, and other linen material are dutiable at the various specific rates provided for in the so-called "countiable cotton schedule" of the Dingley tariff law. Collector Stranahan took the view that the merchandise in question is dutiable under the provision in the law for etamines with duty at the rate of 60 per cent. ad valorem. General Appraiser De Vries directs the Collector to reliquidate the entries in accordance with the finding of the customs tribunal.

Other importers' protests sustained yesterday were by Frank & Lambert, Rudolph C. Hahn, Jaffe & Pinkus, estate of C. B. Rouss, James McCutcheon & Co., the H. B. Claflin Company, Ellicott & Co., New York.

The board overruled protests filed by Robert Hoare and others, Fuld & Co., Campbell, Metzger & Jacobson, the Knox Scheerer Company, the Morris European and American Express Company, Hermann Boker & Co., D. W. McLeod & Co., New York; J. H. Hughes, Juneau, Alaska.

Claims partially sustained were by D. W. McLeod & Co. and others, and the Mark Cross Company, New York.

JUDGMENT FOR $2,043,607.

An order was signed yesterday by Judge Lacombe in the United States Circuit Court in the case of the Morton Trust Company against the New York and Ottawa Railway Company, Alanson T. Enos, and Henry W. Gayes, as receiver of the New York and Ottawa Railway, and John L. Henning, defendants, approving the action of Charles G. Irish, special Master in Chancery, and granting to the plaintiffs a deficiency judgment of $2,043,607.

The first mortgage bonds of the defendant railway company were held by the Morton Trust Company, as trustee, and, default having been made in interest and principal, foreclosure proceedings were instituted. Mr. Irish sold the railway at auction, but failed to realize enough to pay the full amount of principal and interest and attendant costs by $2,043,607, upon which the deficiency judgment was ordered.

DOCTORS PLAN NATION'S FIGHT ON TUBERCULOSIS

Leading Physicians of Country Gather at Washington.

WILL EDUCATE THE PUBLIC

Dr. Osler Says New York Already Has Set the Pace in the Great Campaign.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—More than 200 of the leading physicians of the country are participating in the meeting here of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, and their programme is a combined attack of the whole country on tuberculosis.

Dr. Edward L. Trudeau, Dr. William Osler, and Dr. Hermann M. Biggs are the President and Vice Presidents respectively of the association, and each addressed the general meeting this morning.

The afternoon session was conducted in two sections, the sociological and clinical and the climatological. In the first the work of localities was reviewed. In Pennsylvania it was stated that the average cost of curing a tuberculosis patient was $120. In New York the cost was estimated at from $7 to $8 per week, while in Maryland $96 was given as the cost of cure. This discussion was based on two papers—by Homer Folks of New York and Edward T. Devine of New York.

It was stated that 12 per cent. of the death benefits paid by one of the big life insurance companies was due to tuberculosis, and that of the $500,000,000 paid annually in benefits by eleven of the large panies $6,000,000 is paid on account of that disease.

Dr. Osler declared that New York has set the pace in legislation, institutions, and treatment of tuberculosis. Education regarding tuberculosis, he thought, was the thing to strive for. He discussed this feature under three heads: Education of the public, of the physician, and of the patient. The public, he said, was awake, but sitting on the edge of the bed and not yet dressed. In this awakening, however, he asserted much had been accomplished over past conditions. When the public got dressed, he predicted that much activity would follow and much would be accomplished toward stamping out tuberculosis.

Dr. Trudeau thought education and co-operation the main things to be considered in the fight on tuberculosis. He said:

"Education should begin in the public schools by teaching the main facts relating to the transmission of tuberculosis and insisting in such teachings on the value of hygienic measures of prevention. The education of the masses could be accomplished by distribution of literature, by lectures to trades unions and various organized bodies, by free museums, tuberculosis exhibitions, and through the medium of the public press and periodical literature."

Homer Folks said that while New York had accomplished marvelous results in reducing the tuberculosis death rate there was still much to be done. He advocated a campaign of education and the establishing of many more tuberculosis dispensaries in the city.

GIVE A VEGETABLE DINNER.

Ex-Senator and Mrs. Henderson Entertain Convention Guests.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Ex-Senator and Mrs. Henderson entertained a dinner company this evening in honor of the members of the National Convention, in session here to discuss a remedy for tuberculosis. The menu was selected entirely from the vegetable kingdom to demonstrate Mrs. Henderson's idea that animal food is wholly unnecessary to supply a palatable and nutritious dinner.

The menu consisted of fruit soup of pineapple, oranges, lemons, and bananas; mock salmon made of blanched almonds, whole wheat flour, eggs, cream, and condiments; unfermented grape juice; asparagus; broiled pine nut, nut sauce; eggs a la Vilteroi; mushrooms; tomato sauce; grape fruit and cherry salad; cheese; iced fruit; gelatine, and cereal coffee.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

Out of Town.

PHILADELPHIA.—Albert Herbst & Co., wool manufacturers, have been adjudged involuntary bankrupts, and George E. Schlegelmilch appointed receiver for the firm by Judge Holland in the United States District Court. The petition represents an indebtedness of $50,000.

CINCINNATI.—Thomas D. Rhodes of Cincinnati was appointed to-day by United States Judge Thompson to succeed the late Samuel Hunt as receiver for the Detroit Southern Railway, for the closing up of the receivership. Mr. Rhodes has been assisting in the receivership.

BOSTON.—In the United States Circuit Court yesterday Judge Lowell appointed Daniel C. Stanwood receiver for the Matthews Consolidated Slate Company, a New Jersey corporation, and the Matthews Slate Company, a Maine concern. The City Trust Company of Boston, acting for the bondholders, made the petition.

PETITIONS IN BANKRUPTCY.

GEORGE H. HOLLISTER.—George H. Hollister, Superintendent of the building at 46 Cedar Stret, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $2,165 and no assets.

MICHAEL MORETZKY.—Michael Moretzky, wholesale dealer in produce of 416 Grand Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $1,000 and no assets. The only creditor is the State Bank of New York.

BERNARD KAMBER & CO.—A petition in bankruptcy was yesterday filed against Bernard Kamber, doing business as B. Kamber & Co., manufacturer of cloaks and suits at 110 Bleecker Street, by N. Erlanger, Blumgart & Co. $136; H. & W. H. Lewis, $915, and H. Newman & Co., $103. On application of the attorney for the petitioning creditors, Judge George C. Holt, in the United States District Court, appointed Theodore L. Frothingham receiver, and fixed his bond at $1,000. Judgments amounting to $3,000 have been entered against the alleged bankrupt in the past sixteen days.

Attachment Against Eagle Chain Co.

Deputy Sheriff McCourt received yesterday an attachment against the Eagle Chain and Novelty Manufacturing Company of 135 Elm Street in favor of the Greenwich Bank on four promissory notes given between Dec. 13, 1904, and May 10, 1905, and aggregating $4,144. The defendant company is a New Jersey corporation.

Pittsburg Outplays New York and Wins by Timely Batting.

The Pittsburg team, after spending four days in Brooklyn, during which time the ex-champions won two and lost two games, interrupted the victorious march of the New Yorks yesterday at the Polo Grounds, and beat them by a score of 7 to 2. It was the first set-back for the National League champions in eight games, and they lost because the visitors outpointed them at the bat. The intense rivalry that has always existed between the two teams was plainly manifest, and the result was a stubbornly contested game from start to finish.

While the game abounded in a number of errors, the fielding as a rule was of high class, and many brilliant plays were exhibited. Little "Tommy" Leach evoked a storm of applause by picking up a fast hit ball as it trundled along the ground in the sixth inning and got Dahlen at first base. He duplicated the performance in the eighth inning, when he stopped Bowerman from reaching first.

It was the Pittsburgs' superior batting that won the game for them, although mistakes by the local men helped to increase the total of the winners. McGann made a splendid contribution of hits for New York, making two powerful hits to left field in the first and ninth innings for home runs. Mertes also secured two safe hits, but with the exception of these two the New Yorks found Leever's delivery a difficult problem to solve. The Pittsburger has rarely ever pitched in better form, being steady at all times, and completing the nine innings with but one battery error to his credit.

Clarke made an auspicious start for the Pittsburgs by sending the ball to left field for three bases. Unfortunately, however, he was easily fielded out at first, and Clarke made a desperate attempt to score on Howard't hit to Gilbert, but the Pittsburg manager was neatly stopped. Wagner ended the inning by being thrown out by Gilbert to McGann. The local men were more successful, for, after Donlin had been hit by a pitched ball, he was the victim of a double play by reason of Browne's strike out. Then came a home run by McGann, which was followed by a safe hit to left field by Mertes. "Sanders," however, was thrown out at second in an attempt to steal second.

Howard and Wagner scored in the fourth inning, the former starting off with a two-base hit to left field. Wagner sent him home by a well-placed hit to right field. A passed ball gave "Hans" second, and Clancy's ball in front of the plate was thrown badly to first, and Wagner tallied. One more run was scored by Pittsburg in the seventh inning. Clancy, batting safely to right, was advanced to second on Leach's out at first, and on Peitz's hit to left field Clancy crossed the plate. Peitz attempted to reach second on Mertes's throw to Bowerman, but the latter's throw down to Gilbert was too fast for him.

In their last effort at the bat the visitors collected four runs on a base on balls, Wagner's double, singles by Clancy and Peitz, aided by wild throws of Gilbert and Mathewson. McGann made his second home run in the ninth inning, and, although Mertes hit safely, he was forced out at second by Dahlen's hit. Devlin finished the game on three strikes, the last one being called.

CHICAGO, 4; BROOKLYN, 1.

The Chicagos played a perfect fielding game against the Brooklyns at Washington Park yesterday, and by a streak of excellent batting in the third inning beat Hanlon's men by a score of 4 to 1. Each team hit safely three times in the third inning, but with Pfeffer at first Schulte made the circuit of the bases on a tremendous hit, and Maloney tallied on a single, an error, and a fumble by Dobbs. The Brooklyns got one man across the plate. After that both pitchers were effective until the ninth inning, when a bunt, a sacrifice, one base hit, and a fly to right field gave the Chicagos their fourth run.

Weak Batting and Poor Fielding Cause Greater New York's Defeat.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 18.—Manager Clark Griffith gave Pitcher Hogg another chance to show his worth to-day, and as a result the St. Louis team won by the score of 3 to 1. Poor fielding behind Hogg had much to do with the final verdict, as only one of the local runs was earned. Conroy and Dougherty made two errors each, and Williams contributed one misplay.

Stone, St. Louis's new left fielder, however, was responsible for New York's defeat. With two men on the bases in the ninth inning he robbed Yeager of an almost sure three-base hit, and possibly a home run, when he jumped in the air and caught the flying sphere on the edge of the left field "bleacher" wall. The New Yorks had a chance to tie the score in the sixth with the bases filled, but Chase hit to Wallace and was out at first. The only run made by New York was in the first inning. Dougherty went to first on four bad balls. Keeler forced him and stole second. Williams singled to centre and Keeler scored.

The local men won the game in the first inning, when Koehler's base on balls, Frisk's two-base hit, and an error by Conroy let in two runs. The third run was scored by Jones on his own two-base hit, a steal of third, and Wallace's fly to Anderson.

Griffith switched his batting order, but it was no use. Chase and Conroy exchanged places in the line-up, but the change had little effect. Chase failed at the pinch in the sixth inning, and Conroy did likewise in the ninth, when a hit by either meant a tied score or a victory. The score:

AUTO RACERS TEST MORRIS PARK TRACK

Italian Car Makes Mile on Banked Course in 54 2-5 Seconds.

OLD RECORDS IN DANGER

"Dick" Stevens, George Scott, and Bowden Praise the Speed Conditions—Novel Features of the Course.

An indication of what may be expected when the racing automobiles of the country get together on the Morris Park track was shown yesterday, when, in the first speed tests made over the once-popular horse race course, Louis Chevrolet, driving William Wallace's ninety-horse-power Italian car, made a mile in 54 2-5 seconds. As the track record stands at 53 seconds, made by Barney Oldfield at the Los Angeles track a short time ago, it is easy to see that the record is more than likely to go by the boards at the opening Morris Park race meet to-morrow afternoon. The notable feature of Cheyrolet's creditable time was that he never saw the track until yesterday, and, although he has been in this country about two years, it was his first attempt at track racing. He made several miles in 55 and 56 seconds, and did five miles in 4:52.

President Dave Hennen Morris of the new Morris Park Motor Club invited a number of friends and automobilists to inspect the track in the afternoon. It is now the only track in the country adapted especially to the racing requirements of fast automobiles. The old turf course has been transformed into a perfect motor-car racing track by banking the lower and sharper curve several feet above the level of the track, while the wider curve at the upper end has been slightly banked on the outside. The track was somewhat heavy for fast going, but it had been put in admirable condition, and its general appearance won high favor from those who viewed it for its picturesque aspects, as well as those who studied it simply as a means for making miles under a minute.

After Chevrolet had been around the course several times Richard Stevens, the well-known tennis player, who has recently become an enthusiastic automobile racer, and George Isham Scott, Chairman of the Racing Committee of the Automobile Club of America, made the run for several miles in their big German high-powered cars. They are to meet to-morrow in a special amateur one mile race with Major J. E. C. Miller. H. L. Bowden of Boston was another of the prominent amateurs present. His racing car was driven by his chauffeur, Charles Basle, and Webb Jay also was out in his fast steam racing car. Another conspicuous car was the long, low racer of Walter Chrystie. Mr. Chrystie drove it himself, but did not try for fast time.

PRODUCE EXCHANGE GOLF.

Wilson Makes Best Score for Tenth Time—Fun for the Novices.

Over forty golfing members of the New York Produce Exchange met yesterday on the links of the Knollwood Country Club, near White Plains, for their semi-annual golf handicap competitions. There were two regular events at medal play, one for the more experienced or Class A players and the other for the novices or Class B men. F. M. Wilson, who is well known on the Englewood links, made the lowest gross score of the day, 76 strokes, while the net score prize went to R. F. Murray, with 78 net from 7 handicap.

Those who turned in scores in the two handicaps were:

Class A—R. F. Murray, 83, 7, 76; W. Moore, 96, 18, 78; H. Barber, 97, 18, 79; W. F. McCord, 85, 6, 79; F. B. Mackay, 87, 8, 79; F. R. Van Boskerck, 86, 7, 79; F. M. Wilson, 84, 4, 80; E. D. Thomas, 96, 15, 80; F. Earle, 99, 18, 81; Reed Brick, 88, 16, 82; F. S. Hunter, 85, 3, 82; C. W. Taintor, 85, 2, 83; A. C. Fetterolf, 94, 10, 84; C. E. Halstead, 92, 6, 86; W. C. Roberson, 96, 10, 86; W. Curran, 94, 8, 86; W. B. Snelsky, 100, 12, 88; E. W. Burr, 101, 12, 89; George Perrin, 107, 18, 89; C. W. Kirkpatrick, 100, 10, 90; T. H. Sparks, 96, 7, 91; L. M. Daniels, 98, 7, 91; R. Barclay, 110, 19, 93; George Zabriskie, 117, 14, 103.

Class B—C. W. Kenbrook, 129, 45, 84; M. Doyle, 109, 25, 84; J. C. Gluck, 105, 20, 85; A. Houtman, 131, 46, 86; Dr. Simmons, 136, 50, 86; W. S. Bash, 108, 20, 88; R. Smith, 106, 20, 86; James Barber, 134, 45, 89; H. G. Davis, 120, 30, 90; W. R. Gregory, 120, 25, 95; H. Phelps, 120, 25, 95; S. C. Tooley, 140, 40, 100; L. H. Spence, 147, 40, 107; A. G. Terhune, 138, 25, 109.

EASTERN LEAGUE.

Newark Defeats Rochester by Sharp Fielding by Score of 8 to 3.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 18.—Newark had no trouble in defeating Rochester to-day by a score of 8 to 3. Fertsch was batted freely and Bayne, who was substituted in the seventh inning, met a similar fate. Bases on balls contributed largely to Newark's score. Rochester hit Hesterfer often enough to have won in an ordinary game, but the visitors' fielding kept down the tallies. The weather was cold and chilly, rain falling part of the time. The score:

DELUSIONS ABOUT THE "PEOPLE."

The professional advocates of a permanent high tariff appear to have been stunned by the President's decision that the material and supplies for the construction of the Panama Canal shall be purchased in the cheapest market. They are unable to measure the extent of the calamity that has befallen them, and they talk of appeals from the President to the people, and of other remedies and reliefs in a hopeful way which shows that they have not yet realized that the cause of protection has been damaged past all repair. It is as if there had been a terrific explosion inside the stronghold of the protectionists, and the occupants thereof, after being blown up rather high and projected with considerable speed through space, had come down with a suddenness and an impact that left them in a state of bewilderment. Mr. JAMES M. SWANK, the General Manager of the American Iron and Steel Association, for instance, declares that the high tariff men "will bring the matter before Congress at its next session." It is the opinion of Mr. SWANK that the money appropriated for the construction of the canal should be spent in this country, and that is the opinion, of course, which he expects Congress to enact into a statute "at its next session." Here, too, is Mr. DALZELL, that lionhearted, rockribbed, unyielding, perennial, and perpetual Pennsylvania protectionist, who declares that Congress will lose no time in passing a resolution prohibiting the purchase of materials for the canal in other markets than those of the United States.

It is plain that these gentlemen believe that Congress will ordain that the Panama Canal shall be constructed in the most expensive possible manner; that the President will by law be forbidden to save the people's money and lighten the burden of their taxes by buying in Europe for $60 what would cost him in America $100; that Congress will consider itself bound to take as much money as possible from the pockets of 79,999,500 Americans and transfer the same to the pockets of the other 500, be the same more or less, who would be the beneficiaries of the home-purchase resolution. A man who believes that a resolution of this kind can be got from Congress does not know the American people, and in particular he shows himself to be astoundingly ignorant as to the temper and disposition of THEODORE ROOSEVELT. The protectionists lost their opportunity when they gave no heed to Secretary TAFT'S warning last Winter. Had Congress then declared that canal supplies should be purchased in the home markets the matter would have attracted no particular attention—we are used to that sort of thing. But now it is different, very different. The action of the President has fixed the attention of the country upon the weakest spot in the protectionist argument, the fact that our protected manufacturers sell their products at a lower price to foreigners than they charge to American consumers. Mr. ROOSEVELT and his Canal Commissioners have in effect said to the protected interests: You are practicing extortion upon the Government whose laws have made you rich. If you will sell canal supplies to us at prices which afford a reasonable profit, the prices you demand of foreigners, we will buy of you; otherwise we shall spend the people's money abroad, where it will go the furthest. Nobody on earth can make answer to such a challenge. Mr. DALZELL himself would not have the hardihood to rise in the House of Representatives and defend a resolution commanding the President to buy canal machinery in the highest market in the world in order that the American trusts and combinations might get a few more millions of the people's money. Disorganized and discordant as is the opposition in Congress, it has in its ranks many men who are capable of making the defenders of such a preposterous resolution sick and ashamed of their undertaking.

The voice of Congress is the voice of the people. If it should ring false in the House and in the Senate Chamber at the next session, if it should really seem that the action desired by Mr. SWANK and Mr. DALZELL would be taken, the true voice would be heard in a tone that even the most fanatical protectionists would hear and understand. In attempting to pass a home-purchase resolution the protectionists would really be trying to curb the President. Do they actually want to rouse that tempestuous spirit and force him with all his tremendous popularity to take the field for an active campaign in tariff reform?

ROJESTVENSKY.

What seems to be the French official view of the recurrent and persistent abuse by the Russian Admiral of the hospitalities of a French possession, though it is not officially put forward, is that contained in The Associated Press dispatch from Saigon, published yesterday. That view is that Admiral ROJESTVENSKY turned a deaf ear to the remonstrances of the French local authorities concerning the manner in which his proceedings were compromising their country. In effect, he defied them to put him out. Of course they were by no means in a condition to put him out. Whatever figure his squadron may cut when, if ever, it comes to "line up" against the Japanese Navy, it was quite strong enough to defy any force that the French Government of Indo-China could bring against it. And then there were the political complications arising out of the Franco-Russian alliance, though this alliance was intended to apply only to European politics, and the natural and necessary sympathy for Russia which French officials in Indo-China shared with all Frenchmen. Their hospitality was in fact abused. It is hard to blame a man in so desperate a situation as the Russian Admiral for abusing it. It is hard to blame officials so beset as the French officials for not taking the measures which British officials, for example, or German officials would have felt themselves at liberty to take. But the fact remains. France has, in effect and within the meaning of the inhibition of international law, furnished Russia with a base of naval operations.

What the consequences may be is an entirely different question. The Japanese Government must be as well aware as all other civilized persons of the "extenuating circumstances," and of the difficulties, physical and moral, under which the French officials labored. The bellicose utterances of part of the Japanese press doubtless reflect the less considerate part of Japanese opinion. But they are irresponsible, and have had no reflection in official action or in official communications. In fact, the French action and inaction will be judged by its results. If, as one of these results, the united squadrons, united in a considerable degree by the grace and sufferance of the French authorities, or by their helplessness, should inflict serious damage upon Japan, amounting, at the maximum, to the transfer to Russia for a time of the command of the Far Eastern seas, then the reckoning would be very stern. In view of the extreme facility of Japanese reprisals on French Indo-China, it would be very injurious to France. In that case it will much—behoove France to be able to show that her local authorities did all that in them lay to preserve her neutrality, and that they were simply overborne, as they now seem to maintain that they were, by a force which for the moment they were unable to resist. That would be a moral clearance of French responsibility.

If, on the other hand, the combined Russian squadrons are unable to change the military situation if they are decisively defeated by Japan, it is unlikely that the entertainment of ROJESTVENSKY in Kamranh Bay will ever again be heard of, even in the way of diplomatic correspondence, much less in the way of punitive or vindicatory action on the part of Japan. Consequently, paradoxical as it seems, Russia's ally is the Power which, after Japan itself, has the most direct and immediate interest in the decisive naval defeat of Russia.

FOUR MILLIONS.

The approaching State census, to begin June 1, is expected to show that New York City is very near the four-million mark, if indeed it has not actually reached it. This forecast is based upon the results of the last census. It indicates that Manhattan and Brooklyn together will be found to have about 3,370,000, the Bronx about 325,000, Queens about 200,000, and Richmond about 76,000. The sum of these apportionments is 3,971,000. The error cannot very well be so large that the total will fall materially below four millions. New York during recent years has been gaining at the rate of about 3 per cent. per annum. This would account for an increase of about 100,000 annually. In view of these facts it is not at all surprising that passengers multiply much faster than it has been found possible to increase facilities for transportation. But for the multiplication of apartment houses the problem of housing the population of New York would have presented insuperable difficulties. They have been somewhat serious as it is.

Whether New York will pass London in growth and become the largest city of the world is difficult of prophecy, for the reason that London is in some sense a law unto itself. It has of late been growing rapidly by reason of the immense alien immigration which it has not wanted, does not now desire, and is trying to discourage. This immigration has changed entirely the character of large districts of London, it has effected material changes in the rental values of great areas, it has had a marked influence in many lines of business and introduced social conditions which are wholly new to the English people. Should this movement continue London may also show phenomenal growth. The fact that it will in large degree cease to be an English city is beside the fact. Perhaps New York has already ceased to be an American city.

As compared with Paris, New York is already the larger city. By the census of 1901 Paris had a population of 2,714,000. It has probably not far if at all passed the three-million point. Berlin is growing with greater relative rapidity than Paris. It had 1,888,000 in 1900. The New Yorker may feel that he is a citizen of no mean city; if he would develop the degree of civic pride and responsibility which his duty invites and his opportunities permit and encourage, he would have greater cause for pride and satisfaction.

"AMERICAN INDUSTRIES."

It seems that Mr. R. H. EDMONDS, editor of The Manufacturers' Record of Baltimore, is one of the "stand-patters" who are touched and grieved by the perfidious and unpatriotic purpose attributed to the President of saving Uncle Sam's money by buying supplies for the Panama Canal where he can buy them cheapest. Mr. EDMONDS thinks that this malign intention "amounts to one of the most serious blows ever dealt to American industries." He goes so far as to maintain that it will "mean the loss to American trade, not only of the millions of dollars to be expended on the canal, but will materially affect the foreign market for American goods when the foreign trader realizes that goods may be purchased cheaper at home than in America."

In the first place, what kind of a fool must Mr. EDMONDS think "the foreign trader" to be that he does not know the best market in which to buy the goods he deals in until he is officially informed by the action of the American Government? But that is a detail. How does Mr. EDMONDS know that purchasing supplies for the canal abroad will be a "blow to American industries"? Suppose that the President has a fixed intention of buying none but American goods for the canal, and that his malignity extends only to a design to buy these where he can buy them cheapest. How would such a design be injurious to American industries? Our manufacturers boast, and with reason, that they can undersell European manufacturers in very many things in European markets. They are doing it all the time. It is true that, under the shelter of the tariff, they are at the same time overselling the European manufacturer in the American market. If the President desires Uncle Sam to get American goods at the cheapest rate, he will naturally send to Europe for them. It is perfectly notorious that in many lines of production, including some that produce necessary supplies for the canal, these goods can be bought cheaper there than here. They have already paid their tribute to American labor, being manufactured under conditions which protect the workmen engaged in their production against the pauper labor of Europe. All that the President, in this view of his action, would seek would be that the United States, in the matter of purchasing supplies, should be put upon the footing of the most favored nations, a footing far more favorable, of course, than that of the individual American consumer. But the notion of Mr. EDMONDS and other "stand-patters" that Uncle Sam must himself pay the tribute he is kind enough to exact from American citizens for their benefit is, in sooth, a little too strong.

THE WEATHER.

To the question, What is the matter with the weather? the only fitting reply would seem to be that Spring has been side-tracked, and, like certain freight shipments for which the buyer is waiting, forgotten by those responsible for its delivery. From long experience the citizen of New York has learned that anything like settled weather of the seasonable variety cannot be expected before about May 15. Previous to that date we usually have days, and sometimes weeks, of very agreeable and genial weather. This year we have had altogether only two or three days of genial sunshine and balmy air, and the rest of the time has been made wretched, and as nearly intolerable as anything we have to tolerate can become, by gray skies, chill winds, cold storms, and other exhibitions of what Mark Twain happily characterized as "atmospheric foolishness." If we are tempted two or three weeks hence to seek the open air without the protection of our ulsters and fur caps, and to ask ourselves, "What is so rare as a day in June?" we can answer our own inquiry by recalling that it June is rare May was raw, and let it go at that.

That the Spring climate of this part of the continent is not wholly agreeable is unfortunately a fact which even a loyal citizen of New York may concede. But it should be remembered that we have a lovely and ideal Autumn, which merits all the praise in song and story which in English literature is given to Spring. The year with us begins badly enough, but the transition from Summer into Winter is the most beautiful imaginable, and so it is probable we maintain the average in a very satisfactory way. Our Winters are probably as good, in the main, as could be found anywhere, and on the average of twelve months we have no great cause for complaint.

It may be assumed that the report from Baltimore of the discovery and successful test of a serum which is a specific for typhoid fever is not likely to be borne out by critical investigation. The apparently insuperable difficulty in the way of producing such a serum is that animals available for employment in the development of the secretions from which anti-toxins are derived have been found persistently immune to typhoid fever, and for this reason it has been impossible to inoculate them with the bacillus of this disease, as may be very well done with many other varieties of bacilli. A serum as valuable as the diphtheria anti-toxin has been would be as great a boon to humanity as would the philosopher's stone. But all experience up to this time indicates that one is as hard to find as the other. That either has been found in Baltimore is of course possible, but that it is highly improbable will be the opinion of all bacteriologists.

The price of radium has increased by demand to $100 a milligram, according to Sir WILLIAM RAMSAY, which is equivalent to $8,000,000 an ounce. To corner the market it would be necessary to collect the half-ounce of the precious stuff so far extracted, now scattered throughout the scientific laboratories of the world. It is solacing to reflect that it will emit its peculiar rays for a myriad of years without appreciable diminishment.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Hunting and Its Ethics.

One of our correspondents, who evidently possesses—whether for the punishment of his sins or of ours we hardly know—a severely logical mind, suggests that there is a large element of inconsistency in the course of those who savagely denounce men who shoot a few robins in Bronx Park and yet have no word of condemnation for a President who travels thousands of miles to enjoy the fun of killing bears, or for an ex-President whose favorite amusement is the slaughter of ducks. We are sternly ordered to prove a difference of motive in the first case and the other two, and to tell why the robin shooters are worse than the more distinguished sportsmen. It must be confessed that the question thus raised is not entirely pointless, but to answer it is a task not quite so difficult as our correspondent imagines. In the very first place, the robin shooters are lawbreakers, while Mr. ROOSEVELT and Mr. CLEVELAND are not, and, while that may not get far toward the moral issue, it does make a difference as regards our right to indulge in denunciation. Secondly, the birds in the parks are what may be called the private property of the New York public—property which, that public for many and good reasons values highly and can be bereft of only by thieves. The bears and the ducks are not property in any such sense, and so another big difference is established. But of course these arguments and several others like them that could be made will only excite our correspondent's scorn as irrelevant to his unstated, yet perfectly well understood, contention that the killing of animals by those who neither need them for food nor fear them as enemies is intrinsically wrong and a form of "sport" pardonable only in savages. We are willing and even glad to admit that the world is slowly progressing toward a time when it will probably admit the truth of that contention; we will even admit that already there exists a considerable number of people, not all of them to be dismissed summarily as "cranks," to whom hunting as an amusement has come to have an evil and repulsive savor and who have found what they think cleaner and not less interesting ways of enjoying themselves in the fields and woods. The reasonable members of this class, however, are careful in the use of adjectives when they describe their neighbors, and they have sense enough to see that to multitudes of men who are not savages in any of the relations of life the chase still offers all its ancient joys. Whoever will may fairly argue with the hunters as to whether the joy is high or low, but to call them hard names is useless and only delays the day when they, too, will conquer the ancestral instinct to which the more sensitive ones owe their very existence in a world that is and always has been "red in tooth and claw."

Protection for the Parks.

Harper's Weekly, in discussing the latest proposition to rob the city of a part of Central Park in order to increase the value of some abutting property, declares, with a convincing semblance of gravity, that "it ought to be constituted a misdemeanor to suggest any raid whatever on the park lands." The idea is somewhat startling, but the more one thinks of it the more likely is one to feel that its only fault is the use of the word "misdemeanor" instead of the word "felony." With that change made, we cannot ourselves see how any further betterment in the plan could be made. At regular and not widely spaced intervals somebody thinks out a scheme to get for himself money or money's worth out of the Park. The execution of the scheme invariably involves the injury of the Park, as such, and more or less loss to its owners, but the schemers are usually able to make out some sort of an argument that appeals to thoughtless utilitarians, and then the utilitarians who are not thoughtless find themselves forced to go to a lot of trouble to bring the public to a realising sense of its own interests. Usually they are successful, but occasionally they are not, and with things as they are the danger of failure is always present. This would be removed by the passage of a law of the kind proposed, and surely one might be devised that would prevent what Harper's Weekly calls "raids" without interfering with real improvements of the parks as parks. Such a law would at least make the would-be raiders much more cautious than they are now, and it would give them something to fear besides the present probability that they won't be able to carry their abominable plots through before their real nature is discovered.

Lightning and Telephones.

Surprise and annoyance are expressed by The Electrical Review because in the course of a recent investigation of a fire in a London telephone exchange, one of the experts who was questioned advised telephone subscribers to keep away from their instruments during thunderstorms, and said that it would even be advisable for the exchange to discontinue its service while such storms were going on. "This," says The Electrical Review, "is a rather surprising statement for a telephone man to make at this day, particularly as he cannot show any records in support of his statement. We believe that if statistics were available, they would show that there is no more danger from lightning in using a telephone or operating an exchange than one is unavoidably exposed to anyhow, and the proposal to shut down the exchange until the storm is over would not be listened to for a moment in any important city on this side of the water. It is bad enough to have an interruption once in five years, say, due to some unexpected cause, but to shut off telephonic communication every time it thunders is not to be thought of." It is pleasant to be told by an authority so high that telephoning in thunderstorms is not particularly dangerous, for many of us have to do it, but the assurance is not exactly convincing, for we have all read of dozens of cases where lightning has chosen a telephone wire as the most convenient path by which to enter a house or room, with disastrous, or at least alarming, consequences to the person using the instrument. That the danger is great enough to warrant a suspension of the service is not contended by anybody except the abnormally timid, but most people will retain the suspicion that it is a little better than just as well to keep away from the telephone when heavy discharges of atmospheric electricity are going on in the immediate neighborhood.

CORRECTING THE CZAR.

Thinks Troubles at Home Should Absorb Our Attention.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The weaknesses inherent in the human family are many and various. We have not to look very far beyond the columns of THE TIMES to be impressed with the thought. What do other nations think of us?

Yet, in view of the crimes which are daily reported and those upon which the metropolitan press is silent we find among us friends of the greater human family beyond our boundaries who would have the President express indignation to the Czar of Russia concerning the internal administration of that unhappy empire. Dr. Maryson will find much at home to engage his attention if ambitious to alleviate wrong and encourage righteousness.

Two Mosquito Factories.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Now that the warm weather is approaching, I would like to call the attention of the Health Department to two mosquito factories in the Bronx. At Jerome Avenue, from One Hundred and Sixty-third to One Hundred and Sixty-fifth Street, is a stagnant body of water covered with green scum, and on the east side of the Concourse, at One Hundred and Sixty-eighth Street, is a pond of rain water, also stagnant. Both of these pest holes could be readily filled up with ashes by the Department of Street Cleaning, thus saving an expensive haul to the street cleaning dumps as well as making the land of more value to its owners. The curing of these foul spots will prove of immense comfort to the Melrose and High Bridge residents this Summer. At present they are positively a menace to the health of the adjoining neighborhood. The Chinese Boycott.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with interest your editorial upon the proposed Chinese boycott, but cannot agree with you as to its impropriety. Indeed, I believe that in no other way can our protectionists be influenced to do justice to the Chinese merchant save through their pockets, for as a general boycott of American products must seriously affect both our manufactures and our shipping interests, it would seem to be the only practical way in which they could be brought to a realization of the injustice of their action. Those of us who have dealt with the Chinese merchants will bear unanimous testimony to their high integrity and to their promptitude in meeting their obligations.

OLD CHINESE TRADER.

The Rank of Paul Jones.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

With your permission, I desire to call your attention to a letter in your issue of April 30 anent Paul Jones, wherein the writer, Mr. Arthur Guiterman, refers to the dead hero as "Commodore Jones," and as "Our first Captain," &c. Now, I wish to inform your correspondent that Jones never held the rank of Commodore in the United States Navy, nor was he "our first Captain." The first to hold the former rank in the United States Navy was Barry, who won undying fame as Captain of the Alliance. But the first officer to hold a commission in the United States Navy was Gustavus Conyngham. It is useless to add that both were Irishmen.

"Economies" at the Quirinal.

From The London Pall Mall Gazette.

ROME, May 6.—The Italians are poor but proud, and the latent dissatisfaction at what they call the "economies" at the Quirinal, which up to now has been simmering, has at last boiled over, the proverbial last straw being that Queen Elena wore the same costume at the races the other day that she appeared in last season on the same occasion! Could enormity go further? But, all the same, there is something to be said for the grumblers. They certainly pay 16,000,000 francs (£650,000) yearly to the King, and almost the only return they get—they say—is two balls at the royal palace. The King and Queen never patronize music or the drama, never enter a private house, never pay visits, never apparently interest themselves in any of the one hundred and one social or charitable affairs of the Court set. So the people pretend that when their Majesties do issue from their "Oriental seclusion" the Queen should at least have on a new costume; but alas! they are usually disappointed.

To probe the discontent still further, it must be said that the Italians are most suspicious that the economy (which really does exist) does not go for the benefit of the royal couple, but finds its way to Montenegro—which is like a red rag to a bull to them. "That our Queen should make a 'brutta figura,'" (cut a bad figure) that Uncle Nicholas, (the Prince of Montenegro,) may prosper is intolerable," they go about muttering. But then, after all, what can they do about it?

The Flag of England.

From The London Chronicle.

"I am amazed," writes an American visitor, "at what seems to be a custom of this country of blowing loud trombone blasts on the human nose. In first-class railway carriages, restaurants, churches, in the street, one is startled by these sounds, generally explosive, sometimes sustained. Old men, children, and delicate ladies seem to be adepts at it. Is it a mark or a sound of delicate breeding?" It is merely an instance of the national manners that differ in spite of good communications.

An American is startled at the trombone of the English nose. But the Englishman always has a cold, and that fact sets the note of the national manners. And as we travel we find many startling things. We note that the German makes strange uses of his knife at table. Reaching the Summer resorts of the Black Sea we find the neighboring lady bathing without a bathing dress. It is merely a matter of latitude. The flag of England is the handkerchief, and the morning bugle is the nose.

INTERNATIONAL COURTESY.

Mr. Choate's Speech Consoles for the Irish-American Attacks.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Last week you printed a letter signed "Reciprocity" from a correspondent, who was good enough to say he was rejoiced by the sight of the Union Jack from a window of a hotel (a French one by the way) on lower Fifth Avenue, and the fact that this was so rare an occasion as to cause such a letter to be inserted in a high-class newspaper of this city is in itself amazing, and does not redound to the credit or generosity of New Yorkers, citizens of a country whose best customer and whose best friend Great Britain is.

Then to-day, you deem as "News fit to print" a letter from an Irish-American, that hyphenated combination described by dear old John Bright some twenty years ago as an individual who was a disloyal Irishman first, a hater of everything British second, and an American not at all. However, I am entirely consoled, and all is forgiven as I read a speech made by the American Ambassador in London on May 5, and a verbatim report of which appears in the London Times of May 6 now before me.

If the time ever comes when Americans will try to understand us as we are trying, and successfully, to understand them, there will be a little more international courtesy shown on this side of the Atlantic than at the present time, I greatly regret to say, is visible.

DEFENDS ENGLISH SPEECH.

Calls Absent "H" a Fiction—As to the Missing "G."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The subject of English as it is spoken frequently occupies a prominent place in your paper and the Englishman is always pointed at with derision for dropping his "h's" or inserting them where not required. I maintain from actual experience that every well-bred Englishman gives due expression to this letter. If the Bowery mode of expression and slang is typical of the American language, then give me the so-called h-less English.

While on the subject of dropping letters, why, in New York or anywhere outside of Boston, are "f's" and "g's" completely ignored, and consequently dropped? The English recognize them as being necessary in correct pronunciation in the several words in which they occur. They do not say "shootin'" for shooting, "singin'" for singing, &c.

Another of your correspondents asks why English flags are not seen in New York. Is he ignorant of the conglomeration of nationalities in this city, or the race that controls its affairs? Last year on the Fourth of July one could see any quantity of Stars and Stripes floating in the breeze from hotels and business houses in London, while in the papers here we read of a small riot in Harlem because a union jack was displayed.

CRITICISES G. A. R. MEN.

Remarks on the Disagreement as to a Brooklyn Memorial Day Parade.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read with interest the piece in this morning's TIMES which spoke of the threatened withdrawal from the Memorial Day parade of several Brooklyn posts of the Grand Army of the Republic for the simple reason that the Confederate Veterans had volunteered to take part in it.

Truly, the idea occurs to me that this is a very poor way for us Northern people to show the Southern community that all hard feeling, which existed at the close of the civil war, has vanished. The mere fact that these men of the Confederate company should have expressed a desire to take part in this parade should be sufficient to convince our friends of the Brooklyn G. A. R. posts, who threatened withdrawal, that the Confederate Veterans did so purely as a means of showing that we were now one mighty Nation, extending North, East, South, and West, and that we seek refuge in the folds of one and the same flag, the Stars and Stripes.

A TRUE NORTHERNER, BUT A BELIEVER IN JUSTICE TO EQUALS.

New York, May 15, 1905.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Will you permit me to occupy a very brief space in your columns in registering my protest and disapproval concerning the action taken by certain Grand Army posts in Brooklyn toward a Confederate organisation on the Decoration Day parade in that city?

I was formerly a member of a Brooklyn Grand Army post and I am therefore greatly surprised at such action toward Southern men who are residents here, forty years after the war has closed. I know to a certainty that such a breach of good manners would not have the indorsement of the soldiers of Grant's army who were with him at Appomattox C. H., on the morning of April 9, 1865.

CRETAN FIGHT FOR LIBERTY.

Suggestion That We Interpose Between the Island and the Powers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your paper, which stands on the front for liberty, justice, and decency, seems as if it did not take notice of what now is going on in the Island of Crete. This country is again in revolution, and now not against the Turk, but against the European powers. Anarchy and chaos prevail all over the island.

The powers do not allow the union with Greece, and the people, who are very few and too poor to support a government of their own, declared the union themselves, and have resolved to support it, fighting even against the great powers. The powers, on the other hand, want the island for themselves, and now they will bring the revolution down by killing some more unhappy Cretans because they love their liberty. America fought to set Cuba free, but they are trying to enslave people who have paid too much blood to get rid of the Turk. Could not a way be found by which this country could remind them of their duty to humanity?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A news report in to-day's issue says that by the President's order ships and supplies for the Panama Canal are to be purchased with the American people's money in Europe or South America or wherever they can be bought the cheapest. Is this a strenuous example of Administration pocketbook patriotism? Is it a clever move to still further reduce the worker's wages in this country to compete with the cheapest foreign labor with the necessary accompaniment of the lowest standard of living under the guise of a grandstand play against the trusts? Workingmen, beware of Trojans carrying gifts!

JAIL FOR AUTO SPEEDERS?

Fines Ineffective, Thinks One Who Demands Drastic Laws.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When a dangerous lunatic escapes from custody a great hue and cry is raised, and much alarm is felt as long as he remains at large. But supposing that 18,000 insane persons, in a more or less advanced stage of craziness, had suddenly broken loose and were threatening a community with bodily harm and death. Would not such a calamity set the whole country trembling with terror?

Yet such is actually the state of things here. In the State of New York alone there are not less than 18,000 dangerous madmen at large, each being the irresponsible driver of an unsafe and powerful road engine, threatening death and destruction to every man, woman, and child in its way. Since January of the present year not less than 62 persons have been killed and 793 hurt in this country by drivers of automobiles. In and about New York City alone there are not less than 5,000 of these machines, and it is here that most of the slaughter occurs.

This cold-blooded despoliation of life and limb is sickening to behold, because you can, in truth, predict that on each succeeding day a certain number of useful and beloved fellow beings will be cruelly sacrificed simply for the sake of the mad pleasure of thousands of the votaries of the automobile sport.

It simply surpasses the understanding of any sane person that any country or State can tolerate such anarchy. Why do not the common people rise in mighty protest and demand protection by proper legislation against the ever increasing automobile peril? Substantial terms of imprisonment must be given as adequate punishment to this offensive gentry. H.

FOR AN EAST SIDE MARKET.

The Proper Method of Dealing with the Pushcart Evil.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

An editorial in your paper to-day captioned "The Pushcart Evil," brought vividly to my mind an incident of my travels through the east side the other day when I had occasion to ride through Grand Street.

Lined along either side of the street from Allen Street as far toward the river as Pitt Street, I saw as many as 1,000 pushcarts attended by as many poor merchants, who must ply their vocations as best they can in this miserable fashion.

Here we pass along from Allen to Orchard to Ludlow to Essex to Norfolk to Suffolk to Clinton to Attorney to Ridge and then to Pitt Street, and on both sides of the street, with hardly a space between each cart large enough for a person to get through to the sidewalk, we see these pushcarts.

I do not propose to offer any solution to the officials of the City of New York who are certainly better able than I am to know what remedy can be suggested to do away with this evil. I am sure, however, that your suggestion that a large market be established by the City Government in that section of the east side would be the proper and only way to redeem the great east side that at one time, and not so many years ago at that, was the recognized fashionable district of the city.

I can recall when I was living there as a boy that the old Grammar School No. 42 turned out some of the most brilliant scholars to be found in New York, and today I see these same men able lawyers, statesmen, and city officials, whose very pride should encourage them in an effort to redeem the district that gave them birth. It will be well for the Mayor and his satellites to look deeply into this market matter, and if it is at all possible they should use the city's funds to build a great central market in the very heart of the east side, where these poor but thrifty and hard-working and well-meaning citizens can congregate to their hearts' content and offer their wares to the passing public. I interviewed a few of the pushcart men before I left the market, and each and every one of them said he earned more money by being centralized in a given space than by being separated and compelled to offer his wares in different parts of the city and being forced to "move on" when the minions of the law saw fit to order the vendor to "move along there."

There is not a word to be said against the proposition you advance for a central market on the east side for pushcart peddlers, who can, if necessary, be asked to pay a license fee, but every right-minded and fair-minded citizen will say a word in favor of your plan if he takes the trouble to walk through the once famous Grand Street from Allen to Pitt Street.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On your editorial page May 13 reference is made to "Decoration Day." THE TIMES has taught me so much concerning the precise use of English that I cannot think of presuming to dispute its authority, but, as the formal observance of May 30 is a ceremony which was originated by the Grand Army of the Republic, and remains under its charge, would it not be at least as well to use the name by which it is designated in its publications—"Memorial Day?"

FINDS TRAFFIC RATES UNJUST TO NEW YORK

Differentials Should Be Less, Says Commerce Commission.

UPHOLDS PLAN OF CHARGES

Contentions of Baltimore and Philadelphia for Share in Export Trade Sustained.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The Inter-State Commerce Commission to-day rendered decision on the long-standing controversy over railroad rates for export or import traffic between the West and the Atlantic seaboard, sustaining the plan of differentials from New York rates in favor of Philadelphia and Baltimore, but advising a reduction in the amount.

The decision, in the main, favors the contention of the New York railroads—the New York Central, the Lackawanna, and the Erie—who were supported by the mercantile and shipping interests of New York City and of Boston. They asserted that the differentials were unjustly diverting traffic from the ports of New York and Boston, and that they either should be reduced or done away with.

The dispute had existed between the trunk lines for many years and, from time to time, had resulted in serious rate wars, the last of which occurred a little more than a year ago. The railroads running from Buffalo to Philadelphia and Baltimore asserted the right to make a lower rate on all traffic for export or import than the lines running from Buffalo to New York.

The dispute especially regarded rates on grain arriving at Buffalo by lake steamboats. There has been no dispute over domestic rates. The commission began its inquiry a year ago.

The decision was written by Commissioner Prouty, and Commissioner Clements filed a dissenting opinion. As set out in the syllabus, the decision follows:

"The differential per 100 pounds on flour, all-rail and lake and rail, should be reduced to 2 cents at Baltimore and 1 cent at Philadelphia. The existing differential on ex-lake grain should be reduced to three-tenths of a cent per bushel, and be allowed both to Baltimore and Philadelphia. Otherwise the present export differentials should remain in force."

This modifies the rate situation which was established in 1877 and modified by the Thurman commission in 1882. In conclusion the decision states the case in the following words:

"New York insists that the effect of these differentials is to force traffic out of natural channels into unnatural and more expensive routes, and that the final effect is to impose an enormous burden upon the public. With respect to all-rail traffic this premise of fact is not well taken. The actual cost of delivering grain into the hold of the ship from the average point of origin is probably 3 cents per 100 pounds less at Baltimore than at New York. The cost of the ocean transportation from Baltimore may be somewhat greater, although New York and Boston have strenuously affirmed the contrary. Hence traffic which passes through New York and Boston under the operation of these differentials is forced into a more expensive route than though it passed out through Baltimore.

"With respect to this ex-lake grain, the assumption of New York may be correct, but we do not think this consideration should be controlling. To decree that traffic should always move by the cheapest route would be to eliminate competition, which, within reasonable bounds, is for the interest of the general public.

"It was also strongly urged upon the commission by the representatives of New York and Boston that the desire of the lines serving those ports was to eliminate the present differentials by a reduction in the export rate to those ports, and it was said that this must, in the nature of things, be a permanent reduction, and that therefore it would result in a substantial saving to the public.

"It seems probable that if the differentials were to be wiped out at present this would be done by applying at Boston, New York and Philadelphia, upon export traffic, the domestic rate to Baltimore. It is also true that the export rate could not be advanced without advancing the Baltimore domestic rate, since it would be impossible to maintain at that port a big rate on export than on domestic business.

"But what possible guarantee is there that the domestic rate at Baltimore would not be advanced? In 1902 domestic rates to all Atlantic ports were raised, and although this commission found that the advance was unjustifiable, it has been in effect except during the season of lake navigation. The present export rate is 4 cents lower than the domestic rate at New York. If that domestic rate is too high it ought to be reduced, but we do not think it would be just to the communities affected nor to the lines serving those communities nor that in the end it would benefit the general public to deprive the ports of Philadelphia and Baltimore of ability to compete for this traffic.

"This is not a proceeding in which the commission could make an order, nor do we intend to intimate that the facts appearing would justify an order in any proceeding. Our impression is that the above modifications would be fair to the various communities and lines of railway interested and that it is in the public interest that these differentials should be so adjusted that all the ports and the various lines serving them may fairly compete for this traffic."

PROUTY TELLS OF REBATES.

Commissioner Thinks Government Should Revise, Not Fix, Rates.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Commissioner Prouty of the Inter-State Commerce Commission, testified before the Senate Committee on Commerce to-day on the subject of regulating freight rates. He said that there must be a tribunal to stand between the railways and the people.

Rates should be made by the railroad, but there should be some power to revise the rate fixed by the traffic managers. He suggested a Department of Railways, before which informal complaints could be filed, and also a commission which should decide all questions of rates to go into effect at once, subject to review by a court.

Under present conditions the Standard Oil Company had absolute control of the oil business, he said, on the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad. Answering a question of Senator Newlands as to the possibility of a square deal in all railroad business, he said the only way to effect that was for the Government to take control of the roads.

Plans for Columbia Club's Home.

Plans have been filed with Building Superintendent Hopper for the remodeling of the old-fashioned four-story residence at the southwest corner of Gramercy Park and Irving Place, formerly owned by the Clark estate, into a home for the Columbia University Club, of which J. The remodeled edifice will have a grill in the basement, the main floor containing the dining room lounging and smoking rooms.

Wants $75 for Aged Couple.

The Charity Organization Society renews its appeal for $75 to pay rent for an aged couple pending their admission to a home. The man is an American, seventy-seven years old, and is helpless. The wife, who is sixty-five years old, is broken in health, but is able to earn a little toward their support. Any money for this case sent to the Charity Organization Society, 105 East Twenty-second Street, will be acknowledged.

FREAKS AT BOROUGH HALL.

Want Coney Island Licenses—Flea Troupe Travels in Pillbox.

The transaction of official business in the Brooklyn Borough Hall was interrupted yesterday by an invasion of freaks from Coney Island. The curiosities arrived in a bunch, all seeking licenses to exhibit this Summer. They crowded the rooms of the License Bureau, while clerks and office boys from the other departments in the building squeezed and struggled for a sight of them.

The star attraction was a "flea circus." It arrived in a pill box, and its manager put the entire troupe through a performance for the entertainment of Daniel J. Griffin, the head of the bureau. He got his license. There were "two-headed babies," "four-legged boys," and "three-legged girls." After them came a freak whose specialty was "eating 'em alive." A "wild man" from the "trackless wilds of the Upper Amazon," who had been so tamed that he would eat from one's hand, followed. When some one said, "Come seben, come eleben!," the "wild man's" face cracked into an ear-to-ear grin. The "boy with a watermelon head" was exhibited next. His manager explained that his head, which was shaped something like a melon, was mostly filled with water.

KNOTE WOULD QUIT MUNICH.

Tenor Resents Criticism of His New York Engagement.

MUNICH, May 18.—Heinrich Knote has written to the management of the Royal Theatre asking for immediate release from his engagement because the Munich Zeitung has criticised the management for agreeing to let him go to New York for five months next season, necessitating the engagement of a new tenor for the period of his absence.

Herr Knote's contract allowed him to select one of the next five years for a five months' engagement with the Metropolitan Opera Company at New York, but the Director of the Royal Opera was surprised when Herr Knote asked for so early a release for New York. Nevertheless the Director agreed upon the ground that it was necessary to make concessions in order to keep the tenor in Munich.

Answering the Munich Zeitung's criticism of the director, Herr Knote writes that he is only staying in Munich at a personal sacrifice because it is his native city and because of the attachment of the Munich house for him, whereas he would be able to earn thrice his present salary elsewhere.

It is believed here that Herr Knote's resignation will not be accepted, but if it is Herr Knote, it is thought, will offer his services to Director Conried of the Metropolitan Opera House permanently.

NEW LUNA PARK DIVERSIONS.

Igorrotes' Village and Dragons' Gorge to Open To-morrow.

Two of the new big attractions which were not ready for the opening of Luna Park last Saturday will be presented for the first time to-morrow. The final touches are being given to the Dragons' Gorge building, and the fifty-one Igorrotes are working like beavers to complete the setting for their novel show.

No one in the big crowd which braved the fog the opening night regretted the absence of these two attractions more than F. W. Thompson, the creator of the amusement resort. When it is understood, however, that there is almost a mile of track in L. A. Thompson's latest railway device, the Dragons' Gorge, in which grades and curves, steeper and sharper than anything ever before constructed in apparatus of the kind, the cause of the delay may be known to be due to the builder's extra caution that everything be perfect before the public is permitted to ride.

Two deaths delayed the Igorrotes' arrival until Tuesday. One man, sixty-one years old, the oldest of the band, died soon after the Filipinos had reached Seattle, and before the start for the East could be arranged one of the young women was taken ill and died at the end of a week.

Despite these unavoidable accidents, the crowd to-morrow night may taste the delights of a "scenic railway" trip greater, faster, and abounding in more sensational surprises than any other in the world. The Igorrote Village will also positively be opened to the public.

HACKETT IN A NEW PLAY.

As a Villain in "The House of Silence" He Is Killed by Lightning.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, May 18.—At the Nixon Theatre to-night James K. Hackett appeared in the role of a villian in "The House of Silence." He is struck by a bolt of lightning in the last act just as he is about to murder an American artist because of jealousy.

The play is laid in Brittany of to-day, and Victor, portrayed by Hackett, in love with Beatrice, wife of an aged painter named Gravin, throws Gravin over the cliff and murders him.

"The House of Silence" has a prologue and three acts.

Novelty for Hammerstein Roof.

Oscar Hammerstein announces the first of the European novelties which will characterize his Summer programmes for the Paradise Roof Gardens, which open on June 5. Toto is the name of this novelty, which is at present in Paris, having enjoyed a long run in that city. Toto, the Mysterious Musician is a manikin standing about three feet high. It is brought on the stage by a young woman, who places the doll in a chair, puts a zither before it, and commands it to accompany her as she sings. The remarkable part of the performance is the skill with which the automaton plays the instrument.

F. F. Proctor Not in New Association.

It was authoritatively stated last night that F. F. Proctor has not joined the newly formed Association of Stock Company Managers. This decision apparently leaves the new organization without any New York City house. Mr. Proctor would not discuss the matter last night, further than to state that he had found it inexpedient to join the new scheme, because such a course would conflict with his newly formed plans for his Fifty-eighth Street Theatre.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Corinne is to be a member of the cast supporting the Rogers Brothers next season.

In the fireworks pavilion at Manhattan Beach Pain is busy preparing his new production, "Port Arthur."

Edgar Davenport, who played the football coach in "The College Widow" during the entire run of the piece at the Garden, was operated upon yesterday by Dr. Gibbons, who removed a small bone in the actor's nose.

So great has been the popularity of Williams and Walker in "In Dahomey" at the Grand Opera House that instead of closing next week as advertised the attraction will be kept on for some time to come.

A large party of New York people went to Jersey City last night to see the first production of Sidney Brown's new play, "The Pipe of Peace," in which Robert Conness is the star. The play will probably have a production in this city next season.

Mrs. John Fox, Jr., well known in society and among literary folk, will make her first appearance at Keith's this week in a vaudeville sketch entitled "Advice." As an amateur Mrs. Fox has had success, and has always had a fondness for the stage. She will be supported by Willard Hutchinson and an adequate company.

PRESIDENT RECEIVES TWO YOUNG CALLERS

Youngster Seeing Washington Gains Entrance by His Note.

VARY WHITE HOUSE ROUTINE

Negro Nurse Conveys Thanks as Murat Halstead's Grandson and His Sister Are Welcomed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—President Roosevelt gave an unbulletined audience this week to two tow-haired children and their negro nurse. He had not expected them to call, but the meeting was altogether satisfactory to the President and his visitors.

The youngsters have been visiting in Washington with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Halstead of New York. They had seen the city from the Washington Monument, which they declared was not unlike looking out of the windows of their uncle's office in a New York skyscraper, and had been over all the points of interest to them in the capital. Their mother had gone shopping and they were walking past the White House grounds when it occurred to Master De Ford Halstead, nine years old, that they ought to take a look at the President.

Taking his sister, Hildegarde, six years old, by the hand and inviting the nurse, Cecelia Burgess of Charleston, S. C., to follow, he led the way up the White House drive to the portico. There he announced that he and his party had come to pay their respects to the President of the United States. The doorman was somewhat at a loss what to say, but the youngster, explaining that he had no card, asked for a piece of paper. On this he wrote:

"President Roosevelt: We are two children who have called to see you with our nurse Nana. We are Hildegarde and De Ford Halstead, grandchildren of your old friend Murat Halstead. Nana, our nurse, is with us. Respectfully,

"DE FORD HALSTEAD."

The doorman took the missive to Secretary Loeb, who conveyed it to the President. The Chief Executive of the United States was very busy, but found time to greet his visitors with his usual kindliness. When he had shaken hands with the children and spoken to them in the most hospitable way he turned to Nana, the nurse, who stood a little in the background with beaming eyes and minus her wonted air of authority. When Nana had shaken hands with the President she made a little speech of appreciation, saying:

"President, I certainly am glad to meet you. It is the first time I have had the pleasah of shaking hands with a President. Me and mah children is most delighted to have met you."

As the little party left the White House grounds, the nurse stepping out as if to martial music, she remarked to the children:

"I heahed an Irish nurse girl boastin' she'd shook the hand of John L. Sullivan. Wait till I see her in Central Park an' let her know I done shook hands with Mis-tah Theodore Roosevelt, President of ther United States!"

MUST HAVE BEEN POKER.

Man Hadn't a Pair and Took the Chips, Says Detective After Raid.

Detectives Cody, Griffith, and O'Brien of the Tenderloin Precinct made a raid last night upon an alleged gambling house in West Twenty-fourth Street and placed under arrest Gustave Landauer and ten other men. Landauer said he was a speculator, while the others described themselves variously as bankers and brokers. The police say that they had to point their revolvers at the crowd to prevent trouble.

Detective Cody told the Sergeant that he climbed a drain pipe of the house and, gaining entrance to the second story, went down and opened a window on the ground floor to allow his brother officers to enter. Before entering the house Cody said that he had had a peep into the room, where the men were playing cards.

"How did you know they were playing poker?" the Sergeant asked the sleuths when they had ranged the eleven prisoners before the desk at the Tenderloin Station.

"Well," answered Cody. "One man, who had his back turned to the window, didn't have a single pair of anything and no corresponding colors. I heard him raise and still raise—and finally rake in the chips. You can't do that only in poker."

Dinner in Honor of Prof. Young.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 18.—The Princeton University Faculty gave a dinner last night in honor of Prof. Charles A. Young, who has resigned from the Faculty at the age of eighty years after twenty years in the astronomical department. Among the speakers were President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton, President Francis L. Patton of Princeton Theological Seminary; Dr. Henry Van Dyke, and M. Taylor Pyne of New York, and Prof. Silas Brackett and Prof. Magie. A letter was read from Grover Cleveland, who was unable to be present.

Clergyman's Complaint Not Slander.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 18.—The jury in the ten-thousand-dollar slander suit brought by Patrick Fitzgerald, a saloon keeper of Perth Amboy, against the Rev. Percy R. Ferris, pastor of the Baptist Church of Amenia, N. Y., formerly of the First Baptist Church of Perth Amboy, decided that the minister was not guilty. Fitzgerald lost his license after the Rev. Mr. Ferris had complained of the character of the saloon. Judge Heisley held that the clergyman's complaint to the Excise Commission was a privileged communication.

Mr. Perkins Not Unfriendly.

In an account of the fight between the residents of Woodland Avenue, New Rochelle, and the Westchester Lighting Company over the placing of a line of sixty-foot poles, THE NEW YORK TIMES on May 13 erroneously stated that James B. Perkins was one of the residents who was hostile to the company. Mr. Perkins writes to THE TIMES to say that his feelings toward the Westchester Lighting Company were entirely friendly, and that he has done nothing to interfere with the placing of the line of poles on Woodland Avenue.

City Mortgage Bonds for Sale.

The Mortgage Bond Company of New York of 59 Liberty Street offers for subscription what are said to be the first issue to the public of mortgage bonds based on New York City mortgages. The bonds bear 4 per cent., run for twenty years, and carry a privilege of call after ten years, and are issued in denominations of both $100 and $1,000. The Mortgage Bond Company claims a capital and surplus of $2,400,000 and is affiliated with the Lawyers' Title Insurance and Trust Company.

RAMSEY—THURSTON.

Large Throng at Marriage at St. Peter's Church in Brooklyn.

Miss Jane Thurston was married to George Read Ramsey at St. Peter's Church in State Street, near Bond, Brooklyn, last evening. The church was filled to overflowing. A squad of police was detailed to take care of the crowd and the many carriages

Miss Jane Thurston is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parish Thurston of 238A Carlton Avenue, Brooklyn. The groom's father is George Ramsey. The maid of honor was Miss Isabelle K. Root of Hartford, Conn., and Henry B. Thurston, the bride's brother, was best man. The bridesmaids were Miss Grace Williams of Newark; Miss Helen Conrow, Miss Elizabeth Brown, and Miss Katherine F. Tobin. The ushers were Henry A. M. Ramsey, Carl L. Klemann of East Orange; S. Ingliss Leslie of Paterson, Charles Humphreys of Passaic, Parker V. Lawrence, and Frederick Donaldson.

Preceding the bridal party the male choir marched up the aisle. They joined the women's choir at the chancel and together they sang until the bridal party was drawn up in front of the officiating clergyman, the Rev. Lindsay Parker.

The bridesmaids were dressed in pink, and each carried a bouquet of pink roses. After them came the bride on the arm of her father, who gave her away. She wore a white satin gown, with point lace veil, and carried lilies of the valley. A reception at the Thurston home in Carlton Avenue followed the ceremony.

The decorations of the church were elaborate. The rear was a mass of palms, lilies of the valley, and white carnations.

Among those present at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. E. S. G. Berrick, Mr. and Mrs. James Delaney, Guy Leslie, Mrs. Carruth, the Misses Mabel and Martha Cook, Mrs. and Miss Sims, the Misses May and Phyllis Conklin, Harry Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur White, Dr. Drury, and Miss Florence Drury.

WEDDINGS OF A DAY.

REED—OTHEMAN.

The wedding of the Rev. Henry Lathrop Reed of Auburn, N. Y., and Miss Elsie M. Otheman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. Otheman, was celebrated yesterday in the Madison Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church by the Rev. Dr. Wallace MacMullen, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Andrew Longacre. The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Margaret S. Otheman. The bridegroom, who is a member of the Faculty of the Auburn Theological Seminary, was attended by his brother, Albert M. Reed, as best man, and the ushers were Dr. Horace S. Stokes, Gifford Pinchot of Washington, and Roswell C. and Edward R. Otheman, brothers of the bride. A small reception at the Otheman residence, 41 West Fifty-third Street, followed the ceremony.

WHAT IS DOING IN SOCIETY.

The invitations are out for the wedding of Miss Winona King and Oliver Perin. The wedding will take place at noon in the Congregational Church at Ridgefield, Conn., and, as mentioned some days since, on June 3. The wedding breakfast will be served at the King homestead. A special train from New York will leave the Grand Central Station at 10 A. M., and on its return will leave Ridgefield at 3 P. M. Miss Katharine Norton of Albany will be one of Miss King's attendants.

Shubert Carried $115,000 Insurance.

The Equitable Life Assurance Society yesterday paid to Catherine Shubert, mother of Sam S. Shubert, who died last Friday as a result of injuries received in the Pennsylvania Railroad wreck at Harrisburg, a check for $50,000 in payment of a policy taken out about a year ago. At the time of his death Mr. Shubert carried $105,000 life insurance in different companies, besides a $10,000 accident policy. The policy paid yesterday was taken out through the agency of M. E. Marks, general agent of the Equitable, at 128 Broadway.

LAW STUDENT GETS LESSON.

Undertakes to Test Traffic Ordinance and Is Arrested.

Rudolph Schlay, a law student, of 129 West Seventy-ninth Street, received a lesson in the law somewhat out of the ordinary in the West Side Court yesterday afternoon. He was brought in by Policeman Mallam of the West One Hundredth Street Station, who charged him with violation of the city ordinance governing bicycling.

"I have been riding my bicycle on the wrong side of the street for months in order that a policeman might tell me the law on the subject," said Schlay, who is only nineteen years old, but says he is in his second year at the Columbia Law School.

"Well, I am glad you have learned your lesson," said Magistrate Wahle. "It will cost you $3, and I hope it will be worth the money to you."

The policeman said he did not at first intend to arrest the young man, who was going up Broadway on the wrong side and at the rate of fourteen miles an hour, but that Schlay took from under his arm a copy of "Maynard on Torts," and proceeded to argue with him.

Schlay, when the fine was imposed, said he had only $1 with him.

"Well, that will do," said Magistrate Wahle. After searching his pockets he could only scrape together 85 cents. He turned to the policeman and asked him to lend him the rest, but the request was frowned upon. The Magistrate then sent him down to the detention pen and kept him there until court closed, when he discharged him.

"I guess you know a little more law now than you did when you were brought here," he said.

KIRKE LA SHELLE'S FUNERAL.

No Religious Service—Apple Blossoms on the Casket.

With the utmost simplicity the funeral of Kirke La Shelle, the theatrical manager, was held yesterday at the home of his family in Bellport, L. I. There were no religious services.

The casket was covered with apple and peach blossoms, and over the lawn down which the pall bearers bore the body were branches rich with the blooms. The pall bearers were Frank Vanderlip of Chicago, Lawrence Maxezanovich, Harry L. Hamlin, Harry L. Wilson, Ray Brown, Digby Bell, William Eugene Lewis, and J. Louis White, all of whom were Mr. La Shelle's close friends.

Ermine G. Ridgeway delivered a eulogy. He spoke of Mr. La Shelle as a man who had made his way from a lowly station to one of authority and affluence—a man who would rather give to the world than take from it, who was always ready to be the help rather than a hindrance, the friend of all men. Fred Hilliard sang a verse of the "Land o' the Leal."

The casket was borne out of the house and placed in a plain black wagon. With a friend at the head stall of either of the black horses, the pall bearers by the side of the dead man, and the mourners following on foot, the procession moved to the little cemetery on the hill a mile from the house.

Still covered by the apple and peach blossoms the casket was lowered into the grave while Ray Brown repeated a verse from Stevenson.

Among those at the funeral were Helen Redmond, Owen Wister, Dan V. Arthur, Gay Bates Post, Charles Rich and his daughter, Dorothy Rich, Manifee Johnstone, Harry Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Frink, Mrs. La Shelle's father and mother, E. G. Gilmore, Henry Carey, Wilfred Lucas, Robert Brower, George Powers, D. L. Bonta, Harry Ridings, D. C. Willoughby, Burton Emmett, Miss Muello, and J. Louis White. On their return to the city the party narrowly escaped running into a freight wreck between Islip and Bayport.

HERBERT CROKER BURIED.

Friends of His Father Among the Honorary Pall Bearers.

Herbert Croker, who died on a train near Newton, Kansas, some days ago, was buried yesterday morning at 11 o'clock from the residence of his mother, Mrs. Richard Croker, 5 East Seventy-fourth Street. The funeral services were held in the Church of St. Ignatius, Park Avenue and Eighty-fourth Street. Mrs. Croker was too ill to attend. When the casket was taken from the house a small crowd gathered about the steps. Roundsman Fay and five patrolmen from the East Sixty-seventh Street Station were detailed to preserve order.

In the first carriage to leave the house were Misses Ethel and Florence Croker and Richard Croker, Jr. Edward Croker, Chief of the Fire Department, and James Collins, brother of Mrs. Croker, were in another carriage.

A low mass was celebrated at the Church of St. Ignatius, the Rev. Neil McKinnon officiating. Among the honorary pall bearers who followed the casket to the grave in Calvary Cemetery were John Fox, John Edmund Connolly, Andrew Freedman, and Frank Mahler. Miss Jeannette Horton, who said she would have married Herbert Croker in two weeks had he lived, was not at the funeral.

Issues Suburban Home Book.

C. M. Burt, General Passenger Agent of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, has ready for distribution a "Suburban Home Book." This gives details of suburban property and the means of getting to it, the number of churches, schools, clubs, condition of roads, and telephone service. The purpose of the book is not to "boom" particular property, but to develop available places along the line and increase the number of suburbanites who use the road.

Boys' Band to Give Concert.

East side residents will have an opportunity to judge the boys' band of the Hebrew Benevolent and Orphan Asylum Society, for the lads will give a concert in Tompkins Square Park Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. In the event of bad weather there will be a postponement until the first fair Sunday.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Fair weather is indicated for Friday in all parts of the country except the Southwest, the middle Rocky Mountain regions, and thence eastward to the Lower Ohio Valley. The rain area in the West will advance into the Ohio Valley and lower lake region Saturday.

Cool weather will continue in northern and eastern districts, also in the Southwest.

The winds along the New England and Middle Atlantic Coasts will be fresh southwest to west; South Atlantic and East Gulf light and variable; West Gulf Coast fresh to brisk southeast, increasing on Gulf lower lakes fresh southwest; upper lakes light to fresh north.

Steamships departing Friday for European ports will have light west winds and cloudy weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND SATURDAY.

Eastern New York, Eastern Pennsylvania, and New Jersey—Fair Friday and Saturday; light to fresh northwest winds.

Western New York—Partly cloudy Friday and Saturday; fresh west winds.

Western Pennsylvania—Partly cloudy Friday, probably showers Friday night and Saturday; fresh west winds.

New England—Fair Friday and Saturday; light to fresh winds.

The record of temperature for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer of the Weather Bureau, is as follows:

12 M.	67	66	12 P. M.	56	—

The thermometer of the Weather Bureau is 285 feet above the street level.

The average temperature yesterday was 58; corresponding date 1904, 60; corresponding date for last twenty-five years, 59.

The thermometer registered 51 degrees at 8 A. M. and 61 degrees at 8 P. M. yesterday; the maximum temperature being 67 degrees at 2 P. M. and the minimum 48 degrees at 5 A. M. The humidity was 96 per cent. at 8 A. M. and 74 per cent. at 8 P. M.

LAWRENCE DELMOUR VERY ILL

Croker's Old Lieutenant Brought Home from City Island.

Lawrence Delmour, better known in political circles as "Larry," the former lieutenant of Richard Croker and one of the best known of the "Croker Old Guard," is dangerously ill at his residence at 116 East Eighty-ninth Street. A nurse and two physicians are with him.

Mr. Delmour has a Summer home at City Island and spent last week there. He contracted a severe cold, which, aggravated by heart trouble, made his condition serious. He was brought back to the city last Monday. The physicians say that he is slightly better and have hopes that he will recover.

MRS. JACOB A. RIIS DEAD.

Wife of Well-Known Writer and Lecturer Succumbs to Pneumonia.

Mrs. Elizabeth Riis, wife of Jacob Riis, the well-known writer and lecturer, died yesterday afternoon of pneumonia at her home, Richmond Hill, L. I. Mrs. Riis had not been in good health for a year. When her condition became serious two weeks ago her husband was summoned from a Western lecture tour, her sons, Edward V., from San Francisco, and John, from Denver.

At the time of her death the family, including the other children, Mrs. W. E. Fiske, Catharine E., and William R., were at the bedside, with the Rev. William T. Evans of the Church of the Resurrection and the Rev. R. Andersen of the Danish Church of Brooklyn. On the day previous to her death the family received a telegram from President Roosevelt, in which he said that he and his family were praying for the recovery of Mrs. Riis.

Mrs. Riis was a member of the Twentieth Century Club, and a member of St. Mary's Guild of Richmond Hill. She devoted a great deal of her time to charity. In his book on "The Making of an American" Mr. Riis devoted one chapter to his wife.

She was 53 years of age, and was born in Kibe, Denmark. She married Jacob A. Riis there in 1876. He returned to Denmark for the wedding, after having been several years in the United States. Mrs. Riis was a woman of literary ability, and collaborated with her husband in many of his well-known articles and works.

LEWIS JOHN PHILLIPS DEAD.

Was Conspicuous in Realty Operations and as Philanthropist.

Lewis John Phillips, senior of the real estate brokerage firm of L. J. Phillips & Co., died yesterday at 15 East Eightieth Street. He had been ailing since November.

Mr. Phillips was born in London, England, April 26, 1831, and three years later his father, J. A. Phillips, brought him to New York and established a furrier's business, which prospered exceedingly. When thirteen years old the son went into his father's employ and was gradually advanced until he became a partner in the concern. In 1860 he formed the fur house of L. J. & J. Phillips, taking in his brother. This name lasted till it became L. J. Phillips & Co., but in 1868 the business was changed to real estate, and Isaac Phillips made up the firm. This continued until Isaac Phillips's death, when the title became the present one and Lewis Phillips was active in it until last November, his last transaction being one involving more than $1,000,000.

Mr. Phillips was dean of the real estate brokers. He was until 1873 one of the largest operators in the market, but subsequently did business solely as a broker. He was the owner at one time of nearly all of the realty at Elberon, Long Branch, and died wealthy, and the owner of important properties.

He was the representative of the United States Government in the purchasing of the site for the Appraiser's Stores and other Federal property, and appraised the realty on which the new Custom House is being erected. In politics he was a Republican and served a term as Alderman. He was nominated in 1884 for the Mayoralty, but declined in favor of Frederick S. Gibbs, who was defeated. He was a member of the Chamber of Commerce and widely known as a philanthropist. A tablet in recognition of his altruism was placed in the Mount Sinai Hospital, and he had membership in every local Jewish organization of importance.

Funeral arrangements were not completed yesterday, but it was settled that there will be services at his late home on Sunday, and that interment will be at Cypress Hills Cemetery.

DEATH LIST OF A DAY.

Prof. C. R. Stiles.

TOWANDA, Penn., May 18.—Prof. C. R. Stiles, Principal of Susquehanna Collegiate Institute, died to-day of apoplexy, aged forty-seven years. He was a Yale graduate and had been connected with the Susquehanna Institute for three years.

Mrs. Catherine Worthington Davis.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Mrs. Catherine Worthington Davis, widow of William Worthington Davis, and the mother of Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer of New York, died at her home here to-day. Mrs. Davis and her husband were cousins and also cousins of Jefferson Davis. The family has been a prominent one for many years in the society of Washington and Virginia.

Obituary Notes.

PETER FARLEY, 67 years old, a well-known resident of Glen Ridge, died at his home in Orange yesterday after an illness of a year. Mr. Farley had resided in Bloomfield and Glen Ridge for forty years. He was active in civic and municipal movements. He was a Democrat, and for several years was Superintendent of Roads. He was an old exempt fireman.

GRAPE-NUTS.

GREAT CHANGE

From Change in Food.

The brain depends much more on the stomach than we are apt to suppose until we take thought in the matter. Feed the stomach on proper food easy to digest and containing the proper amount of phosphates and the healthy brain will respond to all demands. A notable housewife in Buffalo writes:

"The doctor diagnosed my trouble as a 'nervous affection of the stomach.' I was actually so nervous that I could not sit still for five minutes to read the newspaper, and to attend to my household duties was simply impossible. I doctored all the time with remedies, but medicine did no good.

"My physician put me on all sorts of diet, and I tried many kinds of cereal foods, but none of them agreed with me. I was almost discouraged, and when I tried Grape-Nuts I did so with many misgivings—I had no faith that it would succeed where everything else had failed.

"But it did succeed, and you don't know how glad I am that I tried it. I feel like a new person, I have gained in weight and I don't have that terrible burning sensation in my stomach any more. I feel so strong again that I am surprised at myself. The street noises that used to irritate me so, I never notice now, and my mind is so clear that my household duties are a real pleasure."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason.

Now why was this great change made in this woman?

The stomach and the brain had not been supplied with the right kind of food to rebuild and strengthen the nerve centres in these organs. It is absolute folly to try to do this with medicine. There is but one sure way and that is to quit the old food that has failed and take on Grape-Nuts food which is more than half digested in the process of manufacture and is rich in the phosphate of potash contained in the natural grain, which unites with albumen and water—the only three substances that will make up the soft gray filling in the thousands of delicate nerve centres in the brain and body. Grape-Nuts food is a sure road back to health in all such cases.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

Found!

II.

"A magazine of the world's best fiction," is what "Tales" is to be. It will contain nothing but stories—stories humorous, pathetic, descriptive, tragic, comic—stories from every language that possesses a literature—stories from France, Germany, Italy, Scandinavia—stories from Spain, Hungary, Arabia and Japan—all translated into English. And the stories will be the best that those countries produce—nothing but the best. In "Tales" every kind of reader will find the kind of story he likes best. Each number will contain a complete novel, one or two serials, and from fifteen to twenty short stories. It will give 160 pages of reading matter—the largest quantity of good fiction ever included in one magazine.

Hadn't you better order it from your newsdealer?

$25,500,000
American Smelters Securities Company

Five Per Cent. Cumulative Preferred Stock, Series B.

DIVIDENDS PAYABLE QUARTERLY ON THE FIRST DAYS OF MARCH, JUNE, SEPTEMBER AND DECEMBER.

Shares of the par value of $100 each.

The issue is subject to redemption or purchase (in whole or in part), at par and accrued dividends, on June 1, 1930, or on any quarterly dividend date thereafter upon two months' notice.

E. W. Nash, Esq., President, and Daniel Guggenheim, Esq., Chairman of the Executive Committee of the American Smelting & Refining Company, write us, under date of May 11, 1905, in part, as follows:

"The American Smelters Securities Company (formerly the American Smelters Exploration Company) is already the owner of important ore producing properties, or the securities thereof, and is about to acquire a number of well-established productive smelting properties, or the securities thereof, and to construct additional smelting plans for the extension of its business, especially on the Pacific Coast.

The American Smelting & Refining Company is the owner of a controlling interest in the Common Stock of the American Smelters Securities Company, in which the voting power is lodged exclusively for the first two years and thereafter unless dividends on the Preferred Stock for one year shall be in default. The amended certificate of incorporation of the American Smelters Securities Company provides that neither class of preferred stock shall be increased without the affirmative vote of the holders of at least two-thirds in amount of every class of stock. The stock of the American Smelters Securities Company consists of:

Common Stock	$30,000,000
and Preferred Stock	47,000,000
Divided into:
Six Per Cent. Cumulative Preferred Stock, Series A, unguaranteed	$17,000,000
Five Per Cent. Cumulative Preferred Stock, Series B, guaranteed	30,000,000
Total	$77,000,000

So far as the Securities Company is concerned, the Series A Stock has a preference as to dividends; the Series B Stock ranks equally with the Series A Stock as to assets, both classes of Preferred Stock having equal priority over the Common Stock in this regard.

All or any part of the stock (Series B) outstanding may be redeemed at par and accrued dividends by the American Smelters Securities Company, or may be purchased at par and accrued dividends by the American Smelting & Refining Company, on June 1, 1930, or upon any quarterly dividend date thereafter upon two months' previous notice.

EVERY CERTIFICATE OF STOCK WILL BEAR THE FOLLOWING ENDORSEMENT OF GUARANTY BY THE AMERICAN SMELTING & REFINING COMPANY:

"FOR VALUE RECEIVED, the American Smelting & Refining Company hereby agrees with the present and every future holder of the shares of Preferred Stock, Series B, of the American Smelters Securities Company represented by the within certificate, and his personal representatives and assigns, that quarterly dividends at the rate of five per cent. per annum upon the stock represented by said certificate will be promptly paid irrespective of whether such dividends shall be earned and declared by the American Smelters Securities Company, and that in case of the liquidation, dissolution or winding up of the American Smelters Securities Company, whether voluntary or involuntary, the holder of this certificate will realize upon the shares represented thereby the par value thereof, together with interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum for any period for which dividends at said rate shall not have been paid either by said Securities Company or under this guaranty, (which interest shall be in lieu of omitted dividends.)

"The American Smelting & Refining Company further agrees that it will in all respects perform the agreement, dated May 11, 1905, entered into between it and the American Smelters Securities Company for the benefit of the holders of said Preferred Stock, Series B."

THE AMERICAN SMELTING & REFINING COMPANY HAS ALSO ENTERED INTO AN AGREEMENT WHICH PROVIDES AMONG OTHER THINGS, THAT, SO LONG AS ANY OF THE PREFERRED STOCK, SERIES B, OF THE SECURITIES COMPANY SHALL BE OUTSTANDING, THE AMERICAN SMELTING & REFINING COMPANY SHALL NOT ISSUE ANY BONDS OR MAKE ANY FURTHER GUARANTY IN RESPECT OF ANY CAPITAL STOCK OR OBLIGATIONS, WHICH, INCLUDING THE GUARANTY, OF SAID PREFERRED STOCK, SHALL CREATE A LIABILITY, ACTUAL OR CONTINGENT, FOR INTEREST OR DIVIDENDS OR OTHER LIKE CHARGES, WHICH SHALL IN ANY YEAR EXCEED IN THE AGGREGATE TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT. OF ITS NET EARNINGS FOR THE TWELVE MONTHS NEXT PRECEDING THE CREATION OF SUCH BONDS OR GUARANTY.

Except the interest on $561,000 bonds of an old issue, which will soon be retired, the American Smelting & Refining Company has no charge ahead of its Capital Stock other than that arising on the guaranty of the said $30,000,000 of Preferred Stock, Series B, of the American Smelters Securities Company. Thus this guaranty is practically the only fixed charge of the American Smelting & Refining Company, whose capital stock consists of $50,000,000 Common and $5[illegible],000,000 7 per cent. Cumulative Preferred Stock, (together having a present market value of about $117,000,000.)

AGAINST THE ANNUAL $1,500,000 GUARANTEED DIVIDEND UPON THE $30,000,000 PREFERRED B STOCK, THE NET EARNINGS OF THE AMERICAN SMELTING & REFINING COMPANY FOR THE PRESENT FISCAL YEAR ENDING MAY 31, 1905, WILL AMOUNT TO ABOUT $8,500,000. IN ADDITION THE NET EARNINGS OF THE AMERICAN SMELTERS SECURITIES COMPANY WILL, IT IS ESTIMATED, ON THE COMPLETION OF THE VARIOUS WORKS IN PROCESS OF CONSTRUCTION AND IN CONTEMPLATION, AMOUNT TO ABOUT $5,500,000.

For further information as to this issue of stock reference is made to the letter, above mentioned, of the President and the Chairman of the Executive Committee of the American Smelting and Refining Company.

THE UNDERSIGNED WILL RECEIVE SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR THE ABOVE STOCK AT 98 PER CENT.

The subscription will be opened at the office of the undersigned at 10 o'clock A. M. on Thursday, May 25, 1905, and will be closed at 3 o'clock P. M., or earlier, on the same day, the right being reserved to reject any applications and to award a smaller amount than applied for. Allotments made upon subscriptions are to be paid for on June 1, 1905, against delivery of temporary certificates or receipts, exchangeable for engraver stock certificates when issued.

The proceedings for the creation of this issue of Preferred Stock were taken under the supervision of Messrs. Guggenheimer, Untermyer and Marshall. The legality of the issue of the stock and of the guaranty by the American Smelting & Refining Company has also been approved by Messrs. Guthrie, Cravath and Henderson, WHO FURTHER ADVISE US THAT THE STOCK IS NOT SUBJECT TO TAXATION UNDER THE LAWS OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK.

Application will be made to list this stock on the New York Stock Exchange.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 18.—The local money market to-day was dull and rates much easier. The usual table follows:

Call loans, 3@3½ per cent.; time loans on collateral, 3½@4½ per cent.; time loans on mercantile paper, 3¾@4 per cent.; Clearing House loans, 2½ per cent.; New York funds at par; clearings, $22,858,151; balances, $1,193,041; Sub-Treasury debit, $13,090.

The local market was weak and irregular to-day in sympathy with the lower New York market. Boston Consolidated was an exception, being strong, and advancing to 8½ and over, on the very best buying. This stock has shown evidences of accumulation for two months, and the feeling on it here is very bullish. Much higher prices are talked. Utah also held well. It seems to be pegged at 43, certain interests apparently being willing to take all that is offered at that figure. The balance of the list was without feature. The complete list of transactions follows:

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 18.—The heaviest trading here to-day was in United States Steel, Reading, and United Gas Improvement, in the order named. Dealings in Steel were the largest recorded at the local Exchange in that stock. Gas fluctuated erratically, opening at 121, against final sales yesterday at 118¾. A quick break to 118¾ followed, after which there was a persistent absorption of the stock around 119, until well into the afternoon, when the price reacted to 117½; it was offered at that figure at the close, with 117¾ bid. The latter movement was in sympathy with the general list, which weakened on the decline in Steels. Cambria Steel was off ⅛, Consolidated Lake Superior Corporation ⅛, Fairmount Park Transportation ⅛, General Asphalt preferred ½, Lehigh Valley 1¼, Philadelphia Company ½, Tonopah Mining ⅜, and United Companies of New Jersey 1. About the only strong stocks were the tractions, Union advancing to a new high record and Rapid Transit holding around yesterday's level. The total sales were 76,174 shares, and $58,700 bonds, as follows:

THE FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Under Pressure; Call Money Easy, 2@2½ Per Cent.

Prices Fall Under Fright Regarding the Crops, the Northern Pacific Election, and the Tariff Outlook.

The Stock Exchange lost its equanimity yesterday, and worked up a fine frenzy while marking prices down under a state of mind regarding future events rather than present conditions. Crops are neither ruined nor harvested in May, and yesterday's advance of 3 cents in wheat, "considering that the good promise for wheat is not appreciably disturbed," was as extravagant as the fall of an average of, say, 2 points for stocks. The crop scare of course was contributory to the fall of stocks—unless, indeed, it be regarded as engineered to help it along—and it was assisted by continued uneasiness regarding the irrepressible nature of the issues raised by the Administration's Panama purchase policy. It is unnecessary to minimize those issues, or their ultimate effect upon "bad" trusts, but it is starting early to mark down stocks upon account of them by entire points.

These considerations were emphasized by the worst scare of all—that regarding the condition of affairs in the Northwest as revealed by the non-election of Mr. Harriman and gentlemen associated with him as Directors of Northern Pacific. Nobody who has read THE TIMES is taken by surprise at this event, or needs to be informed regarding its real character. It is for the benefit of those who need to be told a thing often that it is repeated that what has taken place is a mere adjustment of conditions to facts and the law. Following the Northern Pacific corner, Mr. Morgan named certain Directors chosen for their personal character and railway experience, not as representatives of any railway. Their functions having been well discharged, they retire with honor and thanks, and without any prejudice to their railways or themselves. Mr. Harriman was not re-elected a Northern Pacific Director simply because he recognizes that he was misadvised by counsel that he was eligible. Before the Northern Securities decision there was room for difference of opinion regarding this, but now there is none. Mr. Harriman accommodates himself to the situation so gracefully that he voted his proxies for the gentlemen who are named, and who had his approval before their names were published. They are known as substantial owners of the property upon whose board they will sit. That they would start a war of rates or any other policy which should react against their own interests, or that they should permit personal considerations to influence their official acts, is not consistent with the public estimate of them. There is indeed such a formal severance of inter-ownership and interchange of officials of parallel and competing railways as the law requires, but there is no disclosure of anything more at this time. Any assumption of anything more rests upon a basis like that of assumed injury to the crops and stagnation in the iron trade when those events, even if they are certainties, lie far in the future. It is all right to sell stocks in anticipation of evil if you own them, but it is dangerous to sell other people's stocks for that reason unless you are sure what is going to happen.

CHICAGO QUOTATIONS.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 18.—New York exchange to-day was 10c premium. Time and call loans, 3½@4½ per cent. The customary activity in the shares of Chicago Subway was the feature of local speculation again. More than 2,000 shares changed hands during the morning. There appeared to be some realizing by the outside public, which had been attracted by the recent activity. The shares started out at 60¾, sold down to 60, and were taken on again at the former high record.

Other stocks were irregular. Can preferred sold off to around 60, and Biscuit common went below 61. Carbon sold at 62. Bonds were fairly active.

Afternoon trading found prices depressed, in sympathy with the slump of the Eastern market. Can preferred was pressed for sale, and broke to 68¼, while Biscuit common dropped to near 60. Carbon common lost 2 points, and Subway fell back to an easy close at 60¼. The list follows:

TRADING IN BALTIMORE.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, May 18.—The tenor of the local market was unchanged to-day. The early trading was almost wholly in bonds, and the price movements in them were not consistent nor important. United Railway 4s were ¼ off, at 92¼, but other bonds were either steady or higher. Seaboard 5s at 100½, were 1½ above the last sale several weeks ago. In stocks, Maryland Casualty sold ½ off, at 50, and Consolidated Gas gained ¼ at 83¾.

Seaboard common sold at 18¾@18¼, as against the last previous sale, about the first of this month, at 20. Consolidated Gas in one lot of 5 shares sold at 85, making a gain for the day of 2 points, but there is plenty of the stock for sale in larger blocks at lower figures. The closing was dull and easy. The total sales were: Shares, 250; bonds, $42,000, as follows:

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Liquidation in Steel Said to be due to the President's Attitude.

Heavy liquidation in the steel stocks started a severe break in the stock market yesterday. It was not so much the reports of a slackening in the steel and iron business, which was said to be unimportant, as the belief growing among large holders of the stock that the President's edict about the purchasing of supplies in the cheapest markets foreshadowed antagonism to the Steel Corporation, which, while quiescent now, might become active at any time.

"The President," said a banker, "is, I understand, about to write a book on bear hunting. This last week he has certainly given a plain demonstration of the most successful method of stirring up those animals. I consider the President's attitude as largely responsible for the scare which we have had to-day."

Don't Like the President's Attitude.

While steel officials declare, in the most positive terms, that all talk of a serious break in the steel market is beyond the facts, they are more reticent about the President's attitude toward home manufactures. Judge Gary, Chairman of the Steel Corporation, who is going to Washington to-day to testify before the Senate committee, at its invitation, is understood to be not quite so confident of the outcome of a discussion of the steel business at this time, but, while he declines to talk about the matter, some of the larger holders of steel issues are less reticent. They do not hesitate to say that they do not like the President's attitude toward an argument which, during the last campaign, was used against the party which he is supposed to represent—namely, the argument about the cost of trust products to foreign and domestic consumers.

Steel Stock No Longer Scarce.

A few months ago the scarcity of the steel stocks was a matter for common comment. This scarcity no longer exists, for during the last few weeks there has been a noticeable increase in the floating supply. This fact alone has given confidence to the large short interest in these stocks, and, as a consequence, the shorts are not in a hurry to cover, even at the low prices reached yesterday. The effect of the break in steel on market sentiment was pronounced. It took away the leadership from Union Pacific. St. Paul, or Amalgamated with ease, forced general liquidation in other stocks as well, and started an avalanche of selling which swelled the day's transactions to more than 1,000,000 shares. This increase of activity on the break was one of the market features most damaging to the bull interests.

Meaning of Harriman Changes.

The failure of the Northern Pacific stockholders to re-elect any of the so-called Harriman Directors was used as a bear argument by the traders, because they were not informed as to the real meaning of the changes made. As a matter of fact, it can be said on the authority of a representative of the Hill interests that there is a general understanding now in existence which has eliminated a good deal of the friction which was in process of developing some months ago. The Board of Directors of the Northern Pacific, as now constituted, probably represents more substantially than that of any other company the stock ownerships of the road. There is hardly a Director on the board whose personal holdings in the road do not exceed $1,000,000. There is only one whose personal interest is less than that, and he represents, in addition, the very large interest of an estate. Much more than a bare majority of the stock is held in the Board of Directors itself.

Annual Crop Scare Period.

The market is now running into the annual crop scare period. Reports of damage to growing crops and the retarding of work on the corn crop, emphasized as they were by a sharp rise in wheat in the various pits, had not a little to do with increasing the feeling of uncertainty in evidence yesterday. The rise in the July option in wheat is commonly ascribed to manipulation by the Gates crowd. There were rumors that Gates had transferred a large part of his interest in May wheat to the July delivery at the time that the May corner collapsed. These reports have been becoming more insistent ever since, but Mr. Gates has declined to talk about the matter. One trader made the reflection yesterday that it would be curious to see the market break because of a rise in wheat after it had had such a severe setback a month ago because of the decline in wheat prices.

Pools That Haven't Liquidated.

There are still a number of pools in the market that have not liquidated their holdings, and there is some apprehension as to what would happen if any of these combinations should be either forced to sell or should agree to let go with the idea that discretion meant the better part of margins. Some of the bid and asked quotations in these pool issues are more than ten points apart. Generally, the asked price is that of the last sale, while the bid price is way below. In some cases it is reported that there is no bid for more than a very small amount of stock, and some urgent selling of real stock would probably break the price. So long as accidents of this kind are likely to happen, market observers think that the position of the bull account will be vulnerable.

Don't Follow the Other Fellow.

Shrewd traders express the opinion that the recovery from the very low prices, which culminated two days ago, was too much encouraged by false reports of buying by large interests and of false rumors of benefits to accrue. Among the latter were the reports that a dividend would be surely declared on Southern Pacific at the next meeting, a report which is now authoritatively denied. How deceptive and destructive it is to follow the trading of big men, whose dealings can only be guessed at, is demonstrated, but Theodore H. Price yesterday called renewed attention to this fact. It had been reported that he had been selling the cotton market, thus causing a decline of some 10 points. In reply he said:

"I should not advise too much reliance on such reports, and in any event money is not to be made by trading in cotton on the basis of what I may be doing or selling. It should be borne in mind that the market is bigger than any one man, or group of men, and that at present it rests upon the substantial foundation of unprecedented trade demand for cotton."

The same applies to the stock market.

Good Selling and Bad Selling.

There appeared to be some difference of opinion as to whether the selling yesterday had been "good" or "bad."

"This," said a broker, "is a bugaboo which traders and others use to frighten themselves with. It is said that the best selling is at the top of a bull movement, and that the selling which comes after is not so good. If best selling is intended to mean wisest selling, then this oft-repeated platitude is correct. But there is a great deal of selling, which, considering the sources from which it comes, is just as good after the market has gone down 10 points as that which occurs before. In fact the later selling often comes from better sources. It is generally the optimist, the greatest believer in a property, often the heaviest stockholder, who sells last, because he has to. Again, so-called bad selling often succeeds in forcing a lot of good selling. Yesterday, I think it was about half and half."

THE OUTSIDE SECURITIES

General Decline in Prices Without Increase in Transactions.

Continued Liquidation in Northern Securities Stubs—Three Point Decline in Interborough.

Reactions in the active stocks in the outside market yesterday extended to 4⅝ points, which was the net loss shown by Northern Securities. In the face of the declining general market no effort apparently was made to maintain the price of curb issues so that with few exceptions the closing prices were not far from the lowest, and in numerous instances these were substantially below Wednesday's final prices. In most cases relatively little stock came out, but so little disposition was shown to take it that prices suffered a good deal. Interborough, for instance, lost three full points on the sale of only 300 shares, American Can preferred lost 1½ points on the sale of less than a thousand shares, and so to a less degree in a number of other issues. United Copper, which had been held very strong above 25, yesterday declined to 24, and closed at the lowest. The preferred, however, after declining to 71½, rallied to 72½.

***

NORTHERN SECURITIES stubs sold as low as 287½. There has been constant liquidation of the stubs for several weeks, and it is said that most of the selling has come from sources where correct information in regard to their probable value is likely to exist. The advance in the stubs from about the present price to 900 now, even more decidedly than at the time it was in progress, appears to have been a speculative movement. It would indeed take a very decided and now generally unlooked-for change in the market to bring the stubs to a point at which those who bought at 900 with confidence of the price advancing to 1,500 could sell at a profit. Northern Securities stock yesterday declined steadily from about 169¼ to 165⅜, closing at the lowest price reached during the session.

THE LONDON MARKET.

LONDON, May 18.—Money was wanted in the market to-day for repayment to the Bank of England, and supplies were more abundant in consequence of the release of Japanese cash. Discounts were easier in sympathy with the general outlook.

Trading on the Stock Exchange was cheerful at the opening, but became dull and quiet. Consols were slightly higher on investment purchases.

Americans opened weak and irregular in sympathy with New York. The depression was increased owing to the fact that a big firm of brokers with West End (London) and Amsterdam connections had all its open accounts, chiefly Americans, closed to-day. Later prices rallied on New York advices and closed firmer.

Imperial Japanese Government 6s of 1904 were quoted at 101½.

Closing prices:

EUROPEAN HOTELS. EUROPEAN HOTELS.

SAVOY HOTEL LONDON.

OVERLOOKING THE RIVER AND EMBANKMENT GARDENS.

Never in the history of hotel life in any country have the public shown a greater appreciation of comforts and luxury provided for them than since the opening of the alterations and extensions to the Savoy Hotel, London, upon which has been spent upwards of

ONE MILLION POUNDS STERLING.

The new alterations were opened in May last. For the seven months to December 31st, 37,794 visitors occupied apartments as compared with 20,218 for the same period of 1903, and 35,327 more people dined and supped in the restaurant.

The new building is characterized by extreme luxuriousness. The Times.

Elegance and artistic character are everywhere. Nothing has been omitted that could conduce to the comfort and content of the visitor. Ladies' Field.

The most beautiful hotel in Europe.—Outlook.

An ideal home for twentieth century London.—Queen.

The great pile of buildings included in this latest addition to the architectural sights of London forms a combination of luxury and beauty which cannot be surpassed in the wide world. The New Savoy is a vast palace of a thousand splendours, of a thousand surprising and delightful innovations Nothing that could contribute to the comfort, the smoothness, and the joy of life is wanting which the inventive genius of America and Europe could supply, or that the taste and skill of the world's schools of art in all its branches could furnish. The place is, in its way, a very triumph of genius. Its match is not to be found in London, nor in Paris, nor, indeed, in any capital of this little planet. To do it justice in a necessarily brief article is impossible. Having rambled through its glorious salons and galleries, and ante-chambers, up and down marble staircases of noble breadth, beneath panelled ceilings, adorned in relief with exquisite golden tracery, one feels that all this royal magnificence, this opulent beauty, might well inspire a volume which should be bound in white satin and gold.—Western Mail.

Sixty Years Established Speaks for Itself.—Honorable dealing during that time has made us a host of friends as well as clients. We want to know you; your patronage will follow. We have a man who thoroughly knows the building business handling our sales department, and he is constantly on the lookout for good things. We do not hand these out promiscuously, but to a select few whom we care to favor. The entire time of our representative is given to our clients, and he will call by appointment, or you can see him at our office. Courteously yours, GEORGE W. MERCER & SON, 266 West 23d St.

SURROGATE NOTICES.

BORGFELDT, GEORGE.—The People of the State of New York, by the grace of God free and independent, to Nannie Borgfeldt, George Borgfeldt, Katherine Muller, Emma Feldman, Ernst Semler, George B. Kahle, German Society of the City of New York, German Hospital of the City of New York, and to all persons interested in the estate of GEORGE BORGFELDT, late of Kaltenleutgeben, Austria, deceased, as creditors, legatees, next of kin or otherwise, send greeting:

You and each of you are hereby cited and required personally to be and appear before our Surrogate of the County of New York, at the Surrogates' Court of said County, held at the County Court House in the County of New York, on the 27th day of June, 1906, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to attend a judicial settlement of the account of proceedings of George Semler, Marcel Kahle, and Joseph Kahle, as ancillary executors of the last will and testament of said deceased; and such of you as are hereby cited, as are under the age of twenty-one years, are required to appear by your guardian, if you have one, or if you have none, to appear and apply for one to be appointed, or in the event of your neglect or failure to do so, a guardian will be appointed by this Surrogate to represent and act for you in the proceeding.

In testimony whereof we have caused the seal of the Surrogates' Court of the said [L. S.] County of New York to be hereunto affixed. Witness, Hon. Frank T. Fitzgerald, a Surrogate of our said County, at the County of New York, the 4th day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and five.
JAMES W. DONNELLY,
Clerk of the Surrogates' Court.

REFEREES' NOTICES.

SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF NEW York.—NELLIE McGILL against GEORGE A. McGILL, individually and as executor of the last will and testament of Richard McGill deceased; BELLA BROOKS, and IRENE BROOKS.

In pursuance to the interlocutory judgment of partition and sale in the above-entitled action, dated the 26th day of August, 1904, and duly entered in the office of the Clerk of the County of New York on the 16th day of December, 1904, I, the undersigned, the referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the Exchange Sales Room, 14 and 16 Vesey Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 25th day of May, 1905, at twelve o'clock noon on that day, by D. Phoenix Ingraham, auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold and therein described as follows:

"All that certain lot, piece, or parcel of land, with the buildings thereon, situate, lying, and being in the Twentieth Ward of the City of New York, and bounded and described as follows, to wit:

"Beginning at a point on the northerly line of Thirty-second Street, distant two hundred and twenty-five (225) feet easterly from the northeasterly corner of Thirty-second Street and Tenth Avenue; thence northerly and parallel with Tenth Avenue ninety-seven (97) feet and six (6) inches to land now or late of Robert Auld and William Browning; thence easterly along said line about twenty-five (25) feet, to a point about ninety-six (96) feet and six (6) inches northerly from Thirty-second Street, and thence southerly and parallel with Tenth Avenue ninety-six (96) feet and six (6) inches to said northerly side of Thirty-second Street, and thence westerly along said northerly line of Thirty-second Street twenty-five (25) feet to the point or place of beginning. The easterly line of said premises running through the centre line of a party wall."

And also:

"All that lot of ground, with the buildings thereon, situate in the Twentieth (late Sixteenth) Ward of the City of New York, distinguished as lot No. 5 on a certain map made by Austin D. Ewen, City Surveyor, entitled 'Map of nine lots of ground, situate in the Twentieth Ward of the City of New York, (filed in or about the 3d day of January, 1859, in the office of the Register of Deeds of the City and County of New York.)

"Commencing at a point on Thirty-second Street distant one hundred and fifty (150) feet and one-half of an inch from the northeasterly corner of Tenth Avenue and Thirty-second Street, running thence in an easterly direction along Thirty-second Street thirty feet and one-half of an inch; thence northerly through the centre of a party wall, being the easterly wall of the house hereby granted, fifty-five (55) feet three (3) inches; thence westerly five (5) feet; thence northerly forty-three (43) feet six (6) inches; thence westerly twenty-five (25) feet; thence southerly until it strikes the centre of the northerly end of the westerly wall of said house; thence through the centre of said wall, being a party wall ninety-eight (98) feet nine (9) inches to the place of beginning, be the said several dimensions more or less."

Dated New York, May 1st, 1905.

In pursuance of a judgment of partition and sale, dated April 25th, 1905, duly made in the above-entitled action, and entered in the clerk's office of this court for the County of New York, I, the undersigned, referee in the said judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the Exchange Salesroom, Nos. 14 and 16 Vesey Street, in the City and County of New York, on Friday, the 19th day of May, at 12 o'clock noon, by S. De Walltasrss, auctioneer, the premises as directed by said judgment, and therein described as follows:

All those certain lots, pieces, or parcels of land, situate, lying, and being in the Borough of the Bronx, City of New York, (formerly in the town of West Farms, in the County of Westchester,) on the easterly side of Jerome Avenue, (lately known as Central Avenue, formerly known as the new road leading from Macomb's Dam to Woodlawn Cemetery,) together described as follows:

Beginning at the intersection of the centre line of said Jerome Avenue with a line formerly known as the northerly line of the village of Mount Eden, and extending easterly along said last-mentioned line to lands formerly owned by Townsend Poole; thence northerly and northwesterly to the centre of a brook; thence westerly along the centre of said brook to said Jerome Avenue, and thence southwesterly along said avenue to the place of beginning, and together more particularly described as follows in a certain deed thereof from John D. Poole and wife to William L. Fisher, dated January 3d, 1866, and recorded in the Register's office of Westchester County on January 20th, 1866 in Liber 555 of Deeds, at Page 308, to wit: Beginning at a chestnut tree marked by land of Townsend Poole standing on the south bank of the brook; thence running south twenty-nine degrees and thirty minutes east along said Townsend Poole's land three chains and eighty-five links; thence south one degree and thirty minutes east along a stone fence by said Poole's land three chains and thirty-five links to the northerly line of the village of Mount Eden; thence south eighty degrees and fifteen minutes west along the stone fence by the village of Mount Eden eleven chains and sixty-five links to a point in the centre of the new road leading from Macomb's Dam to Woodlawn Cemetery; thence running north thirty-seven degrees and thirty minutes east along the centre of said new road nine chains and ninety-eight links to a brook crossing said new road; thence running north seventy degrees and thirty minutes east along said brook and other land of said John D. Poole one chain and seventy-five links; thence north eighty-two degrees east along said brook and said Poole's land one chain and sixty links to said chestnut tree marked, the place of beginning, containing five acres and ninety-nine-hundredths of an acre of land, be the same more or less.

Together with all the right, title, and interest in and to the streets and avenues through, contiguous to, or part of said premises:

Excepting and reserving therefrom, however, all that certain triangular parcel, consisting of one acre of land and the avenue opposite thereto, situate at the southwesterly extremity of said premises, beginning at the intersection of said centre line of Jerome (late Central) Avenue with what was formerly the northerly line of the village of Mount Eden, and extending thence northeasterly along said centre line of Jerome (late Central) Avenue three hundred and fifty feet, more or less; thence southeasterly on a line at right angles with said avenue three hundred feet, more or less, to said northerly line of the village of Mount Eden; thence westerly along said last-mentioned line four hundred and sixty-five feet, more or less, to the centre of said avenue at the place of beginning, heretofore conveyed by William L. Fisher to Joseph Conrad by deed, dated June 1st, 1867, and recorded in the Register's office of Westchester County on January 13th, 1868, in Liber 662 of Deeds, at Page 265.

Dated April 25, 1905.

SOLDIERS ESCORT BODY OF LAST 1812 VETERAN

Centenarian Hiram Cronk Buried on Victory Hill.

DISPUTE ON CITY HALL STEPS

Col. Gardiner and Veteran's Granddaughter in Misunderstanding Over Flag—Crowds See Body.

With full military honors, the body of Hiram Cronk, last of the survivors of the war of 1812, was placed yesterday in its final resting place on Victory Hill, in Cypress Hills Cemetery, where some sixty of his old comrades in arms were buried. Throngs gathered in the streets from City Hall to the cemetery to watch the funeral cortège pass, and for a time traffic was suspended on the Brooklyn Bridge.

So great was the crowd that pressed into City Hall in the morning to view the body, which was lying in state, that the corridors were not closed at 9 o'clock, as had been intended, but the public was allowed to pass in lines around the coffin until within a few minutes of the starting of the procession, at 10 o'clock. One hundred and fifty policemen were required to handle the crowd.

Promptly at 10 the procession was formed for the march to the cemetery, mounted police leading, and followed in the order named by the Fourteenth Regiment, N. G. N. Y., in command of Col. Kline; Troop C, Second Brigade; delegation from the U. S. Grant Post, G. A. R.; delegation from the Veteran Corps of the war of 1812, hearse, and carriages containing relatives and the Aldermanic committee, headed by Alderman Wirth. The procession went across the Brooklyn Bridge, and at the Brooklyn end the detail of police from New York was relieved by the same number from the Brooklyn mounted force, who led the way to the Cypress Hills Cemetery.

The relatives of the dead veteran took final leave of the body in the City Hall corridor, after which the casket was draped with an American flag which had seen service in the war of 1812, and then soldiers bore the coffin to the hearse drawn by horses with military plumes on their heads. There was an untoward incident on the steps of the City Hall when Col. Asa Bird Gardiner of the Veteran Corps of 1812 got into a dispute with Mrs. A. C. Morehouse, adopted daughter of Hiram Cronk's daughter, over the ownership of the flag which was draped around the casket.

Mrs. Morehouse was in uniform as honorary Colonel of the Veteran Corps, and she said that the flag was hers, while Col. Gardiner said it belonged to the corps. Col. Gardiner finally cut things short by walking away and leaving Mrs. Morehouse alone on the steps. Afterward he said that Mrs. Morehouse never should have had the custody of the flag, and that the corps intended to retain it.

There was great confusion on the Brooklyn Bridge when the funeral procession was passing, all cars being delayed, and the passengers in many instances being forced to walk across the bridge. At the cemetery Marcus B. Taylor, Chaplain of the Veteran Corps of the War of 1812, pronounced the funeral benediction and eulogy. The services in the cemetery were conducted according to the Grand Army ritual.

Despite the fact that the body of Hiram Cronk was taken from the City Hall at 10 o'clock, the crowds of persons who called later to see it grew to such proportions that it got beyond the control of the two policemen stationed in the lower corridor, and they sent to the City Hall Station for help. During the noon hour it was estimated that 10,000 persons visited the building under the impression that the body still was there.

BRONX SUBWAY OR MURDER.

Anonymous Letters Threaten Members of Rapid Transit Board.

Alexander E. Orr, President of the Rapid Transit Commission; George S. Rice, its chief engineer, and Charles Stewart Smith, a member of the body, have been threatened with dire consequences unless the Lenox Avenue Subway is opened to the Bronx within a month. The threats were contained in three anonymous letters, all written by the same hand.

"It is a case of Bronx Subway or murder," was the way the writer put the proposition before Mr. Orr. To Chief Engineer Rice and Mr. Smith he wrote that they would be dead men inside of thirty days unless trains were running within that time above One Hundred and Forty-ninth Street.

All three letters were signed with a cross. The man who wrote them will have to grant an extension of time, for Mr. Belmont announced yesterday afternoon that it would be July 1 before the Subway section running under the Harlem River would be finished. He requested the board to grant him permission to run half the trains by the Subway route and the other half by the elevated route on Third Avenue.

FORD BEQUEST EXECUTED.

Property Sold at Auction for Benefit of Three Institutions.

A real estate transaction that attracted attention in Brooklyn yesterday was the sale of the four-story brick apartment house 100 and 102 Pineapple Street, for the joint account of Harvard University, Williams College, and the City Library Association of Springfield. The property was sold at auction in the Real Estate Exchange for $26,100, Isador Alkus being the successful bidder.

The property was formerly part of the estate of Gordon B. Ford, at one time publisher of The New York Tribune, and was left by him in trust for the three institutions to Malcolm W. Ford, a son, who on May 8, 1902, killed his brother, Paul Leicester Ford, the author, and himself. The house sold yesterday is directly in the rear of the old Ford home in Clark Street, where Paul Leicester Ford did much of his writing.

CAMP CLUB ORGANIZED.

Well-Known Sportsmen Anxious to Increase Interest in Hunting.

An association to be known as the Canadian Camp Club was organized at a meeting of sportsmen, naturalists, and explorers held last night at the Metropolitan Club, Sixtieth Street and Fifth Avenue. Dr. G. Lenox Curtis was Chairman of the meeting and James A. Cruikshank Secretary. The club is the outcome of a social gathering of men who have camped in Canada, which was held in this city about five years ago, and which developed into a social organization, with nearly 500 members.

The charter of the Canadian Camp Club, it was said, had been approved by the Secretary of the Province of Canada, and the papers of incorporation would be in the hands of the organization within ten days. No money will be spared to make the club a successful one, and everything will be done to increase the interest in hunting.

The club will be in one of the choicest game regions now open to sportsmen. A site has been selected adjacent to the Mississaga River, running generally northeast from Dayton, on Lake Huron, to Lake Winnebago, and thence to Hudson Bay, by way of Ground Hog River. It is the intention to buy choice locations all along this route of nearly 1,000 miles and built on them log camps and cabins.

The club owns several tracts of forest property, and on one of them, near Dayton, on Lake Wahquekobing, the club headquarters will shortly be built. The organization plans to explore and map out much of this wild country and select and purchase desirable sites for outlying camps. Caribou, wood buffalo, moose, and wild fowl are said to be found in great abundance along the Mississaga, as well as brook trout of enormous size, small mouth black bass of record weight, and many other varieties.

The officers elected to serve the club for the year are:

President—Dr. Robert T. Morris; First Vice President—Charles Wake; Second Vice President—Dr. G. Lenox Curtis; Secretary—James A. Cruikshank; Treasurer—Girard N. Whitney. The Executive Committee consists of Dr. G. Lenox Curtis, Chairman; L. O. Armstrong, James A. Cruikshank, W. T. McCulloch, Dr. Robert T. Morris, Charles Wake, Girard N. Whitney, and the Hon. Julius H. Seymour. The Board of Directors includes Samuel Walter Taylor, L. O. Armstrong, Montreal; W. D. Baldwin, New York; Daniel C. Beard, New York; F. N. Benham, Bridgeport, Conn.; George M. Bosworth, C. C. Boyce, M. P., Sault Ste. Marie, Canada; Major D. L. Brainard, United States Army; Austin Corbin, New York; Dr. F. A. Cook, New York; James A. Cruikshank, New York; Dr. G. LAD CAPTURED INTRUDER.

Knocked One of Two Men Senseless with a Club.

Through the alertness of Isaac Gross, twenty years old, employed in the crockery store of Mrs. Amelia C. Petrie of 885 Second Avenue, John Daly, thirty-five years old, of 441 East Seventy-sixth Street, was arrested yesterday after a struggle on a charge of burglary.

The store was wired so that when a door or a window was opened, a large gong rang. Mrs. Petrie's apartment on the floor above was wired in the same way.

Shortly after noon the gong rang, and Gross, seizing a club, ran up stairs. In one of the rooms, he says, he saw two men packing articles of clothing and jewelry. The men attacked him, and Gross knocked John Daly to the floor, unconscious. The other escaped.

Magistrate Steinert held Daly in $1,000 bail for trial and congratulated Gross.

200 Priests Meet Archbishop.

The Hamburg-American liner Deutschland, which arrived last night from Hamburg, Dover, and Cherbourg, was met at Quarantine by the steamboat Isabel, with about 200 Polish priests on board. They went to greet the Polish Archbishop, Francis Albino Symon, who is attached to the Vatican at Rome, and who comes to investigate several questions affecting the interests of Polish Catholics in this country.

WOOD'S INSANITY SHAM, DECLARES PROSECUTOR

Says Cunning Dictated Testimony About a Familiar.

PHYSICIANS THINK HIM SANE

Witnesses Who Played Pool with Him Found Him Normal—Case May Reach Jury To-day.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., May 18.—The case of George H. Wood of New York, who is on trial here for the murder of George Williams, a Watchung grocer, in all probability will go to the jury late to-morrow. The testimony of the defense was all in by noon to-day, the prosecutor has called its witnesses in rebuttal, and Prosecutor Reger before the final adjournment was taken to-day made the preliminary summing up for the State.

The Public Prosecutor declared that the defendant was merely shamming insanity, and the jurors, who apparently were strongly impressed by the testimony of Woods when he told yesterday of the mysterious influence of "the little black man," listened intently to his denunciation.

"The State," Mr. Reger said, "contends that it has been shown here beyond question that Wood was sane when he murdered Williams. He made his way quickly and skilfully to New York. His story of complete loss of memory was concocted after he had reached home. His every act in trying to cheat justice has shown a shrewdness and calculation which are not to be found in an insane man. It has been admitted even by the experts for the defense that Wood was capable of discriminating between right and wrong when he killed the grocer.

"The State insists that George H. Wood wilfully and deliberately murdered George Williams on the lonely country road, and asks for a verdict of murder in the first degree."

The last word had scarcely fallen from the lips of Prosecutor Reger when Mrs. Wood, the defendant's wife, who has been permitted to sit at her husband's side throughout the trial, slipped to the floor in a faint. She was revived and then cried on the shoulder of her husband, who showed a stolid indifference to both her tears and her fainting.

A little earlier, while Edward Martins, one of the last witnesses called in rebuttal, was describing Wood's action in asking him where he could hire the rig in which the shooting took place, the widow of Williams, the murdered man, became hysterical and created a scene in the courtroom. Wood watched unmoved, but his wife, who occupied a seat near the hysterical woman, seemed on the point of going to her assistance, and was restrained by her husband.

When court opened this morning the defense continued its presentation of expert testimony. It is evident the testimony of these experts will go far in deciding the case of Wood, and the jurors followed it closely. One of the experts called was Dr. Sidney Wilde of New York, who said he had examined Wood in the Tombs shortly after his arrest and had found him in a sub-conscious condition.

The prosecution called several physicians in rebuttal. One of these was Dr. McGuire, the Tombs physician. He said he had examined Wood on Feb. 4, and declared that he was then able to distinguish between right and wrong. Dr. Pierce Bailey, also of New York, said he did not believe Wood was an epileptic as the defense contends.

Several witnesses who had met Wood shortly before the murder at the Farmers' Hotel, in Plainfield, and had played pool and billiards with him there, testified that at this time he seemed to be in full possession of his mental faculties. Wood listened to all the testimony with the indifference that has marked his demeanor since he has been on trial.

To-morrow Mr. Swackhamer, Wood's counsel, will occupy the entire morning session with his summing up. He will be followed by Congressman Clark, who will speak the last word for the State. The case, it is thought, will go to the jury by 4 o'clock to-morrow afternoon.

Investigate Local Civil Service.

The State Civil Service Commission yesterday began an investigation of charges filed some time ago against the Municipal Civil Service Commission of this city by the Civil Service Reform Association. The charges include allegations of political favoritism, abuses in the system of examination, and various other violations. All the Borough Presidents and a number of employes from the Tenement House, Docks and Ferries, and Water Departments have been subpoenaed as witnesses, in addition to clerks and officials from the office of the Municipal Civil Service Commission.

REALTY COMPANY CHANGE.

United States Acquires Large Interest in the Alliance.

Announcement was made yesterday that the United States Realty and Improvement Company had acquired a large interest in the Alliance Realty Company. James Stillman and Harry S. Black of the United States Realty Company will enter the Alliance Realty Company's Board of Directors, but the active management of the latter corporation will remain in the hands of the present officers.

One result of the transaction will be the placing of the United States Realty Company practically in sole control of the Broad-Exchange Building. Hitherto this property has been owned jointly by the two companies. The Alliance Realty Company, it is said, will now co-operate more closely with the larger company, and will enter more actively into the field of real estate operations, in addition to handling its investment properties.

The authorized capital of the Alliance Realty Company is $3,000,000, of which $2,000,000 has been issued. It has a surplus of about $900,000.

Magistrate Discharges Broker Smith.

De Witt Smith, a broker and promoter of 141 Broadway, who was arrested a month ago on complaint of Thomas Stokes of Tuxedo and the Ansonia Hotel on the charge that he failed as a partner to account for something like $24,360 worth of securities, or the cash received from loans on the securities, was discharged from custody by Magistrate Cornell in the Jefferson Market Court yesterday afternoon. The complaint arose out of the settlement of affairs between Stokes and Smith as partners in an enterprise known as the Chesapeake Western Company. Smith's attorney moved his discharge on the ground that the action was a civil and not a criminal one.

CHAS. M. SCHWAB BACK; HAS $1,000,000 CONTRACT

For Armor Plate, Not Warships for Russia's Fleet.

CRAMPS MAY BUILD THE SHIPS

More Orders Likely to Follow If Russia Prospers—Result of Steel Man's Trip.

Charles M. Schwab of the Bethlehem Steel Company returned from Europe yesterday with nothing to say for publication about the result of his part in the negotiations for building in the United States a new fleet with which Russia may renew the war against Japan. At the same time it is known to Mr. Schwab's business associates that he comes back with a contract to supply armor plate for the new warships.

It is not a hundred-million-dollar contract, nor one nearly so large, as some of the cable dispatches from Europe have indicated it to be. Its amount is understood to be about $1,000,000, but it is expected that if things go as Russia hopes to have them go in the war, the Czar will call for more battleships from the same builders, and this armor plate order will be the forerunner of more and larger ones.

The Cramp Shipbuilding Company of Philadelphia is likely to build the new warships, and Mr. Schwab's Bethlehem Steel Company, now a part of the United States Shipbuilding Corporation, will supply the armor plate to the Cramps. It was the same builders who supplied the Russian Navy with the ill-fated battleship Retvizan, sunk at Port Arthur, and the cruiser Variag, which went to the bottom at Chemulpho. The number to be built is still a state secret, even if it has been definitely decided, but the initial order will be small.

Although Mr. Schwab has played an important part in securing the order for the ships to be built here, he was mum as an oyster yesterday about warships, armor plate, and everything pertaining thereto. But he was in high good humor, and said he had had a most enjoyable trip.

"The finest ever. Everything came my way," the steel man was overheard to say to a friend when he came down the gangway. And that was the nearest clue he gave to the success of his trip.

To a TIMES reporter, who interviewed him on the Baltic, Mr. Schwab said:

"The nature of my negotiations with the Russian Government was such that it would be most improper for me to discuss them or reveal their result. In fact, I may say that it is understood that any publicity on the subject shall come from the Russian side."

He willingly declared that he had not brought back with him an order for new warships to be built by his company, which is literally true. About his movements in St. Petersburg, where he stayed less than a week, Mr. Schwab was wholly uncommunicative, and he also declined to discuss the movements of Henry S. Grove, President of the Cramp Shipbuilding Company, through whom the early negotiations with Russia for her new fleet were carried on.

On two points only would Mr. Schwab make positive statements. The Bethlehem Steel Company has no new patent process for producing nickel steel armor plate of a better quality than the old at half the old cost.

"There's nothing in that," said Mr. Schwab, and he also admitted that in his stay in St. Petersburg he did not have an interview with the Czar, reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

The ex-President of the United States Steel Corporation looked bronzed and healthy after his journey across the Atlantic. He sailed on the Kronprinz in the last week of March in response to a summons from St. Petersburg, with Mrs. Schwab. With them went Mr. Schwab's physician, Dr. Samuel A. Brown, and Mrs. Brown. After spending a few days in Paris the party went on by automobile to Monte Carlo, where, like most other visitors, Mr. Schwab took a few chances on the red and black squares on the Casino tables. His play, however, was not of a character to break the bank or Mr. Schwab.

From Monte Carlo the party went in a private car to St. Petersburg, returning by way of Berlin and Brussels to London. On the trip across the ocean in the Baltic Mr. Schwab won one of the ship's pools for the trifling sum of $300, and played a little bridge whist. But he eschewed poker, although there was some high play in the ship's smoking room.

Mr. Grove is already back in Philadelphia. He said on his return that it was doubtful if the contracts for the warships would be made before July.

LABORER FELLS RUNAWAY.

Prevents Horses Going Over Steep Cliff—Women in Peril.

Mrs. Jennie Seeley, her seven-year-old daughter, and her mother, Mrs. Charles Baldwin, all of 3,117 Park Avenue, had a marvelous escape from death yesterday. They were carried eastward by a runaway team out of Central Park and through Seventy-second Street, across avenues with rapidly running cars, and were only saved from running into a huge pile of broken rock or dashing over the fifty-foot cliff at the end of the street by an Italian workingman, who felled one of the horses with a blow of his shovel. A policeman grabbed the other.

Mrs. Seeley hired a victoria belonging to Frank York of 612 East One Hundred and Forty-fifth Street, and driven by George Grunder. The horses were a spirited pair, but behaved very well on the East Drive, until an unusually noisy automobile frightened them. They dashed down the drive into Fifth Avenue at Seventy-second Street. There the driver was thrown to the pavement and the horses ran eastward.

Three automobiles pursued, still further terrifying the runaway team. Mounted Policeman McGuirk lost valuable time in his efforts to get at the heads of the horses because of the automobiles. Their owners were either enjoying the novelty of a real runaway, or were possessed with a notion that they might in some manner stop the horses. By wonderfully good fortune the carriage did not run into any of the cars running north and south at high speed. At Third Avenue, however, it narrowly missed a pillar of the Third Avenue Elevated Railroad. Near Second Avenue the vehicle struck an automobile owned by Dr. Piset. It was standing at the curb. The shock started the machine, which rolled into the path of the pursuing policeman. He swerved his horse just in time.

East Seventy-second Street was crowded with playing children, many of whom had narrow escapes from being run down by the team or the mounted policeman.

Near Avenue A, Antonio Hagua of 344 East Seventy-seventh Street was working with other men in a trench. He heard the shouts, climbed to the street, and, with a well-aimed blow, felled the near horse. The policeman was at the head of the other. Not 100 yards further was the embankment overlooking the East River.

Both Mrs. Baldwin and Mrs. Seeley had fainted, but were quickly revived. They went home in another carriage. Hagua went back to his work, the policeman to his post, and the horses to their stable, one of them with a large lump over his left eye. The driver was not severely hurt.

CRUISER'S OFFICERS UPHELD.

Morton Replies to Charges of Ill-Treatment on the Galveston.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Secretary Morton has replied to a communication received a few days ago at the Navy Department from the Humane Society in Galveston, which alleged that seamen on the cruiser of that name, which recently visited the city, had been ill-treated by their commanding officer. Newspaper clippings bearing on the conduct of the sailors while in port were inclosed in the society's letter.

Secretary Morton expresses appreciation of the motives moving the Humane Society, and then proceeds to comment severely upon the inclosed newspaper clippings, which stated that many of the sailors were intoxicated while ashore and were confined in the "coop"; that the officers called the men profane names, and that a Police Court officer was severely assaulted aboard the ship by bluejackets.

Secretary Morton says that if the facts are as stated there is a very bad element in the crew who have no proper place in the navy, and that the conduct of the men amply excused any lawful action which her commanding officer might take to preserve order and discipline. The Secretary concludes:

"The department cannot sufficiently express its regret that the men of the Galveston should have thus conducted themselves, and expresses the hope that the reports may have been exaggerated in a large degree, as well as the statements made in the same articles that the police authorities were not disposed to assist in the return of men to their duties on board ship, as otherwise the only effective means to prevent the recurrence of similar occurrences will be to restrict the visits of National ships to your harbor to the limit of prohibition until the unfortunate effect which may have been created in the minds of the law-abiding citizens of Galveston shall have been obliterated."

SENATOR CLARK'S SON SUED.

For After Theatre Supper Bills at Rector's—Wine at $12 a Quart.

Justice Dugro, in the Supreme Court, yesterday, made an order permitting service by publication of a summons and complaint on Charles W. Clark, son of Senator William A. Clark, in a suit brought by George W. Rector, Treasurer of Rector's restaurant, in Times Square, for the price of two after-theatre supper parties.

It is alleged that Mr. Clark, who is twenty-six years old, gave one of these parties on March 8 and another on March 9. The suppers were attended by Mr. Clark's bachelor friends. The plaintiff alleges that Mr. Clark engaged a private dining room and hired an orchestra, the music for one night costing $75 and for the other $100. The tables were adorned with natural flowers, and the suppers in each instance lasted until after midnight. The wine bill for one night, according to the complaint, amounted to $193.50, the party drinking a special brand of champagne costing $12 a quart, in addition to the other brands of champagne consumed.

The claret consumed is reckoned at $8 a quart, and in addition to the wine it is alleged that twelve glasses of rye whisky were ordered, together with thirty-six highballs of Scotch whisky. The bill for food and drinks amounted to $223.35, not figuring the cost of the music.

George Young Banchle, counsel for Rector, told Justice Dugro that young Mr. Clark had left without paying the bill, and that unsuccessful efforts had been made to find him at his father's offices and at the house.

UNITED STATES MARINES DEFEND DOMINGAN TOWN

Insurgents Attack When American Customs Official Arrives.

CRUISER DENVER TO RESCUE

Assailants Shoot in All Directions, but Vanish on Approach of American Troops.

Foreign Correspondence NEW YORK TIMES.

PUERTO PLATA, Santo Domingo, May 13.—News reached here to-day of a lively reception on the part of Domingans of Uncle Sam's assumption of the rôle of guardian. J. H. Edwards, Deputy Collector of Customs under the new régime, was forced on Thursday afternoon to take over the charge of the Custom House at Sanchez—the second town on the north coast—to the lively tune of bullets singing down the main streets.

The insurgent forces had for a long time announced that their opposition to the enforcement of the Morales-Roosevelt convention would assume a livelier form than pronunciamentos and invective. The demonstration was timed to the hour of Collector Edwards's arrival, and would probably have assumed greater proportions but for the prompt action of the commander of the American cruiser Denver, who immediately landed a large force of marines. At their approach the insurgent element scattered into the bush, their intention apparently not being to force a conflict with United States troops.

The shots were fired at long range, and although a great commotion was caused in the town, no casualties were reported beyond the slight wounding of an innocent bystander.

The demonstration was the first stroke in a premeditated and well-systematized plan of operation on the part of the large portion of the republic who are opposed to Morales and his pro-American policy. Previous to the demonstration the wires between Sanchez and the capital had been cut in several places, and have not yet been repaired, a fact which would tend to establish the assumption that a more formidable attack was intended, but abandoned on the landing of the United States marines.

Collector Edwards to-day said:

"I believe the attack was made principally as a test to determine whether, under the new arrangement, the United States would land troops to protect Custom Houses having other than American citizens in charge. I understand that a similar attack was made under a misapprehension two days before, but that since that time the insurgents have been heavily reinforced."

Reinforcements for the Domingan Army are being hurried to Sanchez and Puerto Plata, and the general condition of excitement of the last four months is rapidly reaching an acute stage.

Col. Colton's first act after assuming charge of the customs service was to reappoint all the Domingan Collectors of six ports, one of them, at Macoris, being a brother of President Morales, and the others being influential members of the Morales régime.

J. C. Strickland, who under the Improvement Company's régime had been Collector at Puerta Plata, was retained, as was Commander Leiper of the navy, in charge at Monte Cristi. Col. Colton will himself act as Collector at Santo Domingo, and as the other Collectors will be the six Domingans, the large force of Americans brought to the island by Col. Colton to act as Collectors will be forced to accept subordinate positions, with the exception of J. H. Edwards, who has been appointed Deputy Collector.

THINK MINE OWNER MURDERED

J. B. Guinn Found Dead with Bullet Hole in His Head.

Special to The New York Times.

JOPLIN, Mo., May 19.—John B. Guinn, a young mine owner of St. Louis and Joplin, Mo., who was thought to have committed suicide at Joplin last night, is now believed by the police to have been murdered. He was found dead in his office with a bullet hole through his head.

No one has testified to hearing the fatal shot, and the case is yet shrouded in mystery. From the fact that there were no powder burns visible around the wound at the temple and the peculiar range of the bullet several physicians repudiate the suicide theory. A revolver was found under Guinn's body, the magazine of the revolver being found empty on the desk and no cartridge remaining in the weapon. A report of a quarrel between Guinn and another prominent Joplin man Thursday afternoon is circulated.

PASTOR DENIES ENGAGEMENT.

Can't Understand This, Says Sister of Paterson Woman.

PATERSON, May 19.—The Rev. A. A. De Larma, who recently resigned as pastor of the First Baptist Church in this city, has telegraphed from Atlantic City a denial of a published announcement in a local paper that he was engaged to Miss Mary Mather, who resides with her sister, Mrs. Arthur Vandenbree, at 452 East Thirty-fifth Street, this city.

The Vandenbrees, who caused the notice of the engagement to be published, were informed of Mr. De Larma's denial of his engagement to Miss Mather. They said they could not understand why he denied it. Mrs. Vandenbree said that he had been a regular visitor at her home, and that recently she had been informed of his engagement to her sister. She said he was last at her house about a week ago, before his departure for Atlantic City.

BRYAN MUST GO TO COURT.

New Haven Judge Requires His Presence in Bennett Will Case.

NEW HAVEN, May 19.—At the request of Judge Henry Stoddard, counsel for Mrs. Bennett, Judge Cleaveland will ask William J. Bryan to be present when his account as administrator of the Bennett estate is taken up for approval. The hearing will be held when Mr. Bryan can come here from Lincoln, Neb.

When Mr. Bryan filed his accounting of the estate he said the item of $2,500 for services, if allowed, would be devoted to lectures such as were to have been provided for by the bequest contained in the "sealed letter" which the court rejected as a part of the will. Judge Stoddard did not say why he wished Mr. Bryan to be present at the hearing.

WEAVER TO VETO GAS LEASE.

Philadelphia's Mayor Will Make Hard Fight Against It.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 19. — All day long Mayor Weaver has been in communication with the Councilman who voted against the gas lease. Every effort will be made to defeat the action of Councils. Mayor Weaver will veto the bill, but will not return the lease with his veto message until the meeting of Councils two weeks hence.

The Mayor's message, it is said, will make some pertinent comments, such as may provoke a further discussion in Councils. It is rumored also that the Mayor is assured of the continued support of the Councilmen who yesterday opposed the lease, and that efforts will be made by him and by the opponents of the measure to bring to the opposition a sufficient number of votes to prevent the bill being rushed through over his veto with the necessary two-thirds majority.

Arrangements are being perfected to have a throng of citizens assemble on the north plaza of the City Hall Thursday week. This was positively stated by one of the leading Councilmen.

Should the bill be passed over the Mayor's veto he will have twenty days to sign it. Having done this, if he refuses to enter into the contract with the United Gas Improvement Company, councils have the power to direct any other city official to enter into the contract for the leasing of the gas works. In this event Director Peter E. Costello of the Department of Public Works would most likely be selected.

Before that time, however, it is likely that the courts will be asked to issue an injunction restraining the execution of the lease extension.

CHICAGO STRIKE ENDING.

Every Indication That a Settlement Will Be Reached To-day.

CHICAGO, May 19.—All the indications to-night point to the end of the teamsters' strike within the next twenty-four hours, it being predicted by both employers and labor leaders, as well as Mayor Dunne, that the trouble will be over within that time.

President Shea of the Teamsters' Union to-night met Mr. Mayer, an attorney, who has full authority to settle the strike for the Employers' Association. Shea and Mayer refused to state what matters were under consideration, but from other sources it was learned that Shea was making an effort to secure the best terms possible for his men before consenting to recommend that the strike be called off. It was reported in the afternoon that the employers had offered to submit the matter in dispute to arbitration.

After the meeting Shea reported directly to the teamsters' Joint Council, which met at union headquarters and continued its deliberations until a late hour. The sole power of calling off the strike rests with this body, and it was freely predicted on all sides that it would at some time before noon to-morrow announce that the end had come.

Sheriff Barrett has begun calling in the Deputy Sheriffs on strike duty, and will not make an more appointments for such service.

Mayor Dunne to-day carried out his threat to revoke the license of any cab driver who violated the city ordinance by refusing to carry passengers to the strike-bound stores. The driver who will no longer be permitted to do business in this city because of his refusal to break the boycott of the unions is Thomas D. Doherty, President of the Cabmen's Union.

The evidence was procured by a detective who laid a trap for the union official, and, it is alleged, not only caught Doherty violating the ordinance providing that passengers shall be carried to their destination, but also found the cabman disregarding the fare regulations of the city and making an overcharge.

Seven more of the leaders of the strikes at public schools were to-day sentenced by Judge Mack to various terms in the Parental School. It was shown that the seven boys had made trouble at the Montefiore, the Motley, the Fallon, and the Hardison schools. The boys are all under fourteen years of age.

DROWNED SAVING CHILD.

Barber Exhausted Keeping Little Girl Above Water in Cistern.

YONKERS, May 19.—John Cacciatere, a barber, twenty-six years old, of 31 Palisade Avenue, was drowned this morning in an unused cistern in the rear of his home while attempting to rescue his little three-year-old child, who had fallen into the cistern while attempting to get her little kitten out of the hole.

The child had been playing with the kitten in the yard. It fell into the cistern through a hole in one corner which had not been covered over by the old boards on it. The little child tried to remove the boards to rescue the animal, and in doing so she lost her balance and fell into the cistern. Her father witnessed the child's fall. He yelled for help, and then ran to the cistern. He threw off the board and plunged into the hole. He managed to get hold of the child and held it out of the water, all the time calling for help.

Soon there were a number of neighbors on the scene. Poles, ropes, and ladders were quickly secured, and the little child, half drowned, was pulled out of the water. The father had managed to keep the child's head out of the water, and as soon as she was pulled out of the cistern he sank into the water and was drowned.

LIQUOR TAX RECEIPTS.

New York City for First Ten Days of May Pays $11,149,885.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 19.—More than $5,500,000 will be New York City's share of the receipts from liquor tax certificates from May 1 to May 10, 1905. The aggregate of the gross receipts in the five boroughs, $11,149,885, is $99,158 greater than for the corresponding period last year. Of the individual boroughs, Brooklyn shows the largest increase, $49,668. Manhattan and the Bronx, which are considered together, have a greater sum by $46,120, and Queens by $13,978. Richmond has a smaller sum than last year by $808.

The receipts for the first ten days of May this year, as given out by the State Commissioner of Excise for New York City, are:

Manhattan and the Bronx, $7,323,807; Brooklyn, $3,244,440; Queens, $527,475; Richmond, $154,073.

HEAVY BLOW TO LAYERS BY RACING MANAGERS

Metropolitan Turf Association to be Ignored, Beginning To-day.

OPEN RING AT $57 APIECE

Members of Bookmakers' Syndicate Must Pay to Enter Grounds—Talk of Attempting Reprisals.

The contention between the bookmakers and the managers of the Belmont Park track took a fresh start and a new turn yesterday. John Cavanagh, representing the track owners, as the manager of the betting ring, refused to accept the money tendered by the Metropolitan Turf Association as payment for the privileges of the ring for the day, and notified the bookmakers that, beginning to-day, a new arrangement will go in force, which practically will shut out entirely the Metropolitan Turf Association as an organized body.

The action taken was surprising to the bookmakers of the big ring, who supposed the controversy had been settled by the opening of the ring eight days ago. They transacted business for one day without cost, but they were unanimous in the view that there was trouble ahead for them when the managers of the track were willing to forego the collection of the usual daily fees, which in the aggregate amounted to nearly $6,000.

The back line bookmakers as well as the members of the big ring shared in the free privilege for the day. But when the plan proposed, which in the future will provide for a single ring, in which all shall enjoy equal advantages, was unfolded to them, they were somewhat in doubt as to whether or not they were gainers, as it was made plain that with equal privileges to all there would be equal fees to pay.

Each member of the Metropolitan Turf Association in the past has paid for the privilege of operating in the "big" ring $57 a day, while the men in the back line paid $37 a day each, and the "hurdlers," who transact business in a row still further back and without stools, paid $17 a day each.

HIGHEST RATE FOR ALL.

The intention now is that with a single ring there shall be a single privilege rate, which will be fixed at $57. There will be a back line no longer, and the "hurdlers" probably will be put out of business.

The new plans of the ring manager seemingly were made on very short notice, for it was only Thursday that a new drawing for the places was held by the Metropolitan Turf Association, and that day the members of the organization occupied these places at the race track, with a few non-members scattered among them.

The same places, drawn for the remaining six days of the Belmont Park meeting, were occupied again yesterday, and, following the long-established custom, Timothy Sullivan, Secretary of the Metropolitan Turf Association, made the round of the ring and collected the established fee from each member. In the same manner the privilege fees of the back-line men and the hurdlers were collected. The total amount gathered was between $5,700 and $6,000. When Secretary Sullivan made the tender to Ring Manager Cavanagh, Cavanagh declined to accept the money.

It was said at the same time that bookmakers who had entered the track without paying for admission, as has been usual with men who wear the buttons of the Metropolitan Turf Association, might pay their admission when they were leaving the track, and though no admissions were collected from the departing crowd of layers, the notice was accepted as intimation that to-day and for the future the "M. T. A." buttons will not even be good for admission to the race course.

THOUGHT PUBLIC WERE TO PAY.

When the refusal of Ring Manager Cavanagh to accept the usual fees became known a rumor went around that it had been decided that bookmakers no longer would be required to pay for their places in the ring, and that the loss of revenue to the tracks would be made up by the increase in the price of admission. The bookmakers quickly were undeceived.

The new plan will be followed at all the other metropolitan race courses. Its promulgation threw the members of the Metropolitan Turf Association, who have been active in the fight for recognition from the racing clubs, into a state of great excitement, and there was talk of reprisals. It was hinted that some of the members of the Metropolitan Association might attempt to lay odds without paying any fee and might carry their cause to the courts if they are interfered with, but the bookmakers themselves admitted that there would be little or no chance for a fight on that line, as offenders would be ejected from the track at once.

A meeting of the Metropolitan Association was held last night at the clubhouse in West Twenty-sixth Street, but the members would not say what action was taken. Members admitted, however, that the course taken by the Belmont Park managers meant the destruction of their organization's usefulness to them.

For the race tracks it was said the new order of things would mean large increase in revenue.

Members of the Metropolitan Turf Association, who even when not engaged in their business formerly had free admission to the tracks, will have to pay at the gate as do ordinary visitors. As about one hundred members of the association were everyday racegoers, this would mean $200 a day for the full racing season of about 175 days, or $35,000 from one small group of men.

McCOMAS FOR THE BENCH.

To Succeed Justice Morris in District of Columbia Appellate Court.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Justice Martin F. Morris of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, having indicated to the President his intention to soon retire from the bench, the President has announced that he will appoint ex-Senator Louis E. McComas of Maryland as Justice Morris's successor.

Senator McComas was a member of the Forty-eighth, Forty-ninth, Fiftieth, and Fifty-first Congresses, and was Secretary of the Republican National Committee in the campaign of 1892. He was appointed Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia by President Harrison in 1892, and held that office until he was elected to the Senate in 1899. His term of office expired March 3, 1905.

RUSSIAN NATIONAL COUNCIL.

Czar, on His Birthday, Signs Manifesto Calling a Zemsky Sovyet.

ST. PETERSBURG, Saturday, May 20.—According to the Novoe Vremya, Emperor Nicholas yesterday signalized his birthday by signing a manifesto fixing Oct. 17 as the date for the convocation of a "Zemsky Sovyet," or Council of the People. He made his decision known to the Ministers when they met at Tsarskoe-Selo to present their felicitations.

The manifesto, it is added, will be gazetted on May 27, the anniversary of the Czar's coronation.

The Emperor's birthday was celebrated as a general holiday. The streets were thronged, the city was decorated with flags, all the ships in the harbor were dressed, and there were amusements in the parks. No disorder was reported.

DYNAMITE ON TRAIN TRACK.

Found on Maine Central Just Before a Freight Passed.

LIVERMORE FALLS, Me., May 19.—Dynamite in sufficient quantities to have blown up a train was found to-day placed on the rails of the Maine Central Railroad tracks just below this town.

The discovery was made a short time before a heavy freight was due to pass, followed by a passenger train. An investigation has been started.

Will Hang in Office of Town Clerk at Oyster Bay.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., May 19.—At the request of the townspeople President Roosevelt has presented to them through the Town Board one of his latest photographs. It will be hung in the office of the Town Clerk. The photograph bears this autograph inscription:

"With regards of your friend and fellow-townsman, Theodore Roosevelt. May 13, 1905."

WED BY TELEPHONE.

Clergyman Was Fifty Miles Away from Pair He Married.

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSPORT, Penn., May 19.—The Rev. H. E. Harman, unable to return home to marry two of his parishioners at Berwick, to-day used the telephone for the purpose with good effect. He is attending the synod at Montgomery.

John Carothers and Miss Mary Ludiker, answering the questions in the ceremony alternately, were married legally at a distance of fifty miles. A number of guests were present.

DIED SAVING WOMAN'S LIFE.

Gateman Sprang to Rescue and Was Struck by Locomotive.

HARTFORD, May 19.—John Morris, a gate tender at the Walnut Street crossing, was killed to-day while saving a woman from being run down by a train. He pushed the woman from the track in time to save her life, but was himself struck and killed by the locomotive.

In the excitement following the accident the woman and her companion, a young man, disappeared without revealing their identity.

INSURANCE COMPANY LOSES.

Widow of J. L. Blair Gets Decision in $200,000 Case.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, May 19.—The United States Circuit Court of St. Louis to-day received from Judge Pollock, now in Topeka, papers containing his decision sustaining motions for the dismissal of the suit of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York against Mrs. Apolline M. Blair, widow of James L. Blair, and the other heirs of Blair. The suit asked for the cancellation of the insurance policies on Mr. Blair's life, aggregating $200,000, which the Mutual alleged were obtained by fraudulent representations.

SUBWAY EXPRESS DISABLED.

Lights Go Out—Passengers Nervous—Get Downtown Late.

A southbound Subway express train, which was due at the Bridge at 4:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon, had some trouble with its electrical appliances at about Eightieth Street. The lights in the first four cars went out. At Sixty-sixth Street the motorman had to go back to the fifth car to run the train. Then the passengers became nervous, fearing a rear-end collision, although the express tracks' block appliances are said to be such that a collision is impossible.

At Forty-second Street the train was emptied, the passengers taking a second train, which pushed the disabled train down to a side track. The passengers reached the Bridge about twenty-five minutes late.

LIFTS THE KODAK BAN.

Photographers Now May Snap at Will, Save Around White House.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The ban has been lifted from kodaks in the public parks of Washington. For several years amateur photographers have been required to secure permits to take pictures anywhere in the parks and public grounds of Washington. This was done to relieve President Roosevelt's children from the annoyance of frequently being photographed by tourists.

Gen. Theodore Bingham, in charge of public buildings and grounds, established the ban, and it has been rigidly enforced. Every month the kodakers have had to go to the War Department and renew their permits. Col. Bromwell, the present Superintendent of Grounds, got tired of the order, and to-day he announced that the order would be abrogated except as to the grounds around the White House.

Patrolman Made Newport Police Chief

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, May 19.—The Police Commission to-night elected James R. Crowley, a patrolman on the police force, as Chief of Police to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Benjamin H. Richards. The commission also created the office of City Detective and elected Charles McManus of New York to the position for the Summer.

PRESIDENT WON'T BUY IN FOREIGN MARKETS

He Merely Warned Against Efforts to Put Up Prices.

SHIPS ONLY TO BE HIRED

Desire Is to Purchase All Supplies Needed from Manufacturers in the United States.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The recent declaration from the President and Secretary Taft regarding the purchase of supplies for the Panama Canal continues to agitate Republican leaders. Every mail brings numerous letters to the President and the several Secretaries, most of them being protests against the policy outlined.

It is now explained by persons close to the President that the policy decided upon regarding the purchase of supplies for the canal has been misunderstood. There has not been at any time, it is explained, a purpose to seek the markets of the world with a view of purchasing materials at the lowest figures that could be obtained. On the contrary, there is a desire to purchase all needed supplies from domestic manufacturers, but at the same time care will be taken to guard the Government against combinations to force the purchase of domestic manufactures at exorbitant prices.

It is not proposed to lay in a large stock of materials at low prices, nor is it in contemplation to purchase or charter foreign ships because they may be secured at lower prices than would be paid for American vessels. In all these matters the Administration will be governed by business principles and methods, keeping in mind the work in hand.

In the case of war vessels the statutes provide that only American materials shall be used, and if Congress shall assume the responsibility of directing for use in building the canal the purchase of American materials regardless of cost, the commission will faithfully adhere to the mandate. But in the absence of such mandate, and with the responsibility resting upon the commission and the President to build the canal with the least expenditure of money consistent with good and rapid construction, the work must be conducted on the same lines that would be followed by any company or association of business men engaged in private enterprise.

Regarding the employment of vessels to connect with the Panama Railroad and to carry supplies from the States to the Isthmus for the canal, it is authoritatively stated that for the present no purchase of ships will be made, that vessels will be chartered and that preference will be given to American vessels. It is considered very doubtful, however, whether American vessels of the proper capacity can be secured, and therefore foreign-built vessels may have to be taken.

"In short," said one close to the White House, "the intimation recently given out by Secretary Taft with the full approval of the President was admonitory rather than declaratory. It was intended to admonish American material men that all supplies wanted by the Government in constructing the Panama Canal must be furnished at the prevailing market rates, otherwise recourse would be had to foreign markets."

SAFETY DEVICE FOR TRAINS.

Will Render Collisions Far Less Destructive, Says Westinghouse.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, May 19.—That collisions on railroads can be prevented to great extent, or at least made much less destructive to life and property, is the contention of George Westinghouse, Jr., inventor of the air brake. To-day Mr. Westinghouse said:

"Increase in length and weight of trains has made a reconsideration of the subject of safety necessary, if not imperative. I am satisfied that in the friction device incorporated in the draft gear of each car of a train which was shown to the delegates here, in motion and collision, has solved the question, as they absorb an immense amount of momentum.

"At the tests made here for the European delegates it was shown, I think, that it was impossible for the engineer with the heaviest locomotives to break the train in two. It was also shown that a train of twenty cars running twenty miles per hour could be stopped within a few car lengths without shock or disturbance of any character.

"It is my contention that with any train fitted with friction draft gear it will be impossible for an accident from the bursting of a hose in the middle of the train, even if the last car is not fitted with air brakes, and the danger of collisions from this source will be reduced to a minimum.

"An improvement in air brakes is also completed which will reduce the distance for stopping high speeded trains from 25 to 40 per cent."

GIVE MONEY FOR BOMBS.

East Side Audience Subscribes to Russian Terrorist Cause.

A meeting held last night at Cooper Union, and called ostensibly for the purpose of entering a protest against the Jewish massacres in South Russia, dissolved itself into a revolutionary gathering, with firebrand speeches and a very frank appeal for money with which to purchase bombs for the Russian terrorists. The collection taken at the close of the meeting, according to one of the organizers, contained nearly $300 and a lone Russian kopek.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the "Bund," the American wing of the Russian Revolutionary Democracy, which is composed mostly of Jews. Meyer London, the head of the organization in this country, presided. He appealed to the wealthy Jews to help, saying that the poor were doing so already. The appeal for funds to buy arms was made by Louis Miller, who is one of the most active members of the American wing of the Russian terrorists. He said:

"We want to buy revolvers for the Russian bundists, but we want to go further than that. We want to get bombs for them. We want to make bombs as plentiful in Russia as potatoes."

There was wild cheering, and men and women rose in their seats, some of them waving bills. It was a typical east side audience, made up largely of poor workers from the sweatshops, but as the ushers returned after having taken up the collection there were more bills in their baskets than coin.

HIGGINS TO DISCUSS APPOINTEES WITH PLATT

Governor Wants to Please the Senator and Odell, Too.

TO TALK OF SESSION, TOO

Eight Good Appointments to be Made —One for Practical Railroad Man, It Is Said.

Republican politicians heard yesterday that Senator Platt and Gov. Higgins are to hold an important conference either to-day at the Fifth Avenue or to-morrow at Highland Mills, Senator Platt's country home.

The subject of the conference, it is understood, will be the appointments which the Governor has to make on the State Commission of Gas and Electricity, the State Water Commission, and the State Railroad Commission, and also the policy which ought to be pursued with respect to the special session.

Gov. Higgins is being hard pressed by the politicians for the eight good places which he has within his gift. The three members of the Lighting Commission and the two additional members of the Railroad Commission will each receive a salary of $8,000 a year, and the salaries of the State Water Commissioners can be fixed by the Governor at the sum he thinks reasonable. It is said that Gov. Higgins will endeavor to please both Senator Platt and Gov. Odell. For the State Commission on Gas and Electricity Gov. Higgins is understood to favor men who have not been so prominently identified with organization politics that their selection would add fuel to the fire of criticism already directed against the commission by the Citizens' Union and other independent bodies. The latest name mentioned by the politicians in connection with the Lighting Commission is that of Theodore P. Gilman, Deputy State Controller under Gov. Odell's administration.

Of the two additional places on the Railroad Commission, one is definitely reserved for George W. Aldridge, the present Secretary of the commission, who is also the leader of the Monroe County Republican organization. Michael J. Dady is a candidate for the other place. The place is almost certain to come to New York City, but the best information is that Gov. Higgins is contemplating giving it to some practical railroad man who can take hold of the city's transportation problems in an intelligent manner.

Gov. Higgins will be urged by Senator Platt and other leaders either to declare in advance that the extra session will be confined to the consideration of the Hooker case or to mention in his call the other matters to be brought up. The cost of having the Legislature in session, exclusive of the salaries of members, is estimated to be about $1,500 a day in Winter. A large part of this expense is made up of the per diem allowance made to committee clerks and the horde of political barnacles who get on the extra list. If nothing but the Hooker case is to be taken up their services would be absolutely unnecessary. It is said that on the ground of economy it behooves the Governor to say in advance just what he wants the Legislature to pass upon.

ROBBERY AND BIGAMY MIXED.

Police Arrest Alleged Thief Who Admits Having Two Wives.

John McDonald, twenty-nine years old, was claimed as husband by two women in the Harlem Court yesterday. One said that he used her to rob her employer.

The women were Lizzie Brenner, nineteen years old, of 315 East One Hundred and Twenty-first Street, who asserted that she and McDonald were married on Sept. 8 last in the Dutch Reformed Church on East Sixty-eighth Street, and Mamie Cafrite, twenty-six years old, a servant of Mrs. Gerry Nagle, who is a sister-in-law of Percival E. Nagle, and who lives at 53 and 55 East One Hundred and Thirtieth Street. She said she married McDonald under the name of John Smith last Tuesday afternoon at the First Harlem Reformed Church on Fifth Avenue. Mrs. Nagle's house was robbed that day, and the Cafrite woman now says that McDonald had urged her to tell him where Mrs. Nagle kept her jewels and the easiest way to break into the house. She says that after the wedding he showed her a jewel case which he said he had taken from Mrs. Nagle's room, but the trinkets it contained proved later to be paste.

Miss Brenner that was, however, heard of the ways things were going and intercepted the couple at Mrs. Nagle's door within an hour or two after the wedding. While the two women were conversing in an animated fashion Detectives McCormick and Conway of the East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth Street Police Station, already working on the robbery, ran up and arrested McDonald on suspicion.

Miss Brenner that was said that she had discarded McDonald after four months, although he had often pleaded with her to take him baek, and only last Sunday had called and threatened both her and her sister-in-law with a big revolver because she refused to live with him.

Both women had marriage certificates, and McDonald admitted the marriages. He was held in $2,000 bail for trial on a charge of bigamy.

PLEADS FOR MRS. ROGERS.

Condemned Woman's Lawyer Argues in Supreme Court for New Trial.

MONTPELIER, Vt., May 19.—A hearing by the Supreme Court on a petition for a new trial for Mrs. Mary H. Rogers, sentenced to be hanged for the murder of her husband, began here to-day. Mrs. Rogers's counsel presented affidavits of physicians to prove that the autopsy on Rogers's body did not reveal a skull fracture, which subsequently was discovered.

Her counsel also questioned the confession of Leon Perham, the alleged accomplice of Mrs. Rogers, who is serving a term of life imprisonment for that crime. Another point which figures in the application is the question of the woman's sanity.

At the conclusion of the arguments the court took the case under consideration.

COURT SAYS HE IS SANE.

Ellsworth Totten, Long Union League Librarian, Leaves Asylum.

Ellsworth Totten, who for nineteen years was the librarian of the Union League Club, was released from the Hudson River State Hospital for the Insane yesterday, after his sister had the question of the legality of his commitment passed upon by Supreme Court Justice Marean in Brooklyn.

Mr. Totten was committed to the institution about a year ago on an application made by his wife in Westchester County. Since then his sister, Mrs. Clara L. Reade of Nyack, has been trying to have him released.

Brainsby, Doris & Steele, her lawyers, procured a writ of habeas corpus from Justice Marean, and the case was argued yesterday. They asserted that Mr. Totten was not insane, and that his commitment was illegal. Justice Marean upheld the contention and made an order discharging Totten.

Lawrence Delmour Much Better.

Lawrence Delmour, who is ill at his home, 16 East Eighty-ninth Street, with bronchitis and asthma, was much improved yesterday and last night. Dr. Henry P. Hirsch of 239 East Eighty-sixth Street, who is in attendance, said that Mr. Delmour had responded to treatment during the day.

INSURANCE LAW CHANGES.

Important Provisions in Bills Signed by Gov. Higgins.

ALBANY, May 19.—Several important changes in the insurance law are made by bills which went on the statute books to-day by virtue of the Governor's signature.

Senator Brackett's bill was introduced to prevent insurance companies from taking advantage of policy holders by insisting that the statements of the company's employe who wrote the policy were binding upon the holder. It forbids the insertion in policies of any provision that the company's employe is the agent of the person insured.

By the Lewis bill, Lloyds or individual underwriters are required to maintain reserve funds equal to their liabilities. The bill brings such companies under the rules formerly applying only to the regularly incorporated fire insurance companies.

A measure introduced at the request of the Insurance Department requires cooperative or assessment casualty insurance companies to keep expenses below 35 per cent. of their incomes from premiums, assessment, and membership fees, under penalty of having their authority to do business revoked. The act does not apply to fraternal benefit societies.

Senator McEwan's bill requires mutual benefit fraternities within ninety days to file with the Superintendent of Insurance copies of their constitutions and by-laws.

IRA D. SANKEY VERY ILL.

Family, However, Does Not Think Him in Immediate Danger.

Friends of Ira D. Sankey, the singing evangelist, who is ill at his home, 148 South Oxford Street, Brooklyn, were disturbed yesterday by a report that Mr. Sankey was failing fast, and that he was very low. At his home, however, it was said that, while he was seriously ill, the family did not think he was in immediate danger.

Mr. Sankey, who for many years was a co-worker with the late Dwight L. Moody, has been in poor health for more than a year. He was stricken with an affection of the eyes which has made him practically blind. Mr. Sankey has taken a number of trips with the hope of improving his condition. A member of the evangelist's family said last evening that she thought Mr. Sankey showed slight improvement.

MISSING GIRL A BRIDE.

Mother Insists on Another Wedding When She Finds Her.

A general police alarm was sent out last Tuesday for George J. Summers, nineteen, of 1,949 Third Avenue, and Miss Maud McGary, aged sixteen, of 165 East One Hundred and Twenty-eighth Street. The parents of the girl reported on that day that she had disappeared.

The couple were found yesterday and were taken to the home of the girl's parents. They had been married on May 5, but Miss McGary did not leave home for more than a week afterward. When found Summers and his bride were living at 25 East Eighth Street.

Mrs. McGary insisted on another marriage, which was performed by a minister whom she personally knew, and a supper was then served at the home of the bride's parents.

INDICTED FOR VAT MURDER.

Lebenz Said to Have Made Confession to Cellmate.

Gustaf Lebenz was indicted yesterday by the Grand Jury of Kings County for murder in the first degree, it being charged that he caused the death of Theodore von Grofski, a fellow-workman in the plant of the Tartar Chemical Company, Brooklyn, by hurling him into a vat of boiling chemicals. The indictment was reached on the testimony of Michael Lowden, a cellmate of Lebenz in the Raymond Street Jail, to whom in conversation Lebenz is said to have confessed his crime.

When von Grofski's body was found it was thought that he had fallen into the vat, but afterward Capt. James G. Reynolds, who has since been retired by Commissioner McAdoo, came to the conclusion that a murder had been committed.

TO MARK BRADDOCK ROCK.

Monument to be Erected Where the English General Landed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The horsemen of Washington who secured the construction of the speedway along the Potomac River front have suggested that the rock where Gen. Braddock landed when he came up to fight the French and Indians be marked with a monument by the Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America.

The rock was uncovered in grading the speedway, and, tradition says, served as a landing place for many years before Washington was the capital of the country. The spot is marked by a tree and is described in the old surveys, so that there can be no doubt as to its location. It is a short distance from the old Naval Observatory Hill. The patriotic society has accepted the idea and the monument will be erected.

KILLED WITH GRANDCHILDREN

Woman and Two Girls Asphyxiated— Gas Fixtures Put in Night Before.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, May 19.—Mrs. Margaret C. Orr, fifty-five years old, of 552 North Fifth Street, and her two granddaughters, Margaret Orr Smith, eleven years old, and Annie Orr Smith, nine years old, met death by illuminating gas last night. The bodies were found by Alexander D. Orr, the grandfather, who dressed himself in an adjoining room within ten feet of where the bodies lay. He was unable to detect the smell of the gas because of a physical affliction.

The gas fixtures were only placed in the Orr home last night. At the same time an employe of the Public Service Corporation placed a quarter-in-the-slot meter in the cellar. A jet attached to the wall on the lower side of the kitchen afforded connection by tubing with a gas range in the kitchen, and the bedroom where the bodies were found connected with this apartment. The gas-cock was turned on, and it is thought that when Mrs. Orr retired, at 9 o'clock last night, she inadvertently turned on the gascock of the range fixture while extinguishing the other.

TO ENFORCE NEWSBOY LAW.

McAdoo Appoints Special Squad for Work—Allows Three Days' Grace.

Police Commissioner McAdoo has detailed a squad of policemen to enforce the newsboy law, which has been practically a dead letter. The squad has already gone on duty, but has confined its work to warning offenders.

The warning was also transmitted through the schools yesterday, and announcement is made that all violators will be arrested on sight on and after Monday. The principal provision of the law is that boys less than ten years old and girls less than sixteen may not sell papers. Boys less than fourteen year old must wear individual badges furnished by the Board of Education, and must not sell after 10 o'clock at night.

FIRE, RACE, RUNAWAY, DELIGHT BROWNSVILLE

Triple Event Begins When Furniture Truck Catches Fire.

PATROL WAGON IN PURSUIT

Frightened Team Dashes Through Streets and Is Finally Caught in a Vacant Lot.

Brownsville yesterday had an event that combined the attractions of a fire, a runaway, and a horse race.

It took place at an opportune time, when the exemplary youngsters of Brownsville were leaving school. A big truck loaded with furniture was standing before the furniture store of Benjamin Glass, at Pitkin Street and Rockaway Avenue. Israel Dubisky, the driver, entered the store for a moment.

There hung about the wagon as he was loading it a group of children. What they did is not clear, but when Dubisky reached the door again the truck, furniture and all, was disappearing in the distance enveloped in fire and smoke, and the children were yelling with delight.

About the time that the team ran away a patrol wagon filled with policemen had started for the New Lots playground, which is at Newport Avenue and Christopher Street. The patrol wagon was drawn by a bay horse called Worry, which has a reputation for speed. The patrol wagon was about two blocks behind the furniture wagon when the team bolted, and Driver John Tomford began to urge Worry in pursuit.

However unequal to distancing Worry the furniture team might have been on any ordinary occasion, they made a very fine showing spurred on by the flames crawling closer and closer every minute.

The race led along Pitkin Street. It took only a block or two of running before the speed of the horses had fanned the burning furniture into a furious flame, the tip of which rose to the height of the houses along the way.

For seven blocks along Pitkin Street the chase continued. At Powell Street the frenzied team turned south. The wagon was almost thrown against the buildings, but righted itself again. At this point Tomford, driving the patrol wagon, gained a little. Pedestrians and children shouted and the policemen in the wagon held tightly to their seats, their helmets bobbing like corks in rough water.

At Sutton Avenue Tomford was neck and neck with the runaway team, and telling Policeman O'Hara, who was in the wagon, to take the reins, he grabbed the bridle of the near runaway horse and hung on.

At the corner of Powell Street and Sutton Avenue there is a vacant lot and into this the runaway team swerved. Shut off there and through the efforts of Tomford they were brought to a stop. The burning wagon, however, set fire to a fence, and for a time there was danger that this blaze would communicate to a tenement house which stands on the next lot.

By the time the firemen had arrived there was little left of the wagon but the wheels and the pole. The horses were badly singed.

CHASE IN COLUMBUS CIRCLE.

Man Who, Girls Said, Tried to Get in Flat, Caught in Subway.

The crowd of homegoers crossing Columbus Circle last night saw a mounted policeman chasing a man who finally dodged down into the uptown Subway entrance. In a moment they saw the same man led out of the Subway by a policeman who happened to be coming up the stairs when he dashed down them. The prisoner gave the name of James Edwards, twenty years old, a waiter without a home, and was locked up in the West Sixty-eighth Street Station as a suspicious person.

The complainant was Ella Hirsch, who lives with her parents at 26 Columbus Avenue. She said that, with a girl companion, she had arrived home early from work, and at the top of the stairs saw two men trying to unlock the door to their flat. The girls raised an outcry, and the men dashed by them to the street. The girls followed. One of the men ran west and escaped, the other started for the Circle, followed by the screaming girls. A crowd joined them in the chase. The mounted policeman heard the commotion, and took up the chase.

TRAIN KILLS FLEEING BOYS.

Chased by Policeman They Ran in Front of Locomotive.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, May 19.—While running from a policeman in Harrison late this afternoon, two Newark boys, who had been swimming in a pond on the Kearny Meadows, ran directly in front of a westbound passenger train on the Pennsylvania Railroad and were killed.

The boys were Leo Ramstahler, eleven years old, of 20 Boudinot Street, who was killed instantly, and Thomas Walsh, thirteen years old, of 74 Commerce Street, who was so badly injured that he died aboard the passenger train before reaching the Market Street station.

The accident happened near the Harrison station where the train stopped. The injured Walsh boy and the body of his companion were taken into the baggage car.

URGE PRESBYTERIAN UNION.

A Conference Committee Appointd Looking to Its Achievement.

WINONA LAKE, Ind., May 19.—The reading of reports, the appointment of clerks and committees, and the discussion of evangelistic work by speakers, several of whom incidentally spoke in favor of the proposed union with the Cumberland Presbyterian body, engaged the attention of the delegates to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church to-day.

A message from the General Assembly of the Colored Cumberland Presbyterian Church, in session at Huntsville, Ala., stated that a committee of seven had been appointed to confer with a similar committee from this assembly looking to the union of the churches.

The special Committee on Marriage and Divorce urged that the rule that ministers refuse to perform marriage ceremonies between divorced people unless the causes for the divorce are scriptural be continued.

GRANT AND BRYAN WIN.

Will Meet in Final Tennis Round for Right to Challenge Le Roy.

Slashing racquet work was the order yesterday when Wylie C. Grant and Robert B. Bryan won their places in the final round of the championship singles of the New York Lawn Tennis Club. Grant defeated T. R. Pell in straight sets, 6—1 and 6—2. Bryan defeated Lindley H. Hill, 6—3, 6—1.

The contest between Grant and Pell was one long rally at the net. Both played very fast tennis. Grant was very steady, and by his overhead strokes won the match without being pressed for the points. The final contest will be played to-day by Grant and Bryan, the winner meeting Robert Le Roy in the challenge match for the title and trophy. The summary:

Men's Championship Singles.—Semi-final round —Wylie Cameron Grant defeated Theodore Roosevelt Pell, 6—1, 6—2; Robert B. Bryan defeated Lindley H. Hill, 6—3, 6—1.

JENKINS GETS A FALL.

Wrestlers Struggle Desperately at Madison Square Garden.

Tom Jenkins won the first fall of the catch-as-catch-can wrestling bout in Madison Square Garden last night. He put Frank Gotch down to the mat in 1 hour 27 minutes and 57 seconds. The bout was sensational and at times the crowd seemed on the point of rioting.

After the men went to their dressing rooms Jenkins displayed a wound on his right forearm. He contended that Gotch had used his teeth on him and that he called the attention of Hurst to it at the time.

The men are to wrestle the best two in three falls to a finish.

MUTUAL RESERVE LOSES.

Judgments Obtained in North Carolina Held to be Valid.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court yesterday handed down a decision regarding the status in the courts of this State of certain proceedings to collect judgments obtained against the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company in the courts of North Carolina.

Action was brought upon various assigned judgments, Henry C. P. Johnson being the plaintiff in nine cases and Robert C. Lambert as administrator of Charles J. Lambert, deceased, being the plaintiff in eight cases. The action was brought for damages for breach of contract of insurance.

The defendant company maintained that proper service had not been made and allowed the judgments to be taken by default. Service had been made on the State Insurance Commission, which, under the North Carolina law, must be appointed an agent of foreign insurance companies for the service of legal papers before they can engage in business in the State. The company had withdrawn its power of attorney so appointing the Commissioners of Insurance, however.

Justice Laughlin writes the opinion of the Appellate Division and says:

"This power of attorney was not revocable by the discontinuance by the defendant of business within the State or otherwise, so long as any liability of the company to citizens of North Carolina existed, and the attempted revocation was futile."

The determination of the Appellate Term is affirmed with costs in each case.

J. W. ANDERSON DEAD.

Fourth Official Lost by Carbon Steel Company in Harrisburg Wreck.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, May 19.—John Wesley Anderson, Vice President and General Manager of the Carbon Steel Company, died this morning in the Harrisburg Hospital, the twenty-third victim of the train wreck that occurred at Harrisburg a week ago. His is the fourth death in the party of five in which he was traveling. Mr. Anderson; his son, Frank W. Anderson; Victor L. Crabbe, Purchasing Agent of the Carbon Steel Company; Paul Bright, an engineer for the company, and George Loeffler, the chemist, were returning from New York, where they had gone on business connected with a law suit. Frank W. Anderson died from his injuries, as did Crabbe, who was a nephew of Robert Pitcairn, as is Bright, and now, by the death of the senior Anderson, the Carbon Steel Company is robbed of its principal officials.

Besides being Vice President and General Manager of the Carbon Steel Company, Mr. Anderson was Vice President of the Union Steel Casting Company, and the patentee of a number of valuable steelmaking processes. He was a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers in New York, of the International Society of Testing Materials, of the Engineers' Society of Western Pennsylvania, of the Railway Club of Chicago, and the Railway Club of St. Louis.

TILT IN MACHEN CASE.

Counsel Asks Why Lorenz, Also Convicted, Is Not in Prison.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—In the trial of A. W. Machen, William G. Crawford, and George E. Lorenz for conspiracy before Judge Wright of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia to-day Crawford's attorney objected to the use of Lorenz as a witness and moved for a separate trial for his client. In doing so he filed an affidavit alleging that there was an agreement between the Government counsel and Lorenz by which, in consideration of his testimony, he would be leniently dealt with.

Lorenz was convicted in the first trial resulting from the Post Office Department investigation, but has never been sent to prison. Machen and the Groff brothers, who were convicted in the same trial, have been in prison at Moundsville, West Va., four months.

Judge Holmes Conrad, Government counsel, attempted to argue that there was no agreement between Lorenz and the Government.

"Then why is not Lorenz in prison?" asked Mr. Worthington, Crawford's counsel.

Judge Wright at this point interrupted to say that the affidavit of Crawford could only be met by an affidavit setting forth the facts by the Government counsel, and he would hear no argument on the subject. This decision produced a commotion. Assistant District Attorney Kelgwin refused to say that the Government had not had the benefit of disclosures by Lorenz, and Judge Wright said that Crawford's affidavit would stand as the truth unless replied to by the prosecution.

EDWIN GOULD'S YACHT.

Will Use the Fast Herreshoff Screw Steamer Irene for Cruising.

Edwin S. Gould chartered the screw steam-yacht Irene from W. S. Gurnee, and will use her for cruising throughout the Summer. She is of Herreshoff design, built at Bristol in 1897, and is a speedy, commodious craft of 53 tons burden. Her overall length is 99 feet 2 inches, and her water line 83 feet. She has 13 feet 7 inche beam, and 5 feet 3 inches draught. She is equipped with three cylinder boilers and triple engines. The transfer is reported by Frank Bowne Jones of this city.

George W. Childs Drexel has chartered his auxiliary schooner Alcedo to John B. Dennis. The Alcedo is a Chesebrough design craft, built at Harlan & Hollingsworth yard, at Wilmington, and is 552 tons burden. Her overall length is 197 feet 8 inches, her water line 173 feet 8 inches, beam 24 feet, and draught 11 feet 5 inches. She is fitted with triple expansion engines of 3,000 horse power. She has a cruising record that includes several trips across the ocean.

E. D. Thayer, Jr., has chartered the auxiliary twin-screw schooner Margaret from Dr. Isaac E. Emerson. She is a Gardner design, built at Chester, and of 245 tons burden. Her overall length is 175 feet 8 inches, water line 145 feet, beam 21 feet, and draught 11 feet 5 inches. She has triple expansion engines, three cylinder boilers, and develops 6,500 horse power.

Max Fleischman has also chartered his 157-foot steel auxiliary Haida, of Fife design, for the Summer months.

HELP FROM LABOR UNIONS

Physician at Tuberculosis Conference Says They Have Aided the Sanitorium Movement.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The discussions to-day by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis brought out the fact that every effort so far made to establish self-supporting communities or settlements of tuberculosis patients had proved a failure. Nevertheless, a partial support had been accomplished under carefully directed industries in the open air.

It was the general opinion that all cases of tuberculosis should be allowed to remain at large where proper care of the patient was maintained, and proper sanitary requirements observed to protect members of the family in which the patient resided. Nowhere, it was said, except in New York was there legal authority to compel the retention of a patient against his will, and such authority was most desirable.

In discussing the sanitorium movement, Dr. W. J. Marcley of Massachusetts, gave great credit to efforts of labor unions. He said that no matter whether the labor union was approved or condemned, its efforts had been efficacious in this direction.

H. M. Danner of Denver, advocated a special tax on unsanitary sections of cities.

Dr. J. N. Hurty, Secretary of the Indiana State Board of Health, announced that in his State a philanthropist had contributed $50,000 for a sanitorium which would be built at once, and that this contributor, whose name he was not at liberty to state, had promised to secure another amount of the same size.

William H. Allen of New York told of the experiments in that city with the Seaside treatment of surgical tuberculosis for children. One hundred and fifty children had been treated in this manner, he said, and the success had been phenomenal.

William H. Baldwin of Washington, speaking of the progress of the sanitorium movement in America, said:

"The first real advance in the sanitorium movement in this country, in fact, the first successful attack in the conflict with tuberculosis by modern methods, was made by Dr. Trudeau in Saranac just twenty years ago. Thanks to Koch the enemy had at last been revealed and located.

"Some drug which would destroy the bacillus without harm to the patient was sought for, and its discovery expected, but some of us can remember our surprise at hearing that Dr. Trudeau proposed to drive it out by life in the cold air of Northern New York.

"Only the results with which his faith and that of his first patients were rewarded induced others to follow him and proved, slowly at first and then with accumulating rapidity, that his way was the right way, that at least a position in the conflict which need not be abandoned had been found."

H. M. Bracken, Secretary of the Minnesota State Board of Health, dealt with the subject of infection of transportation. The greatest danger from lack of cleanliness, he said, was undoubtedly to be found in the sleeping cars and steamer berths where one might be in contact with infected bedding during an entire night.

Admitting that tubercular infection was not apt to occur during any single trip in a day coach, the fact that exposure in such coaches was possible had to be appreciated for many people spent a considerable amount of time each day in city and suburban cars on their way to and from business.

The conference ended to-night with a banquet.

SIGHTSEEING CAR HIT BOY.

Knocked from His Bicycle in Broadway—Auto Didn't Stop.

The crowds in front of the Fifth Avenue Hotel and the Hoffman House last evening saw a boy riding a bicycle knocked down by a large sight-seeing automobile, which was crowded. The machine continued up Fifth Avenue without stopping. The boy was taken to the New York Hospital in a cab by two men. It was said that his injuries were not fatal.

The boy is Philip Goldsmith, fifteen years old, of 165 Suffolk Street. He was thrown several feet when the auto struck him and the bicycle was smashed. Several women in the automobile shrieked, but the chauffeur paid no attention to their cries.

Policeman Clark sent a call to the New York Hospital, but all the ambulances were out. Two men got into a cab, and taking the boy in their laps, drove to the hospital.

MILL DEAL RESTRAINED.

Court Order Stops Milliken from Voting His Laurens Stock.

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 19.—A fight for the control of the Laurens Cotton Mill of Laurens, this State, reached a climax to-day at the annual stockholders' meeting. When G. H. Milliken, New York selling agent for a number of cotton mills in this and other States, arose to nominate a ticket in opposition to the present management, he and others of his friends were served with a restraining order issued some time ago by Judge Klugh, which prevents them from voting the stock they owned.

TRAIN IN WILD RACE WITH A BLAZING CAR

Royal Blue Express Looked Like a Big Comet.

STRAW HATS MADE A BEACON

Car Contained Summer Headgear Hurrying to New York and a Bull Hat Market Is Likely.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 19.—One of the Royal Blue express trains, the Baltimore and Ohio Limited, No. 6, had a wild run up the Huntingdon Valley after dusk last evening. An express car, the first of a train of eight that the locomotive was drawing, caught fire just beyond Jenkintown. The fire was not discovered until Noble Station was reached. Then all steam was put on, and the train shot up the Huntingdon Valley to Bethayeres. There the car was shunted out on a siding.

Incidentally New York is likely to have a bull market on straw hats to-day and to-morrow. The car was loaded with straw hats consigned to a New York firm. Usually such merchandise is sent by freight, but New Yorkers were calling for hats, and one of the big houses ordered them shipped by express.

The car had been sealed and locked in the West, and the messenger who accompanied it was in one of the rear cars. Suddenly he heard the sound of shattered glass, and all the windows of the express car fell out. Rushing outside the messenger found that his car was on fire from end to end. He notified the conductor, who decided to make a run for Bethayeres siding, four miles away.

As the train rushed by with its blazing car members of the Huntindon Valley Country Club watched the scene in amazement. So did the residents of the big fashionable country places that dot the hillsides for miles above Noble. The train looked like a long, blazing comet.

When Bethayeres was reached the car and its contents were almost destroyed. It is supposed that the blaze started from a hot journal.

Furrier Suing Mrs. Fish.

An action brought in the City Court by Adelbert Jaeckel, a furrier, against Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, has been postponed by Chief Justice O'Dwyer, pending negotiations for the settlement of the suit. Jaeckel alleges that in January last Mrs. Fish selected eight pieces of Russian sable, to be made into a muff and tippet for Mrs. Fish's use, and that after they were delivered to her she more them at several social affairs. He sued to recover $1,500 for the furs. Mrs. Fish denied owing the money, declaring she sent the furs back as unsatisfactory.

THE PRESIDENT'S ORDER IN THE SANTA FE CASE

Reported Decision to Submit Matter to Grand Jury.

MORTON MAY RESIGN JULY 1

Navy Secretary, by Decision Adverse to Attorney General's Contention, May Be Prosecuted.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—It is reported that President Roosevelt has settled the dispute between Attorney General Moody and Messrs. Harmon and Judson by deciding in favor of the latter, and has ordered that the District Attorney at Albuquerque, New Mexico, be instructed to submit the Santa Fé cases to the Grand Jury. The result of this order may be the prosecution of Paul Morton, Secretary of the Navy, and it is said that Mr. Morton will leave the Cabinet on July 1 if the President will accept his resignation.

Ex-Attorney General Judson Harmon and Frederick R. Judson were employed as special counsel, under the orders of the Attorney General, to investigate the case of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé Railroad. They conducted their investigation to the point where they felt justified in recommending the prosecution of the men who were officers of the Santa Fé at the time the alleged discriminations were made.

When they reported this to Attorney General Moody, he took issue with them. He held that it would be sufficient to prosecute the corporation. Messrs. Harmon and Judson came to Washington and had a personal interview with the Attorney General, at which they insisted that prosecution of the corporation was not the proper course, and that there was enough evidence against the officers to warrant action against them. Mr. Moody could not be convinced, and the matter went over until President Roosevelt's return.

Attorney General Moody last Saturday took the papers in the case to the President and submitted the difference of opinion to him for settlement. Mr. Roosevelt has not left the matter long in doubt, according to the reports current to-night.

There is a well-defined impression that Mr. Moody was not really convinced of the impracticability of prosecuting the Santa Fé's officers, but that he shrank from appearing to direct a prosecution against a fellow-member of the Cabinet, and thought it more becoming that the order should come from the President if it came at all.

CHINA NOT TO SUE AMERICA.

Will Present Claims for Damages Through Diplomatic Channels.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—All hope of the success of the negotiations for a new Chinese exclusion treaty has for the present been abandoned by the Chinese officials as a result of the wave of resentment that has swept over China since it became known that it was planned to transfer the negotiations to Peking and that the Department of Commerce and Labor was insisting upon its own interpretation of the exclusion law.

The Chinese Legation says there is no intention of bringing suit in the Supreme Court of the United States on behalf of Chinese excluded or deported in violation of the treaty of 1880. All such infringements of that treaty, the legation holds, are diplomatic matters entirely, and appeal will be made not to the courts but to the State Department.

The view of the legation here, which reflects that of the Peking Government, is as follows:

The expiration last December of the exclusion treaty of 1894 leaves in force the treaty of 1880. It is to be expected that any violation of existing treaties will be fully compensated by indemnity. All Chinese excluded from the United States or deported therefrom in violation of the treaty of 1880 who present claims to their Minister here naturally expect that those claims shall receive careful consideration.

In the immigration treaty of 1880 Article I. provides that the limitation or suspension of Chinese immigration to the United States "shall be reasonable and shall apply only to Chinese who may go to the United States as laborers, other classes not being included in the limitation."

The first claim for damages reached the legation to-day from a Chinese merchant arrested in Seattle.

Gen. John W. Foster, ex-Secretary of State and for a long time the adviser of the Chinese Legation, will give the Minister such counsel in the adjustment of these difficult questions as he may wish.

Sir Chentung Liang-Cheng expresses keen regret that affairs have taken this turn. It was hoped that the fact that Mr. Rockhill was to take up the negotiations in Peking would be kept quiet, but the news leaked out and reached China. The opposition of the Chinese to this move arises from their belief that the Minister at Washington is far more capable of knowing the wishes of the Chinese in this country than is their own Government, and that in negotiating an immigration treaty with the American Minister at Peking the Chinese negotiators would be at great disadvantage.

Sir Liang-Cheng has leased a cottage at Amherst, Mass., and will spend the Summer there with his family.

LAWYERS GUILTY, TOO.

As Crooked as Police, McAvoy Says—Asks Bar to Investigate.

Magistrate McAvoy continued yesterday his investigation into the charges of "grafts" among the lawyers and policemen attached to the Harlem Court. He examined five lawyers, Thomas W. McKnight, Benjamin Baker, T. W. Osborne, M. J. Schloss, and Jacob Levy. The last named is a brother of Henry Levy, the lawyer, who in open court last Saturday made the charges of graft among the policemen. After completing his examination Magistrate McAvoy said that he was learning some astounding things.

"From the things being brought out," he said, "there appears to be just as much crookedness among lawyers as among policemen. There are a great many lawyers who should be brought before the Grievance Committee of the Bar Association. I am also investigating another case in another court, and pretty soon something is going to drop.

"Other Magistrates are making similar investigations, and we are determined to get at the bottom of this thing."

The Magistrate said he had been told of lawyers who meet women coming to court, probably because of some petty tenement house quarrel. These lawyers tell the women that they will probably be sentenced for a year and that they had better engage a lawyer. As a result the lawyer gets a $50 fee, half of which he says is for himself and the other half for the Judge, who, the lawyer says, will throw the case out of court. When the case is finally called, it is one that nearly every Judge will dismiss, and the woman is out $50.

"It's time for the Bar Association to get busy," continued Magistrate McAvoy. "Publicity is the only thing that will stop this practice. As the Medical Society gets after the quack doctors, so must the Bar Association get after these shyster lawyers and push them to the wall."

Commissioner Clements Says Rebates Built Latter's Fortune.

COMPLAINS OF CRITICISM

Asks Senators Why Advocates of Corporations Do Not Attack the President, Taft, and Bryan.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Commissioner Judson C. Clements of the Inter-State Commerce Commission was heard by the Senate Committee on Inter-State Commerce to-day in the investigation regarding freight rates.

From the beginning of these hearings, he said, there had been a continual effort to disparage the Inter-State Commerce Commission and its work. The advocates of the corporations had intimated that the desire for the control and regulation had been brought about through the solicitation of the commission. "Why," he asked, "did not these men attack the President, Secretary Taft, Representative Williams, and Mr. Bryan," all of whom were advocating the legislation, instead of arraigning the commission?

He detailed the difficulties of the situation and the length of time it had taken to get testimony. Every point, he said, had been contested and carried to the Supreme Court. The advocates of the railroads had asserted that if power were given to it to make rates the commission would be overwhelmed with complaints, and at the same time, they declared, there was no complaint of rates at the present time.

No member of the Inter-State Commission ever wrote a line of the Esch-Townsend bill, as assumed by the railroad advocates, he said. The commission had never asked for authority to make everybody's rates, but only power to correct an unreasonable rate. Nor had the commission ever asked more than had been recommended by the President, yet the President was spoken of with respect, while there was nothing but criticism of the alleged thirst for power of the commission, and also criticism because the commission did not correct evils.

Referring to James J. Hill's alleged aspersion of the commission for not correcting unjust and extortionate terminal charges in New York, he said that the condition described by Mr. Hill there did not exist, the charge complained of being part of the through rate for transportation.

The only time the commission had any dealings with Mr. Hill was in the investigation of the Northern Securities case, which finally ended with a decision of the Supreme Court that Mr. Hill and his associates were engaged in a conspiracy. Whatever had been said about the commission, he added, it "never had been restrained from committing a crime." Regarding the assertion of Mr. Hill about an action of the commission preventing him from shipping flour to the Orient, Mr. Clements declared that the commission did no more than the law required, which was a notification to all roads that the law required that export as well as domestic tariffs must be filed with the commission.

Referring to statements of Prof. Meyer of the Chicago University, whom he called a "doctrinaire," he suggested that there was "an aristocracy of wealth which could hire men to advocate the theory of vested rights against the rights of individuals," and asserted that the "patron saint for the institution to which Prof. Meyer belongs," apparently referring to John D. Rockefeller, had a colossal fortune built up by rebates enabling him to obtain the property of competitors. He said that in the press and colleges were found the advocates of the superiority of vested rights.

MORGENTHAU STORY FALSE.

Not to Move 72d Street House Forward—Neighbors Worried.

Consternation was spread among those living on the south side of Seventy-second Street, between Central Park and Columbus Avenue, by a rumor, started a week or so ago, that Henry Morgenthau was going to put the front of his house, No. 30, six feet nearer the sidewalk. It has always been an unwritten law that no house should be built so as to obstruct the view of Central Park from the bay windows.

When the news of Mr. Morgenthau's intentions was cast abroad, the south side families were in a quandary. Women met on the sidewalk and exchanged heartfelt sympathy with one another. Their husbands were no less interested, and laid plans whereby they might diplomatically persuade Mr. Morgenthau to desist from his plan. The matter had nearly reached the committee and delegation stage when a reporter went to Mr. Morgenthau's office at 20 Nassau Street yesterday.

"Mr. Morgenthau," the reporter began, "the residents of West Seventy-second Street—"

"Oh, Lord!" interrupted the financier, leaning wearily back in his chair. "I wonder who started that. Somebody's been asking me about it all day. I never heard of it before."

"Then you don't intend—"

"No, I don't intend to move my house forward. I never had any such idea. I'm going to put a bay window out a foot and a half—just like the bay window every other house on the block has. It's a false alarm, and I'd like to know how it began."

HELD ON SPEEDING CHARGE.

Earle of Columbia's Freshman Crew One of Those Arrested.

G. L. C. Earle, a member of the freshman crew at Columbia, was arraigned in the West Side Court yesterday, charged with exceeding the speed limit in his automobile. He was held in $100 bail for trial. Earle, who is a son of the late Gen. F. P. Earle, was arrested at Broadway and Forty-eighth Street.

In court Earle said that if he did not get away early he would miss his examination at Columbia and be conditioned, so that he could not row in the regatta at Poughkeepsie.

A chauffeur, who gave the name of Everett Hudson, and who lived at the Girard, in West Forty-fourth Street, was also held in $100 bail.

HOCH FOUND GUILTY, JURY WOULD HANG HIM

The Death Penalty Is Recommended for Bigamist.

DOESN'T WANT NEW TRIAL

Would Rather Die Than Serve a Life Sentence—Whistled on Way to Cell.

CHICAGO, May 19.—Johann Hoch, charged with having married forty women in the last fifteen years, was found guilty to-day of murdering his next to latest wife, Marie Welcker Hoch, and the death sentence was recommended by the jury.

The verdict was reached in less than half an hour. Three ballots were taken. The first ballot was unanimous as to Hoch's guilt. The first ballot as to punishment showed ten in favor of the death penalty and two for life imprisonment. A third ballot resulted in the twelve jurymen voting for the death penalty.

"I guess it's all off with John," groaned Hoch as the verdict was read in court. He sat in a stooping position, and when the word "death" was read he turned pale, stared at the jurors, and then sank limp in his chair.

Hoch's attorneys will ask for a new trial, but he declared he was ready to die and would be better satisfied if they did not make an effort to save him.

"I wish they would hang me to-night, now that I have been found guilty," said Hoch. "I am not afraid to die, and the sooner it is over with the better. My life was 'guessed' away by the jury. They didn't give sufficient consideration to the testimony."

After denying that he had murdered his wife, Hoch said he preferred the death penalty to life imprisonment. Then he began to whistle a lively air as he was led back to his cell.

KIRKE LA SHELLE'S WILL.

Bequests to Brothers and Residue of Estate Left to Widow.

The will of Kirke La Shelle, the theatrical manager who died at his country residence at Bellport, L. I., on May 16, was filed for probate in the Surrogate's office yesterday. The value of the estate is not mentioned in the petition accompanying the will.

Among the special bequests there is one to the testator's brother, Oscar C. La Shelle, who is to receive $5,000, and another to his brother, James E. La Shelle, who gets $2,500. The residue of the estate is left to the widow, Mazie N. La Shelle, with the remarks:

"In confidence that by this disposition she will best provide for the welfare of herself and our children."

The testator names Mrs. La Shelle as executrix, and suggests that in all financial matters in which she may need advice she should consult his friend, Frank H. Vanderlip.

Now for a sale of Summer shirts at 65c.

MEN are waiting for just such an opportunity to purchase their Summer supply of shirts. Thousands are ready to make their selection, waiting only for the right value to come along and to convince them beyond any doubt that this IS THE RIGHT VALUE—to-day we make the plain, straightforward announcement.

Main Floor, 19th St. Side.

A thousand dozen $1 and $1.50 negligee shirts at 65c.

65c This sale is based on the unprecedented success of our Summer sale just a year ago, when negligee shirts were sold at 68c. To-day the price is lower, due to buying advantages; the qualities are better, and there's a greater variety of smart effects for well-dressed men than any store in New York has ever shown. 65c

Continuous cool weather has forced the manufacturers to make extraordinary price concessions in order to dispose of their mammoth surplus and sample stocks. Now, when you feel the heat of Summer, the opportunity is yours to make yourself cool, comfortable and smartly dressed at half or less than half what you'd pay under any other conditions.

These are all new Summer shirts, of the very highest grade, made to sell at $1 and $1.50—perfect in every detail—hundreds of correct patterns, dressy, conservative, elaborate—plaited and plain shirts in white, light and dark colorings—woven and printed materials—detached cuffs—full-size bodies—guaranteed to be custom fitting—latest styles—hand laundered—cool, light, airy materials, yet firm and strong—the best wearing shirts ever made—sale begins to-day, at 65c.

THE 75c. underwear at 50c is a splendid quality—good as ever put into the 75c. underwear, but we advise you to purchase the $2 underwear at 95c., and make your selection from such famous makers as Furley & Buttrum, Lion Brand and American Hosiery Co. Merino.

95c The names are a guarantee of quality, and they are all perfect garments. They are long and short sleeve shirts and regular drawers; all sizes up to 50 inches. This is a rare opportunity for people who are in the habit of paying $2 or more for full-fashioned underwear.

50c Men's very fine, firm quality, light weight pure Egyptian yarn—balbriggan shirt and drawers, double stitched, reinforced, beautiful make and finish, pearl buttons; all sizes; long or short sleeves—value 75c., at 50c. Inspection will prove this a remarkable value.

SIMPSON CRAWFORD CO.

Another great purchase of Rochester clothing brings the price of men's suits down to $11.50.

TO-DAY we inaugurate a sale of $18 and $20 suits at $11.50 for well-dressed men who require perfect-fitting apparel and know by experience that a good $18 or $20 suit is the equal in style, fit, quality, workmanship and finish to the best suit a reliable merchant tailor can turn out at $25 or $30. The name "Rochester Clothing" is a guarantee of the highest type of the $18 or $20 suit.

$11.50 You can readily understand why Simpson Crawford Co. are in a position to make this a bona-fide offer and not a mere statement to lure you here in order to talk up other clothing. Our sales are tremendous, and the great Rochester manufacturers naturally depend upon this house to enhance their reputation and increase the demand for their product by selling at about half price their entire sample lines and surplus stocks. The concessions they make enable us to sell $18 and $20 suits at $11.50. And that's the plain fact without the fancies.

Four mammoth groups of swagger suits are included in this Saturday offering. They're of the weight, the style, the fabric that men want now. You'd order the same kind of a suit if you were to go to a tailor and pay $25 or $30. This sale cannot be judged by any in the past. The variety is overwhelmingly complete—every kind of a suit that's needed and practical to buy at this time is here at $11.50.

Second Floor.

Blue serge suits $11.50.

$18 and $20 values—cool and dressy for Summer wear—the word "swagger" was never better applied than to these suits—selling elsewhere at $18 and $20.

Fancy worsted suits, $11.50.

$18 and $20 values—suits that express the sound business sense of the men who wear them—single or double breasted—others are asking $20.

Fancy cheviot suits, $11.50.

$18 and $20 values—light and Summery—patterns are the swellest any house has ever shown—double and single breasted—sale will make them the talk of the town.

Black thibet suits, $11.50.

$18 and $20 values—by all means include a black suit among your Summer wardrobe—it's inexpensive and likely to be needed at any time.

A thousand $3 and $4 fancy vests, $1.50

WE'RE selling a thousand a day, and at the rate they are going this vast new collection of 1,000 vests, especially for Saturday, won't any more than last through the day.

It's the largest, handsomest showing of vests we ever had, and you know we've had some remarkable sales, attended by crowds of swell dressers. Come to-day; we've single and double breasted styles.

You ought to see the snappy new patterns—you'll like them better than any you ever saw—you'll see more at $1.50 than a dozen haberdasheries show at $3 and $4—same quality, too.

As to sizes—we've all of them from 34 to 46 inclusive—every man may be fitted perfectly. As to the number you should buy—we'll leave that to you when you come and see what extraordinary values they are; but it is not amiss to say that another such purchase of manufacturer's samples to sell at half price and less is not likely to be offered again.

Boys' department—four extra bargains.

The manufacturers say we're selling more boys' suits than any other house in New York. They say it's because we have set the prices so the boys can have different suits for different purposes at the same price it costs to have one suit for all purposes when bought elsewhere. Four stirring bargains stand back of that argument. $3.00

$3.00, values $5 and $6.
$3.00 for boys' Norfolk and double-breasted, Norfolk and sailor suits, in the newest Spring styles; for boys from 3 to 16 years.

$3.95, values $6 and $7.50.
$3.95 for boys' confirmation suits—navy blue serge or cheviot—in Norfolk with knickerbocker trousers—also double-breasted three-piece blue serge, together with a large assortment of fancy patterns in all sizes.

$4.95 for your pick of high-grade suits in every style, every fabric, for every size boy.

Misses' handsome $19.75 junior suits, $9.75.

OF course, there's a decided loss, but then that's a penalty we're willing to pay for reducing stock to the midsummer mark in one day, instead of taking two weeks at regular prices. All New York will hail this sale as one of the great early season bargain events.

Third Floor.

We always make it a point to sell in season—regardless of cost—that's why we hold this sale to-day, instead of a week hence.

We say to you with emphasis that there is no sale that may follow here or elsewhere that equals this event for genuine bargain importance—when you consider that every garment is from our regular stock—the style reputation of this house, and the exclusiveness of each creation, you can readily realize why this sale is the best patronized of the year.

$9.75 for misses' $19.75 Junior suits—we could say they were worth more, for many of them are, but then we want to be conservative—would rather surprise than disappoint you—get your bargain hopes as high as you possibly can, then come and see how we meet your expectations—these Junior suits are made of fancy mixtures, small shepherd checks; also covert cloth; made with short box coat or semi-fitting backs, lined throughout with soft satin in light shades—all beautifully trimmed with broadcloth, velvet or fancy silk braids, ornamented with small buttons—full sleeves and plaited skirts—in all decidedly dainty, smart and attractive garments for misses of 12 to 18 years—at..... $9.75

$14.50 for $27.50 Junior and intermediate suits of serges and Panamas, in blue, black or brown, also coverts and fancy mixtures, of light or dark shades, made in various models; taffeta or satin lined; all entirely new plaited skirts.

$12.00 for misses' $24.75 suits—variety of fine all-wool mixtures in all the pretty light shades, also outing materials, embracing all the colors and models used this season—blouse and Eton—also surplice and coat styles—notch collar or collarless—full sleeves and plaited skirts—14, 16 and 18 years.

$16.50 for misses' $32.50 suits of pretty fine Panamas and serges, also shepherd check and high-class mixtures, including a large range of colorings and a variety of models—a number of models where there are but one or two of a kind.

$25.00 for up to $50.00 misses' suits—a few high-class models that have served their purpose as show pieces—also a few garments that are broken in sizes—all of which are smart, clever styles.

$3.75 for girls' $7.50 reefers and fine cheviots and paca cloth, in navy or golf red—strictly tailored—large hand-embroidered emblem on sleeve—6 to 14 years.

$2.50 for girls' $3.95 regulation reefers—something that can be used all Summer over dainty white or thin dresses—in plain red or blue cloth, also covert cloth, and the dainty little black and white checks, with red silk emblem—sizes 6 to 14 years.

$7.50 for misses' $12.00 coats, in covert cloth or blue and black panne cheviot—also all-wool homespun—made loose box style, notch collar, fly front, full sleeves—lined with taffeta or soft satin.

$12.75 for misses' and girls' regulation suits, suitable for mountain and seashore—one special style in hard-finished serges in blue or black, with full plaited skirt and large red silk detachable tie.

$7.50 for girls' regulation suits in serges and cheviots, in blue, brown or black, daintily trimmed in plain or colored silk braids—large sailor collars—silk hand-work emblem on sleeves—a general utility garment for outing purposes—6 to 14 years.

$5.00 for girls' $10.00 coats—reefer and three-quarter length, in fancy mixtures, plain cheviots or covert cloth, all full and boxy—with or without the emblems; plain little tailored coats or fancy trimmed garments—full line of sizes—6 to 14 years.

JAPANESE ADVANCING ON LINEVITCH'S ARMY

Three Columns Are Moving Upon Long Russian Line.

PLANS ARE WELL SCREENED

Russian Scouts' Efforts to Pierce Curtain Fail—Weather Clears and Roads Will Soon Be Dry.

LONDON TIMES—NEW YORK TIMES.
Special Cable. Copyright, 1905.

TOKIO, May 19.—The news from Manchuria indicates the imminence of a battle.

The Russians occupy a line forty-two miles in length from Yen-ho-Ching to Hsi-do-Sien, via Su-ping-Hien, where they have good defensive positions, strongly intrenched.

The Japanese are advancing in three columns from Kai-Yuan, Chang-tu-Foo, and Fakoman.

In the eastern part of the field the Russians who retreated from Tung-Hua and Shing-King rallied at Wang-kao-Tse, forty miles north of Tung-Hua, but subsequently withdrew north, their advanced position being now at Liu-ho-Chen, fifteen miles north of Wang-kao-Tse. Their main position is at Hai-liung-Ching, where Gen. Matorlioff commands.

By The Associated Press.

GUNSHU PASS, May 19.—The weather has cleared. The roads washed out by the recent rains are impassable quagmires, but they will soon dry.

The Japanese are showing every evidence of preparation to assume the offensive, constantly shifting positions and pressing the Russian left, where the cavalry forces are daily exchanging shots. The demonstration on the Russian left, however, is probably only a feint to cover the real stroke at the right.

This is thought to be the more probable because of the care with which the Japanese are screening the movements on their left, using Chinese bandits freely for this purpose. The attempts of the Russian scouts to pierce the curtain have not been successful.

Profiting by past experience, a new system for the transportation of wounded men from the battlefield by means of pack horses has been organized. Experiments have shown good results.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 19.—A dispatch from Gen. Linevitch, dated May 18, says:

"A small detachment of the enemy May 16 occupied Yandi Pass on the front of the armies. The Japanese also attempted to occupy Sha-ho-Tse, but were repulsed and retired southward. The same day the Japanese approached Honokhu, about six miles south of Taul, but were forced to retire."

The newspapers again say that Gen. Kuropatkin is returning from the front and is going to the Crimea to recuperate.

ADMIRAL BIRILEFF TO HURRY.

To be in Supreme Command at Vladivostok to Prevent Friction.

ST. PETERSBURG, Saturday, May 20.—Admiral Birileff, who has been named for the supreme naval command in the Pacific, will start for Vladivostok on May 25 to take charge there and make preparations for repairing and refitting the vessels of Admiral Rojestvensky's fleet when they arrive.

By imperial command, Birileff will have all the rights and powers of commander of the army, and the commander of the Vladivostok garrison will be subject to his orders, thereby avoiding the possibility of any conflict of authority in case of a siege, as at Port Arthur. Admiral Birileff said yesterday:

"I have no intention of relieving Admiral Rojestvensky of the immediate command of the fleet if he is well and able to perform his duties on his arrival at Vladivostok. I have high respect for his qualifications as a fleet commander, and there will be plenty for us both to do."

Birileff, who, in spite of his sixty-four years, is overflowing with energy, has the reputation of being a strict disciplinarian. He expressed himself hopefully regarding the prospects for the Russians in the coming naval encounter. He said he believed the Russian Pacific fleet was destined to restore the supremacy of the sea. He added that the departure of the new reinforcing squadron was fixd for the middle of June.

Admiral Verelago has succeeded Birileff in command of the Baltic station, but it has not been determined whether he will take out the new squadron.

Birileff's departure will lack the spectacular features witnessed when Admirals Makaroff and Skrydloff and Gen. Kuropatkin started for the front, the Admiral declaring his intention of leaving the city quietly and without ceremony.

Reports of Rojestvensky's breakdown and of his surrender of his command continue in circulation, one rumor being that Admiral Nebogatoff, though Rojestvensky's junior in rank, had been ordered to assume command, but Admiral Birileff said he had no information to that effect.

The newspapers call attention to the indifference with which the powers contemplate the danger involved in navigating Far Eastern waters owing to the Japanese-floating mines, contrasting this with the harsh criticism earlier in the war when the Russians planted mines outside Port Arthur. The Novoe Vremya says:

"Although seven ships were blown up during the last fortnight, the British press, so vigilant wherever the seas are concerned, does not utter a word of reproach against its ally."

CLADO IN HOT WATER AGAIN.

Kept on Writing Articles Despite Admiralty's Orders.

ST. PETERSBURG, Saturday, May 20.—Further punishment is in store for Capt. Clado.

In spite of the demand that he publish no further articles without first submitting them to the Admiralty, Capt. Clado is said to be continuing his journalistic activity in the form of unsigned articles, and it is probable that his assignment as executive officer of the armored cruiser Gromoboi will be canceled and that he will be publicly censured.

FRENCH WATCHING COLLIERS.

Scores of Russian and German Vessels Still Off Indo-China.

SAIGON, May 19.—Forty-three colliers, mostly Russian and German, are anchored off Nha-Bé under the supervision of the French gunboat Caronade.

Twenty similar ships are off Cape St. James, near here, under the supervision of the French cruiser D'Assas.

No further direct news of the Russian fleet is expected here beyond what may be received from refugees should there be fighting in the neighborhood of the Pescadore Islands.

SIAM GIVES WAY TO FRANCE.

Accepts Proposition for the Extension of the French Frontiers.

PARIS, May 19.—Foreign Minister Delcassé stated at the Cabinet Council today that the Siamese Delimitation Commissioners, under the King's instructions, had accepted France's proposition for the extension of the French frontiers.

The population of the newly occupied territory will have a year in which to adopt the French nationality.

WOULD FORTIFY INDO-CHINA.

Deloncle Says Japanese Attack Could Not Now Be Resisted.

PARIS, May 19.—François Deloncle, (Republican,) Deputy for Indo-Chino, has submitted to the special Parliamentary Committee on Naval Affairs a remarkable report on the urgent necessity for strengthening the defenses of Indo-China.

"Indo-China," he says, "has only two enemies to fear, namely, Japan alone or China, encouraged and supported by Japan. The former constitutes a real danger, for Japan has much to gain and little to risk, and her isolated position makes her almost invulnerable to us. She could in a few weeks throw 100,000 men into Indo-China and easily reinforce this first landing party.

"The first phase of such a struggle would consist of Japan's efforts to secure the mastery of the sea in order to reinforce her troops. Owing to Japan's superiority in naval forces in Far Eastern waters, our feeble division would not risk a decisive battle, but would fall back upon our only naval base, Saigon. There it would be blockaded as the Russians were blockaded within Port Arthur. With our division thus bottled up, Japan could oppose the junction of the blockaded warships with the relief squadron, and, having secured the mastery of the sea, Japanese transports would be free to land invading forces.

"In the present condition of our defenses, could we resist such an attack? Evidently not, and within a brief time Indo-China would be the prey of the invader."

The report then examines the means which it is necessary to adopt for the defense of the colony, and says the best solution of the problem is strongly to reinforce Indo-China. The programme suggested consists of a large augmentation of the naval forces in the Far East, an increase of the military force of occupation to a minimum of 55,000 men, the establishment of strong naval bases at Saigon, Kamranh Bay, Allong Bay, and Pulo Condor, and the establishment of torpedo boat and submarine stations at Cape St. James, Kamranh Bay, and Turan.

Detailed estimates are given of the cost of the work, namely, for the fortification of Tonquin, guns, and armament, $22,000,000; coast defenses, $14,000,000, and the establishment of torpedo and other stations, $6,000,000.

M. Deloncle is a member of the Special Parliamentary Committee on Naval Affairs, which appointed him to submit the report.

TO REMOVE KOREAN RULER?

Russians Hear That It Is Intended to Take Him to Japan.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 19.—The Russian Chargé d'Affaires at Peking has informed the Chinese Government that, according to reports, the Japanese intend to remove the Emperor of Korea to Japan in contravention of the treaty of Shimonoseki guaranteeing the independence of Korea.

The Russian Government has protested against such action to all the powers

THE RIVALS IN MOROCCO.

Relations Between French and German Envoys Are Extremely Formal.

TANGIER, May 19.—The French plans for Morocco, while not yet complete, include the establishment of a bank for taking over the customs revenues and the financial administration of certain departments, including the army, and for fixing a definite ratio for Moorish silver. The plan does not contemplate the administration of mosque property or schools.

Persistent reports from Fez say that Count von Tattenbach-Ashold (the head of the German mission to the Sultan of Morocco) will submit to the Sultan a definite programme of reforms. The Sultan will be encouraged to take the initiative, being assured that Germany is prepared to invest considerable money in Morocco in various undertakings.

All the Moroccan Ministers have received German decorations.

Reports say that the relations between Count von Tattenbach-Ashold and M. Taillandier, the French Minister to Morocco, are extremely formal, and might even be termed stiff.

OPENED BRAUN'S MAIL.

Austrians Tell American Official It Will Not Occur Again.

VIENNA, May 19.—Ambassador Storer has taken up the case of United States Immigration Inspector Marcus Braun against the authorities of Budapest with the Foreign Office here. Negotiations looking to a satisfactory settlement of the matter are proceeding.

The authorities say that the opening of Mr. Braun's mail at Budapest was not instigated and not authorized, and they assure him that it will not occur again.

FAMINE THREATENS SEVILLE.

Government Grants $460,000 More to Relieve the Distress.

MADRID, May 19.—The Government has granted new credits amounting to $460,000 for the relief of the distress in the Province of Seville in consequence of the drought.

The newspapers here state that famine threatens Seville.

FOR METROPOLITAN MUSEUM.

Sir Purdon Clarke to Consult J. P. Morgan About Purchases.

LONDON, May 19.—Sir Caspar Purden Clarke, Director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art at New York, will start tomorrow for Aix-les-Bains to confer with J. Pierpont Morgan in regard to purchases which Sir Purdon hopes to make for the Metropolitan Museum.

Sir Purdon expects a number of the Trustees of the Museum to be in London in June, when further purchases will be considered. He declines to specify the objects he hopes to secure for fear of running up prices.

TO BUY PEACE PALACE SITE.

Second Chamber of Dutch Parliament Votes $280,000.

THE HAGUE, May 19.—The Second Chamber of the States General to-day, by 56 to 5 votes, appropriated $280,000 to purchase the ground, comprising twelve acres, now the property of the Zoological Garden Society, on which to erect the Palace of Peace, for which Andrew Carnegie gave $1,500,000.

The Opposition contended that the other powers should co-operate in providing this sum, but the Premier, Dr. Kuyper, replied that the honor of the Netherlands and its gratitude to Mr. Carnegie for the privilege enjoyed by Holland as a result of his contribution demanded that the money to purchase the site be voted.

Tikhon Made an Archbishop.

ST. PETERSBURG, Saturday, May 20.—Emperor Nicholas has raised Bishop Tikhon of the Diocese of the Aleutian Islands and North America, to the rank of Archbishop in consideration of his distinguished services and devotion to duty.

BOMB FOR MAXIMOVITCH EXPLODED; THREE DEAD

Workman Carrying Missile and Two Detectives Killed.

TWENTY-THREE WERE HURT

Governor Was in Warsaw Cathedral, a Few Yards Away—Passers By Were Warned.

WARSAW, May 19.—As a workman was about to be arrested by two detectives in Miodowa Street at noon to-day a bomb which he was carrying exploded, killing the workman and both the detectives. Two passersby were severely injured and twenty-one others were more or less badly hurt.

The bodies of the victims were literally blown to pieces. A café near the scene of the explosion was entirely demolished, all the windows in the neighborhood were smashed, and a lamppost was torn out of the ground.

The authorities are convinced that the bomb was intended for Governor General Maximovitch. He was attending a service at the Cathedral, which is situated a few yards from the scene of the explosion. All the high officials and members of Russian society here were also present.

The Governor General has recently been threatened with a bomb attack, particularly since the May Day disturbances. The police accordingly exercise the greatest vigilance whenever he leaves the castle.

After the officials had entered the Cathedral detectives observed a poorly dressed man loitering on Miodowa Street. The detectives were in the act of arresting the man when he ran toward the entrance of a confectioner's store, and he either tripped or threw the bomb backward at the detectives. The explosion occurred only a minute before the people commenced to pour out of the Cathedral. Three minutes later the Governor General would have passed the spot.

Cossacks who were hastily summoned soon cleared the streets, and the Governor General drove by another route to the castle.

The man who was carrying the bomb was later identified as a Polish shoemaker named Dobrowolski, a member of the violent section of the Socialists. A revolver and a bundle of papers were found in his pocket.

Many arrests have been made since the explosion, and the police are now busy making domiciliary searches.

It is stated that Gen. Maximovitch recently received an anonymous letter threatening that, as he had allowed men, women, and children to be shot down on May Day, so he would be killed with his wife and children, the writer adding that even remaining within the castle would not save them from that fate.

Gen. Maximovitch sent his Adjutant to the hospital this afternoon with a message of sympathy for the injured and an offer to take care of them.

Those injured by the explosion include three women, one student, and two schoolboys. One of the last-named is detained at the police station, having been noticed warning people against going into Miodowa Street.

Many reports are in circulation of strangers having stopped poorly dressed persons going in that direction. Shopkeepers assert that the street was unusually empty at the time of the explosion.

To-day's bomb explosion is the sixth in Warsaw since the January disturbances. The editors of Polish papers here have decided to publish to-morrow, if the censor will permit it, strong articles denouncing bomb outrages.

STYLE WITH COMFORT IN WOMEN'S REGALS

WOMEN who have found difficulty in securing a satisfactory fit in other ready-to-wear shoes and who believe themselves forced to pay the high prices of custom-makers, will invariably find in Regal shoes at $3.50 everything that the custom-maker can give them—at a saving of at least one-half.

Women's Regal Oxfords never chafe at the heel nor "gape" at the sides, for they are all built on special ankle-fitting Oxford lasts.

As to the fitting—REGAL QUARTER SIZES give variations in width and length in intervals of one-twelfth of an inch.

No custom-maker can work any closer to actual measurements than that. Nor can the custom-maker give a better style—for all Regal shoes are copied from THIS Spring's models of the foremost custom-makers of New York, London and Paris—copied THIS Spring by no other ready-to-wear shoe in the market.

The Regal price is $3.50. Under any other than the Regal tannery-to-consumer system it would cost what other shoes equally well made cost—$5 or $6.

"KENT"

The plain vamp, large eyelets and jaunty bow add to the effectiveness of this model. A dress shoe suitable for street or house wear. Oxford, blucher cut. YACHTSMEN ARE KEEN FOR NEWS OF RACE

Hamburg's Splendid Showing Not a Surprise to Most Experts.

ENDYMION TENDING TO SOUTH

Partisans Say Capt. Loesch Wants to Avoid Path of Ocean Liners—Expect No Word of Her.

The latest information of the positions of the ocean yachts racing across the Atlantic for the Kaiser's Cup shows:

The Hamburg, 130 miles southeast by east, one-quarter east, in eighteen hours—averaging 7 1-4 miles an hour.

The Atlantic, 128 miles southeast by east, one-quarter east, in eighteen hours—averaging about 7 1-4 miles an hour.

The Valhalla, 103 miles southeast by east, in thirty-six hours—averaging 5 1-2 miles an hour.

The Ailsa, 95 miles southeast by east, in twenty-two hours—averaging 4 1-3 miles an hour.

The Apache, 136 miles southeast by east, in thirty-four hours—averaging 4 miles an hour.

The Endymion, 45 miles out in seven hours—averaging 6 3-4 miles an hour.

Scarcely any condition likely to exist in the international ocean race could have stimulated wider interest in yachting circles than was aroused by the announcement made by E. C. Benedict on the return of his steam yacht Oneida that the Hamburg was leading the procession of racers across the Atlantic. Everywhere one went yesterday the positions of the boats as indicated by the reports received was discussed, and for diversity of opinion the expressions heard were not more remarkable before the race commenced. Not that the news of the leaders was unexpected, for almost every one has conceded in the last ten days that the German was a most dangerous competitor and likely to give the Atlantic a continuous struggle for first honors, but the poor showing of the Ailsa, the slow progress of the square-riggers, and the absence of any news of the Endymion and the Hildegarde were fruitful of many discussions and of differing opinions.

The only further light thrown on the positions of the contending boats yesterday was furnished by a party of Indian Harbor yachtsmen. They were keenly interested in the showing of the Endymion and followed her to the exclusion of the so-called leaders. When Capt. Loesch dropped off to the leeward and allowed the Atlantic and Hamburg to gain a seemingly commanding lead, they stuck by Commodore Lauder's racer. They found that the crafty skipper had allowed his boat to shape a more southerly course, with apparent intent, and that his purpose was to get out of the path of ocean liners as quickly as was practicable.

The Endymion passed well to the south of the other schooners in the race, and her lead was followed by the Hildegarde. The Indian Harbor party followed for over forty miles, and left Loesch making satisfactory headway away from the beaten track, evidently figuring on picking up stronger breezes to the south of the path pursued by Capt. Barr and Capt. Peters. On arriving very late on Wednesday night they figured that the Hildegarde, too, had taken the southern route, and that these two were probably making good progress on an entirely different tack from the course of the Atlantic and Hamburg, which probably accounts for the failure of the Benedict party to sight them.

Calculating the rate of speed of the Atlantic and Hamburg by the distance traveled in the elapsed time, until lost by the Oneida, they had averaged nearly seven and a half miles an hour, a very satisfactory showing in view of the head wind against which they had to contend. With the shift of the breeze to the northwest and its constant freshening, both should have footed faster during Thursday and must have been a goodly distance ahead of those following in their wake, when, for instance, the Valhalla was sighted off Nantucket.

The failure of the Ailsa to make a better showing was only to be explained on two hypotheses. First, she may have met some mishap that delayed her, and, second, she may have run in too close to shore and been practically becalmed at some period of the night. If she met mishap, certainly she showed no signs of it when spoken by the Oneida; nor could the Benedict party offer any explanation of her slow progress. The rate she traveled in the twenty-two hours elapsed between her start and the time last sighted was less than four and a third miles an hour, which under conditions suited to her better than any other of the contestants is most disappointing. However, in so long a race there is plenty of time to make up such a handicap.

The Valhalla, if it was she that was sighted off Nantucket, must have made unexpectedly good headway against a wind least adapted to her speeding. There is no certainty that it was the Englishman who was spoken off the Shoal light. All that is known is that a full-rigged ship with a white hull and answering her general description passed, but it is not sure that some merchantman may not have been mistaken for her. If it was she, the rate traveled, five and a half miles, is excellent under the circumstances. If she foots as fast comparatively when the wind blows a gale off her quarter, she will show her taffrail to some of the contestants yet.

The poor showing of the Apache, 136 miles in thirty-four hours, an average of just four miles an hour, is nearer what was expected of the Valhalla under the conditions prevailing. Both square riggers—and the Sunbeam and Thistle, which carry square sails on their foremast, as well—were practically helpless with the northeast wind blowing. None of these expected to make much progress until well past the banks, when they hope for westerly gales to drive them when the lighter boats have to shorten sail and run before the wind with practically bare poles.

"Wait for about five days before you figure the big fellows out of it," said one Apache partisan. "Then you will likely have seen some heavy weather with westerly winds. Under these conditions the advantage will be reversed, and the relative speed of the yachts as well. The Apache and Valhalla will pull up as fast on the others as they were left behind on the first day. Of course, if the head winds continue they might as well turn back, for they are not likely to get across in a month. But it's too early to decide the race yet."

What news is received from this time on will mean little, as the sighting of one boat will tell nothing of the position of any other. The only purpose that it will serve will be for comparison with the Endymion's record run, and even that will be deceptive, as the Endymion met her lightest weather in mid-ocean and made her slowest progress there. So it looks as though one must now wait until the Lizard reports before securing any further conclusive information.

Shelter Island Mess Dinner.

The Shelter Island Yacht Club will give its mess dinner to-night at the Hotel Astor. The dining room will be fitted like the saloon of a yacht and Commodore Little expects a full turnout of club members. Dr. J. Lester Keep, W. H. Bedford, and James Weir, Jr., are in charge of the arrangements.

Maturo Won Pool Tournament.

James Maturo won the pool tournament at the Broadway Billiard Academy last night by defeating Sam Lewis in the final night's play. He scored 116 to Lewis's 75 points, giving a splendid exhibition of skill. After his victory he announced he would contest for the championship of the world in the next tournament held. Maturo's high run was 30, with four scratches, against Lewis's 17, with two scratches. The grand totals on the four nights' play were: Maturo, 509; Lewis, 376.

NATIONAL STALLION RACE.

Ten Horses Named to Run for To-day's $12,000 Prize.

The first produce stakes of the season, the National Stallion Race, at five furlongs, for two-year-olds, will be run this afternoon as one of the three stake fixtures of the Belmont Park programme. Ten horses are named to run for the prize, which will have a gross value of about $12,000, the ten including many of the best of the two-year-olds that have showed so far, though the star colts of several of the winning stables are not eligible. In the list of horses named to run, however, are First Water, as yet unbeaten, and regarded as the best colt that the season has produced; Comedienne and Merry Boy, both winners, in the colors of J. E. Madden, and Clark Griffith, and Veronese, also winners in very recent races.

The entries, weights to be accorded, and the jockeys are as follows:

The National Stallion Race, for two-year-olds, the produce of stallions entered by Oct. 1, 1903, breeding allowance, five furlongs straight, to be run as the third race.

FAST TIME BY AUTOS.

Oldfield's Figures Beaten in Trials—Leading Racers Meet To-day.

New records are almost a certainty to-day on the Morris Park automobile track, when the race meet for the new course opens this afternoon. Charles Basle, in H. L. Bowen's big racer, and Louis Chevrolet, in the Italian Fiat, both went a mile over the course yesterday under the world's record of 0:53, now held by Barney Oldfield. Basle did 0:52 1-5, while Chevrolet did 0:52 2-5. These times of course are unofficial and were only done in trial tests, but they give an indication of what may be expected when the rival chauffeurs are racing for honors to-day.

In making the lower, sharp turn at high speed Basle ripped a tire off his car and the machine was thrown to the far edge of the bank. No damage was done to the car, and as soon as a new tire was placed on the wheel Basle continued around the track.

Barney Oldfield was at the track during the day, but he did not try for record time. He will drive his famous Green Dragon car to-day. The white steam racer driven by Webb Jay showed her speed well by making a mile in 0:58 3-5, and Guy Vaughan, in his French racer, did 0:59 2-5.

Robert Lee Morrell, Chairman of the Racing Board of the American Automobile Association, will open the track as an automobile headquarters at 2 o'clock to-day, and fifteen minutes later the first race will be called. This will be the amateur one-mile event between Richard Stevens, Major J. S. C. Miller, and George Isham Scott.

WOMEN OPEN GOLF SEASON.

Mrs. Stout Makes Lowest Gross in Staten Island Tournament.

Nearly thirty women golfers from a number of clubs in the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association met yesterday on the links of the Richmond County Country Club, Staten Island, for their first tournament competition of the season. The match was at medal play, eighteen holes, in the morning, while the afternoon was spent in putting and approaching. The large number of players and the good golf shown were indicative of wider interest in women's golf than has been the case for the past two years.

Mrs. Charles T. Stout, who, as Miss Genevieve Hecker, was America's champion woman golfer, was a contestant and made the lowest gross score, 94 strokes. The net score prize was won by Mrs. C. H. Connor of the Apawamis Club, whose score was 92 from 8 strokes handicap. Mrs. Stout won the putting contest after a tie with Mrs. G. S. Brophy. The players in the handicap were:

HARVARD'S FOOTBALL DATES.

Arranges for Eleven Games, Dropping Holy Cross and Adding Two Others.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 19.—The Harvard football schedule for 1905 was announced to-night. The opposing teams will be the same as last season, with the exceptions that Holy Cross has been dropped, and Brown and the Springfield Training School added. There will be eleven games, one more than least year. The dates are:

Sept. 30, Williams; Oct. 4, Bowdoin; 7, University of Maine; 11, Bates; 14, Springfield Training School; 21, West Point; 28, Brown; Nov. 4, Carlisle Indians; 11, University of Pennsylvania; 18, Dartmouth; 25, Yale.

SURPRISE IN SCHOOL GOLF.

Champion Travers Beaten by Johnson —J. K. Bangs, Jr., After Second Cup.

Jerome D. Travers, the interscholastic golf champion, met defeat yesterday on the Garden City links in the semi-final round of the annual tournament for the coming year's championship. His vanquisher was L. Johnson of the Ridgewood (N. J.) School. The latter had not been regarded as especially dangerous, but he put up an excellent match against Travers and won by the comfortable score of 4 up and 3 to play. Dwight Partridge beat the Boston school lad, B. S. Evans, by 3 up and 2 to play, so Partridge and Johnson will meet to-day in the final round for the title. Partridge has been prominent in the local tournaments for the last three years, and he is the general favorite in the deciding match to-day.

Two rounds of the consolation cup contest were completed and they brought out some good golf. John Kendrick Bangs, Jr., a member of the Cutler School, is still eligible for the second prize of the tournament. His closest round was in the morning, when he defeated C. Knowles of St. Paul's School by a single hole. Results of the match play rounds:

Championship Cup.—Second Round—L. Johnson, Ridgewood, beat G. Bonner, St. Paul's, 3 up and 2 to play; Dwight Partridge, St. Paul's, beat C. A. Dunning, St. Paul's, 1 up; B. S. Evans, Demeritte, beat E. Bennett, St. Paul's, 8 up and 7 to play; Jerome D. Travers, Collison, beat Donald McKellar, Pratt's, 7 up and 5 to play.

Semi-Final Round—Johnson beat Travers, 4 up and 3 to play; Partridge beat Evans, 3 up and 2 to play.

Consolation Cup.—First Round—J. K. Bangs, Jr., Cutler, beat C. Knowles, St. Paul's, 1 up; A. M. Longstreet, St. Paul's, defaulted to J. Funk, St. Paul's; S. R. Sterne, Worcester, Boston, beat F. C. Carter, Jr., St. Paul's, 4 up and 3 to play; W. T. Glenny, Leal School, beat A. S. Mills, Brown, 2 up; John Colbran, St. Paul's, beat R. M. Rowe, Browning, 3 up and 2 to play; H. C. Hunt beat William Blandy, 6 up and 5 to play; Harold Wilcox, Montclair, won from E. E. Sturges, Berkeley, by default.

Second Round—Bangs beat Longstreet, 6 up and 5 to play; Sterne beat Mills, 2 up and 1 to play; Woe beat Colbrook by default; Sturges beat Hunt, 6 up and 4 to play.

Jarvis Will Not Sail Canada Boat.

TORONTO, May 19.—Acmillus Jarvis, who has sailed the Canadian representative in every race for the Canada Cup, has notified the Racing Committee of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club that he will not be able to sail the challenger this year. Mr. Wedde, it is said, probably will be selected.

WOOD PLEADS GUILTY AND GETS 30 YEARS

Defense Admits Insanity Was Not Fully Substantiated.

STATE DIDN'T PROVE MOTIVE

Plea to Murder in Second Degree Agreed Upon by Counsel and Judge.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., May 19.—George H. Wood was this morning sentenced to thirty years at hard labor in State Prison by Justice Garretson after he had entered a plea of guilty of murder in the second degree for killing George Williams, the Watchung grocer, on Feb. 2 last. A conference was held between the prosecutor, the Judge, and counsel for the prisoner, when it was agreed that Wood would enter such a plea. Thirty years is the limit for the crime.

As soon as court was opened at 9:30 o'clock Prosecutor Reger addressed the Judge and told of the conference. He said that there was not in the evidence of the State proof of that degree of premeditation in the committing of the crime to justify the jury in finding the defendant guilty of murder in the first degree. Counsel for the defense also thought that the burden of proof of insanity was not fully made up. In view of these facts counsel for the defendant had proffered a plea of guilty of murder in the second degree. In the absence of any proof of motive for the act the State had decided to accept such a plea.

Mr. Swackhamer made a plea for clemency for his client.

"I am convinced," said Mr. Swackhamer, "that the defendant is not morally responsible for this crime. But, at the same time, the defense of insanity must be made out to the satisfaction of the jury, and requires considerable proof. While there is no proof of a premeditated murder, at the same time we may not have convinced the jury that Wood was insane when he committed the act. I have consulted him and his family. The defendant said to me, in the presence of his family, that he did not want to go back home. I think that it is for the best interests of the public and all concerned that we should make this plea.

"I would stake anything that the defendant has told the absolute truth. If the court could have seen him yesterday in the midst of his family and heard his statement it would have been convinced of this. When I proposed his plea to him he said it made little difference to him. His life was of little use to any one."

Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Williams, the widow of the murdered man, both wept throughout the proceedings. Wood sat with his head resting on his hands, but showed no emotion.

Justice Garretson and Judge Schenck retired for a brief conference after counsel for the defense had finished his plea. When they had again taken their seats Justice Garretson said the court must deal with the case as presented. The defendant had pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree. The Legislature fixed the limit of punishment at thirty years in State prison. The appeal for sympathy was a proper one for the jury, but out of place to the court. Continuing, the Justice said:

"If it may develop later that the disease made Wood not responsible, there is a tribunal to which he can appeal."

Wood was ordered to stand up, and Justice Garretson sentenced him for the full term of thirty years.

The final outcome of the trial met with public approval, but it is known some of the jurors were in favor of conviction of murder in the first degree.

BRITISH WOMEN'S GOLF DRAW.

Americans aMtched for English Championship Next Week.

LONDON, May 19.—There is a record entry of 137, including eight Americans, for the women's golf championship tournament which commences at Cromer (Norfolk) May 29. The drawings were made to-day. In the first round Miss Margaret Curtis of Boston meets Mrs. Fessions, Miss Harriet Curtis of Boston meets Mrs. Cockroft, and Mrs. Samuel Bettle of Philadelphia meets Miss N. Evans.

Five Americans who drew byes in the first round drew for the second round as follows: Miss Emily N. Lockwood of Boston against Miss E. Steel; Miss Frances C. Griscom of Philadelphia against Mrs. S. Hunter; Miss Georgianna Bishop of Bridgeport, (the American champion,) against Miss B. C. Sumpter; Miss E. Barnett against Miss Andrew, and Miss Mary B. Adams of Boston against Miss A. Roberts.

A proposed international match between a team of American women and a team of British women is under consideration. If played it will precede the opening of the championship games.

Columbia and the Tigers.

A close contest is expected this afternoon at Columbia Oval, when the athletic teams of Princeton and Columbia meet in their annual dual meet. Columbia hopes to win points in the sprints with W. R. Knakal and G. H. Bull, in view of S. Rulon-Miller's poor form. Atlee is conceded the quarter, while in the distance events Columbia hopes Capt. J. A. Taylor, F. S. Hetherington, A. S. MacDonald, and C. A. Fulton will take the majority of the points. D. D. Muir, Columbia's fast hurdler, is relied upon to win the hurdle events for the Blue and White.

Many good men will compete in the field events. M. B. Tooker and L. Symonds, Princeton, are conceded the jumps; but Columbia expects Williams to win the pole vault. Metzenthin and Finnegan of Columbia and McCormick and Conners of Princeton in the weight events will have an open, equal contest.

EASTERN LEAGUE.

Jersey City Beaten in Poorly Played Game by Toronto.

Special to The New York Times.

TORONTO, Ontario, May 19.—The opening game between Toronto and Jersey City here to-day was a poor exhibition of baseball. The weakest point was Olmstead, who pitched for Jersey City. In the fifth inning the visitors made four runs through Falkenberg's two errors, which were responsible for Bean and Kelster scoring. Merritt made a home run and Halligan completed the quartette of runs in that inning.

In the sixth Falkenberg made a three-base hit, and he made a home run in the seventh. The score:

A Sale of Scarfs
At Fifty Cents
Formerly $1.00 and $1.50

The very scarfs with which we made good our boast that ours were the best one dollar and one-fifty folded squares and four-in-hands the whole town over, reduced to fifty cents. For the most part the silks are imported—stripes, English reps, twills, silk de roi and kindred weaves in blue, brown, red, green and black, solid colors and combinations.

Summer Shirts
At One-Fifty

Determined to have some one thing in our furnishing shop that would be far above any other of its kind, we have made a speciality of shirts at one-fifty. Perhaps they are the best you can find anywhere at that price. Perhaps they are better. We are not certain—but of this we are: they are as good in fabrics and tailoring as our organization can produce at one-fifty. The collection includes:

Plaited Bosom Negligee Shirts of corded madras in black and white stripes and designs; coat models, with cuffs attached.
Plain Negligee Shirts of imported madras in plain white, black and white, tan, blue or gray; coat with cuffs attached.
Plain Negligee Shirts of madras in tan or blue; coat models with cuffs attached.

Pajamas for Men
Value $7.50. At $5.00

Well tailored pajamas of silk with just enough linen threads introduced into the weave to insure good service. The ground of the fabric is blue with small jacquarded figures done in silk—much like embroidery. The model is new—shield front, pearl buttons, silk-end strings and pockets.

Blanket Robes
Value $5.00. At $3.50

Great, generous robes of imported flannel woven almost as fine and soft as felt. The grounds are white with big geometrical and floral designs in blue or tan. Sailor collar, two pockets and long girdle. It is an easy matter to establish the true value—five dollars.

For to-day, $3.50

EQUITABLE DIRECTORS GET BRACKETT CHARGES

He Asks Hyde's Salary Back, Also Dinner and Ball Expenses.

ATTACKS ALEXANDER, TOO

Directors Accused of Paying $2,000,000 More Than Stock Was Worth—Cromwell Now Mediator.

The complaint in the suit brought by Senator Brackett of Saratoga for Mary S. Young, a policy holder and the holder of one share of stock in the Equitable Life Assurance Society, to compel an accounting from all the Directors for their stewardship of the interests of the institution, was served upon the board here yesterday. The summons in the action was served upon Senator Chauncey M. Depew at the informal conference of Equitable Directors a couple of weeks ago.

The complaint covers the entire scope of the charges made against various officers and Directors of the society in the course of the struggle between the Hyde and Alexander forces that has been in progress since February last. It declares that the Directors, during the three years preceding the institution of the action, have "so negligently and improperly performed their duties and have continuously done and have knowingly suffered to be done such wrongful, illegal, and improper acts that by reason thereof the defendant society has suffered great loss and damage, and its funds and assets and property have been wasted and much money to which it has been and is entitled has been withheld from it, all to its great damage."

Taking up first the case of James H. Hyde, it is charged in the complaint that he has for two or more years past elected, by virtue of his control of the stock, a majority of the Directors, each of whom, not being an owner of the five qualifying shares, has received such shares from Mr. Hyde, and then immediately has transferred them back to him, with an irrevocable proxy to Mr. Hyde to vote the stock and the surrender of all right, title, and interest. The Directors mentioned in this category are:

George J. Gould,	Alfred G. Vanderbilt,
James J. Hill,	John Jacob Astor,
August Belmont,	W. C. Van Horne,
E. H. Harriman,	Henry R. Winthrop,
Levi P. Morton,	Marvin Hughitt,
Henry C. Frick,	M. H. Dodge,
A. J. Cassatt,	Bradish Johnson,
Louis Fitzgerald,	Joseph T. Low,
Wm. A. Wheelock,	D. O. Mills,
Henry C. Deming,	R. T. Lincoln,
George H. Squire,	John Sloane,
Charles S. Smith,	George T. Wilson,
V. P. Snyder,	Thomas T. Eckert,
Alvin W. Krech,	Wm. H. McIntyre,
James B. Forgan,	H. C. Haarstick,
C. Ledyard Blair,	David H. Moffatt,
Brayton Ives,	T. J. Coolidge,
Melville E. Ingalls,	Cornelius N. Bliss.
Jacob H. Schiff,

After declaring that James H. Hyde renders no services that entitle him to his salary of $100,000 a year, and that the plaintiff is entitled to have the salary paid Mr. Hyde for the last two years restored to the society, the complaint charges that personal and traveling expenses of Mr. Hyde, the Cambon dinner, and the fancy dress ball at Sherry's, living expenses in Paris and elsewhere, and wages of employes have been wrongfully paid by the society.

EMPLOYES MENTIONED.

As to this feature the complaint says:

"Among them is one Charles F. Williamson, an employe of said Hyde rendering his service at the country place of said Hyde at Bay Shore, Long Island, and at his said Hyde's, house at Paris, France; and one L. V. Gofflet, a French stenographer and the French secretary of said Hyde; and one Martigny, a French personal employe of said Hyde, who rendered no service whatever to the defendant society, each of whom, said Williamson and said Gofflet, has received large sums of money from the defendant society, and more than $25,000 each, and said Martigny other large sums to which he was not entitled; that said Hyde has also wrongfully caused to be paid by the defendant society the wages of other Fench secretaries and stenographers, who have rendered no service to or for the benefit of the defendant society, but have only rendered services to him and various societies in which he was interested, and which he patronized, notably the Alliance Française and the Cercle Francaise, the last-named at Harvard University; that all of said services were for the personal benefit or pleasure of said Hyde, were paid by the society by his audit, or direction, and for which he should account and which he should restore to the treasury of the society; that such payment of said several sums was a waste of the funds and property of said society."

It is alleged, further, that William H. McIntyre, the Fourth Vice President of the society, and Roger Winthrop, its financial manager, do not render services commensurate with their salaries, but are paid large sums "by reason of the friendship of James H. Hyde and to support them at the expense of the defendant society."

UNDERWRITING AND RENTS.

The underwriting transactions of James H. Hyde and associates form the next topic of the complaint, and it is alleged that Mr. Hyde should account for profits made by the underwriting of security issues of which the society has made purchases; also for rents paid on real estate owned by the Equitable by corporations in which Mr. Hyde is interested, which the complaint says have been negotiated with large profits to Mr. Hyde and small return to the society; also, for money alleged to have been spent for personal expenses and charged up to the society, with no voucher save Mr. Hyde's own.

Jacob H. Schiff and Edward H. Harriman are both mentioned individually in the complaint, an accounting being sought of Mr. Schiff as a member of the Equitable's Finance Committee for profits made by him through the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. on securities sold to the society, and of Mr. Harriman as a member of the Executive Committee for profits made through the alleged investment of Equitable funds in propositions in which he is interested, both as loans and purchases. Gage E. Tarbell is called by the complaint to account for the $137,000 that he received from the sale of his renewal interest to the society, and Chauncey M. Depew for $25,000 a year alleged to have been received for many years for no services entitling him to any such sum. John J. McCook, Charles B. Alexander, Henry C. Deming, Alvin W. Krech, and William McIntyre are held jointly and severally responsible for underwriting profits made on issues of securities, some of which the society bought, and Mr. McIntyre is asked to account for the sum of $50,000 a year in addition, which he has received as salary.

PURCHASES OF STOCK.

Finally, James W. Alexander, as President of the Equitable and a member of both the Finance and Executive Committees, is held accountable for all acts enumerated above, with the prevention of which, it is declared, he has been especially charged. Further, the Directors are held answerable by the complaint for the purchase by the Equitable of blocks of stock in various trust companies at figures alleged to be higher than the market, and particularly for the purchase of a large block of stock in the Equitable Trust Company, for which, it is alleged, the society paid nearly $2,000,000 more than it was worth. Similar accusations are made regarding the alleged deposit of the funds of the society in certain trust companies, to the private advantage of certain of the defendants interested in these companies, and at low rates of interest or at no interest at all.

The complaint then charges the Directors with negligence "in not preventing and in negligently permitting the funds of the defendant society to be used for improper and unlawful purposes, to secure in various States legislation supposed to be favorable to the society and to prevent in various States legislation supposed to be inimical to the interests of the society, all contrary to law, as well as good morals, and resulting in great waste of the funds of the society, which could not have occurred had the defendants, other than the defendant society, performed their duties as Directors faithfully and according to law, and for which waste thus occasioned by their said negligence the defendants, other than the defendant society, are liable to the defendant society."

It is noted that the action is started with the consent of the Attorney General that Mrs. Young should sue for an accounting of moneys that she believes to be due the society.

Deputy Superintendent Hunter of the State Insurance Department and Congressman Driscoll, attorney for Superintendent Hendricks, continued the examination of witnesses in the Equitable Building yesterday.

It developed yesterday that William Nelson Cromwell had at last been retained to act as general mediator along the lines suggested some weeks ago, when Mr. Cromwell's visit to Washington happened to be coincident with the stories that the Presidency of the society had been offered to Postmaster General Cortelyou. Mr. Cromwell maintained silence yesterday. Samuel Untermyer, who has been directing Mr. Hyde's forces, remained at his country place, in Yonkers.

U. S. LIFE MET CRITICISM.

By Making Up for Impairment of Capital Stock After Examination.

Although filed with the Superintendent of the department more than a month ago, a report by Chief Examiner Isaac Vanderpoel of the State Insurance Department, containing some criticism of the business policy of the United States Life Insurance Company did not reach publicity until yesterday, and then in company with a supplementary report dated May 1, which showed that the features complained of had been corrected.

Mr. Vanderpoel found fault, first of all, with the extent to which the company had loaded expenses for management on its net premiums, his fear being that this would result in a gradual reduction of the surplus. He criticised, also, the policy of the company not to follow the example of other similar concerns in treating resisted claims as liabilities to their full amount until settled in the courts. Most serious of all, however, was his condemnation of certain securities carried by the company as practically worthless, so that an impairment of the capital stock to the extent of more than $70,000 resulted. To all these criticisms the supplementary report, as published by Superintendent Hendricks on May 5, furnishes an answer. It reads in substance as follows:

"In the report of March 14, showing an impairment of the capital stock amounting to $70,257.15, particular reference is made to $100,000 Virginia Passenger and Power Company first consolidated mortgage fifty-year 5 per cent. gold bonds carried by the company in its assets at $85,000 and allowed by the department at $10,000. A supplemental examination shows that the bonds have been disposed of for $85,000—the valuation placed on them by the company. Thus the impairment of the capital stock has been made good. This act of the company's management, taken into consideration with the fact that it has unreservedly complied with all suggestions and requirements of the department, indicates a conservative management, and one which should have the department approval. Since the examination the management has made such changes and economies both in its methods of obtaining business and in its home office, that the department is satisfied that the company is now in an absolutely sound business condition."

Dr. John P. Munn, family physician to the Goulds, is the President of the company, and one of its Directors is Charles A. Gardiner of personal counsel for the Gould family.

SAYS DOUBLE DRAWS PAY.

Redding Asserts That Someone Was Appointed in His Name.

For several hours yesterday the State Civil Service Commission continued its "inquiry" into the affairs of the Municipal Civil Service Commission on the complaint of the Civil Service Reform Association that irregularities and evasions had been countenanced in the local board.

It was brought out that Emanuel E. Keyser, a monitor, who was twenty-sixth on the eligible list, had been assigned to duties at civil service examinations on nineteen days in February and fifteen in March, his pay being $5 a day. Keyser was appointed a monitor in March of 1904 and was assigned, witnesses testified, on orders from Bird S. Coler while President of the Municipal Commission. Keyser is an enrolled Democrat in the Thirty-first Assembly District. All told 150 monitors were appointed at the same time as Keyser, that number being used occasionally in a single day.

James Redding of 408 West Twenty-second Street said that some one whom he does not know is drawing pay from the city in his name.

Search will be made for Redding's double.

Assistant Secretary Roode of the Civil Service Reform Association called the attention of the State Board to alterations in the record of the eligible list for 1904. He said the names of five persons appointed had been written into the book between his first and second examination of that page. Secretary Elliott H. Goodwin of the Civil Service Reform Association said that names had been skipped in certifying candidates for appointment.

GAS COMPANY WINS CASE.

Plaintiff Said Meter Was Fast—Slow, State Official Declared.

Justice Joseph, in the Eleventh Municipal Court, Manhattan Street and Amsterdam Avenue, heard a civil case yesterday in which the New Amsterdam Gas Company was the defendant in a case alleging overcharge for gas. A verdict for the company was brought in. The plaintiff was Mrs. Anna Klotz of 206 East Ninth Street. She sued the New Amsterdam Gas Company for $5.63, which, she alleged, was overcharged for gas supplied to her for the two months ended March 13.

She said that she burned the gas only from 7 P. M. until 10 P. M. in her dining room, and only ten minutes each night in the bedroom. Her husband took the stand and said he had made a test of the meter. He calculated that it was fast.

An inspector of Meters, however, testified that when Mrs. Klotz complained the meter was taken out and examined by experts and found to be, instead of fast, 2 per cent. slow. A representative of the State Superintendent of Meters also testified that he had found the meter slow instead of fast. Justice Joseph told the jury that it must decide the case not on the preponderance of evidence, but on the quality of it. The jury returned a verdict in fifteen minutes in favor of the company.

The lawyer for the company said that in the past many of these cases had been allowed to go to the plaintiff by default. In the future, he declared, they would be fought in court.

SAYS HE GOT $54,000 ON EQUITABLE POLICY

Lobley Offers to Restore $30,000 for Clemency.

PAPER STOLEN THREE TIMES

Prisoner Charged with $27,000 Theft Confesses—Others Are Implicated, He Asserts.

Samuel Lobley, alias William Dalley, under indictment for grand larceny and receiving stolen property, the charge growing out of the theft and hypothecation of a fifty-thousand-dollar paid-up policy issued by the Equitable Life Assurance Society to R. H. Cotton of Brookline, Mass., has made a full confession, admitting that he obtained, not $27,000, as the officials of the society alleged, but $54,000.

In making the confession Lobley offered, in return for a light sentence, to restore something over $30,000 of the money. He intimated, too, that there were others concerned in the frauds, and that when he made public his defense it would be shown that the Cotton policy was not the only one utilized in the plot.

Allan McCulloh of the firm of Alexander & Green, attorneys for the Equitable, substantiated some of Lobley's assertions.

"There were two thefts and one attempted theft," said Mr. McCulloh. "The Cotton policy, after its holder had obtained a loan upon it, was stolen from the Equitable's vaults in May, 1904. Lobley, who was working in collusion with Emil Neumer, the clerk now under arrest, and a cousin, got it and hypothecated it for $27,000. The scheme was worked a second time in August, and the same sum was realized by Lobley. The policy was stolen for the third time in January of this year. This theft was discovered before any money was obtained.

"The society did not deem it advisable to tell of the first robbery at the time of Lobley's arrest for the reason that Neumer was then under surveillance, and it was desired to ascertain if he had any confederates in the society's employ. Lobley's confession and offer of restitution was brought to our attention a day or so ago through his lawyer. He said that he was willing to give back all the money he had stolen if the case against him was dropped. Of course, the Equitable would like to get its money back, but it would not do to place ourselves in the attitude of compounding a felony, so District Attorney Clarke of Kings, where Lobley is under indictment, was notified. The matter is entirely in the hands of the authorities there. I have said before, and I repeat it now, that the Cotton policy was the only one stolen."

Assistant District Attorney Elder, who is handling the Lobley case, said yesterday afternoon that he knew of the confession and offer of restitution.

"Of course," said Mr. Elder, "if Lobley pleads guilty it would have a tendency to mitigate the severity of the sentence imposed. His case will come up for trial next Tuesday. The possible return of any of the money will have no bearing upon the action of this office in handling the case. Its end is to uphold the law, and not to play the part of a collection agency."

Lobley, in his cell in the Raymond Street Jail, confirmed the report that he had made a confession, but declined to go into details as to the methods pursued by him in winning the collusion of young Neumer.

"I have never yet given an inkling of my defense," he declared. "When I do it will wake things up. I am not nearly so black as I have been painted, nor is the whole truth known by any means. I was not altogether responsible for the losses of the Equitable. There were others mixed up in it."

As to whether any other policies than the Cotton policy were manipulated for fraudulent loans, he refused to say.

Assistant District Attorney Elder said that the maximum penalty to which Lobley was liable under the indictment now pending against him was ten years' imprisonment.

"If he pleads not guilty after the confession made by him," Mr. Elder continued, "I will have the indictment quashed, and have him indicted under the second offense law. If this is done he will be liable to twenty years' imprisonment."

The indictment, as at present drawn, only charges the theft, as a first offense, of $27,000.

TO TAKE JERSEY WATER.

Contract Approved—City to Let Company Fight Prohibitory Act.

Despite the opposition of Borough President Ahearn and "Little Tim" Sullivan, as Acting President of the Board of Aldermen, the Board of Estimate yesterday approved the ten-year contract with the Hudson County Water Company to supply Staten Island with water from the Passaic River, in New Jersey.

For more than two years this matter has been hanging fire in the board and in the Department of Water Supply, and only a week ago Gov. Stokes of New Jersey signed a bill prohibiting any New Jersey water company from selling drinking water outside of the State limits. The bill was passed at the instigation of manufacturing interests and civic bodies in the cities and villages along the Passaic River, they fearing that the additional drain on the river would reduce the stream, to the detriment of New Jersey people. At yesterday's meeting Alderman Sullivan argued that the action of the city would involve it in endless litigation with the New Jersey State officials, but Deputy Controller Stevenson, who sat for the Controller, took the stand that the contracting company would have to stand the litigation. The Mayor backed up Mr. Stevenson in this contention, and also said that the city had been advised that the law in question was unconstitutional.

President Ahearn wanted the city to throw out the contract and to accept the terms of the local Staten Island companies, who offered a big bond as guarantee that they could supply all the water Staten Island will need for the next ten years.

After the contract had been approved, President Ahearn got the board to adopt a resolution providing for the appointment by the Mayor of a committee of five to investigate the valuation of the Staten Island water companies and the sources of available supply, so as to report to the board as to the cost of the various plants and the advisability of purchasing them for municipal operation.

Woman Freed at Kepler Inquest.

One of the shortest inquests on record was that held yesterday by Coroner Scholer in the death of Herbert L. Kepler of Deland, Fla., who died in a hotel Thursday of morphine. The inquest lasted three minutes and the jury brought in a verdict of suicide by morphine. Mrs. Dona Miller, who accompanied him from Deland, told of finding him dead. She was discharged from custody.

SCHWARTZES DO NOT SPEAK.

Mother, with Bandaged Head, Rests After Tug of War on Pier.

The Schwartz family, which is as extensive as a grandmother and father, with three married daughters, can make it, is not on speaking terms to-day. According to their statements yesterday, Mrs. Adolf Fuhrman and Mrs. Mary Schwartz, the younger, will never again darken the door of their sister, Mrs. David Trautman, at 143 Ridge Street, and Mrs. Trautman says they can stay away, for after a tug-of-war on the Hamburg-American Line pier at Hoboken on Thursday evening Mrs. Trautman won possession of her husband's coveted mother-in-law, much to the discomfiture of the other members of the family.

Mrs. Mary Schwartz and her husband Samuel are the head of the Schwartz family. Two years ago she went to Hamburg to see a maiden sister, leaving the aged Samuel with Mrs. Trautman, the wife of David Trautman, a notary public, at 143 Ridge Street. Mrs. Schwartz liked Germany, and, having some means of her own, decided to stay there. She remained for nearly two years. Then, with a desire to see her daughters, sons-in-law, and growing families in New York, she set sail in the Deutschland after notifying all that she was coming.

The notification was taken by each family as a mark of esteem, apparently, and each decided that Mrs. Schwartz and the aged Samuel would spend the remainder of their days with that particular family. There were lively scenes on the Hoboken pier until the Trautmans got possession of the old woman and bore her off in triumph.

When a reporter called at the Trautman home yesterday to get the matter straightened out old Mrs. Schwartz was on a lounge with a cold water bandage around her head.

"If I had known that I was such an important person," said she, plaintively, "I'd have stayed in Germany for two years more. I like Germany."

Fireman Dismissed on Graft Charge.

Fire Commissioner Hayes yesterday dismissed from the department Fireman Robert F. O'Connell of 400 East Ninth Street, who is attached to Engine Company No. 71 for alleged extortion. O'Connell, it is alleged, was associated with E. H. Sonner, "the man higher up," in obtaining money from applicants for places in the Fire and Police Departments, alleging that for $300 they could get them in either department.

FERRYBOAT HITS STEAMER.

Few Passengers Aboard—Both Vessels Badly Damaged.

As a result of a collision early yesterday morning between the steamer Nassau of the Long Island Railroad Company, running between Long Island City and the foot of Wall Street, Manhattan, and the ferryboat Rockaway, plying between Thirty-fourth Street and Long Island City, both boats were badly damaged and put out of business.

Fortunately, neither boat had many passengers. The collision occurred at the end of one of the slips at Long Island City, the Nassau being struck in the stern by the Rockaway as the former was backing into the river to go down to Wall Street on its 8:30 o'clock trip.

GIRL PUPILS PLANT TREES.

Two large poplar trees planted in front of the public school at Eighty-sixth Street and First Avenue were dedicated with appropriate exercises yesterday by the 2,000 girl pupils.

One of the trees was named for Miss Richman, formerly a Principal of the school, and now a District Superintendent, and the other for Miss Matilda Lemlein, the present Principal. The exercises were attended by Dr. John Hunt, District Superintendent, and the Chairman of the local school committee, Louis Bach.

WOOD REPORTS SULTAN KILLED IN JOLO FIGHT

Bands of Moro Outlaws Wiped Out by Troops.

TEN DAYS' HARD FIGHTING

Desperadoes Sought Refuge in Jungles Where Artillery Could Not Be Used.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Gen. Corbin has cabled to the War Department Gen. Wood's report of the engagements on the Island of Jolo, which is as follows:

"May 14. Returned to Zamboanga yesterday. Troops sent to Jolo are being returned to stations as rapidly as possible. Moro outlaws who have been raiding and killing in Borneo were killed in action, together with all their principal supporters and followers, Sultan, with all large chiefs; but the island in no way involved. It was purely an aggregation of practical outlaws and disorderly characters from Sulu and the other islands.

"Positions selected by the outlaws for defense were situated in almost impenetrable jungles, and were exceedingly strong, prohibiting use of artillery, necessitating close contact and assault in two instances. Casualties, nine enlisted killed and twenty-one enlisted wounded, two constabulary killed, three wounded, during the ten days' operations.

"All wounded are doing well and all are expected to recover; bulk of wounds not serious. Troops behaved splendidly and performed this most difficult service in a highly creditable manner."

The following list of wounded is reported by Gen. Wood in addition to those reported May 17:

Samuel Weaver, Company G, Twenty-second Infantry.
Ellek Howell, Company B, Twenty-second Infantry.
Daniel Newport, Company F, Twenty-second Infantry.
Eary E. Sansoucie, Company A, Twenty-second Infantry.

It is thought at the War Department that Pala is the Sultan reported killed in the Jolo engagements. Pala is a renegade who returned from Borneo.

GAYNOR FINES LAWYER $100.

News Expedites Clearing of Calendar at White Plains.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, May 19.—Justice Gaynor of the Supreme Court, who is holding a special term here, to-day publicly rebuked ex-Judge William G. McCrea, formerly of the City Court of New York, and fined him $100 for contempt. Justice Gaynor at first imposed a fine of $50, and when McCrea insisted on talking he made it $50 more. Justice Gaynor said that the fines were imposed for the purpose of preserving the decorum of the court.

"There are some lawyers," said he, "who go about the district and make a practice of giving me all kinds of lame excuses for not having their cases ready. The dignity of the court must be maintained in some way."

Mr. McCrea drew his check for $100 on a New York bank. While a man was outside cashing it Justice Gaynor adjourned the case. The fine was afterward remitted.

The proceeding was one in which McCrea's wife was a defendant with the heirs of Mrs. Ulysses D. Eddy of Mamaroneck in a suit brought by Mrs. C. A. Becker to clear the title to property.

When the case was called the witnesses for Mrs. McCrea were not present. Mr. McCrea tried to explain their absence.

"Sit down," said Justice Gaynor; "you are taking too much time." McCrea kept on talking, and Justice Gaynor said: "I fine you $50, and if you do not sit down, I'll make it $50 more." McCrea sat down, but he began talking again, and Justice Gaynor said: "Now I fine you $50 more."

At yesterday's session of the court Justice Gaynor threatened to fine a lawyer of White Plains because he was a witness in a case and left court before it was ended. The news that Justice Gaynor is expediting business has had a stimulating effect upon lawyers, and the May calendar is being disposed of faster than ever before.

CORNWALL BANK CLOSED.

President Is Albert C. Wilcox, Whose Firm Recently Failed.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The First National Bank of Cornwall, at Cornwall, N. Y., was closed this morning by direction of the Comptroller of the Currency, on the ground of insolvency, and National Bank Examiner Charles E. Van Brocklin has been appointed receiver.

The bank was organized in July, 1904. Albert C. Wilcox, of the firm of Wilcox & Co., New York City, was its President. The condition of the bank, as reported to the Controller of the Currency on March 14, 1905, was as follows:

Resources—Loans and discounts, $30,458; United States bonds and premiums, $6,558; stocks, securities, &c., $5,000; banking house, $2,250; due from banks and bankers, $4,380; cash and cash items, $3,221. Total, $51,867.

Liabilities—Capital stock, $25,000; undivided profits, $71; circulating notes, $6,250; due to banks and bankers, $121; individual deposits, $20,425. Total, $51,867.

The banking house of A. C. Wilcox, with its fourteen up-State branches, is now in the hands of Receiver Conkling in bankruptcy proceedings, with $9,000 in cash and a number of securities of unknown value as assets, and large liabilities. Receiver Conkling said yesterday afternoon that among the securities found were a number of shares of the capital stock of the First National Bank of Cornwall.

Bonds of a par value of $150,000 which were found in the Wilcox safe have been claimed by a man not connected with the concern, who says that they were there only for safe keeping. The receiver will not deliver them except upon a court order.

VAN HORNE TO ATTEND.

To Speak at Canadian Club's Dinner at the Hotel Astor.

Officers of the Canadian Club of New York were advised yesterday that Sir William Van Horne had accepted an invitation to be the guest of honor and to speak at the annual banquet of the club to be held at the Hotel Astor next Wednesday evening.

The banquet of the club will be the most elaborate in its history. Besides Sir William Van Horne the list of speakers includes the Rev. Dr. Robert S. MacArthur, Dr. E. R. L. Gould, W. B. Ellison, C. K. Winslow, and State Senator Burton. The date of the banquet is the birthday of Queen Victoria. A party of about twenty Canadians will accompany Sir William Van Horne to the city.

We Stop Selling THE CENTURY DICTIONARY & CYCLOPEDIA & ATLAS

We have been unable to make with the publishers of The Century Dictionary and Cyclopedia and Atlas another contract on such terms that we can continue to sell this great work at HALF PRICE and on little monthly payments. Having already sold upward of 75,000 sets at this half price, saving our customers about $5,000,000, we cannot consistently increase our selling rate. We have, therefore, decided to finally and positively close this greatest transaction in the history of bookselling with the disposal of the books now on hand.

You have no time to lose if you wish to secure immediate possession of this most valuable work ever printed on payment of A SINGLE DOLLAR, final ownership to pass to you when you have paid—in little monthly instalments—just one-half the price asked by the publishers.

Created by More Than 500 Eminent Scholars.

THE CENTURY DICTIONARY AND CYCLOPEDIA AND ATLAS represents twenty-three years of continuous labor, and is the joint product of Prof. William Dwight Whitney, Ph. D., LL.D.—the greatest known authority on the English language—that specialist as editor of each department of knowledge whose scholarship most entitled him to be chosen, and a vast corps of eminent scholars as assistant editors. In all nearly five hundred contributors—the greatest array of scholars ever engaged in such an enterprise—helped to build up this great work.

Before them, at all times, was this threefold aim:

1. The compilation of an entirely new work, which should trace all knowledge to its original sources instead of copying the blunders of preceding reference libraries.

2. The creation of a single work which should comprehend all branches of knowledge, answering the needs of every one—that should be the greatest dictionary and the best encyclopedia, the most complete handbook of history, the most comprehensive gazetteer, a library of biographical and literary reference, a really complete atlas of the world, and so on; in fact, a library which should sum up all existing knowledge in art, science, literature and trade.

3. To so place this information that it should be found instantly; that it should not be necessary to hunt through a long article for some small point, but that every article should be instantly accessible. To-day we do not wish to hunt through a long dissertation on the sun to find a description of sun-spot; we wish to turn at once to "sun-spot."

The complete work, now issued in its final and perfected form, represented an expenditure of more than a million dollars in editorial work, typesetting, proofreading and engraving, before a single page was printed.

Dictionary Treatment of More Than 500,000 Words and Phrases

THE CENTURY is not only the most comprehensive English dictionary, but it is the only completed dictionary that covers the whole language from the earliest times to the present, and that gives the latest and authoritative results of scholarly research into the orgin, spelling, pronunciation and meaning of words. It gives every shade of meaning of every word, amplified by the illustrations, quotations and synonyms.

No other completed work contains so many quotations. The best-known book of quotations has about 10,000; THE CENTURY has 300,000, gathered from every source.

In addition to all this, THE CENTURY includes, for the first time, an exhaustive collection of technical terms employed in the sciences, arts, trades and professions; thousands of words which had never before appeared in any dictionary.

Encyclopedic Treatment of 150,000 Subjects.

THE CENTURY occupies a field peculiarly its own, and suffers in any description of its merits, because there is nothing among English books with which to compare it. It covers far more ground than any encyclopedia, for to the scientific knowledge generally found in such works it adds the plain, practical, everyday knowledge which is usually omitted and which is the information most sought. It is, therefore, a work of the greatest value to every one—merchant, manufacturer, teacher, professional man or general reader. Most encyclopedias have less than 50,000 titles; THE CENTURY has 150,000. Moreover, THE CENTURY gives the pronunciation of all proper names—a most valuable feature, and one not found in other encyclopedias.

Most Complete Atlas Ever Produced.

THE Atlas volume of THE CENTURY is the latest and best published. The wonderful maps are entirely new, and are as original in plan, as authoritative and as comprehensive as the rest of the work. THE CENTURY covers the whole world thoroughly and with absolute correctness in every detail.

The Atlas volume, into which all the maps have been gathered for convenience, contains 120 double-page maps, 145 inset maps—including plans and cities—and 45 historical maps. It shows not only the existing political divisions of the earth, but records the world's history from the earliest period to the present. Its index contains about 200,000 geographical entries, a number much larger than is to be found in any other Atlas or gazetteer. The maps are printed in five to ten different colors and are a revelation of the modern map-maker's skill.

The Wanamaker Method Adopted.

UP to five years ago THE CENTURY was sold on the old-fashioned plan customary with creators of expensive publications, a price being required that would admit of profits to general agents, liberal commissions to canvassers and fair returns to the publishers for the capital invested. On this plan several thousand sets were sold to persons to whom the expenditure of $120 to $200 for a set of books was not a barrier.

Knowing from our contact with book buyers in our New York and Philadelphia stores that a popular demand for this vast storehouse of facts could be created by a considerable reduction in our New York and Philadelphia stores that a popular demand for this vast storehouse of facts could be created by a considerable reduction in price, we induced the publishers to place this great work in our hands on terms which would enable us to cut the price in two and have a small margin of profit. To this half-price we coupled the Wanamaker methods of publicity and sale, and the result has been the most remarkable in the history of bookselling, upward of 75,000 sets having passed through our hands to CENTURY purchasers throughout the United States and Canada in five years, at a saving to them of about five million dollars.

You will want to learn the details of the plan under which we give immediate possession of the ten beautiful volumes on payment of ONE DOLLAR; you will want to call at the store to see the books and the handsome, specially designed case which holds them, or, if is not convenient for you to call, to have us send to you sample pages, maps, color plates of bindings, illustrated pamphlets, etc.

While you are doing this others will be purchasing; the number of sets from which you may hope to make a selection will be rapidly growing smaller. You must see, therefore, that there is not a day to be lost in beginning your investigation, either in person, at the store, or by filling out and forwarding the coupon in the lower right hand corner.

DO NOT RUN THE RISK OF DELAY — Return the Coupon to-day—or, better still, bring it to the store TO-DAY —and we will see that your every question is answered. If you send the coupon please indicate which of the following booklets you desire sent:

No. 1. The Business Man. No. 2. The Lawyer. No. 3. The Clergyman. No. 4. The Physician. No. 5. The Teacher. No. 6. The Technical Worker. No. 7. The General Worker.

RED KNIGHT WON AWAY OFF FROM GRAZIALLO

Old Horse Easily Defeated Brooklyn Handicap Candidate.

TIPTOE TOOK THE GAIETY

Graziallo, as a Brooklyn Handicap possibility, fell far in public esteem at Belmont Park yesterday, when Red Knight ran away from him in the mile and a sixteenth handicap, and beat him away off in going that popularly was supposed to be all in Graziallo's favor. The race was intended to be Graziallo's final public trial for the big event of next Wednesday, and he started a warm favorite over the modest field of three that opposed him. Graziallo, with the top weight of 126 pounds, going to the post at odds on, with Red Knight, 108 pounds, the next choice.

Hildebrand, who rode Graziallo when he won with 126 pounds several days before, again had the mount, while Miller was on Red Knight. To an excellent start Red Knight showed in front at once, and went on at a good pace, with Graziallo just behind him, Red Knight leading by a scant length to the first turn, where Graziallo began to close. On the bend coming to the head of the stretch Graziallo tried to get up, but Red Knight hung close to the rail and forced the Brooklyn Handicap horse to go around him, and, as they made the turn into the straight, both horses were fairly well straightened out.

On the stretch Red Knight began to draw away again, and Graziallo was forced to the whip. From that point in the race Red Knight had it all his own way, and won away off from Graziallo, which swerved repeatedly under the whip. Graziallo was one of three beaten favorites in the course of the day, two positive choices winning in other races, and one of two equal favorites getting home first in a third event.

Only one stake fixture was on the programme, and this, the Gaiety, at four and a half furlongs, for fillies two years old, went to August Belmont's smart two-year-old Tiptoe, a product of the Nursery Farm, which went to the starting post at 10 to 7 on. Only five horses ran, and two of these, Tiptoe and Bivouac, represented the Belmont stable, Tiptoe having up the top weight, 122 pounds, which included in pounds penalty for his victory in the Fashion Stakes. Belle of Pequest was well backed to beat the Belmont pair, and did give Tiptoe something of a race, Belle of Pequest closing on Tiptoe after the favorite had made the running into the last furlong, and there forcing her to a drive. Tiptoe ran straight under pressure, however, while Belle of Pequest began to swerve the moment she was called on for her best speed, and, though Belle of Pequest twice showed her head in front, Tiptoe each time drew to the lead again because of the challenger's swerving.

At the finish Belle of Pequest stopped fast, and Tiptoe drew out and won by a scant length. Belle of Pequest second, well off before Bivouac, third.

In the fifth race, a mile, selling, De Reszke, well backed by his stable, improved in remarkable style over his latest previous running, and, after going all around his field in the last three furlongs, got up in a close finish and won by a neck, with Arabo, Old England, and Neptunus lined out heads apart in the order named.

In two purse races the colors of J. E. Madden were carried by winners, Adbell capturing the first race in a whipping finish from Druid, after Dreamer had made the early running, while in the fourth race Hot Shot closed all the finish and won easily by half a dozen lengths from Montrasson, which led to the last turn. AUTO TESTS AT CAPE MAY.

Winton Finds the Beach Well Adapted for Short Races.

Special to The New York Times.

CAPE MAY, N. J., May 19.—Several automobile speed tests were made to-day upon the beach strand in front of this resort in order to test the beach for automobile straightaway racing. While no official records were announced, the times made were satisfactory to those making the runs. Alexander Winton of Cleveland with his Bullet car did most of the speeding. The American Automobile Association was officially represented by Secretary A. G. Batchelder and S. M. Butler of the Automobile Club of America.

The trials were made from the curve in the beach at the foot of Madison Avenue for a distance of one and one-half miles toward Sewell's Point. For a short course, Mr. Winton said the beach was superior to Ormond and Daytona, Fla. He considered it excellent, and those in charge of to-day's meet will ask the American Automobiling Association to adopt it for a short racing course. It is a trifle over two moles in length. A. H. Chadbourne of Overbrook, Penn., has his sixty horse power machine in the test, and J. H. Wilkinson of Philadelphia ran his sixty horse power car.

PETITIONS IN BANKRUPTCY.

JULIA ANSPACH.—Julia Anspach, proprietor of the Gum Sweets Company, at 40 and 42 Renwick Street, filed a petition in bankruptcy yesterday, with liabilities of $2,896 and assets of $2,817. The largest creditor is the New York Glucose Company, $687. Mrs. Anspach had owned the business since Jan. 1, 1905. She is the wife of George Anspach, who was formerly in the confectionery business at Washington and Steuben Streets, Jersey City, where the building collapsed on June 16, 1900, causing a loss of $12,000 and crippling his business. He started in after this as manager for his wife.

EAGLE CHAIN AND NOVELTY COMPANY.—A petition in bankruptcy was filed yesterday against the Eagle Chain and Novelty Company, manufacturers of jewelry at 135 Elm Street, by Fannie Cohen, $400; Solomon Schiegall, $90, and Henry M. Cohen, $30. On motion of Arthur Mayer, attorney for the petitioning creditors, Judge George C. Holt, in the United States District Court, appointed Clarence D. Ashley receiver and fixed his bond at $10,000. The petitioners say that the indebtedness of the corporation amounts to $20,000 approximately, and that the value of the assets, consisting of machinery and merchandise, is about $15,000. Nathan Cohen is the President and Solomon Schiegall the Vice President.

Frederick Wiener, attorney for the corporation, said that if the assets of the concern were conservatively handled a substantial dividend would be realized for the creditors. The failure was precipitated by the refusal of the banks to extend maturing notes.

JOHN WODICKA.—John Wodicka, manufacturer of pearl buttons at 1,805 to 1,811 First Avenue, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $8,788 and assets of $211, consisting of debts due. The largest creditor is William Safork, $4,500, secured by a chattel mortgage on machinery and fixtures. The Kaldenberg Importing and Trading Company is a creditor for $1,963. Mr. Wodicka had been in business for eleven years.

SAMUEL HARRY ELLISON.—Samuel Harry Ellison of 315 West Ninety-fourth Street, formerly a member of the firm of Van Horn & Ellison, druggists, who dissolved in May, 1896, with no assets, filed a petition in bankruptcy yesterday, with liabilities of $29,379 and no assets.

ANSEL L. WASHBURNE.—Ansel L. Washburne, residing at 16 Central Park West, filed a petition in bankruptcy yesterday, with liabilities of $2,018 and no assets. There are but two creditors, the principal one being Henry F. Granger of Worcester, Mass., $1,702.

LEWIS W. MARKS.—Lewis W. Marks of 337 West One Hundred and Eighteenth Street, who was formerly in the artificial flower business at 713 Broadway, under the business name of Marks & Co., has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $22,714 and no assets. Jacob A. Stern, $12,113, is the largest creditor. The liabilities were contracted between 1893 and 1894. In the latter year Mr. Marks failed in business.

Weekly Failure Report.

Bradstreet's reports 191 failures in the United States during the week, against 158 for the previous week and 213, 155, 152, and 192 for the corresponding weeks of 1904 to 1901. The Middle States had 61, New England 29, Southern 35, Western 34, Northwestern 18, Pacific 14, and Territories none. Canada had 17, against 18 for the previous week. About 87 per cent. of the total number of concerns failing had a capital of $5,000 or less and 7 per cent. had from $5,000 to $20,000 capital.

ALLENTOWN.—Judge Enlich of Reading, in court, has appointed Frank Jacobs as master to sell the Allentown and Slatington Electric Railway under foreclosure. The price was fixed at $275,000. Bidders must deposit certified checks for $10,000.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

Out of Town.

BOSTON.—R. F. Straine, a Boston broker, who was arrested May 9 on the charge of larceny of $2,178 from Mrs. Elizabeth Very of Salem, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court. His liabilities are scheduled at $70,085, and his assets at $17,500. Mrs. Very is a creditor to the amount of $2,178. The only secured creditors are Frederick and C. E. Taber of New Bedford, who hold claims amounting to $50,000, secured by 700 shares of United Telegram stock, valued at $17,500. The unsecured creditors are C. R. Sampson, Beverly, $7,500; O. E. Putnam, Worcester, $5,500; T. S. Ford estate, Concord, N. H., $3,500, and J. A. Sawyer, Boston, $900. D. F. Sullivan, a liquor dealer, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $26,264 and assets amounting to $11,500. The largest claim, $4,211, is held by Daniel Shea & Co., Boston.
